LITERARY EXERCISES

At the Dedication of Gerrish's Island Grove and the unveiling of Pocahontas' Monument, by the Piscataquatico Chowderheads, July 18th, 1876:

Concluded.

The Orator of the Day having concluded, and several of the Chowderheads being still awake, the M. C. introduced the Monument Dedicator, as follows:

On yonder islands dimly seen on the horizon, is erected a noble granite monument to the memory of one Smith—John Smith—Captain John Smith. The Piscataquatico Chowderhead Association have long felt that the gentle Pochantas, who, if I remember right, was once associated with Smith, should have a monument in honor of her heroism and bravery. They have, therefore, at prodigious cost imported a block of African marble, and an eminent sculptor has "sculped" a beautiful shaft, which will now be unveiled to your gaze. [During the uncovering of the monument the Chowderheads reverently uncovered.] It was deemed eminently proper that one who has "sailed the salt seas o'er" and whose eminence as a nautical orator is great, should consecrate the monument erected in honor of one who saved the life of the bold sailor and adventurer, Smith; and I have great pleasure in presenting to you Rear Admiral Israelo Putnamo Millereo. I advise you to secure comfortable positions, as his address is over four hours long.

The Monument Dedicator then, undisturbed by applause or cheers and but slighly incommoded by the snoring of the audience, delivered the following

DEDICATORY ADDRESS.

Ladies and Gentlemen of the Piscataquatico Chowderheads Association:

We have met this day for various purposes—primarily, to escape doing a day's work; secondarily, to eat chowder, drink water, and indulge in other unaccustomed eccentricities; incidentally, to dedicate those umbrageous grove; and by way of variety, to dedicate a marble monument to the memory of the historically famous but most infamously neglected personage, Mrs. J. Pocahontas Smith. A portion of this programme has already been faithfully carried out; we have individually and collectively shirked the various duties in which we should have been engaged this day; the chowder has been honestly attended to; several of the gentlemen of the Association have actually drank water; those grove—what could be found of them—have been duly dedicated, with many hopes that future generations of chowderheads will have good times sparking under the wide spreading branches, and more fears that the cows will eat them—the grove, not the chowderheads—up before they get big enough to have any branches; and now we approach the grand duty of the day—the dedication of Mrs. Pocahontas Smith's monument.

Before going further I desire to compliment the managers of this Association; some of the members think the managers are of feeble intellect, but I don't; for even worse blunders than they have committed would be more than atoned for, in the estimation of all persons whose good opinion is worth having, by the judicious discretion they have displayed in their selection of a Monument Dedicator. Having thus rendered honor to whom honor is due, we will now turn our attention once more to Pocahontas and her costly and imposing memorial—the memorial we this day rear to keep alive her memory in this spot forever—forever, that is, until some Vandal comes ashore some Sunday afternoon and smashes it—the monument, that is—up to make fire to fry cunners with.

As to Pocahontas, she isn't of much account anyway, at the present time; it is understood that she is dead; but this beautiful monument—this magnificent specimen of the sculptor's art, is a triumph of the 19th century, and exists to-day.

We read in history that at the dedications of ancient monuments it was customary to sacrifice numerous young women,—or we should read such things in history, were they there,—and the South Sea Islander, when he goes on an extra good time, bakes a young woman and eats her; but there is no inclination in the dedicators of this monument to fool away valued material in any such manner, so the lady members of the Association need not tremble. And this reminds me, men of the 19th century, how much superior we are to those men of the olden time; they sacrificed their women; we don't; we take them to be partners of our joys and sorrows—that is, some of us do, and some of us don't so much—and then leave them at home all alone evenings while we play billiards, and take off our boots in the back yard before we crawl into the kitchen window at two o'clock in the morning, having previously prepared an excuse in the shape of "important business at the Lodge," in case we get caught.

Again, we learn from history that some of the ancient monuments cost untold treasures, and that whole nations were impoverished to provide the means of erecting them and enriching the contractors who did the job. No such sad memories cluster around the fearful and wonderful obelisk we this day unveil; its cost has been comparatively small, for I am satisfied that even the smallest of the Egyptian pyramids cost far more than this monument, and I am sure the managers have not embezzled any of the funds, because they have had no funds to embezzle.

As to Pocahontas, I don't know much about her; nobody does; nobody cares, either. She will do well enough to dedicate a monument to, and that's all we need consider. I remember very well when she used to come in from Agamenticus with a wagon load of baskets and make rain, but since she became a Mormon and formed a partnership with a party of the name of Smith I have entirely lost sight of her. I only know further that her son, John Smith, is now so numerous that throughout the civilized world his name is accepted as a synonym for the human race in the concrete.

But we have all seen excellent photographs of the lady we this day honor, taken from memory by Chowderhead Davis—photographs in which she is represented as being dressed in a pinback,—pinned back so far that it isn't visible; probably pinned on a clothes-line in the back yard, behind the house. But though we are thus familiar with her favorite fashions, it is not generally known that she wrote poetry—such poetry as Milton, Walt Whitman, Byron, Scott or Deuteronomy never achieved; yet it is so, and I will give you a specimen of her wares, not many centuries ago sent to the unappreciative editor of a Portsmouth paper, who enviously declined to publish it. It is entitled

A COQUET'S DESTINY.

As the dark clouds gathered thick and fast,
And the thunder's roar was heard,
She sat reflecting on the past,
But was startled by his words.

But alas! 'twas the voice of a stranger
Which reached this lady's ear:
She looked up with great surprise,
To find him standing near.

He begged for shelter from the rain
And the lightning's lurid flash;
But she was timid and so refused,
And her thoughts went back to the past.

Silence then was quite unstirred,
Until in the hall a footstep was heard;
She quickly to the door sprang,
And turned the key against the man.

He did not try to enter in,
But seated himself and began to sing.
The rain it ceased, and the sun shone bright,
And the stranger departed with quick step and light.

She heard his steps in the distance—
As he vanished from her sight,
And then she heard an echo say
"You did not serve him right."

The dusk deepened into darkness,
And her visions of hope passed away,
As she wandered up and down the street,
Her form as cold as clay.

But at last a flush came over her face
As she heard those familiar steps;
Dim were her eyes that gentle shone,
As she said to herself "I will not be alone."

They did not meet like strangers,
As one might judge they would,
But he stepped up and spoke to her
In a calm and pleasant mood.

Fondly her young heart clings to him,
But now he is far from her sight;
But she keeps in her memory the echo that said,
"You did not treat him right."

He left deep prints of love in her heart,
For she know that she did very wrong;
And she tried her best to forget what he said,
"You will miss me when I am gone."

Little she thought of the love he expressed
As she stood by his side that night;
But when she got home and was sitting alone,
Her smiles were not so bright.

But now he has gone forever from her sight;
He is the same to her as dead;
And when she awoke from her slumber next morn,
She missed him, because he had gone.

After listening to Pocahontas' poetry, I trust the assembled Chowderheads feel duly thankful that the author has retired from the sphere where poetry is written. Having now completed her history, so far as I am acquainted with in my duty is done; and with the depositing of the archives beneath the obelisk, and the giving of three cheers for Pocahontas and the building committee, the dedication of the first monument ever erected to the memory of the illustrious lady of whom we know so little will be complete. History is vindicated by our act—another proof that truth is mighty and under certain favorable circumstances will prevail.

JOTTINGS.

The new City Government will be inaugurated this forenoon at 10 o'clock, at the Court House.

The United States Circuit Court will hold an adjourned session in this city, on Wednesday.

The Bank Commission of the State met in this city on Monday for the purpose of organization and to examine the condition of the Rockingham Ten Cents Savings Bank. Amos J. Blake, Esq., of Fitzwilliam, one of the board, has been sojourning at York beach,

On Sunday afternoon, at half-past six o'clock, the Heavy Artillery marched from Camp Cheney, near G. H. Jenness' boarding house, Rye, to the field east of the Farragut House, where they formed in hollow square, enclosing Rev. C. A. Holbrook and a choir of children, and divine service was conducted according to the Episcopal ritual. After service the company returned to the camp ground and had dress parade. A very large assemblage of lookers-on was present, including numbers from Exeter, Newmarket, this city and other places, and the carriages were almost innumerable. The Artillery broke camp on Monday, and returned to this city in the forenoon.

The entertainment at the Oceanic, in aid of the Old South preservation fund, announced for Wednesday evening, is postponed for the present.

Sunday was one of the hottest days of the season. In Boston, Portland and other places, the thermometer reached 102 degrees above zero. It reached that figure in portions of this city also, and the night was about as uncomfortable as any of the year. On Monday the thermometer stood at 100 in the shade, at the navy yard, and reached 97 in a comparatively cool location on this side of the river; we have no doubt it was up to 100 in some parts of the city.

The second payment on the Old Ladies' Home will be due on Thursday of this week, July 10th. Mr. Loyne on Monday received from a gentleman of this city a donation of $100 in aid of the Home.

New Paper in York County.

Biddeford, Me., has another daily paper, the Daily Evening Star, published by Marcus Watson & Son, well known in the past as editors and publishers of the Maine Democrat, the old democratic weekly of Biddeford. They announce that "the Star will advocate the election of Hayes and Wheeler to the two highest offices in the country, and ever be found on the side of republicanism on State, district, county and city questions. The most exciting political campaign which, perhaps, this country ever witnessed, is now opening; and while there is no doubt of the success of the republican candidates for President and Vice President, yet it is desirable to give them such a number of States, and by such majorities, as shall so completely demoralize the opposition that even the phœnix dodge will be out of the question with them in the future." Judging from the numbers so far issued, and from the ability with which the publishers formerly conducted a democratic paper, we are satisfied the Star will deserve the liberal and hearty support of the York county republicans. The subscription price is $4.50 per year.

Canned Corned Beef.

Various articles having appeared in the papers lately of alleged cases of poisoning after eating canned corned beef, the Chicago Corned Beef Packing Co. have caused investigations to be made by their agents wherever these cases have occurred, and in every case the alleged poisoning has been traceable to some other cause. In the case of the teamster Strickland, of Portland, Dr. Thayer, who investigated the case, says that it appears that Strickland did not buy a whole can of beef, but one pound out of a six-pound can, the other five pounds going to other consumers who were not injured by it; and that for four days after the alleged poisoning neither Mr. Strickland nor any member of his family had any suspicion that the corned beef was the cause, and not until after he had read the reports of beef poisoning in New Jersey and elsewhere did he lay the cause of his sickness to the corned beef.

Libby, McNeil & Libby of Chicago, the manufacturers, say that "nothing in the whole process of preparation is left to chance. The beef is carefully selected, goes from the slaughter house straight into wooden vats, in which it is cooked by steam, and is cut into pieces for canning on wooden blocks. No metal touches it, except the knife and hook. The process of canning is substantially the same as that employed by all packing companies, and the beef is as sound and wholesome as any canned goods in the world. Professor Horsford, who has made a specialty of chemistry applied to articles of food, has thoroughly examined every step of the process of preparing these meats, and pronounces it absolutely faultless."

SURE CURES AND LOW PRICES.

Dr. YOUNG,

SUCCESSOR TO

Dr. TELLER,

DECEASED.

The above named private Hospital was established in Albany in 1835 by Dr. A. Lispenard and for a number of years its affairs were presided over by that gentleman, but for the past 29 years, Dr. Teller, who is now deceased, transacted the business of the Institution.

Owing to the great demand for more spacious apartments on account of the large increase of business, the Hospital has been removed to No. 9 Beaver Street, two doors above its old location, where patients will find magnificently furnished rooms for their reception, and are so arranged that patients do not come in contact with one another, seeing only the doctor, thereby avoiding the unpleasantness of meeting others, which always occurred at the old office.

LADIES will find rooms provided for their especial accommodation and entirely private.

YOUNG MEN, addicted to secret habits, who have impaired their health and destroyed the vigor of their minds, thus depriving themselves of the pleasures of married life and also those afflicted with private diseases of any nature, are advised that in consulting Dr. Young they will find a physician fully qualified to cure and restore them to full health and manly vigor.

Dr. Teller's great work for the married, or those contemplating marriage—100 pages—full of plates,—price 25 cents. Sent to all parts, under seal, by mail post paid.

TO THE LADIES—DR. YOUNG still retains the only agency in America for the sale of Dr. Vichel's Italian Female Monthly Pills. Sent by mail on receipt of $1.00, price per box.

DR. YOUNG is the only agent for Dr. La Mott's celebrated Galvanic Belts.

Invalids out of the city can be cured by consulting the Doctor by letter, and enclosing remittance. Medicines sent by mail or express, securely packed from observation. All letters must be addressed to

MAGIC

CONDITION PILLS!

The Wonderful Remedy for Liver Complaint, Biliousness, Dyspepsia, Constipation, Neuralgia, Rheumatism, Headache, Kidney Complaint, Nervousness, Scrofula, Piles, and all diseases arising from a bad state of the Blood!

Is the ultima thule of Medical Discovery.

No medicine ever offered to the public has given such universal satisfaction as Dr. Quain's Magic Condition Pills. Their praises are on every tongue where their merits are known. They strike at once at the seat of disease and show their healing power almost immediately. Thousands of voluntary testimonials of their merits have been received by the agent, from those who have been cured by them, of which the following are samples:

Dyspepsia Four Years, Constipation and Inflammation of the Bowels Three Years, Confined to my Room Two Years, Pain so I Could Not Sleep Without Morphine. One Package of Dr. Quain's Condition Pills Made Me Eat Well, Sleep Well and Free from Pain, after being given up by Physicians.

WEST LEBANON, ME., Feb. 22, 1

MR. THOMAS W. LANE:—I have been sick for four years with Dyspepsia, and for the past three years Constipation and Inflammation of the Bowels. I have suffered all the pain I could endure and live. I have been confined to my room for two years, and could not sleep nights without the use of morphine. I have been given up by physicians as past cure. I have taken one package of Dr. QUAIN'S CONDITION PILLS, and they have done me more good than all the doctors I have had. I sleep well, I eat well and have no pain. They are all you claim and recommended to be. Please send me three packages, as two of my neighbors wish to try them. I enclose $1.25.

Your truly, JOHN W. LORD.

Another Letter from Maj. John W. Lord, one month later. Wonderful Cures by Dr. Quain's Pills Effected on Him in Thirteen Days. First time Free from Pain for Three Years.

WEST LEBANON, ME., March 22, 1875

MR. THOMAS W. LANE:—I commenced taking DR. QUAIN'S CONDITION PILLS February 22d of their wonderful effect. I have continued to improve ever since. My appetite is good, and I sleep as well as I ever did in my life. I am free from pain for the first time in three years. When I was taken sick four years ago, I weighed one hundred and eighty-six pounds; I now weigh one hundred and thirty, but, as I am gaining in strength, I have faith I shall regain my flesh this summer, by the use of the Pills. I shall continue taking them for some time to come.

Yours truly, JOHN W. LORD.

Dr. Quain's Pills the Remedy for Soldiers' Aches and Pains.

WEST LEBANON, ME., June 1, 1875.

MR. THOMAS W. LANE—Dear Sir:—I am now able to walk out every day, and am gaining in strength very fast, all of which is due to you as agent for the best Pills in the world. I have taken no other medicine, and my improvement has been steady since first taking DR. QUAIN'S CONDITION PILLS. They have done everything for me, and I will say to you, advertise them direct to the soldiers, for they will certainly cure them of aches and pains caused from exposure and hardship on the field. Please send me by return mail another package.

JOHN W. LORD.

Rheumatism for Twenty Years Cured by One Package of Dr. Quain's Condition Pills—"The Best Medicine in the World."

EAST ANDOVER, N. H., Dec. 16, 1875.

MR. LANE—Dear Sir:—As I know the value of DR. QUAIN'S CONDITION PILLS and the good they have done me, I take pleasure in giving them praise; so I send you another testimonial. My father has been troubled with Rheumatism for twenty years or more, and has tried everything that could be thought of, but to no good. At times it would be so bad that he could not lift his hand to his head or do any work at all, especially in cold weather. A short time ago I advised him to get some of these Pills. He believed nothing in them, but I gave him the last package I had of you, as I did not need them, and he has not been as free from the Rheumatic Complaint for years. No Rheumatism, no pain. What helped him? It was DR. QUAIN'S CONDITION PILLS, the best medicine in the world. There is nothing like them. I know it, for I have tried them, and they are all, yes, more than they are recommended to be. Give them a fair trial and you will say so. I write this because I know the goodness of them and wish others to know the same. Some may think I am telling a big story. I am. But remember I am not giving them half the praise they ought to have.

Yours with respect, ED. F. PEVARE.

DAINGERFIELD, MORRIS CO., TEXAS, Nov. 15, '75.

MR. THOMAS W. LANE—Dear Sir:—I have been afflicted for near twelve years with Neuralgia in the face and head. I tried I do not know how many physicians, but could only get partly relieved. I also tried many patent medicines with the same result. I have been confined to my room most all the time for eight or ten winters, and have been traveling and visiting medical springs, and I still suffered most intensely. The physicians pronounced my case the worst and most stubborn that they had anything to do with. One told me I could never get well; they advised me to go South and spend the winter, and thought that was the only chance for me, and I was trying to get ready to go to Florida, when through the kindness of Rev. H. M. Mathis, my attention was called to the advertisement of Dr. Quain's Magic Condition Pills. I immediately sent to you for a package. I have taken four doses and I am almost free from pain. The impression here seems to be that if your pills will cure me, they will cure anybody. I have five applications to send for the pills. Enclosed please find three dollars; send five packages to me and one to Mrs. Laura Sherrell, Sulphur Springs, Hopkins county, Texas.

Yours truly, J. S. PATTON.

Liver Complaint, Nervousness, Dropsy, and Headache.

LACONIA, N. H., Jan. 29, 1875.

THOS. W. LANE—Sir:—I have been troubled with Bad Blood, Liver Complaint, Nervousness, Dropsy and Headache. I have taken one package of DR. QUAIN'S CONDITION PILLS. They have done me more good than all the medicine I ever took; I have taken considerable medicine within the last five years. For the nerves I think there is nothing so good as those pills. I can recommend them to all who are similarly afflicted, they have done me so much good. I think they will recommend themselves wherever they shall recommend those Pills to all who need them. Please send me two packages more, one for myself and one for a lady friend of mine. Many thanks to the inventor, agent and advertiser of those Pills.

PULMOCINE.

BUCHMAN'S PULMOCINE CORDIAL

is a new discovery. Twenty-three years ago it was used by one of New England's most famous physicians as the best Pulmonary Curative he could prescribe, after a dozen years spent in experimenting with it before he was satisfied that the Materia Medica could add nothing in its favor.

Among its many ingredients are Wild Cherry Bark, Squill Root, Liquorice Root, Blood root, &c. It is a Blood Purifier, gently stimulating. It increases expectoration and is diuretic. It is sudorific and alterative. It is a necessary family medicine. It is a Tonic and a powerful aid to the digestive organs. It is a gentle sedative, and relieves nervousness. It is aromatic and agreeable to the taste.

CLEAR YOUR THROAT!

Relieve Your Lungs.

For the terrible diseases engendered by the lung-trying climate of New England,

PULMOCINE CORDIAL

is a speedy and reliable Preventive and Remedy. Every Family should have a bottle at hand to check the sudden growth of all Pulmonary Diseases. For the Asthma, Coughs, Croups, Laryngitis, or inflammation of the larynx, Diphtheria, and all kindred Throat Diseases at all times prevalent, it is the ounce of Prevention. Children attacked with Whooping Cough or Croup should be immediately cared for. These painful attacks come with scarcely a moment's warning, when a physician may be out of immediate reach. A dose of PULMOCINE CORDIAL gives speedy relief, and the little ones are spared hours of pain and agony. As "a stitch in time saves nine," so does the possession of this Family Medicine prevent the spread of disease. Parents seeing their children gasping with pain, friends and relatives beholding each other in peril from suffocation by the choking pain in the throat, paralyzed with fear and not knowing the best course to pursue, are liable to apply the wrong remedial agents. There is no safety in delay, no time to waste in such cases. CONSUMPTION, that fearful scourge of the human race, lies at the door of all thus afflicted. BUCHMAN'S PULMOCINE CORDIAL arrests it (unless in its advanced stage at which time there is no local cure) relieves the pressing, suffocating feeling at the lungs, and the patient's danger is past.

For Coughs,

Croup,

Diphtheria,

—AND—

Asthma, etc.,

—USE—

Buchman's Pulmocine Cordial.

The Pulmocine Cordial is not a quack medicine, is not an experiment, is not composed of any ingredients "discovered" by "walking in pastures" in South America or anywhere else, nor by one who discovered a weed and thereby cured himself. Most of the ingredients are such as our best educated physicians daily use for the complaints specified in some form or other. The recipe is that perfected by one of New England's most learned and famous physicians, who used it entirely in his daily practice until his death. It is offered to the profession and to the public, absolutely pure and unadulterated.

SEC. 5. The contents of vaults and privies shall not be permitted to rise within one foot of the surface of the earth. And all owners or occupiers of buildings having such vaults or privies as may require it, shall cause them to be emptied within ten days from the promulgation of this ordinance, and in future on or before the the first day of May in each year. And any such owner or occupier neglecting so to do, shall forfeit and pay for every such neglect a sum not less than three nor more than twenty dollars, and a like sum for every week's neglect after the time above specified.

SEC. 6. SEC. 13. When any physician shall know that any person whom he is called to visit is infected with the small pox, or any other disease dangerous to the public health, such physician shall immediately give notice thereof to the Health Officers.

SEC. 14. If any such householder or physician shall refuse or neglect to give the notice required in the preceding sections, he shall for each refusal or neglect, forfeit the sum of twenty dollars, to be recovered by either of the Health Officers in the name of the city.

SEC. 15. The Health Officers may give written notice to the owner or occupier of any building, vessel or enclosure, to remove or destroy any nuisance or other thing deemed by them on examination, to be injurious to the public health, within a certain time limited therein; and in case such owner or occupier—the said notice having been given to him, or left at his usual place of abode—shall neglect to comply therewith, the said Health Officers may, by direction of the mayor and accompanied by the city marshal, forcibly enter such building, vessel, or enclosure, and cause said nuisance or other thing aforesaid to be removed or destroyed.

And no person shall construct, keep or continue any distillery from any pen for the keeping of any swine, slaughter-house, privy vault, or other unwholesome or offensive place, into either of said ponds, or to any flat or marsh adjoining the same. And no person shall throw or suffer to be thrown from his land into either of said ponds, or upon any of said flats or marshes, any dead, decaying, unwholesome or offensive animal or vegetable substances.

LINCOLN BUTTER POWDER.

Good Fresh Butter All The Year Round.

BUTTER IN 20 MINUTES.

Lincoln Butter Powder is an entirely harmless article made from a celebrated English recipe, and now in daily use by many of the most noted farmers in the butter counties around Philadelphia.

In hot weather this Powder makes butter much firmer and sweeter, it usually keeps it from turning rancid. It also removes the strong flavor of turnips, weeds, corn stalks, cotton seed, etc.; and the increased yield of butter much more than pays the trifling expense of using it.

Portsmouth Chronicle.

—John Henry, reading to his wife from a newspaper: "There is not a single woman in the House of Correction.' There, you see, don't you, what wicked creatures wives are? Every woman in that jail is married." "It is curious," said she; "but don't you think, John, dear, that some of them go there for relief?"

—A thirsty toper, in a bar room, flung down his sixpence and then filled his glass to the brim with whiskey. "Hold on!" exclaimed the bartender, in apparent astonishment, "there is a chrome goes with that drink!" and tearing off a portion of the end of a cigar box, he politely handed it across the counter.

—"Do you get off here?" asked the purser of the steamer City of Newport, of a lady, as the boat was within two or three hundred rods of Bullock's Point. "No," she responded, and just as the purser was about to tell her that she would have to buy a return ticket, she continued, "I get off when the boat reaches the wharf."

—An old lady in California refused to allow a railroad corporation to lay rails through her property. The track-layers took advantage of Sunday—a day on which she could not appeal to the courts—and put down the rails. She was outwitted, but not defeated. When the locomotive came along over the branch line she took up a position on the track and would not stir. The locomotive backed out and left her at her post.

—They had company to tea. The table was set out splendidly. The biscuit were as white and light and flaky as snow, and the cake was just lovely. The company were delighted with everything, and were enjoying themselves hugely, and getting the modus operandi of making the biscuit, which were too lovely for anything, when the infant of the household unfortunately whispered: "Ma, why don't you have such a tea when there ain't company?"

Centaur

iniments.

White for the Human Family.

Yellow, for Horses and Animals.

These Liniments are simply the wonder of the world. Their effects are little less than marvellous, yet there are some things which they will not do. They will not cure cancer or mend broken bones, but they will always allay pain. They have straightened fingers, cured chronic rheumatism of many years standing, and taken the pain from terrible burns and scalds, which has never been done by any other article.

THE WHITE LINIMENT is for the human family. It will drive Rheumatism, Sciatica and Neuralgia from the system; cure Lumbago, Chilblains, Palsy, Itch, and most Cutaneous Eruptions; it extracts frost from frozen hands and feet, and the poison of bites and stings of venomous reptiles; it subdues swellings, and alleviates pain of every kind.

For sprains or bruises it is the most potent remedy ever discovered. The Centaur Liniment is used with great efficacy for Sore Throat, Toothache, Chilled Breasts, Earache, and Weak Back. The following is but a sample of numerous testimonials:

"INDIANA HOME, JEFF. CO., IND., May 28, 1873.

"I think it my duty to inform you that I have suffered much with swollen feet and chords. I have not been free from these swellings in eight years. Now I am perfectly well, thanks to the Centaur Liniment. The Liniment ought to be applied warm.

BENJAMIN BROWN."

The proof is in the trial. It is reliable, it is handy it is cheap, and every family should have it.

To the sick and bed-ridden, the halt and lame, to the wounded and sore, we say, "Come and be healed."

To the poor and distressed who have spent their money for worthless medicines, a bottle of CENTAUR LINIMENT will be given without charge.

THE YELLOW CENTAUR LINIMENT is adapted to the tough muscles, cords and flesh of horses and animals. It has performed more wonderful cures of Spavin, Strain, Windgalls, Scratches, Sweeny, and general Lameness, than all other remedies in existence. Read what the great Expressmen say of it:

"NEW YORK, January, 1874.

"Every owner of horses should give the CENTAUR LINIMENT a trial. We consider it the best article ever used in our stables.

"H. MARSH, Supt. Adams Ex. Stables, N. Y.
"E. PULTZ, Supt. U. S. Ex. Stables, N. Y.
"ALBERT S. OLIN, Supt. Nat. Ex. Stables, N. Y."

"MONTGOMERY, ALA., Apr. 17, 1874.

"GENTLEMEN,—I have used over one gross of CENTAUR LINIMENT, yellow wrapper, on the mules of my plantation, besides dozens of the family Liniment for my negroes. I want to purchase it at the wholesale price, and will thank you to ship me by Savannah steamer one gross of each kind. Messrs. A. T. Stewart & Co. will pay your bill on presentation.

"Respectfully, JAMES DARROW."

The best patrons of this Liniment are Farriers and Veterinary Surgeons. It heals Galls, Wounds and Foll-evil, removes Swellings, and is worth millions of dollars to Farmers, Livery-men, Stock-growers, Sheep-raisers, and those having horses or cattle.

What a Farrier cannot do for $20 the Centaur Liniment will do at a trifling cost.

These Liniments are warranted by the proprietors, and a bottle will be given to any Farrier or Physician who desires to test them. Sold everywhere.

Castoria.

Is a pleasant and perfect substitute, in all cases, for CASTOR OIL. Castoria is the result of an old Physician's effort to produce, for his own practice, an effective cathartic, pleasant to the taste and free from griping.

Dr. Samuel Pitcher, of Hyannis, Mass., succeeded in combining, without the use of alcohol, a purgative agent as pleasant to take as honey, and which possesses all the desirable properties of Castor Oil.

It is adapted to all ages, but is especially recommended to mothers as a reliable remedy for all disorders of the stomach and bowels of children. It is certain, agreeable, absolutely harmless, and cheap. It should be used for wind colic, sour stomach worms, sleeplessness, croup, &c., then children can have sleep and mothers may rest.

J. B. ROSE & CO., of 45 Dey Street, New York, are the sole proprietors of Castoria, after Dr. Pitcher's recipe.

OF OHIO.

FOR VICE PRESIDENT,

William A. Wheeler,

OF NEW YORK.

Hayes' Platform in War.

In 1864, when Hayes was in the army, being nominated for Congress he was requested to come home and stump his district. His reply was, "I have other business just now. Any man who would leave the army at this time to electioneer for Congress ought to be scalped!"

Hayes' Platform in Peace.

"Honest money for all, and free schools for all. There should be no inflation which will depreciate the one, nor sectarian interference which will destroy the other."

Knott Guilty.

Proctor Knott, the democratic chairman of the House judiciary committee, seems anxious to earn the contempt even of his own party friends, (he won the contempt of the republicans long ago,) and to be in a fair way to attain the object of his ambition. Just before the meeting of the Cincinnati convention he received the now famous dispatch from Josiah Caldwell, but the dispatch being favorable to Mr. Blaine (whose nomination Knott and his co-laborers were bound to defeat by foul means as they could not do it by fair,) Knott kept it in his pocket, and only acknowledged its receipt when driven to the wall by Mr. Blaine, who charged him on the floor of the House with deliberately suppressing important evidence for the purpose of injuring his (Mr. Blaine's) political prospects. That the accusation was true no reasonable man can doubt, all the circumstances bearing out this view, and Knott having previously shown himself capable of perpetrating any meanness and injustice for the furtherance of the partisan ends of the democracy. More than that, but a day or two later Mr. Blaine showed by the records of the judiciary committee that Knott told a falsehood about the date of his appointing the Confederate subcommittee to "investigate" Mr. Blaine. Recently it was reported that Knott's committee, which has been examining into the charge that he maliciously suppressed the dispatch, would report unanimously exonerating him from malice, whereupon certain democratic papers sapiently asked, "Does not this make Mr. Blaine out a liar?" As at the most such a report would only amount to saying that the committee considered Mr. Blaine mistaken as to the motive which prompted a certain act—the commission of the act being undisputed—the democratic inference seemed rather far-fetched. However, the report exonerating Knott was made to the House last week, the republican members having "generously signed it," (according to the admission of Mr. Hurd, the democrat who drew it up,) on the understanding that the whole matter was to be dropped until next session. Knott, however, disregarding his pledged word, took advantage of the opportunity to pour forth a torrent of coarse and cowardly abuse upon Mr. Blaine, the latter of course being absent. This dishonorable conduct not only aroused the ire of the republican members of the committee, who indignantly withdrew their names from the report and scathingly rebuked Knott for his base duplicity and disregard of his word, but disgusted even the democrats, so that the report, which undoubtedly would have been unanimously adopted by the House but for Knott's wretched exhibition of petty malice, was recommitted on the motion of Mr. Hurd, the democrat who drew the report up. The old simile of "A live ass kicking a dead lion" hardly applies in this case, as Hon. James G. Blaine is far from dead, and Knott, though indubitably a most consummate ass, has but little life left in him. A dying ass feebly kicking in the direction of an absent lion more nearly expresses the disgraceful exhibition in the House of Knott's impotent hatred of Mr. Blaine. The unhappy little creature, still smarting under the memory of the severe castigation he received in his personal contest with the great republican leader, undertook to spit his venom upon his antagonist's empty chair; but his pitiful attempt resulted in his disgusting his own party friends, and in securing for him, at the hands of Messrs. Frye and Hale, of Maine, a drubbing only less demoralizing than that he formerly received from the man he on this occasion so bravely assailed—in his absence.

Correspondence.

WASHINGTON, D. C., August 4.

Now that the Belknap business has been disposed of by his acquittal, final adjournment is the most absorbing question before both House and Senate; and it is predicted it will occur early next week. It may be said, in passing, that Mr. Belknap has no occasion to be unduly happy over his escape as it was probably due to the conviction of twenty-three Senators that a private citizen is not obnoxious to impeachment as a means of punishment for crimes committed while an official. But an indictment is hanging over the ex-Secretary, found last spring by the grand jury of this District, and if he is convicted under it, all the punishment will follow that would have resulted from his conviction by the Senate.

The many and flat contradictions of many portions of Mr. Wilson's testimony by subsequent witnesses whose opportunities for observation were equal to his, has deprived President Grant's enemies of many crumbs of comfort in connection with the whisky prosecutions. Wilson's sensational statements were at first eagerly sought after, but since the other side has been partially heard, a disposition has been apparent to handle the ex-Solicitor rather more gingerly and to endorse him with more caution and reserve. Mr. Wilson explains that the President's letter in which he (Grant) instructed the officials that no guilty man was to be allowed to escape, probably found its way into his box packed up among other papers to be sent away, because it was marked "confidential," and so was not opened by the party who did the packing.

Mr. Tilden is rapidly loosing caste among the leaders of the faithful here and he has, by his possum policy, loaded down his canvass with a weight of ridicule and contempt that will likely adhere to it to the end and cost him many votes. The pretexts urged from time to time for the non-appearance of his letter are regarded even by his party associates as extremely attenuated and accepted by many as correct exponents of his character. Mr. Hendricks' prompt acknowledgement of the paternity of a late letter to an Indiana Representative in Congress, earnestly calling for a repeal of the resumption act, seems to divide the two candidates of the St. Louis convention so widely asunder that there appears to be no hope of a compromise; and as it places Mr. Hendricks squarely on the party platform, Governor Tilden is reduced to the humiliating alternative of begging terms of a subordinate, or of ignoring platform and Hendricks and making a dash for victory on a platform of his own construction. The perils by which he is surrounded appear to have totally unmanned him and driven him to adopt an evasive, shuffling policy, entirely out of character with the "aggressive policy" he promised. The last failure of his letter at the time authoritively named for its appearance, provoked a storm of profanity only possible among democratic politicians; and western democrats, especially, did not besitate to speak of him in the most contemptuous terms.

Knott's worse than foolish blunder, which has cost him the votes of all republican members of the judiciary committee on the resolution exonerating him from a malicious suppression of the Caldwell dispatch, and the respect of every man in and out of Congress whose good opinion is worth having, has intensified the gloom hanging over and surrounding on every hand the rebel democratic prospects for success in November. No member of the House, not even the most virulent ex-Confederate or ex-copperhead, has yet appeared with sufficient effrontery to defend his cowardly assault on Mr. Blaine, or his outrageous disregard of all parliamentary usages, the rules of ordinary courtesy and the tacit compact by which he was honorably bound to silence while the resolution was pending. Since the Ben Hill and the Tucker indiscretions, the leaders have kept their impetuous Southern friends well in hand; but the muzzle was slipped off from Knott at an unguarded moment and the usual consequence of such an absurd proceeding is the result.

The river and harbor bill has finally passed the Senate, about as it came from the committee. The total of its appropriations amount to about five million dollars. When it was taken up in the House a motion to concur in the Senate amendments was rejected and a committee of conference was appointed. Many members of the economical House are exceedingly loath to give up the appropriations for their districts, although they appear confident that every other section could get on well enough without appropriations. Many evidences of an imminent mutiny on the part of many democrats in the House to Randall's policy are apparent; and recently one of the mutineers from Massachusetts gave expression to views condemnatory of the high-handed measures relative to the appropriations that it has been sought to force on the Senate.

The feeling here among well-informed men regarding the foreign situation is, in effect, that a general European war is imminent—almost inevitable. Of course foreign representatives are reticent and keep their own counsel; but there exists a sense of uneasiness and a vague apprehension of a desolating war, close at hand, that will render a reconstruction of the nations of Europe a necessity.

From the Centennial, words of good cheer reach us. The attendance has been gradually increasing since the advent of cooler weather; and advices received by the Commissioners indicate that the months of September and October will crowd the grounds continuously. No one who returns home by way of this city from a visit to the great Exposition, appears disappointed; but, like the Queen of Sheba, all say "the half has not been told." MAXWELL.

Asking Too Much.

The Boston Globe, commenting on the Hamburg massacre, says: "We do not believe these occasional, local outbreaks indicate the general temper of the people of the South, much less a settled purpose to prevent the negroes from enjoying the rights which have been bestowed upon them. They do, however, show the existence of a considerable class of violent and lawless men, who have no respect for those rights and who are quick to find occasion to show their hatred of the colored race and their defiance of the laws intended for their protection." It then calls upon the "better class of southern people, for their own sake and for the sake of their long-suffering section of the country, * * to justify the professions of loyalty and good purposes which they make by supporting the authorities and doing all in their power to prevent outrage and wrong upon any class of citizens. We are glad to see that vigorous measures are to be taken in South Carolina for the punishment of the Hamburg murderers, and we earnestly hope that they will have the support of public sentiment not only in that State, but throughout the South."

Is it not asking too much of the "better class of southern people" to demand that public sentiment throughout the South shall condemn outrages which are not condemned by the democracy of the North? We think it is. How many democratic papers in the North have had a word to say in condemnation of the Hamburg massacre, or of the spirit that prompted it? So far as we know, not one. The New York World and Boston Post refer to it with a sneer at the "bloody shirt;" the New Haven Register deliberately lies—and the lie is at once copied in a score of democratic papers in New England—asserting that the affair "was a fight between a republican captain and a republican brigadier, and both were black;" the Belfast Journal says it should be remembered that the murdered men "lost their lives while resisting the laws;" and so on to the end of the chapter. Instead of condemning the outrage and insisting that such ruffianism must cease, the northern democratic press either ignores the subject altogether, apologizes for the murderers, or deliberately falsifies the facts "for the good of the party." Is it to be wondered at if few of the southern democratic papers do better?

Judge O. F. Fowler of Bristol, well known throughout the State, died suddenly of heart disease at Bristol, Sunday night. He was about 65 years old, and leaves a wife and two children.

The particulars of the Tamworth murder on Sunday are given as follows: A man named Cone lives near Chocorua Lake, at the foot of the mountain, about two miles above the Gilmanton Iron Works. During the forenoon a carriage drove along and several men got out and went down to the water to bathe, leaving a man named Williams to look after the horse. Cone seeing Williams there went out and ordered him away. He refused to go, saying he had a right to the road. Cone then threatened him, but this not working went into the house, got a shot gun, went out and taking deliberate aim, when within twenty yards of him, fired, the shot taking effect in the side of his face and neck. Williams lived only about five minutes. Cone then shut himself into his house and threatened to kill any one who dared to enter. The people gathered and finally one of the selectmen battered down the door and arrested the murderer. The people were so incensed at the murder that they talked strongly of drowning Cone in the lake. Cone is a Southerner and made his appearance in the neighborhood as a book pedlar. He has a wife and one child.

Michael Curran, from Providence, R. I., was drowned while bathing in the mill pond at South Keene on Sunday afternoon. Cause, a fit or cramp. Age thirty years. He worked on the Manchester and Keene Railroad.

Promise and Performance.

The proprietors of Hostetter's Stomach Bitters promise nothing in behalf of this famous tonic and regulating elixir which it will not perform. No pretensions irreconcilable with common sense are made in reference to it, but evidence of the most positive nature has been accumulating for over a quarter of a century in its behalf which proves it to be a reliable preventive and curative of malarial diseases, an efficient and genial tonic and general corrective, and specially valuable in cases where the bowels, liver, stomach or urinary organs are affected. Debility, the source from whence so many bodily evils spring, is entirely remedied by the invigorative action of the Bitters, which arrests premature decay and repairs losses of nervous and muscular power while improving the appetite and rendering digestion easy.

A new Route, and one destined to become the route for business men from Boston to New York, is that over the New York and New England Railroad via Middletown. It saves twenty-three miles of travel, is over a fine road, with first-class equipment, and through a highly cultivated and picturesque country. A card in our paper informs the public where particulars can be obtained.

COOKED CORNED BEEF.

Articles are being published calculated to prejudice the public against using Cooked Corned Beef, and we would say in answer to them that in no instance has positive proof been established to show that such is the case.

Our goods are packed in a manner very similar to that of Corn, Tomatoes, Fruit and canned goods generally, (which have long been tested) and we use nothing whatever of a poisonous nature in their preparation.

In addition to our own statement we have the strong endorsement of Prof. Hosford of Cambridge, one of the most eminent Chemists in the country, who has fully tested and is familiar with the entire details of the preparation of our goods.

We would also state that we use none but the choicest of Beef that our Chicago market affords, and trust that with these statements the rapidly growing popularity of our Corned Beef may be increased.

For the information of those not knowing the fact we would state that in the process of canning there is a liability of imperfect sealing, which causes the can to expand. Meat contained in such cans is unfit for use and will be cheerfully paid for when returned to any grocer selling it.

THE INAUGURATION

Of the new City Government took place at 10 o'clock, A. M., Tuesday, at the Court House; the number of spectators was very large, the court room being filled.

The Common Council organized by the choice of Mr. John J. Laskey as temporary chairman; the oath of office was then administered to Mayor-elect Broughton by the City Clerk; Mayor Broughton then administered the oath to the members-elect of the Board of Aldermen and Common Council.

On a ballot by the Common Council, for President, the vote was as follows:

Whole number of votes	10
Necessary for a choice	6
Oliver M. Knight had	2
John W. Dame	8

And Mr. Dame was declared President of the Common Council for the ensuing municipal year, and in a few words accepted the position. The Council then balloted for Clerk, with the following result:

Whole number of votes	10
Necessary for a choice	6
F. F. Pearson had	1
Robert E. Rich	9

And Mr. Rich was declared Clerk of the Common Council for the ensuing year.

In convention the City Councils balloted for City Clerk, as follows:

Whole number of votes	21
Necessary for a choice	11
M. Bafford had	2
Mercer Goodrich	5
Marcellus Bufford	14

And Mr. Bufford was declared elected City Clerk for the ensuing year.

Prayer was then offered by Rev. Dr. W. H. Alden, and the Mayor then delivered the following ADDRESS.

Gentlemen of the City Councils: We have to-day, in accordance with the people's votes, assumed the powers and duties conferred by the laws upon the City Councils. We have sworn to exercise those powers and perform those duties according to our best abilities and agreeably to the laws. I have no doubt you mean to do so, and that you will give the necessary time and attention to all matters that may come before you, and strive for the best interests of the city. As for myself, I shall give my best energies to the duties of the important office I hold, and shall confidently expect your co-operation.

I shall hereafter from time to time communicate such information and recommend such measures as the interest of the city may seem to require. But at present I am not able to—and you will not expect that I should—enter into any details of city affairs. My experience in municipal matters is too slight for me to be able to do so. For all such details I must refer you to the printed city reports, and, if you need explanations to the heads of the various departments.

It is very gratifying to me, that in entering upon our duties, we are sustained by so large a portion of our fellow citizens. This expression of confidence should lead us to a careful inquiry whether in any department a better system can be introduced, whether the rights of the people can be better guarded, or their interests in any way promoted. This is our duty, and I hope we may succeed in satisfying all reasonable demands for reform.

The necessary expenses of our city are very large, and must continue so. Good schools, open for all, are expensive, but they are indispensable; good streets, well graded, drained and lighted, with good sidewalks, make a town comfortable for residents and attractive to strangers; the fire department with all its appurtenances must be kept up to a high state of efficiency; an active police must be maintained by night and by day; the poor must be cared for, humanely, sometimes liberally, at all times with a consideration for the recipients of the public bounty as well as for the public purse.

I have alluded to only a part of the necessary expenditures; and I am aware that to a large extent these are beyond your control. You, gentlemen, are expected to furnish the money and pay the bills; but the bills in many cases are contracted by others; the school committee, the board of engineers, the overseers of the poor, the health committee, each control the expenses of their several departments. And yet it is expected that you will, in all ways open to you, exercise a vigilant supervision over all city expenses.

It is very desirable—I cannot impress it upon you too strongly, that economy should be practiced everywhere and in every way; not a shiftless meanness which avoids the incurring of necessary expenses, which buys poor material or employs incompetent labor, but a true and liberal economy which prudently provides for present wants and foresees and is prepared for the exigencies of the future.

And I do not speak in a fault-finding mood, where I say that the cost of the police and night-watch was larger in 1875 than it was in 1873, though my predecessor two years ago suggested that it was worthy of consideration whether a large reduction might not be made in this expense consistently with the safety and convenience of the public. You, gentlemen, and the public may decide, whether this increased cost has brought increased efficiency to the police force—whether our streets are more quiet, or our property safer, or the laws better enforced—whether more energetic or careful or prudent men have been secured; if such has been the case perhaps the larger cost was necessary and justifiable.

Neither am I disposed to censure an increased expenditure in the fire department in 1875 over that of 1873, if the expenses have been prompted and regulated by a proper care for the interests of the city. Perhaps I can make no more complimentary allusion to the force and machinery of this department than to say that our predecessors have done their best to keep them in as good condition as they found them. During the present summer a new steamer has been purchased; and a reservoir is now being constructed at Puddle Dock, which it is hoped will be available at all tides.

During the past two years a part of the city farm has been laid out and graded, and the lots offered for sale. If these lots and a larger portion of the farm can be sold at proper prices I have no doubt it would be an advantage to the wealth and growth of the city.

I am informed that a proposition will be brought before the City Councils asking for aid in paying the debt of the Portsmouth & Dover Railroad. The city holds 3000 shares of the capital stock of that road which were paid for by the issue of $300,000 city bonds. The road is leased to the Eastern Railroad, and dividends have been paid upon the shares sufficient to pay the interest on the bonds up to this date. It will be your duty, gentlemen, to consider and decide whether the public interest requires the incurring of an additional liability in aid of the road. Whatever may be your decision in this case, I hope and trust that the city will not again be involved in any private enterprise. I am strongly opposed to the use of the public money or the public credit for the purpose of building railroads. I do not believe it legal or prudent.

I wish to call your attention to the condition of the mill ponds. Both of them have become serious annoyances to the inhabitants, and will soon be intolerable nuisances. It is necessary that something should be done speedily to purify those waters, and to prevent the accumulation of filth in them. It is desirable that you give the subject your earnest attention.

The amendment to the city charter, passed at the late session of the legislature, contains some provisions to which it is proper that I should allude at this time, inasmuch as the extraordinary vote at the recent election seems to give the strongest approval of them. First, is the provision for conducting all our elections by daylight, or at least to bring them to a close at an nearly hour in the evening. This is no new idea, here or elsewhere. A law requiring the polls in this city to be closed at a fixed time was passed in 1873, and was in force I think at one election. It was repealed in 1874, and the result was a return to the noisy and turbulent night sessions in some of the wards; these night sessions are as unnecessary as they are disgraceful; they are unnecessary because all citizens who desire to vote can find ample time and opportunity in the nine hours of daylight during which the polls are required to be kept open; they are disgraceful because they are liable to lead to and promote public disorder, excite evil passions, and encourage fraud and dishonesty. I hope and believe that this wise and salutary provision of law may not again be disturbed.

Another provision of the amended charter, is that requiring all the checklists to be prepared by a board of inspectors. This board, members of which are elected by each ward, must necessarily be composed of men of both parties. No mere partisan board can hereafter prepare a list of voters, and dishonest and double voting will be mainly guarded against. This mode of preparing the checklists has been in use in some of the cities of this and other States; it is highly spoken of, and demands a fair and honest trial.

Gentlemen, I shall take the earliest opportunity to lay before you a statement of the financial condition of the city, and of the appropriations credited to the various amounts. I shall be ready at all times to join with you in any measure tending to promote the happiness and prosperity of our beloved city. My desire is that our intercourse may be agreeable, our deliberations harmonious and their results satisfactory to ourselves and our constituents.

The Convention then rose, and after the transaction of some routine business the two Boards adjourned to meet in their respective rooms in the City Building on Thursday evening.

JOTTINGS.

The Universalist Sunday school have their annual picnic to-day at Pinkham's Grove. Train leaves the Eastern depot at 9 A. M., and returns at 7 o'clock.

The Portsmouth reform club unite with the Greenland club on Thursday in a grand picnic in Greenland, far which a programme has been arranged which includes boating and fishing on Great Bay, croquet, base ball, and other features. The local club leave here at 8:05 A. M., returning on the regular evening train. Tickets for the picnic can be had at James Sanborn's, Joseph Pettigrew's and S. W. Webber's.

James F. Jenness, Esq., has erected a very handsome flagstaff on his grounds at the corner of Fleet and Hanover streets, and displays thereupon a fine twenty-foot flag. The whole establishment is an ornament to the neighborhood, but we are very sorry to say the flag doesn't bear the right names. James, what in the world were you thinking of when you put "Tilden and Hendricks" on that handsome flag? Why didn't you put up the names of the next President and Vice President of the United States? Or, if you had to put up the names you did, why didn't you put them up on a flag of the kind that both Tilden and Hendricks favored during the war—one with stripes running cross-wise? Those names have no business on a Union flag.

Mr. Wm. I. Marshall, of Fitchburg, Mass., on Saturday evening, entertained the guests at the Appledore with his lecture on the Yellowstone National Park, illustrated by ninety views, with a stereopticon of the largest size. The hall was crowded, a large number being present from Star island, and a goodly sum was realized for the object in aid of which the entertainment was given—the preservation of the Old South. Mr. Marshall has a large variety of stereoscopic views of the wonders of the Yellowstone region, and one lady at the Appledore purchased $23.50 worth of them before he left. We have examined a number of these views, and can vouch that they are superior specimens of the photographer's art, while they give (in conjunction with his lecture) undoubtedly the best idea of the wonders of that wonderful district that can be obtained without a personal visit to it, which few can make. Mr. Marshall is on the list of B. W. Williams' Lecture Bureau of Boston, and his illustrated lecture is warmly commended by such men as Prof. Guyot, the geographer, Dr. O. W. Holmes, Rev. E. E. Hale and William Cullen Bryant. His stereoscopic views can be obtained at 25 cents each for samples, by addressing Wm. I. Marshall at Fitchburg, Mass.

An adjourned session of the U. S. Circuit Court will be held here to-day.

The annual meeting of the Portsmouth & Dover Railroad stockholders will be held at the Common Council room in this city to-day.

Lieut. Commander Shephard is to assume the duties of Inspector of Ordnance at the Navy Yard, in addition to his present duties.

The game of ball played at Rye Beach on Tuesday, between the Granite State nine of this city and the Sea View nine, was won by the former, score 7 to 5.

At the republican convention for York county, Me., at Alfred on Tuesday, the following nominations were made; for senators, Usher B. Thompson, Uranus O. Brackett, Joseph Hobson; county commissioner, Jos. Bragdon, Jr.; treasurer, E. H. Banks; sheriff, Thos. Tarbox; judge of probate, Nath'l Hobbs; register of probate, Moses A. Safford; clerk of courts, A. L. Allen; county attorney, W. F. Lunt.

Political.

Here is a strong conundrum: If a man can rob a railroad of $384,000 and become the leader of the democratic reform ticket, how much must he steal to be sent to State prison?—Boston Journal.

In 1867 the interest paid by the national government was $143,781,591. Now it is only $100,243, 271. The government must have lived considerably within its income, notwithstanding the assertion of Governor Tilden to the contrary, to have made so great a decrease in the annual interest charge.

Gov. Tilden has not a word of condemnation of the Hamburg massacre and other Southern atrocities. But then he was pressed for time. A man can't think of everything in forty-two days.

The answer in the case of the St. Louis, Alton and Terre Haute Railroad Company, against Charles Butler, Samuel J. Tilden, Russell Sage and others, was filed Monday in the United States Circuit Court. The defendants admit the organization of the road, but deny that the owners and holders of the various stock and bonds ever subscribed to the paper in the complaint called "Exhibit A." On his own account, Samuel J. Tilden says that for eleven years, from 1862 to 1873, he was counsel of the road, and though its business often required special and peculiar skill and ability, he never received any compensation.

Democratic rule in the city of New York has increased the debt of that city $60,000,000 in ten years. Republican rule in the nation has reduced the public debt over $600,000,000 in ten years!

The State of Missouri, which is in the hands of the old secessionists, has issued to every former slaveholder a $1000 certificate for every slave, payable when the general government will pay it, and these certificates are being saved up as carefully as money.

Hayes was a soldier; Tilden was a copperhead. Hayes is frank and outspoken; Tilden is tricky and cunning. Hayes is a patriot who seeks the good of his country; Tilden an unprincipled politician who seeks his own advancement. The reform of the one is honest and sincere; that of the other is a false pretence.—W. H. H. Murray.

Frank W. Hughes, of Pottsville, Pa., the man who engineered the democratic canvass in Pennsylvania last year, repudiates Tilden, and promises soon to "make a public denunciation of the object surrender at St. Louis."

DIED.

PAYNE. In this city, Aug. 6, Carrie Bryant Payne, daughter of Albert L. and Carrie Payne, aged 2 years and 8 months.

PILOT BREAD.

This kind of bread having come into extensive family use, it has been my purpose to furnish, from choice materials, an article which should meet the approval of the most fastidious as to neatness, looks and taste. Whether I have succeeded in giving to the public a PILOT BREAD,

SUPERIOR IN EXCELLENCE,

the consumer may be the judge; that the quality will not be suffered to depreciate, the past with the present is my best pledge. That I can compete with all the various qualities of Pilot Bread in the market, as to price, I make no pretensions,—but in price, all things being equal, I fear no competition.

A Queer Case.

A fisherman's wife over at the Cape two years since left him with two small children and went to live with a more congenial companion at the island. The husband, having as much as he could do to support the children, never applied for a divorce. The man down at the island sued for the wife's board. He paid no attention, having no money to spend in law. He procured an execution the other day, and an officer went down to the wharf, where the fisherman had just arrived with a day's load of fish, and gave him the choice to be imprisoned for the debt or give up his boat of fish. Nobody to take care of the children, nor money to take the poor debtor oath, he surrendered the fish and boat. The officer of the law sold the fish, which paid him and the lawyer, and the man who keeps the woman took the boat and rowed home, leaving the fisherman to foot it round the bridge home.—Portland Argus.

—Speaking of railroads a wag remarked that they are now built of three gauges, namely: Broad gague, narrow gauge, and mortgage.

—Robert Collyer says: "I was at a children's party one Christmas Eve, and seeing a little boy sitting in one corner who was not dancing, I approached him and asked why he did not join the others and dance. 'I'm not danthing,' said the boy solemnly, 'becauthe I don't think danthing ith the great end of life.' Now, if that was my boy, I should think he was meant for a minister, but I should be sorry for the church that had to take him."

—Transfer of beauty by simple vaccination is the newest trick in France. The following advertisement recently appeared in a Paris paper: "Madame X. X. permits herself to say that she has the skin white to pearl, full health, the cheek of roses, face of sweet expression, blue eyes, black hair, figure coquette; therefore is full of health. She will be vaccinated next Tuesday, and in as short a time as possible the lymph of her arm will be ready for the vaccination of anybody desiring to possess all these mentioned charms. For terms, apply," etc.

CONDITION PILLS!

The Wonderful Remedy for Liver Complaint, Biliousness, Dyspepsia, Constipation, Neuralgia, Rheumatism, Headache, Kidney Complaint, Nervousness, Scrofula, Piles, and all diseases arising from a bad state of the Blood!

No medicine ever offered to the public has given such universal satisfaction as Dr. Quain's Magic Condition Pills. Their praises are on every tongue where their merits are known. They strike at once at the seat of disease and show their healing power almost immediately. Thousands of voluntary testimonials of their merits have been received by the agent, from those who have been cured by them, of which the following are samples:

Dyspepsia Four Years, Constipation and Inflammation of the Bowels Three Years, Confined to my Room Two Years, Pain so I Could Not Sleep Without Morphine. One Package of Dr. Quain's Condition Pills Made Me Eat Well, Sleep Well and Free from Pain, after being given up by Physicians.

WEST LEBANON, ME., Feb. 22, 1

MR. THOMAS W. LANE:—I have been sick for four years with Dyspepsia, and for the past three years Constipation and Inflammation of the Bowels, I have suffered all the pain I could endure and live. I have been confined to my room for two years, and could not sleep nights without the use of morphine. I have been given up by physicians as past cure. I have taken one package of DR. QUAIN'S CONDITION PILLS, and they have done me more good than all the doctors I have had. I sleep well, I eat well and have no pain. They are all they are recommended to be. Please send me three packages, as two of my neighbors wish to try them. I enclose $1.50.

Your truly, JOHN W. LORD.

Another Letter from Maj. John W. Lord, one month later. Wonderful Cures by Dr. Quain's Pills Effected on Him in Thirteen Days. First time Free from Pain for Three Years.

WEST LEBANON, ME., March 22, 1875

MR. THOMAS W. LANE:—I commenced taking DR. QUAIN'S CONDITION PILLS February 20th, and wrote you February 23d of their wonderful effect. I have continued to improve ever since. My appetite is good, and I sleep as well as I ever did in my life. I am free from pain for the first time in three years. When I was taken sick four years ago, I weighed one hundred and eighty-six pounds; I now weigh one hundred and thirty, but, as I am gaining in strength, I have faith I shall regain my flesh this summer, by the use of the Pills. I shall continue taking them for some time to come.

Yours truly, JOHN W. LORD.

Dr. Quain's Pills the Remedy for Soldiers' Aches and Pains.

WEST LEBANON, ME., June 1, 1875.

MR. THOMAS W. LANE—Dear Sir:—I am now able to walk out every day, and am gaining in strength very fast, all of which is due to you as agent for the best Pills in the world. I have taken no other medicine, and my improvement has been steady since first taking Dr. QUAIN'S CONDITION PILLS. They have done everything for me, and I will say to you, advertise them direct to the soldiers, for they will certainly cure all pains and aches resulting from exposure and hardship on the field. Please send me by return mail another package.

JOHN W. LORD.

Rheumatism for Twenty Years Cured by One Package of Dr. Quain's Condition Pills—"The Best Medicine in the World."

EAST ANDOVER, N. H., Dec. 10, 1875.

MR. LANE—Dear Sir:—As I know the value of DR. QUAIN'S CONDITION PILLS and the good they have done me, I take pleasure in giving them praise; so I send you another testimonial. My father has been troubled with Rheumatism for twenty years or more, and has tried everything that could be thought of, but to no good. At times it would be so bad that he could not lift his hand to his head or do any work at all, especially in cold weather. A short time ago I advised him to get some of these Pills. He believed nothing in them, but I gave him the last package I had of you, as I did not need them, and he has not been as free from the Rheumatic Complaint for years. No Rheumatism, no pain. What helped him? It was DR. QUAIN'S CONDITION PILLS, the best medicine in the world. There is nothing like them. I know it, for I have tried them, and they are all, yes, more than they are recommended to be. Give them a fair trial and you will say so. I write this because I know the goodness of them and want others to know the same. Some may think I am telling a big story. I am. But remember I am not giving them half the praise they ought to have.

Yours with respect, ED. P. PEVARE.

Wonderful Effect of Four Doses of Dr. Quain's Condition Pills upon Neuralgia of Twelve Years' Duration—Testimony of Rev. J. S. Patton.

DAINGERFIELD, MORRIS CO., TEXAS, Nov. 15, '75.

MR. THOMAS W. LANE—Dear Sir:—I have been afflicted for near twelve years with Neuralgia in the face and head. I tried I do not know how many physicians, and could only get partly relieved. I also tried nearly patent medicines with the same result. I have been confined to my room most all the time for eight or ten winters, and have been traveling and visiting medical springs, and I still suffered most intensely. The physicians pronounced my case the worst and most stubborn that they had had anything to do with. One told me I could never get well; they all advised me to go South and spend the winter, and thought that was the only chance for me, and I was trying to get ready to go to Florida, when through the kindness of Rev. H. M. Mubbie, my attention was called to the advertisement of Dr. Quain's Magic Condition Pills. I immediately sent to you for a package. I have taken four doses and I am almost free from pain. The impression here seems to be that if your pills will cure me, they will cure anybody. I have five applications to send for the pills. Enclosed please find three dollars; send five packages to me and one to Mrs. Laura Shernell, Sulphur Springs, Hopkins county, Texas.

Yours truly, J. S. PATTON.

Liver Complaint, Nervousness, Dropsy and Headache.

LACONIA, N. H., Feb. 29, 1875.

THOS. W. LANE—Sir:—I have been troubled with Bad Blood, Liver Complaint, Nervousness, Dropsy and Headache. I have taken one package of DR. QUAIN'S CONDITION PILLS. They have done me more good than all the medicine I ever took; I have taken considerable medicine within the last five years. For the nerves I think there is nothing so good as those pills. I can recommend them to all who are similarly afflicted, they have done me so much good. I think they will recommend themselves wherever they go. I shall recommend those Pills to all who ask them. Please send me two packages more, one for myself and one for a lady friend of mine. Many thanks to the inventor, agent and advertiser of those Pills. MRS. P. L. ELLIOTT.

DR. QUAIN'S MAGIC CONDITION PILLS are put up only by the AMERICAN MEDICINE CO., Manchester, N. H., THOMAS W. LANE, Agent.

PULMOCINE.

BUCHMAN'S PULMOCINE CORDIAL

is no new discovery. Twenty-three years ago it was used by one of New England's most famous physicians as the best Pulmonary Curative he could prescribe, after a dozen years spent in experimenting with it before he was satisfied that the Materia Medica could add nothing in its favor.

Is the ultima thule of Medical Discovery.

Among its many ingredients are Wild Cherry Bark, Squill Root, Liquorice Root, Blood root, &c. It is a Blood Purifier, gently stimulating. It increases expectoration and is diuretic. It is sudorific and alterative. It is a necessary family medicine. It is a Tonic and a powerful aid to the digestive organs. It is a gentle sedative, and relieves nervousness. It is aromatic and agreeable to the taste.

CLEAR YOUR THROAT!

Relieve Your Lungs.

For the terrible diseases engendered by the lung trying climate of New England,

PULMOCINE CORDIAL

is a speedy and reliable Preventive and Remedy. Every Family should have a bottle at hand to check the sudden growth of all Pulmonary Diseases. For the Asthma, Coughs, Croups, Laryngitis, or inflammation of the larynx, Diphtheria, and all kindred Throat Diseases at all times prevalent, it is the ounce of Prevention. Children attacked with Whooping Cough or Croup should be immediately cared for. These painful attacks come with scarcely a moment's warning, when a physician may be out of immediate reach. A dose of PULMOCINE CORDIAL gives speedy relief, and the little ones are spared hours of pain and agony. As "a stitch in time saves nine," so does the possession of this Family Medicine prevent the spread of disease. Parents seeing their children gasping with pain, friends and relatives beholding each other in peril from suffocation by the choking pain in the throat, paralyzed with fear and not knowing the best course to pursue, are liable to apply the wrong remedial agents. There is no safety in delay, no time to waste in such cases. CONSUMPTION, that fearful scourge of the human race, lies at the door of all thus afflicted. BUCHMAN'S PULMOCINE CORDIAL arrests it (unless in its advanced stage at which time there is no local cure) relieves the pressing, suffocating feeling at the lungs, and the patient's danger is past.

For Coughs,

Croup,

Diphtheria,

Asthma, etc.,

USE

Buchman's Pulmocine Cordial.

The Pulmocine Cordial is not a quack medicine, is not an experiment, is not composed of any ingredients "discovered" by "walking in pastures" in South America or anywhere else, nor by one who discovered a weed and thereby cured himself. Most of the ingredients are such as our best educated physicians daily use for the complaints specified in some form or other. The recipe is that perfected by one of New England's most learned and famous physicians, who used it entirely in his daily practice until his death. It is offered to the profession and to the public, absolutely pure and unadulterated.

LINCOLN BUTTER POWDER.

Good Fresh Butter All The Year Round.

BUTTER IN 20 MINUTES.

Lincoln Butter Powder is an entirely harmless article made from a celebrated English recipe, and now in daily use by many of the most noted farmers in the butter counties around Philadelphia.

In hot weather this Powder makes butter much firmer and sweeter than it usually is, and keeps it from turning rancid. It also removes the strong flavor of turnips, weeds, corn stalks, cotton seed, etc.; and the increased yield of butter much more than pays the trifling expense of using it.

Feathered Fishermen.

A very curious sport is gaining ground in this country. The use of cormorants for fishing purposes has been practiced for centuries by the Chinese, who carefully train these birds to deliver their prey uninjured to their master, instead of appropriating it to their own use; and from China and other Oriental countries it has been brought tr England. Cormorant fishing recalls in a measure the old days of falconry, with the exception that, while the feats of the trained hawks and falcons were performed in mid air, the performances of the "sea crow," as the French call it, take place in the water.

With a ring placed round their necks to prevent them from swallowing their booty—though well-trained birds will dispense with this restraint—the cormorants plunge at a given signal into the water, and hardly ever fail to bring up a finny prize. Their broad webbed feet, and their thin, keel-shaped body, admirably adapts them for swimming and diving; and they will often use their short stiff wings as an additional means of propulsion. So swift are they, and so sudden their descent, that the nimblest fish cannot escape them.

If they seize their prey otherwise than by the head they ascend to the surface, and, quickly jerking it into the air, will adroitly catch it as it falls headforemost. The appearance of a number of cormorants thus engaged, and regularly bringing their booty to their owner's hand, is a very pleasing sight.—London Telegraph.

—An American backwoods minister having alluded to an anchor in his discourse, described its use in the following lucid manner: "An anchor is a large iron instrument that sailors carry to sea with them, and when a storm arises they take it on shore and fasten it to a tree, and that holds the ship till the storm blows over."

—Deception one cannot see through—A glass eye.

Centaur iniments.

White for the Human Family.

Yellow, for Horses and Animals.

These Liniments are simply the wonder of the world. Their effects are little less than marvellous, yet there are some things which they will not do. They will not cure cancer or mend broken bones, but they will always allay pain. They have straightened fingers, cured chronic rheumatism of many years standing, and taken the pain from terrible burns and scalds, which has never been done by any other article.

THE WHITE LINIMENT is for the human family. It will drive Rheumatism, Sciatica and Neuralgia from the system; cure Lumbago, Chilblains, Palsy, Itch, and most Cutaneous Eruptions; it extracts frost from frozen hands and feet, and the poison of bites and stings of venomous reptiles; it subdues swellings, and alleviates pain of every kind.

For sprains or bruises it is the most potent remedy ever discovered. The Centaur Liniment is used with great efficacy for Sore Throat, Toothache, Caked Breast, Earache, and Weak Back. The following is but a sample of numerous testimonials:

"INDIANA HOME, JEFF. CO., IND., May 28, 1873.

"I think it my duty to inform you that I have suffered much with swollen feet and chords. I have not been free from these swellings in eight years. Now I am perfectly well, thanks to the Centaur Liniment. The Liniment ought to be applied warm.

BENJAMIN BROWN."

The proof is in the trial. It is reliable, it is handy it is cheap, and every family should have it.

To the sick and bed-ridden, the halt and lame, to the wounded and sore, we say, "Come and be healed."

To the poor and distressed who have spent their money for worthless medicines, a bottle of CENTAUR LINIMENT will be given without charge.

THE YELLOW CENTAUR LINIMENT is adapted to the tough muscles, cords and flesh of horses and animals. It has performed more wonderful cures of Spavin, Strain, Windgalls, Scratches, Sweeny, and general Lameness, than all other remedies in existence. Read what the great Expressmen say of it:

"NEW YORK, January, 1874.

"Every owner of horses should give the CENTAUR LINIMENT a trial. We consider it the best article ever used in our stables.

"H. MARSH, Supt. Adams Ex. Stables, N. Y.
"E. PUTZ, Supt. U. S. Ex. Stables, N. Y.
"ALBERT S OLIN, Supt. Nat. Ex. Stables, N. Y."

"MONTGOMERY, ALA., Aug. 17, 1874.

"GENTLEMEN,—I have used over one gross of CENTAUR LINIMENT, yellow wrapper, on the mules of my plantation, besides dozens of the family Liniment for my negroes. I want to purchase it at the wholesale price, and will thank you to ship me by Savannah steamer one gross of each kind. Messrs. A. T. Stewart & Co. will pay your bill on presentation.

"Respectfully, JAMES DARROW."

The best patrons of this Liniment are Farriers and Veterinary Surgeons. It heals Galls, Wounds and Poll-evil, removes Swellings, and is worth millions of dollars to Farmers, Livery-men, Stock-growers, Sheep-raisers, and those having horses or cattle.

What a Farrier cannot do for $20 the Centaur Liniment will do at a trifling cost.

These Liniments are warranted by the proprietors, and a bottle will be given to any Farrier or Physician who desires to test them. Sold everywhere.

Castoria.

is a pleasant and perfect substitute, in all cases, for CASTOR OIL. Castoria is the result of an old Physician's effort to produce, for his own practice, an effective cathartic, pleasant to the taste and free from griping.

Dr. Samuel Pitcher, of Hyannis, Mass., succeeded in combining, without the use of alcohol, a purgative agent as pleasant to take as honey, and which possesses all the desirable properties of Castor Oil.

It is adapted to all ages, but is especially recommended to mothers as a reliable remedy for all disorders of the stomach and bowels of children. It is certain, agreeable, absolutely harmless, and cheap. It should be used for wind colic, sour stomach, worms, costiveness, croup, &c., then children can have sleep and mothers may rest.

J. B. ROSE & CO., of 45 Dey Street, New York, are the sole proprietors of Castoria, after Dr. Pitcher's recipe.

OF OHIO.

FOR VICE PRESIDENT.

William A. Wheeler,

OF NEW YORK.

Hayes' Platform in War.

In 1864, when Hayes was in the army, being nominated for Congress he was requested to come home and stump his district. His reply was, "I have other business just now. Any man who would leave the army at this time to electioneer for Congress ought to be scalped!"

Hayes' Platform in Peace.

"Honest money for all, and free schools for all. There should be no inflation which will depreciate the one, nor sectarian interference which will destroy the other."

News and Notes.

Hobbs Kerry, the captured Missouri train robber, says he, with one Clel. Miller and the notorious Younger and James brothers, were the robbers of the trains at Otterville and Gad's Hill.

The English Commission of Inquiry into the Bulgarian massacres report that in the district of Philippopolis 10,000 people were slaughtered; houses were fired and many persons burned alive.

The Maine Veterans' Reunion at Portland was a great affair. The veterans had a big clambake on one of the islands in the harbor, and a mass "camp-fire" in the evening.

Four thousand people were present at the temperance camp-meeting at Old Orchard on the 9th.

The dory Centennial, from Gloucester, Mass., for Liverpool, was spoken August 2, in latitude 48 deg., 49 min., longitude 16 deg., 09 min.—all well.

In Biddeford, Me., on the 9th, Cole's block was destroyed by fire. Loss on building, $1000; insured for $2000. George S. West, tinware, loses $1000; fully insured. Wardwell & Son, grocers, lose $1000; insured. City Dining Rooms, badly damaged by smoke and water; insured. Dearborn & Day lost considerably on shoes and leather stored in the adjoining building. The paint and oil store adjoining was slightly damaged by fire and the stocks by water.

New Hampshire Items.

Congressman Bell says he did not resign at all. The rumor arose from the fact that he wrote a letter of resignation, but his friends persuaded him not to send it. He received leave of absence instead.

George W. Tilton, of Epping, has been appointed deputy sheriff.

The third annual camp-meeting of the Life and Advent Union will commence at Wolfborough on Saturday, and hold over the two following Sundays. Fares have been reduced to about half price on all steamboats and railroads running to Wolfborough. Tickets good from August 10 to Sept. 5, inclusive.

Political.

Up to the time of Tilden's nomination the Brooklyn Argus was a straight-out democratic paper. But now just hear it: "McClellan for war and Pendleton for peace in 1864; Seymour for National honor and Blair for a new reconstruction system in 1868; Greeley for amnesty and Brown for retaliation in 1872, and Tilden for contraction with Hendricks for inflation in 1876, are some of the double trains which the managers of the democratic party have endeavored to drive over the National race course. Being headed in different directions, they were beaten by 407,000 votes in the first race, by 305,000 in the second, and by 769,000 in the third. What the result of the present one will be it is not difficult to foretell. And this is called good party management! How much better it would have been for the party to have had an honest ticket this time, won the confidence of the people the coming fall, and then won the election four years hence."

"Young man, you need not come to me for any such letter of recommendation; this war is a perfect outrage, and I will give no assistance to its prosecution."—Samuel J. Tilden.

The greenbackers of Connecticut have called a State convention for the nomination of State officers and Presidential electors.

The radical bullionists declare that Tilden has surrendered to Hendricks, and the radical inflationists declare that Hendricks has surrendered to Tilden. Both are wrong. The candidates have not surrendered; they have only "given themselves away."—Brooklyn Argus.

A campaign lady remarks, "Come all ye honest democrats." It is a comic song, and makes everybody laugh.—N. O. Republ.

Hendricks and Mules.

Revelations affecting the reputation of Governor Hendricks of Indiana most unfavorably have resulted from the examination of the records of a mule claim which he induced the War Department to pay in 1870, and the case is a much worse one than that which has given George H. Pendleton so much disrepute. The claim itself was a bad one, but Governor Hendricks' connection with it is worse. A citizen of Indianapolis named Hall failed to complete a contract for supplying mules to the Government, after having furnished 90 of them. The Government refused under the terms of the contract to pay for them, and Hall assigned the claim, amounting to $7860, to a man named Henderson, who is a cousin of Hendricks'. Hall was tried by court martial for having bribed Government officers and defrauded the Government on another contract and was sentenced to pay a fine of $10,000 and be imprisoned six months. Hendricks, while a Senator, took up the claim for his cousin, made an effort and failed to get it paid at the War Department. He then tried to lobby it through the Senate Committee on Claims, writing the petition himself while still a Senator, and again failed. He ceased to be a Senator in 1869, but continued to prosecute the claim, finally getting a favorable opinion from McKee Duren, the Judge Advocate of the War Department, who approved the Kentucky Central Railroad claim for Pendleton. The two claims come close together on the books of the War Department. The claim was paid in 1870, and the papers and records show Hendricks' connection with it throughout. The payment of the claim was a fraud on the Government. A further important fact is that Hendricks secured a pardon for the culprit, Hall, and afterward got him a place in the New York Custom House. It is not at all unlikely that Hendricks will be compelled to retire from the democratic ticket.—Boston Herald.

Hendricks squarely denies any improper connection with mule claims. Though he was a bitter copperhead and is a rank inflationist, he does not look like a sneak (as Tilden certainly does look, or his "official" pictures terribly belie him), or talk like one. He is unquestionably a thorough demagogue; we don't believe he is a thief.

The Chinese Question.

Whatever may be thought of the proceedings of the late democratic nominating convention in other respects, we beg to point out that in the Chinese question they put their foot in it quite up to the knee. No consciously dishonest profession ever yet carried an election in these United States; nor has such profession ever yet failed to repel more voters than it served to attract. We are reminded of the old story touching the making of a democratic ticket once in New York. After a few Irish names had been put on to capture the Irish vote, and a German or two for the German vote, and a worthy Hebrew for the Israelitish congregation, and a Jansen for the Scandinavians, a delegate shrewdly suggested the wisdom of adding an American "to catch the floating American vote." The St. Louis convention, in the matter of its Chinese plank, has successfully emulated its New York predecessor. It drops a bait, of which the hook is much the most conspicuous portion, to catch such brainless fish as it may; failing, with a fatuity all its own, to perceive that for every such gudgeon, sculpin, and other ignoble creature thus ensnared, it drives at least two of nobler sort away from its fishing grounds. The one thing that the average politician appears never to learn is that the voters he angles for are at the least as clear-witted as himself.—San Francisco News Letter.

A Drunken Farm.

Often and often, while passing through the country, have we passed farms whose history we could read at a glance. The door-yard fence had disappeared—burnt up in the shiftlessness born of drink. The old house was unpainted and battered; broken panes of glass were stopped with rags or old hats; the chimney stood in a tottering attitude; the doors swung in a creaking condition on one hinge; the steps were unsteady like its owner; everything was dilapidated, decayed, untidy, cheerless. A single look showed that its owner traded too much at one shop—the rum shop. The spirit of thrift had been killed by the spirit of the stiff. Fresh paint, improvements, good cheer and beauty for the farmer's throat. Outside matters were the same. The barn-yards were wretched sties; the doors were off; the roofs were leaky, the gates down, the carts crazy, the tools broken, the fodder scarce and the stock poor and wretched. Neglect, wastefulness, cruelty, ruin—all had come from drink. The farm showed the trail of the same serpent. The straggling and tumbled stone walls, the rickety fences, the weed-grown fields, the sparse and half headed crops, the dying orchard, all said to the passer-by, "Whiskey did it." Drink had given the plaster of a mortgage instead of fertilizer; sloth instead of labor; unthrift in the place of care, and demoralization in lieu of system. The farm was drink-blighted, and advertised its condition as plainly as its owner did when he came reeling home from the town. One of the most impressive temperance lectures, for young farmers especially, is a good look at a drunken farm.—Golden Rule.

Disciplining an Editor.

Years ago, when a certain Western State (which we shall not name) was a territory, and with few inhabitants, a young lawyer from one of the old States emigrated thither, and settled in the town of K——. He succeeded admirably in his profession, and rose rapidly in popular favor. He had been there nearly two years, when he induced a printer to print a weekly paper, of which he was editor and proprietor. Squire S. was much pleased for a while with editing a paper. He was a man of very low stature, but he used the editorial "we," as frequently, as if there were a dozen of him, and each as big as Daniel Lambert.

Strange to say, there were at that time men in that town who were not quite more honest than they should be; a thing which probably never happened before and never will again. Squire S. felt all the patriotism of a son of '76, and poured out grape and canister against public abuses. This soon stirred a hornet's nest about his ears; but as there was no other paper in the territory, there was no reply, and he enjoyed his warlike propensities in security.

At length he published an article more severe and cutting against malfeasance in office, than any that had preceded it. In fact, though pointed at no one individual in particular, it was a "scorcher."

Some three or four days afterwards he was sitting alone in his editorial office, which was about a quarter of a mile from the printing establishment; his pen was busy with a paragraph, when his door opened without much ceremony, and in stalked a man about six feet in his stockings. He asked, "Are you S., the proprietor of this paper?" Thinking he had found a new patron, the little man, with one of his blandest smiles, answered in the affirmative. The stranger deliberately drew the last number of the paper from his pocket, and pointing to the article against rogues in office, told the affrighted editor that it was intended for "him." It was in vain that S. protested he had never heard of him before. The wrath of the visitor rose to fever heat, and from being so long restrained, boiled over with double fury. He gave the editor his choice, either to publish a humble, a very humble recantation, or take a flogging on the spot. Either alternative was wormwood; but what could he do? The enraged office-holder was twice his size, and at one blow would qualify him for an obituary notice. He agreed to retract; and as the visitor insisted upon writing the retraction himself, he sat down to his task. Squire S. made an excuse to walk to the printing office, with a promise that he would be back in season to sign it as soon as it was finished. Squire S. had hardly gone fifty rods, when he encountered a man who inquired where Squire S.'s office was, and if he were at home. Suspecting that he, too, was on the same errand as the other visitor, he pointed to the office, and told him he would find the editor within, writing a most abusive article against office-holders. This was enough. The eyes of the new comer flashing fire, he rushed into the office, and assailed the stranger with the epithets, "liar, scoundrel, coward;" and told him he would teach him how to write. The gentleman, supposing it was some bully sent there by the editor, sprang to his feet and a fight ensued. The table was upset and smashed into firewood, the contents of a large jug of ink stood in puddles on the floor, the chairs had their legs and backs broken beyond the skill of surgery to cure them. This seemed only to inspire the combatants with still greater fury. Blow followed blow with the rapidity of lightning. First one was kicking on the floor, then the other, each taking it in turn pretty equally. The ink on the floor found its way to their faces, till both of them cut the most ludicrous figure imaginable. The noise and uproar were tremendous. The neighbors ran to the door, and exclaimed with astonishment that two negroes were fighting in Squire S.'s office. None dared separate them. At length, completely exhausted, they ceased fighting. The circumstances of the case became known, and the next day, hardly able to sit on horseback, their heads bound up, they started homeward, convinced that they had attained very little satisfaction from the attempt.

Poisons and Antidotes.

It not unfrequently happens that serious and distressing results are occasioned by the accidental employment of poisons; and it occurred to us that we might possibly do a service to some of our readers by presenting them with a brief and compendious list of the more common poisons and the remedies for them most likely to be close at hand.

Acids—These cause great heat and sensation of burning pain from the mouth down to the stomach. Remedies—Magnesia, soda, pearlash or soap, dissolved in water; then use stomach pump or emetics.

Alkalies—Best remedy is vinegar.

Ammonia: Remedy—Lemon juice or vinegar; afterwards, milk and water or flaxseed tea.

Alcohol—First cleanse out the stomach by an emetic; then dash cold water on the head, and give ammonia (spirits of hartshorn.)

Arsenic—Remedies: In the first place evacuate the stomach; then give the white of eggs, limewater, or chalk and water, charcoal, and the preparations of iron, particularly hydrate.

Lead—White lead and sugar of lead. Remedies—A strong cathartic, such as castor oil and Epsom salts especially.

Charcoal—In poison by carbonic gas, remove the patient to open air, dash cold water on the head and body, and stimulate nostrils and lungs by hartshorn, at the same time rubbing the chest briskly.

Corrosive sublimate—Give white of eggs freshly mixed with water, or give wheat flour and water, or soap and water freely.

Creosote—White of eggs and the emetics.

Belladonna or Night Shade—Give emetics, and then plenty of vinegar and water, or lemonade.

Mushrooms, when poisonous—Give emetics, and then plenty of vinegar and water, with a dose of ether, if handy.

Nitrate of Silver (lunar caustic)—Give a strong solution of common salt, and then emetics.

Opium—First give a strong emetic of mustard and water; then strong coffee and acid drinks; dash cold water on the head.

Laudanum—Same as opium.

Nux Vomica—First emetics; then brandy.

Oxalic Acid—Frequently mistaken for Epsom salts. Remedies—Chalk, magnesia, or soap and water freely; then emetics.

Nitrate of Potash—Give emetics; then copious draughts of flaxseed tea, milk and water, and other soothing drinks.

Prussic Acid—When there is time, administer chlorine in the shape of soda, or lime. Hot brandy and water, hartshorn and turpentine are also useful.

Snake Bites, etc.—Apply immediately strong hartshorn, and take it internally; also give sweet oil and stimulants freely; apply a ligature tight above the part bitten, and then apply a cupping glass.

Tartar Emetic—Give large doses of tea made of galls, Peruvian bark, or white oak bark.

Tobacco—First an emetic; then a stringent tea; then stimulants.

Verdigris—Plenty of white of egg and water.

—The English Government, according to Figaro, will take most of the Sultan's new iron-clads off the builders' hands, a proceeding to which, says that accurate journal, the Turks will not be averse, as they are very poor sailors. In proof of this assertion, the writer contributes the following historical fact: The Sultan ordered on one occasion the Captain of his finest ironclad to take his vessel to England on an embassy to the Queen. So long as they were in the Mediterranean all went well; they followed the African coast; besides, they had a pilot; but when they had passed out through the Straits of Gibraltar things became less easy. The Captain told the pilot that he didn't know what course to take, whereupon the pilot, who was just about leaving the vessel, said: "Follow that ship which is before you; she is going to England. Your vessel is the swifter, and you need not lose sight of her. And now, good-bye, and good luck to you." The Turkish admiral followed the ship till dark, but lost sight of her during the night. At sunrise he espied the smoke of a steamer on the horizon, and steering toward her, followed her course so closely that he could always keep her lights in view at night. One day passed, two, four, eight, and they had not made land. "Allah is great," said the Admiral, "but I did not think England was so far off." Finally, on the tenth day they entered an immense harbor, and the Portwarden put off and boarded the Turkish frigate. "What do you want?" he said in English. "I come," replied the Admiral, "to present the Sultan (whom God protect) to the Queen." "Why, this is New York." And so it was. The Admiral had followed the wrong ship. This incident is vouched for as "absolutely true," by M. Ivan de Westyne, the "special" sent to Constantinople by Figaro after the Turkish revolution.

—A powerful battery was attached to a sleeping attendant, in a Philadelphia hospital, under the impression that he was an apparently dead man, whom the physician hoped to revive. He writhed and swore so energetically, at the first application of the electricity, that the error was at once discovered.

—"What would our wives say, if they knew where we are?!" said the captain of a Yankee schooner, when they were beating about in a thick fog, fearful of going ashore. "Humph! I shouldn't mind that," replied the mate; "if we only knew where we were ourselves."

—The baby's little game—Bawl.

Don't Poison Your System

With such hurtful drugs as quinine, calomel, or blue pills, but take instead that safe, prompt and agreeable substitute, Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, which, whether it is used to remedy or prevent malarial fevers, overcome general debility, or to correct torpidity of the liver and bowels, will in every case be found fully adequate to the wants of the sick and feeble. It entirely removes dyspeptic symptoms, and by stimulating the flow of gastric juice, facilitates digestion and insures the conversion of food into blood, whereby the system is efficiently nourished and regains its lost vigor. This great vegetable restorative has received the endorsement of men of science, the press has repeatedly borne voluntary testimony to its excellence, and the public has long since given it the preference to every medicine of its kind.

"American Belles."

America is justly proud of her beautiful ladies, but how many mar their beauty, and lose their health and youth, become prematurely old in appearance, by neglecting to take proper care of their teeth. There can be no excuse for this, as SOZODONT, pronounced by all people a prize between the sweetest lips, can now be had in all civilized countries.

There is nothing mysterious about the disappearance from the skin of eruptions, burns, scalds, bruises, ulcers and sores through the influence of Glenn's Sulphur Soap. Sulphur is a potent purifier and healer of the skin and is most beneficially utilized in this form.

LYON'S KATHAIRON prevents the Hair from falling out or turning gray, renews its growth, and gives strength and vigor. It is delightfully perfumed, and makes a splendid dressing. It is the cheapest and most desirable Hair Tonic ever produced. Used by the elite. Price only 50 cents.

City Missionary Layne has received this week, from friends of the cause in this city, $1250 in aid of the Old Ladies' Home.

The union picnic of the Portsmouth and Greenland reform clubs took place in the latter town on Thursday. One of the amusements was a walking exhibition by Mr. John E. Morrison of this city, who walked ten miles in one hour and thirty-two minutes, doing the second mile in eight minutes.

"Burleigh" writes from New York to the Boston Journal as follows: "Mr. J. B. Bowles, well known as the New York correspondent of the Portsmouth Journal, has left New York and gone back to Old Strawberry Bank to spend the remnant of his life. For forty years he has been employed on the Express, and has followed its fortunes from the start until now. He is a genial and popular member of the craft, and leaves behind him hosts of friends who wish him many sunny years of repose in the enjoyment of the competency which his industry and talents have secured."

Capt. William Robinson, of the steamer Appledores, was on Wednesday evening presented with a purse of upwards of a hundred dollars, contributed by guests of the Appledore House who witnessed Capt. Robinson's gallant rescue of the Hurley boy from drowning some days ago. A valuable gold chain and other articles were also presented to Capt. Robinson for his little daughter. The presentations were made in the quietest manner, the usual formalities being dispensed with.

The Rudolphsen Opera Company are to appear at the Temple on Monday, Sept. 18, on which occasion a hitherto unperformed opera by the great master, Mendelssohn, entitled the "Son and Stranger," will be produced. The company have had this opera in rehearsal for some time, and we are assured that its dramatic and musical merits are of the very highest order.

Cause of the Franco-German War.

M. Gambetta has provoked a discussion that has revealed to the world the truth about the origin of the Franco-German war of 1870. Gambetta said that the Bonapartists declared war on the strength of fabricated papers, and from the new evidence given the statement would seem to be a true one, albeit somewhat exaggerated. It will be remembered that the cause of war was declared by France to have been an insult given by the King of Prussia to the French Embassador, M. Benedetti, at Ems, the news of which was, it was said, telegraphed to all the Capitals of Europe by Count Bismarck. It has long been known that the story of an insult, however it was originated, was a fabrication, for M. Benedetti himself said, after the war: "There was neither insulter nor insulted at Ems." Still it has been held that if Bismarck circulated a report that there was an insult, or if the French Cabinet had reason to believe that the report might be true, France was justified in declaring war.

Now, it appears from a letter written by M. de Kestry, Secretary of the Committee of the Corps Legislatif which was charged with inquiry into the situation, and which advised war—that the only papers submitted to the committee were two dispatches forwarded by the French Ambassador at Berne and another French diplomatist, which repeated the account of the insult publicly offered at Ems to M. Benedetti. This account, the Duc de Gramont informed the committee, had been forwarded as a circular by Count Bismarck to all the foreign courts, and had been communicated to the two French agents by diplomatic indiscretions which could not safely be revealed. M. Talhouet, the reporter of the committee, assured the Chamber that the committee had seen the dispatches of four or five French Embassadors to different Courts, and that they reproduced almost identical terms the document forwarded by Prussia, as M. Ollivier had stated to the European Powers.

But it is now proved that the dispatch did not emanate from Bismarck, but from an agency without authority or responsibility. Moreover, it is now known that the Government withheld from the committee two dispatches from M. Benedetti himself that would have proved the story of an insult untrue. So it appears that there was no insult, that the Cabinet knew there had been none, that the story did not emanate from Count Bismarck, and that the Ministry led the country into war on the strength of an untraceable rumor which they knew to be false.

A Community of Hindoo Houris.

During the time we remained at Goa we made an excursion along the coast to the neighboring village of Seroda, inhabited by a remarkable race of women, who are celebrated throughout the western parts of India for their great beauty and unusually fair complexion. They are Hindoos of the Conkany caste, but differ in many respects from any other tribe. They are not allowed to marry, nor are any men, except the priests belonging to the pagodas—of which there are several in the village—allowed to reside within the precincts. They are, however, encouraged to become mothers; and like the Amazonian queen—who is said to have visited Alexander the Great in hopes of thereby obtaining a heroic daughter—they are very particular in selecting fathers likely to perpetuate in their children the fair complexion and classical features for which they themselves are justly celebrated.

I was not able to ascertain how the male children were disposed of, but I believe they are dedicated to the temples and become priests, while the females—or perhaps the finer specimens, for all the children we saw were strikingly handsome—are reared with the utmost care to sustain the character of this village of houris. Their origin is shrouded in mystery. They never leave their native village—which they appear to think the most delightful spot on earth—and have a superstitious belief that if they were to ascend above the Ghauts they would immediately die. On landing near the village we pitched tents on the beach, and, in accordance with the etiquette of the place, we despatched a messenger to announce our arrival.

We were soon after waited upon by a deputation of smiling nymphs, who, in the most graceful manner, expressed their thanks for the honor we had done them, and informed us they were charged with a message from the matron of the village, requesting the pleasure of our company to nautch (dance); and, after throwing a garland of flowers around each of our necks, they returned to the village. I was much struck with the grace and beauty of these young creatures. They were nearly as fair as Europeans, with beautifully regular features, and their deep-blue, melting eyes, filled with long, silken eyelashes, were perfectly bewitching. Their figures were more stately and their limbs fuller and better rounded than those of the Indian females generally are; and their peculiar dress—a flowing robe, confined round the waist by a silver zone, and looped up on the side so as to expose the leg to a little above the knee, closely resembles the drapery of an ancient Greek statue.

The hair, simply braided, was entwined with wreaths of jessamine and secured with a golden bodkin. And the general effect of their charms was not a little heightened by the unaffected sweetness and simple modesty of their demeanor, for, notwithstanding their strange customs—shocking to our ideas of propriety, but considered perfectly proper by them—the poor things retain all the native modesty of their sex, and are not by any means meretricious in their behavior. In the coul of the evening we proceeded to the village, on the outskirts of which we were met by another deputation of the fair inhabitants and conducted to the fair matron.

The village is beautifully situated in a grove of orange, citron, and palm trees, through which the soft sea breeze comes laden with perfume. A beautiful sea-water lagoon, wooded to the edge, sweeps by in front of it, and in the background the dark-blue mountains appear to form a barrier between this enchanted spot and the rest of the world. We were received with great ceremony by the matron and all the beauties of the village in a large, open apartment, where we were sprinkled with rose-water and regaled with tea. We then seated ourselves around the room to witness the performance of some nautch girls belonging to the temple, and departed at a late hour, after distributing some little presents, such as embroidered slippers, spangles, etc., among the fairest of our entertainers, and taking a sketch of a beautiful creature named Blaca.—Pittsburg Leader.

—New inventions do not always come up to what is claimed for them, but sometimes they far surpass any expectations entertained by the inventor, answering unbeard-of purposes and even playing pranks. There was recently a trial of life-saving devices at Dover, Eng., the experiments being conducted seven miles from land. Among the inventions tested was an india-rubber boat which was to accomplish marvels in the way of saving life. Instead of doing so, however, it blew up shortly after being launched and nearly drowned the inventor, who was hauled on board the steamer more dead than alive.

—The Servians have been driven out of Gurgosovatz; Harvatovitch has fallen back on Alexinatz; Sevenyearsovitch has defeated Crackyerjawigatz, and Palldownyervestovitch has inflicted a crushing blow on Wipofyerchinoski.—Providence Press.

—Mr. Smith undertook to obtain some honey surreptitiously from a hive. He thinks he has discovered a bee-attitude not down in the books.

COOKED CORNED BEEF.

Articles are being published calculated to prejudice the public against using Cooked Corned Beef, and we would say in answer to them that in no instance has positive proof been established to show that such is the case.

Our goods are packed in a manner very similar to that of Corn, Tomatoes, Fruit and canned goods generally, (which have long been tested) and we use nothing whatever of a poisonous nature in their preparation.

In addition to our own statement we have the strong endorsement of Prof. Hosford of Cambridge, one of the most eminent Chemists in the country, who has fully tested and is familiar with the entire details of the preparation of our goods.

We would also state that we use none but the choicest of Beef that our Chicago market affords, and trust that the above statements, the rapidly growing popularity of our Corned Beef may be increased.

For the information of those not knowing the fact we would state that in the process of canning there is a liability of imperfect sealing, which causes the can to expand. Meat contained in such cans is unfit for use, and will be cheerfully paid for when returned to any grocer selling it.

PILOT BREAD.

This kind of bread having come into extensive family use, it has been my purpose to furnish, from choice materials, an article which, should meet the approval of the most fastidious as to neatness, looks and taste. Whether I have succeeded in giving to the public a PILOT BREAD,

SUPERIOR IN EXCELLENCE,

the consumer may be the judge; that the quality will not be changed unless for the worse, I pledge myself as my best pledge. That I can compete with all the various qualities of Pilot Bread in the market, as to price, I make no pretensions,—but in price, all things being equal, I fear no competition.

More Bayonet Rule.

Bayonet rule has once more been inaugurated in South Carolina. The heel of the oppressor is this time laid upon the necks of the good people of Aiken county. Seventy-two privates and five officers have been sent to overawe the law-abiding people. We know the character of the wild Cossacks who have thus, in the dark hour of night, swooped down upon that hapless village. We could weep tears of blood when we reflect upon the fate of the once peaceful town. Chickens, eggs, watermelons, sweet potatoes and onions have advanced in price. Not a barkeeper in town but must hereafter get up an hour earlier in the morning in order to provide the invigorating cocktail for the insolent stranger. There is a sudden inquiry for credit for soap and starch by the dusky washwoman, whose secret joy in the arrival of the invaders may be discerned in her open countenance.

The lately quiet stores of the village are now occasionally stirred by the advent of that hateful uniform, the owner of which inquires for the "best five center" with a freedom of manner galling to the high-souled grocer. As the cracker drives his ox cart along the sandy road he will be surrounded by these minions of tyranny with insulting inquiries in regard to the price of peaches and muskmelons. We, who for years have been obliged to submit to the hateful rule of these aliens, could have stood it awhile longer. We have become callous to our injuries. But to the high-spirited citizens of Aiken, who have been used to live on sick Yankees all winter, who have welcomed every train of coughing enemies as so much grist to their mill, it will be a terrible strain to put up with four score of wholesome ones. They have our sincere sympathies. We hope it will lead them to organize at once against this petty despotism.—Columbia (S. C.) Herald.

—An honest old farmer on being informed that one of his neighbors owed him a grudge, growled out, "No matter; he never pays anything."

CONDITION PILLS!

The Wonderful Remedy for Liver Complaint, Biliousness, Dyspepsia, Constipation, Neuralgia, Rheumatism, Headache, Kidney Complaint, Nervousness, Scrofula, Piles, and all diseases arising from a bad state of the Blood!

No medicine ever offered to the public has given such universal satisfaction as Dr. Quain's Magic Condition Pills. Their praises are on every tongue where their merits are known. They strike at once at the seat of disease and show their healing power almost immediately. Thousands of voluntary testimonials of their merits have been received by the agent, from those who have been cured by them, of which the following are samples:

Dyspepsia Four Years, Constipation and Inflammation of the Bowels Three Years, Confined to my Room Two Years, Pain so I Could Not Sleep Without Morphine. One Package of Dr. Quain's Condition Pills Made Me Eat Well, Sleep Well and Free from Pain, after being given up by Physicians.

WEST LEBANON, ME., Feb. 22, 1

MR. THOMAS W. LANE:—I have been sick for four years with Dyspepsia, and for the past three years Constipation and Inflammation of the Bowels. I have suffered all the pain I could endure and live. I have been confined to my room for two years, and could not sleep nights without the use of morphine. I have been given up by physicians as past cure. I have taken one package of DR. QUAIN'S CONDITION PILLS, and they have done me more good than all the doctors I have had. I sleep well, I eat well and have no pain. They are what they are recommended to be. Please send me three packages, as two of my neighbors wish to try them. I enclose $1.50.
Your truly, JOHN W. LORD.

Another Letter from Maj. John W. Lord, one month later. Wonderful Cures by Dr. Quain's Pills Effected on Him in Thirteen Days. First time Free from Pain for Three Years.

WEST LEBANON, ME., March 22, 1875

MR. THOMAS W. LANE:—I commenced taking DR. QUAIN'S CONDITION PILLS February 8th, and wrote you February 22d of their wonderful effect. I have continued to improve ever since. My appetite is good, and I sleep as well as I ever did in my life. I am free from pain for the first time in three years. When I was taken sick four years ago, I weighed one hundred and eighty-six pounds; I now weigh one hundred and thirty, but, as I am gaining in strength, I have faith I shall regain my flesh this summer, by the use of the Pills. I shall continue taking them for some time to come.
Yours truly, JOHN W. LORD.

Dr. Quain's Pills the Remedy for Soldiers' Aches and Pains.

WEST LEBANON, ME., June 1, 1875.

MR. THOMAS W. LANE—Dear Sir:—I am now able to walk out every day, and am gaining in strength very fast, all of which is due to you as agent for the best Pills in the world. I have taken no other medicine, and my improvement has been steady since first taking DR. QUAIN'S CONDITION PILLS. They have done everything for me, and I will say to you, advertise them direct to the soldiers, for they will certainly cure them of aches and pains caused from exposure and hardship on the field. Please send me by return mail another package.
JOHN W. LORD.

Rheumatism for Twenty Years Cured by One Package of Dr. Quain's Condition Pills—"The Best Medicine in the World."

EAST ANDOVER, N. H., Dec. 10, 1875.

MR. LANE—Dear Sir:—As I know the value of DR. QUAIN'S CONDITION PILLS and the good they have done me, I take pleasure in giving them praise; so I send you another testimonial. My father has been troubled with Rheumatism for twenty years or more, and has tried everything that could be thought of, but to no good. At times it would be so bad that he could not lift his hand to his head or do any work at all, especially in cold weather. A short time ago I advised him to get some of your Pills. He believed nothing in them, but I gave him the last package I had of you, as I did not need them, and he has not been as free from the Rheumatic Complaint for years. No Rheumatism, no pain. What helped him? It was DR. QUAIN'S CONDITION PILLS, the best medicine in the world. There is nothing like them. I know it, for I have tried them, and they are all, yes, more than they are recommended to be. Give them a fair trial and you will say so. I write this because I know the goodness of them and wish others to know the same. Some may think I am telling a big story. I am. But remember I am not giving them half the praise they ought to have.
Yours with respect, ED. F. PEVARE.

DAINGERFIELD, MORRIS CO., TEXAS, Nov. 15, '75.

MR. THOMAS W. LANE—Dear Sir:—I have been afflicted for near twelve years with Neuralgia in the face and head. I tried it do not know how many physicians, and could only get partly relieved. I also tried many patent medicines with the same result. I have been confined to my room most all the time for eight or ten winters, and have been traveling and visiting medical springs, and I still suffered most intensely. The physicians pronounced my case the worst and most stubborn that they had had anything to do with. One told me I could never get well; they all advised me to go South and spend the winter, and thought that was the only chance for me, and I was trying to get ready to go to Florida, when through the kindness of Rev. H. M. Mathis, my attention was called to the advertisement of Dr. Quain's Magic Condition Pills. I immediately sent to you for a package. I have taken four doses and I am almost free from pain. The impression here seems to be that if your pills will cure me, they will cure anybody. I want five applications of the pills. Enclosed please find three dollars; send five packages to me and one to Mrs. Laura Sherrell, Sulphur Springs, Hopkins county, Texas.
Yours truly, J. S. PATTON.

Liver Complaint, Nervousness, Dropsy and Headache.

LACONIA, N. H., Jan. 29, 1875.

THOS. W. LANE—Sir:—I have been troubled with Bad Blood, Liver Complaint, Nervousness, Dropsy and Headache. I have taken one package of DR. QUAIN'S CONDITION PILLS. They have done me more good than all the medicine I ever took; I have taken considerable medicine within the last five years. For the nerves I think there is nothing so good as those pills. I can recommend them to all who are similarly afflicted, they have done me so much good. I think they will recommend themselves wherever they go. I shall recommend those Pills to all who need them. Please send me two packages more, one for myself and one for a lady friend of mine. Many thanks to the inventor, agent and advertiser of those Pills. MRS. P. L. ELLIOTT.

PULMOCINE.

BUCHMAN'S PULMOCINE CORDIAL

is no new discovery. Twenty-three years ago it was used by one of New England's most famous physicians as the best Pulmonary Curative he could prescribe, after a dozen years spent in experimenting with it before he was satisfied that the Materia Medica could add nothing in its favor.

Is the ultima thule of Medical Discovery.

Among its many ingredients are Wild Cherry Bark, Squill Root, Liquorice Root, Blood root, &c. It is a Blood Purifier, gently stimulating. It increases expectoration and is diuretic. It is sudorific and alterative. It is a necessary family medicine. It is a Tonic and a powerful aid to the digestive organs. It is a gentle sedative, and relieves nervousness. It is aromatic and agreeable to the taste.

CLEAR YOUR THROAT!

Relieve Your Lungs.

For the terrible diseases engendered by the lung-trying climate of New England,

PULMOCINE CORDIAL

Is a speedy and reliable Preventive and Remedy. Every Family should have a bottle at hand to check the sudden growth of all Pulmonary Diseases. For the Asthma, Coughs, Croups, Laryngitis, or inflammation of the larynx, Diphtheria, and all kindred Throat Diseases at all times prevalent, it is the ounce of Prevention. Children attacked with Whooping Cough or Croup should be immediately cared for. These painful attacks come with scarcely a moment's warning, when a physician may be out of immediate reach. A dose of PULMOCINE CORDIAL gives speedy relief, and the little ones are spared hours of pain and agony. As "a stitch in time saves nine," so does the possession of this Family Medicine prevent the spread of disease. Parents seeing their children gasping with pain, friends and relatives beholding each other in peril from suffocation by the choking pain in the throat, paralyzed with fear and not knowing the best course to pursue, are liable to apply the wrong remedial agent. There is no safety in delay, no time to waste in such cases. CONSUMPTION, that fearful scourge of the human race, lies at the door of all this afflicted. BUCHMAN'S PULMOCINE CORDIAL arrests it (unless in its advanced stage at which time there is no local cure) relieves the pressing, suffocating feeling at the lungs, and the patient's danger is past.

For Coughs,

Croup,

Diphtheria,

Asthma, etc.,

USE

Buchman's Pulmocine Cordial.

The Pulmocine Cordial is not a quack medicine, is not an experiment, is not composed of any ingredients "discovered" by "walking in pastures" in South America or anywhere else, nor by one who discovered a weed and thereby cured himself. Most of the ingredients are such as our best educated physicians daily use for the complaints specified in some form or other. The recipe is that perfected by one of New England's most learned and famous physicians, who used it entirely in his daily practice until his death. It is offered to the profession and to the public, absolutely pure and unadulterated.

BUTTER IN 20 MINUTES.

Lincoln Butter Powder is an entirely harmless article made from a celebrated English recipe, and now in daily use by many of the most noted farmers in the butter counties around Philadelphia.

In hot weather this Powder makes butter much firmer and sweeter than it usually is, and keeps it from turning rancid. It also removes the strong flavor of turnips, weeds, corn stalks, cotton seed, etc., and the increased yield of butter much more than pays the trifling expense of using it.

The Widow in the L.

It had been Mrs. Butterkin's doings, letting the L. Mr. Butterkin had objected to the proceding, but mildly, as was becoming in the good-humored husband of a "whimmy" wife, so prone to tears that there seemed some foundation for her pet apprehension that her blood was turning to water. Grievously tormented by nerves, she longed for womanly sympathy, and on Mr. Ebbeson's decease, nothing would do but his widow should sell her farm and occupy the Butterkin L; for had not Ruth and she been dear friends from girlhood? After due deliberation Mrs. Ebbeson came, having first secured a life lease of the building.

A busy little woman was Ruth Ebbeson, as she had need to be, her intemperate, worthless husband having left her barely enough to make both ends meet. If she would lap them comfortably, it must be by her own exertions with the needle. And as she sat cheerily stitching by her invalid mother's couch, Mrs. Butterkin would often run in with beans to pick over or apples to pare, while on rainy days, obedient to his wife's suggestions, Mr. Butterkin did many a neighborly turn in way of carpentry. The two families were almost as one. Indeed, the letting of the L seemed a provident arrangement for all parties. It was a relief to Mrs. Ebbeson to be rid of her farm; it was well that her mother should be within easy access of a physician. Especially was it of advantage to Mrs. Butterkin to enjoy cheerful companionship, and whatever was of advantage to Mrs. Butterkin necessarily affected Mr. Butterkin.

Thus years glided on, bringing mental vigor to the nerve-diseased Mrs. Butterkin. She had never seemed in better health than in that fatal spring when she was prostrated by pneumonia, death-stricken from the first.

"The Lord wills it, Ruth, and I don't feel to murmur," she whispered with dying grace; "but husband'll miss me, I know. You'll keep an eye on him, won't you, my dear, when I am gone, and make him comfortable?"

Mrs. Ebbeson sobbed a promise; but after Mr. Butterkin's bereavement she found the covenant embarrassing, for in this sublunary world of ours a widow who "keeps her eye on a widower" challenges unpleasant comment, and little Mrs. Ebbeson deprecated the speech of people. Consequently, though she conscientiously ministered to Mr. Butterkin's comfort, it was in unobtrusive ways not suspected by him, and hardly realized by the niece who kept his house. The door between the two sitting-rooms no longer, as formerly, stood invitingly ajar, but was hasped upon the widow's side. She never passed through it now, save in that gentleman's absence, when she occasionally assisted the inexperienced Esther in compounding his favorite dishes or surreptitiously possessed herself of his fine mending. With his wife's demise the old free-and easy life had ended. They were two distinct households, growing further and further apart as the weed upon the widower's hat waxed rusty beneath accumulated months of mourning. It could scarcely have been otherwise. The closed door was but a symbol of the barrier which, in the very nature of things, must exist between the bereaved Mr. Butterkin and the similarly bereaved Mrs. Ebbeson. When a right hand glove has lost its mate, and a left has met with a like calamity, one naturally desires to fit the remaining two together, if haply they may make a pair, and the widow shrunk sensitively at the thought of the neighbors thus mentally matching herself and Mr. Butterkin. As far as in her lay she tried to make it apparent to them that the twins were two odd ones, which could by no possibility be mated.

But not so the gentleman in question. That people should gossip never entered his head. If in Roxanna's life-time, to please her, he had done her dear Ruth frequent neighborly favors, all the more would he do them now that Roxana lay cold in death. And as day after day went by, and he felt more drawn to the cheerful, bright-eyed widow, the simple man believed this was solely for his departed wife's sake. She had been dead a year and a day when Mrs. Ebbeson whisked out upon the doorstep one warm July morning to shake the table-cloth.

"Oh, my stars!" ejaculated she, looking not into the firmament, but straight earthward at her hens darting hither and yon for the breakfast crumbs. In the midst of the flock bristled two Brahmas, with sullen eyes and feathers on end, clucking for chickens that were not.

"Anything wrong, Mrs. Ebbeson?"

Mr. Butterkin paused on his way from the barn with the milk.

"Only these Brahmas, Mr. Butterkin. I've broken them up, and broken them up, and they will set." Mrs. Ebbeson had been reared in a rural part of New England where hens never "set."

"Well, why not let 'em?"

"In July? Now, Mr. Butterkin."

"Then supposing you tie red yarn about their feet?"

"Why, they'd peck my eyes out," laughed the widow, dexterously folding the table-cloth in its former creases.

She was sorry the moment she had said it, for Mr. Butterkin at once offered to assist in the girdling process. Why should he not? Yet, as he held the hens, first one and then the other, while she bound about the right leg of each the anti-incubating anklet, she was inwardly agitated and could not help being thankful it was early morning, and they were not likely to be seen by any passers-by.

No such feeling perturbed Butterkin. He was honestly glad to help Roxanna's friend—because she had been her friend he would have said if he had thought about the matter at all; and in the kindness of his heart he presently asked if the chicken-bran was not getting low. He was going to the village; should he call at the mill?

"Or, if you have any errands, I can take you over as well as not," he added, as an afterthought, and was mildly bewildered at seeing the sudden flush on her face as she hurriedly answered that she had no errands.

Picking up the milk pail, in which the froth had perceptibly settled, he walked away with a troubled expression. He hoped Ruth hadn't any hard feeling toward him. What could have made her color up so?

And then it occurred to him that though he had asked her often, he was sure, she had not ridden with him for a long while—not since—why, not since Roxanna died! and his own face flushed under the dawn of a new idea. Ruth was afraid the neighbors might talk; strange he hadn't thought of it before. Dear! dear! what a timid little woman she was!

As he jogged lonesomely along in the great wagon which used to carry two, and seemed dismally empty with one, he could not banish her from his mind, and he began to realize how constantly she had been in it of late. What had made her manner so distant these months past? Was it fear of village gossip? or did she really dislike him? He wished he knew; and he jerked the reins, unwillingly wounding the feelings of his faithful beast, consciously trotting her best.

Turning in at his own gate, a rebellious clamor from Mrs. Ebbeson's hennery greeted his ear. Alas for his vain attempt to overcome maternal instinct! Hardly had he left their sight when the clucking Brahmas sought their nest, where the little widow found them bill to bill, the scarlet anklets hidden beneath the straw. Six times she dislodged them; six times they reinstated themselves; and now at noon there they sat brooding over the pile of bricks she had heaped in their nest, winking their round eyes at her in lazy triumph! It was too much. Was an immortal woman to be outwitted by a couple of finite hens? The little widow renewed the conflict, but not daring again to lay hands upon the belligerant bipeds, she resorted to the discreet experiment of poking at them through the open window, thus affording Mr. Butterkin, as he rounded the corner, a confused vision of agitated calico dancing about a distracted rake-handle.

"What! setting again, Mrs. Ebbeson?"

The small lady, till then unconscious of the gentleman's proximity, hastily withdrew her head from the window and looked down in some confusion from her perch on an inverted barrel.

"Yes, they're setting again; but it's just as well—just exactly as well," said she, rather incoherently, harrowed by the fear lest she were displaying her ankles.

"Now, now, we must see about this," responded Mr. Butterkin, fishing in his pocket for a ball of twine he had bought that day for stringing the tomatoes, and meanwhile glancing over his shoulder, apparently to assure himself that the orchard was where it should be. He would have liked nothing better than to lift the widow down, but his instinct told him she would prefer to descend by herself unobserved, and he was a man capable of self-sacrifice. "We'll tie the hens to the fence," he added presently, conscious of a thrill of delight as he pronounced the "we."

He knew himself better than in the early morning, and could not disguise the fact that he felt a personal satisfaction on entering into even the humblest partnership with Mrs. Ebbeson—a satisfaction evidently not shared by the Brahmas, who, resenting his continued interference, tore his cost mercilessly. It was a jagged rent, from pocket to hem, in his Sunday garment, too, which in Roxanna's time had never gone to the village on a week day; but who was there now to watch over Mr. Butterkin's apparel? Not Mr. Butterkin surely, to whom the distinctions of dress were but as sounding brass and a tinkling cymbal.

"What a wicked, wicked shame?" cried Mrs. Ebbeson, in distress. "But I'll darn it just as well as I can."

"No, no, thank you, it's of no consequence," replied Mr. Butterkin, with manly indifference.

"But Esther can't mend broadcloth."

"Can't? You don't say so!"

Imbued with masculine superstition that incapacity with the needle betokens idiocy, Mr. Butterkin looked aghast.

"No; she's young, you know, and not used to sewing. Besides, I'm responsible for this rent. Let me attend to it, please."

He removed the garment without a word, his face flushing like moose-berries in autumn. Not at the thought that, since Esther was incapable, he must be indebted to the widow for past favors with the needle—indeed, he would have unblushingly declared that this was the first occasion since Roxanna's decease that garment of his had needed repair—but he felt a reluctance to being dependent upon Ruth for a menial service, when it was now the growing desire of his heart that she should lean upon him.

Seeing him color, Mrs. Ebbeson, out of sympathy, colored too, and such a vivid and lasting crimson that her mother at dinner mildly chided her for going out without her bonnet.

Busy over his coat that afternoon, Ruth naturally thought of Mr. Butterkin, while he, weeding the late turnips, recalled her blushes, and clumsily tried to analyze them. On the whole, he couldn't believe she went so far as to dislike him. And so night came, the mended coat hung in its place, and under the fence the undiscouraged Brahmas brooded above imaginary eggs. Next morning they brooded there still, and there, had they been his own, might they have continued to brood, forgotten by Mr. Butterkin, who, as his late wife often said, complainingly, never charged his mind with hens; but these Brahmas possessed peculiar interest as giving him audience with the charming widow. Accordingly, in the day that followed, he hovered about the luckless bipeds like a bird of prey. He bought the latest treatise on hens, and patiently tried in succession all the experiments therein suggested for subduing the wills of obdurate sitters, Mrs. Ebbeson assisting, as in common gratitude she must. This without producing the least effect upon the Brahmas. It was the widow that grew restive, conscious of the absurdity of Mr. Butterkin's sudden and ostentatious regard for fowls. She knew the very moment when his heart turned toward her, but whether hers inclined similarly toward him wasn't for her to say till he asked; yet, coy little woman, she gave him no chance to put the question.

And, such is human perversity, the more she seemed not to care for him, so much the more was Mr. Butterkin resolved that she should care for him. Before July was ended he had fully made up his mind to propose, inwardly assured that his late wife would sanction the proceeding, not if she were returned to flesh, of course—in that case he would not ask it—but as a shade she would not wish to stand between him and her beloved Ruth. Of Mr. Ebbeson's shade he scarcely thought, doubting, perhaps, whether a man on earth destitute of moral substance could at death attain the dignity of a heavenly shadow. But there is a vast difference between proposing to propose and proposing. Mr. Butterkin learned this to his chagrin after repeated abortive attempts at giving his frequent interviews with Mrs. Ebbeson a sentimental turn. At each advance of his she sped away as shyly as a girl, and in the secure retreat by her mother's couch was as unapproachable as if seated aloft in the chair of Cassiopea. In regard to a written declaration of love, Mr. Butterkin would sooner have attempted an essay on protoplasm. August found him still waiting for an opportunity. He, usually so prompt and unhesitating—the first selectman of the town! The better he loved the widow, the more he despised himself, till one soft twilight, when the zephyrs were whispering tender thoughts to the leaves, he rose with desperate resolve, and strode boldly round to the open door of the L. Mrs. Ebbeson sat just within the sitting-room, but he was too crafty to enter.

"If you'll kindly step this way a moment," he said, "I've another experiment to try on those hens."

But having lured her to him, his next words were wide of the mark.

"I came to ask—that is, I wanted to know—in fact, I wanted to have a serious talk with you."

She believed in free will, he in foreordination; but his "serious talk" would not savor of theology, she knew. She nervously essayed to confine it poultry.

"Really Mr. Butterkin, you take too much trouble about those hens. They—"

"Nothing I do for you Ruth, is a trouble."

"They're fairly rheumatic from standing in that barrel of water, and for all that, they're not cured of setting."

"As I was saying, Ruth—"

"Don't say anything more about 'em, Mr. Butterkin, I beg."

"I am not speaking about hens, Ruth." Here Mr. Butterkin wiped his brow with his handkerchief. "I came to talk about you. Don't go. Your mother didn't call. Why won't you marry me, Ruth?"

She gave him a dozen reasons on the spot; but the fallacy of feminine logic being proverbial, Mr. Butterkin was not the man to heed them. At least, this I know; before the snow came the widow Ebbeson had become Mrs. Butterkin, and frosty evenings she and her husband might have been seen carefully sheltering two large broods of chickens, for in the end the Brahmas had their way.—Bazaar.

Daily Chronicle.

SATURDAY, AUGUST 12, 1876.

FOR PRESIDENT,

Rutherford B. Hayes,

OF OHIO.

FOR VICE PRESIDENT,

William A. Wheeler,

OF NEW YORK.

Hayes' Platform in War.

In 1864, when Hayes was in the army, being nominated for Congress he was requested to come home and stump his district. His reply was, "I have other business just now. Any man who would leave the army at this time to electioneer for Congress ought to be scalped!"

Hayes' Platform in Peace.

"Honest money for all, and free schools for all. There should be no inflation which will depreciate the one, nor sectarian interference which will destroy the other."

News and Notes.

Ship N. W. Blethen, of Yarmouth, N. S., 1093 tons register, from Baltimore for London, with corn, was capsized in a hurricane on the morning of July 31. The second mate and three men were picked up by barque C. E. Jayne, after floating on pieces of the wreck for fifty-three hours. The C. E. Jayne also passed, on the 30th of July, an unknown vessel of about 400 tons, bottom up.

Wilkins Micawber is dead. He was a stallion owned by Major Thomas Norton, of New Windsor, N. J., and was valued at $50,000. His owner was offered $35,000 for him a year ago.

The Turks are following up their victories over the Servians. Belgrade is being rapidly prepared to withstand a seige.

Smuggler, the racing stallion, beat Judge Fullerton, Bodine and Lucille Golddust in the free-for-all race at Rochester, N. Y., on the 10th, his best time being 2:15 3-4, the best stallion time on record.

In a two-mile race between four Whitehall boats, in Boston harbor on the 10th, there were but three seconds difference in the time of the winning boat and the last one. The time was—1st boat, 12:17 1-2; 2d boat, 12:18 1-2; 3d boat, 12:19; 4th boat, 12:20 1-2.

A gang of thieves who have been operating in Brockton, Mass., for some months, and have broken into a dozen or more stores and dwellings, have been detected and seven of their number arrested.

A fight between Gen. Terry's forces and the Indians under Sitting Bull is reported, in which many Indians were killed and wounded and Sitting Bull shot through both thighs. The report is credited at the frontier stations.

A score of farmers in the vicinity of Scituate, Coventry, Foster and Scranton, R. I., are the victims of the old lightning-rod trick. A man came along one day and offered to rod the house for a ridiculously small sum. After a great deal of talk the bargain was effected, and the farmer signed his name on a book, just to show the men who were to do the work where he may be found, and no mistake as to the name. The workmen came, and every building on the premises was made to glitter with the copper tips, and then the farmer was brought to his senses by finding out that he had signed his name to an order agreeing to pay 47 1-2 cents a foot for rods, and the standards came at various prices, so that instead of a bill of $25 or so he has one of $200 or $300. The farmers are going to Court about the matter.

Five boats, each manned by two log-drivers, went over Bellows Falls on the Connecticut river on the 10th, and all went over safely, two of the boats not taking in a drop of water and none of them being swamped. The river was very low, making the experiment extra hazardous. The feat was never attempted before.

Two men, who threw rocks into a Chinese laundry at Lowell, hitting one Celestial while at tea, have been each fined $10 and half the costs and put under bonds to keep the peace for six months.

New Hampshire Items.

A house belonging to Augustus Emery of West Milton was burned on the 7th. Insured.

The Governor and Council have made the following appointments: Joseph G. Edgerly of Manchester, Hazen Bedell of Colebook, Trustees of State Normal School; Luther B. Haskins of Lyman, Trustee of Agricultural College; John B. Hazelton, Justice of Police Court of Pembroke; Chas. E. Batchelder, Justice of Police Court of Portsmouth.

The Peterboro' Cavalry, the Cheney Guards and the Peterboro' Light Battery will go into camp at Oak Park, Greenfield, for two days, Aug. 31 and Sept. 1. The Hancock Battery will join them, and the Lyndeboro' Artillery and the Milford Rifles are also expected. The Portsmouth Band will furnish the music.

Enos Holbrook, of Keene, died on the 8th, aged 82 years; Mrs. Joshua D. Colony died on the 9th; and Mr. John Colony on the 10th, aged 81 years.

Mrs. Carlton Pierce, 61 years of age, died in Goffstown on the 9th from the effects of a sunstroke received on the 7th, when the thermometer reached 106 in the shade. She was engaged in berrying.

The statement that the Manchester mills are the only ones in New England that have not shut down any time during the panic is untrue. The mills of Nashua have not been closed a day by reason of the hard times.

Political.

The Knoxville (Tenn.) Chronicle of the 6th, speaking of the Tennessee local elections, says: "Every county in this Congressional District has given a republican majority except Monroe. The aggregate republican majority is several thousand, and in November the prospect is good that we will have our old republican majority of about six thousand."

Hobbs Kerry, the man arrested for the Otterville train robbery, was last year a democratic candidate for Marshal of the city of Granby, Missouri, and came very near being elected.

If Tilden is simply an oily politician talking reform because it is popular, it is a just argument against him. If he is laden with spoils of bankrupt railroads, squeezed dry by processes of quasi-legality, then it is a reason for voting against him. If he assisted or was privy to the ballot-box stuffing of Tweed and the peculations of the Tammany ring, and only joined in the hue and cry as the "Artful Dodger" did after Oliver Twist, to clear himself of suspicion, then it follows that all this boasting about reform is idle words. We think Governor Tilden's record ought to be carefully and fairly reviewed. Our own judgment of the man has never been favorable and what we are saying now is entirely consistent with what we said of him long before he was prominent outside of his own State. His letter of acceptance and his behavior since he was nominated have not been such as to convince us that there was anything frank or straightforward in his composition, or that he could emancipate himself from the old pernicious doctrine "to the victors belong the spoils," at present a gigantic stumbling block in the way of a reform of the civil service.—Worcester Gazette.

The Boston Post, which previous to the late change in its ownership was about as honest as a paper could be and at the same time be democratic, is now one of the most narrowly-partisan sheets that we get hold of. It doesn't quite come up to the New York Sun yet, but it soon will if it keeps on as it has been going lately.

Don't Poison Your System

With such hurtful drugs as quinine, calomel, or blue pills, but take instead that safe, prompt and agreeable substitute, Hostetters's Stomach Bitters, which, whether it is used to remedy or prevent malarial fevers, overcome general debility, or to correct torpidity of the liver and bowels, will in every case be found fully adequate to the wants of the sick and feeble. It entirely removes dyspetic symptoms, and by stimulating the flow of gastric juice, facilitates digestion and insures the conversion of food into blood, whereby the system is efficiently nourished and regains its lost vigor. This great vegetable restorative has received the endorsement of men of science, the press has repeatedly borne voluntary testimony to its excellence, and the public has long since given it the preference to every medicine of its kind.

American Belles.

America is justly proud of her beautiful ladies, but how many war their beauty, and lose their health and youth, become prematurely old in appearance, by neglecting to take proper care of their teeth. There can be no excuse for this, as SOZODONT, pronounced by all worthy a place between the sweetest lips, can now be had in all civilized countries.

NOT SO VERY OLD.

Some people become prematurely old and feeble at sixty-five or seventy years of age, while others carry off their eighty years quite unconcernedly. Kittery has at least one of the latter class, in the person of Miss Sarah Carter, whose eightieth birth-day was celebrated some weeks since by a party of her friends, who called upon her at her residence, some two miles or more from Kittery Foreside village, and spent the afternoon and evening. On Wednesday, the 9th, "Aunt Sarah" walked in to the village to attend a picnic, which she enjoyed as well as the younger ones, stopped through the evening to attend divine service, and then walked home. For many years she has been accustomed to walk to the village twice a week (on Sundays and Wednesdays) to attend church, and walk home after the evening service unattended and unterrified. Her life has been one of respectable poverty, made easy to bear by a cheerful disposition and confident reliance on a higher power, and habits of constant industry. We are assured that within a year the venerable lady has actually gone out washing a number of times!

"Honor and shame from no condition rise;
Act well your part, there all the honor lies."

THE CITY OFFICERS.

Having neither friends we wished rewarded nor enemies we wished punished in the appointments to office, we remained in contented ignorance as to who had been selected to be supported by the republicans in the City Councils until the voting commenced on Thursday evening,—except that we saw in the Times of that afternoon a partial list, which proved to be correct as far as it went. The names of the officials chosen we have published, and the list is made up almost wholly of "new men." Chief Engineer Marston is put back in his old position—a merited recognition of an energetic, efficient and heartily abused official—and he has associated with him four thoroughly competent Assistants; "Capt. Bob" Shillaber is again appointed Pound Keeper and member of the Board of Health, which latter position he is especially qualified for, having a supreme contempt for such trifling maladies as cholera, yellow fever and small-pox; and with these exceptions we believe there has been a "new deal" all around.

Of many of the new officials we know but little personally, but have no doubt they will fill their places satisfactorily to the public—more satisfactorily to the public than some of the late incumbents have to their party, judging from the votes of the democrats in the convention, where George E. Hodgdon, Esq., received but two votes for re-election as City Solicitor, Mr. Joseph R. Holmes but two for Street Commissioner, and Mr. Simon Mills but one for Superintendent of the City Farm. That Mr. Holmes did not receive the solid support of his party is due to the fact that he would run his own business instead of letting the ward politicians do it,—for little fault could justly be found with his ability as Street Commissioner. Mr. William Shannon will have little difficulty in filling the position of Superintendent of the City Farm as satisfactorily as it has been filled for the past two years. Mr. William C. Ham will make as attentive and efficient a City Messenger as the late one, Mr. William C. Hazel, and be as deservedly popular as he has been with those with whom he was brought in contact. The City Solicitor is a lawyer of long practise, and the City Physician is fully qualified for the duties of his office. The Police Officers and Supernumerary Watchmen are all, so far as we are acquainted, steady and reliable men; of Assistant Marshal Woods we have no personal knowledge, but City Marshal Dame is an old and well-known citizen, though not too old to make a first-class officer.

As a whole, we consider the appointments judicious and such as will give general satisfaction, and we believe the embarrassment and inefficiency in the various departments of the city government, consequent on the change, will be but trifling compared to what occurred two years ago.

JOTTINGS.

One appointment made by the City Councils on Thursday evening stirs us to the wildest enthusiasm — the appointment of George E. Hodgdon, Esq., as Fence Viewer. This is an appointment eminently fit to be made, for Mr. Hodgdon has seen both sides of the fence. During the war he was on the right side of it; but as soon as the was was finished he flopped over it, and has been on the wrong side ever since. We have never heard of his breaking the fence down by roosting on it, however. Immense cheering for the Fence Viewer!

The Band of Hope will meet at Franklin (upper) Hall at 3 o'clock this afternoon. Entrance on Fleet street.

Mr. Moses Harriman, of Biddeford, Me., has been reappointed superintendent of steam fire engines at the United States navy yard, Kittery, Me., vice E. C. Nealley, removed. Race in heats,—best three in five; now stands,—Nealley two, Harriman two. Make your bets, gentlemen.

An item concerning a military camp at Greenfield, on the last of this month, says "the Portsmouth Band will furnish the music." The only band Portsmouth can boast of now, so far as we know, is the Kearsarge Fife and Drum Band, which cannot easily be beaten in its line.

Charles E. Batchelder, Esq., has been appointed Justice of the Police Court of this city. We don't see how any fault can justly be found with that appointment.

Col. Hackett will sell at noon to-day, Saturday, August 12, 1876, at his office, the bank stock we tried to make him sell a week ago to-day, which he wouldn't do. For particulars see advertisement in Auction column.

The semi-centennial of the Middle Street Baptist Church in this city will be observed by an historical discourse by the pastor, Rev. W. H. Alden, D. D., Sabbath morning.

A devil fish, about ten feet long, was sporting near the steamer landing Friday morning at nine o'clock. Capt. Albert Rand, of the steamer Clara Bateman, harpooned him, but he escaped.

Rev. Dr. Foote, (Unitarian,) of King's Chapel, Boston, will preach in the old Congregational Church at Kittery Point on Sunday forenoon, the 13th. In the afternoon Rev. Dr. Haskins, (Episcopal,) of Boston, is expected to deliver an address. All are cordially invited to attend.

Rev. Dr. Peabody will preach at the South Parish on Sunday.

—A Portland subscriber writes to ask what are "celladores, now so much sought for in England—the mania for them having supplanted that for ceramics." Celladores are, as we tried to explain before, a species of antique bric-a-brac found in the vicinity of old houses, hardly ever more than two in the vicinity of a single residence. Like cats and clover they generally follow human settlement, and two are always found shut together, their edges closing like shells. Celladores frequently have an oblique dip to the south, and the surface is striated, the sulcus resembling glacial marks, but being generally caused by the friction generated by small boys in the act of sliding down. Curious and obscure hieroglyphics are sometimes found on them. There is no reason why celladores should not be collected and worshipped as much as blue china, broken glass and superannuated pottery.—Graphic.

—A Paris newspaper has a little ghost story. A French student occupied a room in which a companion had died. It had the reputation of being a haunted chamber, but he slept in it undisturbed. Two fellow-students determined to frighten him by paying him a visit at midnight robed in sheets. Very solemnly they paced around his bed and awaited his shriek of horror. Suddenly a white figure emerged from the closet and joined the spectral procession, and the two intruders supposing that it was a real ghost took to their heels down the staircase. The news in this paragraph is this: The complete Joe Miller has recently been translated into French.

COOKED
CORNED BEEF.

Articles are being published calculated to prejudice the public against using Cooked Corned Beef, and we would say in answer to them that in no instance has positive proof been established to show that such is the case.

Our goods are packed in a manner very similar to that of Corn, Tomatoes, Fruit and canned goods generally, (which have long been tested) and we use nothing whatever of a poisonous nature in their preparation.

In addition to our own statement we have the strong endorsement of Prof. Hosford of Cambridge, one of the most eminent Chemists in the country, who has fully tested and is familiar with the entire details of the preparation of our goods.

We would also state that we use none but the choicest of Beef that our Chicago market affords, and trust that with these statements the rapidly growing popularity of our Corned Beef may be increased.

For the information of those not knowing the fact we would state that in the process of canning there is a liability of imperfect sealing, which causes the can to expand. Meat contained in such cans is unfit for use and will be cheerfully paid for when returned to any grocer selling it.

LITTLE GIANT PILL.

Centaur
iniments.

White for the Human Family.
Yellow, for Horses and Animals.

These Liniments are simply the wonder of the world. Their effects are little less than marvellous, yet there are some things which they will not do. They will not cure cancer or mend broken bones, but they will always allay pain. They have straightened fingers, cured chronic rheumatism of many years standing, and taken the pain from terrible burns and scalds, which has never been done by any other article.

THE WHITE LINIMENT is for the human family. It will drive Rheumatism, Sciatica and Neuralgia from the system; cure Lumbago, Chillblains, Palsy, Itch, and most Cutaneous Eruptions; it extracts frost from frozen hands and feet, and the poison of bites and stings of venomous reptiles; it subdues swellings, and alleviates pain of every kind.

For sprains or bruises it is the most potent remedy ever discovered. The Centaur Liniment is used with great efficacy for Sore Throat, Toothache, Caked Breasts, Earache, and Weak Back. The following is but a sample of numerous testimonials:

"INDIANA HOME, JEFF. CO., INDA., May 25, 1873.

"I think it my duty to inform you that I have suffered much with swollen feet and chords. I have not been free from these swellings in eight years. Now I am perfectly well, thanks to the Centaur Liniment. The Liniment ought to be applied warm.

BENJAMIN BROWN."

The proof is in the trial. It is reliable, it is handy it is cheap, and every family should have it.

To the sick and bed-ridden, the halt and lame, to the wounded and sore, we say, "Come and be healed."

To the poor and distressed, who have spent their money for worthless medicines, a bottle of CENTAUR LINIMENT will be given without charge.

THE YELLOW CENTAUR LINIMENT is adapted to the tough muscles, cords and flesh of horses and animals. It has performed more wonderful cures of Spavin, Strain, Windgalls, Scratches, Sweeny, and general Lameness, than all other remedies in existence. Read what the great Expressmen say of it:

"NEW YORK, January, 1874.

"Every owner of horses should give the CENTAUR LINIMENT a trial. We consider it the best article ever used in our stables.

"H. MARSH, Agt. Adams Ex. Stables, N. Y.
"K. PULTZ, Supt. U. S. Ex. Stables, N. Y.
"ALBERT S. OLIN, Supt. National Ex. Stables, N. Y."

"MONTGOMERY, ALA., Aug. 17, 1874.

"GENTLEMEN,—I have used over one gross of CENTAUR LINIMENT, yellow wrapper, on the mules of my plantation, besides dozens of the family Liniment for my negroes. I want to purchase it at the wholesale price, and will thank you to ship me by Savannah steamer one gross of each kind. Messrs. A. T. Stewart & Co. will pay your bill on presentation.

"Respectfully, JAMES DAXROW."

The best patrons of this Liniment are Farriers and Veterinary Surgeons. It heals Galls, Wounds and Poll-evil, removes Swellings, and is worth millions of dollars to Farmers, Livery-men, Stock-growers, Sheep-raisers, and those having horses or cattle.

What a Farrier cannot do for $20 the Centaur Liniment will do at a trifling cost.

These Liniments are warranted by the proprietors, and a bottle will be given to any Farrier or Physician who desires to test them. Sold everywhere.

Castoria.

Is a pleasant and perfect substitute, in all cases, for CASTOR OIL. Castoria is the result of an old Physician's effort to produce, for his own practice, an effective cathartic, pleasant to the taste and free from griping.

Dr. Samuel Pitcher, of Hyannis, Mass., succeeded in combining, without the use of alcohol, a purgative agent as pleasant to take as honey, and which possesses all the desirable properties of Castor Oil.

It is adapted to all ages, but is especially recommended to mothers as a reliable remedy for all disorders of the stomach and bowels of children. It is certain, agreeable, absolutely harmless, and cheap. It should be used for wind colic, pour stomach worms, costiveness, croup, &c., then children can have sleep and mothers may rest.

J. B. ROSE & CO., of 46 Dey Street, New York, are be sole proprietors of Castoria, after Dr. Pitcher's recipe.

PILOT BREAD.

This kind of bread having come into extensive family use, it has been my purpose to furnish, from choice materials, an article which should meet the approval of the most fastidious as to neatness, looks and taste. Whether I have succeeded in giving to the public a PILOT BREAD,

SUPERIOR IN EXCELLENCE,

the consumer may be the judge; that the quality will not be suffered to depreciate, the past with the present is my best pledge. That I can compete with all the various qualities of Pilot Bread in the market, as to price, I make no pretensions,—but in price, all things being equal, I fear no competition.

The Halladay Wind-Mill
It is the first reliable self-regulating Wind Mill ever made, and continues to lead the van.
It has stood the test of nearly a quarter of a century, and has gained a reputation as broad as its use is extensive.

It is the cheapest wind mill.
The United States Wind Engine and Pump Co. have the largest wind mill manufactory in the world. We are willing to put our mill upon its merits. We ask an investigation of facts and motives. APPLEDORE HOUSE,

ISLES OF SHOALS.

On a rock that's nearly bare,
Having smaller rocks around,
Where the vessels, passing near,
Often find themselves aground,
Is a very large hotel—
Several houses strung together—
With piazzas, front and rear,
(Occupied in sultry weather.)
'Tis a charming little spot,
Where you get the ocean breeze
Unobstructed in its course,
For the island has no trees
Save a single one in front,
Near the broad piazza standing,
Planted there to welcome in
Weary pilgrims, on their landing;
For the steamer, twice a day,
Filled with passengers, arrives;
Gentlemen from dusty trains,
With their children and their wives,
Just escaping from the cities
And their hustle, heat and glare,
To enjoy the island climate,
And inhale its bracing air.
Looking out upon the waters,
Out towards the setting sun,
Rests are seen upon its surface,
Which you number, one by one,
'Till you count up over twenty,
Some with sails, and some with oars,
Used in visiting the islands
And examining their shores.
In the distance are the vessels,
With their canvas, white as snow,
Set to catch the fickle breezes
As they waft them to and fro;
Shunning, carefully, the islets,
Now so lovely and so fair,
That, in dark and stormy weather,
All too often prove a snare.
Far beyond, the clouds descending
Till their edge the waters meet,
With the twilight deeply crimsoned,
To their ocean bed retreat.
'Tis a picture that for beauty
Cannot often be surpassed,
And we sigh while gazing on it,
That it will not longer last.
Near the summit of the island
A pavilion is erected,
Where firations, it is rumored,
Are occasionally detected;
But, however this may be,
Almost every body goes,
Though the briers on the way
Often tear the ladies' clothes.
As the Summer wears away—
Weather daily getting hotter—
And the fierce, relentless sun
Puts his victims to the slaughter,
Pilgrims rush in greater numbers
To this Mecca of the East—
This Hotel of Royal Oscar!—
In his banquet hall to feast;
To devour his cod-fish chowder,
And imbibe his costly wine,
When, to strains of sweetest music,
They are ushered in to dine.
Oscar gives them all a welcome,
And for each a bed provides,
For his sleeping rooms are endless—
And he's other rooms besides,
Where he closely packs together
Such as come a little late;
Often half a score in number,
In a chamber twelve by eight.
'Midst the multitude of plans
Which King Oscar has invented
To amuse his numerous guests
And to keep them all contented,
Is the building of a hall,
That the crowd may be attracted
To the dance or to the stage
Where theatricals are acted;
And amusements now are seen
Every evening in this hall,
From a simple child's charade,
To a concert or a ball.
We'd a trial, t'other night,
Of the captain of our boat,
Who had killed his engineer.—
While his vessel was afloat,
In a very barbarous way,
If the witness could be trusted—
For he struck him with his poisé,†
When, immediately, he bailed!‡
The indictment seemed to say,
In its catalogue of crimes,
That the murder was repeated
'Till he'd killed him several times;
And the statements, pro and con,
Set the Court in such a fury
That the Judge hardly knew
How they ought to charge the jury;
But, at length, a verdict came—
"Prosecution" was out-witted—
And the prisoner at the bar
Was triumphantly acquitted.
With the guests at this Hotel
To whom Oscar gives attention,
There are some distinguished names,
That deserve a passing mention.
There is Whittier, the Quaker,
With his mild, expressive eye,
Doubtless "blocking out" a poem
Which he'll give us, by and bye;
There's the famous Doctor Bowditch,
Who will look you through and through,
Tell exactly what's the matter,
And direct you what to do;
Judge McArthur and his lady,
Who the hearts of all have won,
By their unaffected manners
And their genuine love of fun;
Portly Woodbury is here,
Having also left his Court
To recruit and be on hand
To give Tilden his support;
There are Clark and other judges,
Whom I happen not to know;
Lawyers, ministers and doctors,
Altogether quite a show;
There is Mrs. Celia Thaxter
Who has let the public know
All about these rocky islands,
From two hundred years ago;
She's a very charming writer,
Be the subject what it may,—
In a romance, in a poem,
Or describing an affray,
Such as that which once occurred,
(As the reading world now knows)
On that memorable spot
Called the isle of "Smutty-Nose."¶
She and Cedric and King Oscar
Are the children of the man
Who first started on this island,
And the work he first began,
In their hands is so well managed
That there's little cause to fear
But they will, if life is spared them,
Make a fortune every year.
Further facts about this island
And its people I might write,
But my brain has grown too weary
Other verses to indite.
I have aimed to tell the truth,
For the truth is what is needed,
And though done in simple rhymes,
I believe I have succeeded.

MAGIC

CONDITION PILLS!

The Wonderful Remedy for Liver Complaint, Billiousness, Dyspepsia, Constipation, Neuralgia, Rheumatism, Headache, Kidney Complaints, Nervousness, Scrofula, Piles, and all diseases arising from a bad state of the Blood!

Is the ultima thule of Medical Discovery.

No medicine ever offered to the public has given such universal satisfaction as Dr. Quain's Magic Condition Pills. Their praises are on every tongue where their merits are known. They strike at once at the seat of disease and show their healing power almost immediately. Thousands of voluntary testimonials of their merits have been received by the agent, from those who have been cured by them, of which the following are samples:

Dyspepsia Four Years, Constipation and Inflammation of the Bowels Three Years, Confined to my Room Two Years, Pain so I Could Not Sleep Without Morphine. One Package of Dr. Quain's Condition Pills Made Me Eat Well, Sleep Well and Free from Pain, after being given up by Physicians.

WEST LEBANON, ME., Feb. 22, 1

MR. THOMAS W. LANE:—I have been sick for four years with Dyspepsia, and for the past three years Constipation and Inflammation of the Bowels. I have suffered all the pain I could endure and live. I have been confined to my room for two years, and could not sleep nights without the use of morphine. I have been given up by physicians as past cure. I have taken one package of DR. QUAIN'S CONDITION PILLS, and they have done me more good than all the doctors I have had. I sleep well, I eat well and have no pain. They are all they are recommended to be. Please send me three packages, as two of my neighbors wish to try them. I enclose $1.50.
Your truly, JOHN W. LORD.

Another Letter from Maj. John W. Lord, one month later. Wonderful Cures by Dr. Quain's Pills Effected on Him in Thirteen Days. First time Free from Pain for Three Years.

WEST LEBANON, ME., March 22, 1875

MR. THOMAS W. LANE:—I commenced taking DR. QUAIN'S CONDITION PILLS February 9th, and wrote you February 22d of their wonderful effect. I have continued to improve ever since. My appetite is good, and I sleep as well as I ever did in my life. I am free from pain for the first time in three years. When I was taken sick four years ago, I weighed one hundred and eighty-six pounds; I now weigh one hundred and fifty, but, as I am gaining in strength, I have faith I shall regain my flesh this summer, by the use of the Pills. I shall continue taking them for some time to come.
Yours truly, JOHN W. LORD.

Dr. Quain's Pills the Remedy for Soldiers' Aches and Pains.

WEST LEBANON, ME., June 1, 1875.

MR. THOMAS W. LANE—Dear Sir:—I am now able to walk out every day, and am gaining in strength very fast, all of which is due to you as agent for the best Pills in the world. I have taken no other medicine, and my improvement has been steady since first taking DR. QUAIN'S CONDITION PILLS. They have done everything for me, and I will say to you, advertise them direct to the soldiers, for they will certainly cure them of aches and pains caused from exposure and laborious duty in the field. Please send me by return mail another package.
JOHN W. LORD.

Rheumatism for Twenty Years Cured by One Package of Dr. Quain's Condition Pills—"The Best Medicine in the World."

EAST ANDOVER, N. H., Dec. 10, 1875.

MR. LANE—Dear Sir:—As I know the value of DR. QUAIN'S CONDITION PILLS and the good they have done me, I take pleasure in giving them praise; so I send you another testimonial. My father has been troubled with Rheumatism for twenty years or more, and has tried everything that could be thought of, but to no good. At times it would be so bad that he could not lift his hands to his head or do any work at all, especially in cold weather. A short time ago I advised him to get some of these Pills. He believed nothing in them, but I gave him the last package I had of you, as I did not need them, and he has not been an free from the Rheumatic Complaint for years. No Rheumatism, no pain. What helped him? It was DR. QUAIN'S CONDITION PILLS, the best medicine in the world. There is nothing like them. I know it, for I have tried them, and they are all, yes, more than they are recommended to be. Give them a fair trial and you will say so. I write this because I know the goodness of them and wish others to know the same. Some may think I am telling a big story. I am. But remember I am not giving them half the praise they ought to have.
Yours with respect, ED. F. PEVARE.

DAINGERFIELD, MORRIS CO., TEXAS, Nov. 15, '75.

MR. THOMAS W. LANE—Dear Sir:—I have been afflicted for near twelve years with Neuralgia in the face and head. I tried I do not know how many physicians, and could only get partly relieved. I also tried many patent medicines with the same result. I have been confined to my room most all the time for eight or ten winters, and have been traveling and visiting medical springs, and I still suffered most intensely. The physicians pronounced my case the worst and most stubborn that they had had anything to do with. One told me I could never get well; they all advised me to go South and spend the winter, as that would be the only chance for me, and I was trying to get ready to go to Florida, when through the kindness of Rev. H. M. Mathis, my attention was called to the advertisement of Dr. Quain's Magic Condition Pills. I immediately sent to you for a package. I have taken four doses and I am almost free from pain. The impression here seems to be that if your pills will cure me, they will cure anything. I have a neighbor seven or eight for the pills. Enclosed please find three dollars; send five packages to me and one to Mrs. Laura Sherrell, Sulphur Springs, Hopkins county, Texas.
Yours truly, J. S. PATTON.

Liver Complaint, Nervousness, Dropsy, and Headache.

LACONIA, N. H., Jan. 29, 1875.

THOS. W. LANE—Sir:—I have been troubled with Bad Blood, Liver Complaint, Nervousness, Dropsy and Headache. I have taken one package of DR. QUAIN'S CONDITION PILLS. They have done me more good than all the medicine I ever took; I have taken considerable medicine within the last five years. For the benefit I think, they will do as good as those pills. I can recommend them to all who are similarly afflicted, they have done me so much good. I think they will recommend themselves wherever they go. I shall recommend those Pills to all who need them. Please send me two packages more, one for myself and one for a lady friend of mine. Many thanks to the inventor, agent and advertiser of those Pills.
MRS. P. L. ELLIOTT.

PULMOCINE.

MAGIC

BUCHMAN'S PULMOCINE CORDIAL

is no new discovery. Twenty-three years ago it was used by one of New England's most famous physicians as the best Pulmonary Curative he could prescribe, after a dozen years spent in experimenting with it before he was satisfied that the Materia Medica could add nothing in its favor.

Among its many ingredients are Wild Cherry Bark, Squill Root, Liquorice Root, Blood root, &c. It is a Blood Purifier, gently stimulating. It increases expectoration and is diuretic. It is sudorific and alterative. It is a necessary family medicine. It is a Tonic and a powerful aid to the digestive organs. It is a gentle sedative, and relieves nervousness. It is aromatic and agreeable to the taste.

CLEAR YOUR THROAT!

Relieve Your Lungs.

For the terrible diseases engendered by the lung-trying climate of New England,

PULMOCINE CORDIAL

Is a speedy and reliable Preventive and Remedy. Every Family should have a bottle at hand to check the sudden growth of all Pulmonary Diseases. For the Asthma, Coughs, Croups, Laryngitis, or inflammation of the larynx, Diphtheria, and all kindred Throat Diseases at all times prevalent, it is the ounce of Prevention. Children attacked with Whooping Cough or Croup should be immediately cared for. These painful attacks come with scarcely a moment's warning, when a physician may be out of immediate reach. A dose of PULMOCINE CORDIAL gives speedy relief, and the little ones are spared hours of pain and agony. As "a stitch in time saves nine," so does the possession of this Family Medicine prevent the spread of disease. Parents seeing their children gasping with pain, friends and relatives beholding each other in peril from suffocation by the choking pain in the throat, paralyzed with fear and not knowing the best course to pursue, are liable to apply the wrong remedial agent. There is no safety in delay, no time to waste in such cases. CONSUMPTION, that fearful scourge of the human race, lies at the door of all this afflicted. BUCHMAN'S PULMOCINE CORDIAL arrests it (unless in its advanced stage at which time there is no local cure) relieves the pressing, suffocating feeling at the lungs, and the patient's danger is past.

For Coughs,

Croup,

Diphtheria,

Asthma, etc.,

—USE—

Buchman's Pulmocine Cordial.

The Pulmocine Cordial is not a quack medicine, is not an experiment, is not composed of any ingredients "discovered" by "walking in pastures" in South America or anywhere else, nor by one who discovered a weed and thereby cured himself. Most of the ingredients are such as our best educated physicians daily use for the complaints specified in some form or other. The recipe is that perfected by one of New England's most learned and famous physicians, who used it entirely in his daily practice until his death. It is offered to the profession and to the public, absolutely pure and unadulterated.

And no person shall construct, keep or continue any drain leading from any pen for the keeping of any swine, slaughter-house, privy vault, or other unwholesome or offensive place, into either of said ponds, or to any flat or marsh adjoining the same. And no person shall throw or suffer to be thrown from his land into either of said ponds, or upon any of said flats or marshes, any dead, decaying, unwholesome or offensive animal or vegetable substances.

BUTTER IN 20 MINUTES.

Lincoln Butter Powder is an entirely harmless article made from a celebrated English recipe, and now in daily use by many of the most noted farmers in the butter counties around Philadelphia.

In hot weather this Powder makes butter much firmer and sweeter than it usually is, and keeps it from turning rancid. It also gives the strong flavor of turnips, weeds, corn stalks, cotton seed, etc.; and the increased yield of butter much more than pays the trifling expense of using it.

THE BALD-HEADED TYRANT.

Oh! the quietest home on earth had I,
No thought of trouble, no hint of care;
Like a dream of pleasure the days fled by,
And Peace had folded her pinions there.
But one day there joined in our household band
A bald-headed tyrant from No-man's-land.

Oh, the despot came in the dead of night,
And no one ventured to ask him why;
Like slaves we trembled before his might,
Our hearts stood still when we heard him cry;
For never a soul could his power withstand,
That bald-headed tyrant from No-man's-land.

He ordered us here and he sent us there—
Though never a word could his small lips speak;
With his toothless gums and his vacant stare,
And his helpless limbs so frail and weak,
Till I cried, in a voice of stern command,
"Go up, thou bald-head from No-man's-land."

But his abject slaves they turned on me;
Like the bears in Scripture, they'd rend me there
The while they worshipped with bended knee
This ruthless wretch with the missing hair;
For he rules them all with relentless hand,
This bald-headed tyrant from No-man's-land.

Then I searched for help in every clime,
For peace had fled from my dwelling now,
Till I finally thought of old Father Time,
And low before him I made my bow.
"Will thou deliver me out of his hand,
This bald headed tyrant from No-man's-land?"

Old Time he looked with a puzzled stare,
And a smile came over his features grim.
"I'll take the tyrant under my care,
Watch what my hour-glass does to him.
The veriest humbug that ever was planned
Is this same bald-head from No-man's-land."

Old Time is doing his work full well—
Much less of might does the tyrant wield;
But, ah! with sorrow my heart will swell
And sad tears fall as I see him yield.
Could I say the touch of that shriveled hand,
I would keep the bald-head from No-man's-land.

For the loss of Peace I have ceased to care;
Like other people, I've learned, forsooth,
To love the wretch who forgot his hair
And hurried along without a tooth,
And he rules me too with his tiny hand,
This bald-headed tyrant from No-man's-land.

Centaur

Liniments.

White for the Human Family.

Yellow, for Horses and Animals.

These Liniments are simply the wonder of the world. Their effects are little less than marvellous, yet there are some things which they will not do. They will not cure cancer or mend broken bones; but they will always lay pain. They have straightened fingers, cured chronic rheumatism of many years standing, and taken the pain from terrible burns and scalds, which has never been done by any other article.

THE WHITE LINIMENT is for the human family. It will drive Rheumatism, Sciatica and Neuralgia from the system; cure Lumbago, Chilblains, Palsy, Itch, and most Cutaneous Eruptions; it extracts frost from frozen hands and feet, and the poison of bites and stings of venomous reptiles; it subdues swellings, and alleviates pain of every kind.

For sprains or bruises it is the most potent remedy ever discovered. The Centaur Liniment is used with great efficacy for Sore Throat, Toothache, Caked Breasts, Earache, and Weak Back. The following is but a sample of numerous testimonials:

"INDIANA HOME, JEFF. CO., IND., May 28, 1873.

"I think it my duty to inform you that I have suffered much with swollen feet and chords. I have not been free from these swellings in eight years. Now I am perfectly well, thanks to the Centaur Liniment. The Liniment ought to be applied warm.

BENJAMIN BROWN."

The proof is in the trial. It is reliable, it is handy it is cheap, and every family should have it.

To the sick and bed-ridden, the halt and lame, to the wounded and sore, we say, "Come and be healed."

To the poor and distressed who have spent their money for worthless medicines, a bottle of CENTAUR LINIMENT will be given without charge.

THE YELLOW CENTAUR LINIMENT is adapted to the tough muscles, cords and flesh of horses and animals. It has performed more wonderful cures of Spavin, Strain, Wind-galls, Scratches, Sweeny, and general Lameness, than all other remedies in existence. Read what the great Expressmen say of it:

"NEW YORK, January, 1874.

"Every owner of horses should give the CENTAUR LINIMENT a trial. We consider it the best article ever used in our stables.

"H. MADISH, Supt. Adams Ex. Stables, N. Y.
"E. PULTZ, Supt. U. S. Ex. Stables, N. Y.
"ALBERT S. OLIN, Supt. Nat. Ex. Stables, N. Y."

"MONTGOMERY, ALA., Aug. 17, 1874.

"GENTLEMEN,—I have used over one gross of CENTAUR LINIMENT, yellow wrapper, on the mules of my plantation, besides dozens of the white Liniment for my negroes. I want to purchase it at the wholesale price, and will thank you to ship me by Savannah steamer one gross of each kind. Messrs. A. T. Stewart & Co. will pay your bill on presentation.

"Respectfully, JAMES DARROW."

The best patrons of this Liniment are Farriers and Veterinary Surgeons. It heals Galls, Wounds and Poll-evil, removes Swellings, and is worth millions of dollars to Farmers, Livery-men, Stock-growers, Sheep-raisers, and those having horses or cattle.

What a Farrier cannot do for $20 the Centaur Liniment will do at a trifling cost.

These Liniments are warranted by the proprietors, and a bottle will be given to any Farrier or Physician who desires to test them. Sold everywhere.

Castoria.

Is a pleasant and perfect substitute, in all cases, for CASTOR OIL. Castoria is the result of an old Physician's effort to produce, for his own practice, an effective cathartic, pleasant to the taste and free from griping.

Dr. Samuel Pitcher, of Hyannis, Mass., succeeded in combining, without the use of alcohol, a purgative agent as pleasant to take as honey, and which possesses all the desirable properties of Castor Oil.

It is adapted to all ages, but is especially recommended to mothers as a reliable remedy for all disorders of the stomach and bowels of children. It is certain, agreeable, absolutely harmless, and cheap. It should be used for wind colic, sour stomach worms, costiveness, croup, &c., then children can have sleep and mothers may rest.

J. B. ROSE & CO., of 45 Dey Street, New York, are the sole proprietors of Castoria, after Dr. Pitcher's recipe.

FOR PRESIDENT,

Rutherford B. Hayes,

OF OHIO.

FOR VICE PRESIDENT,

William A. Wheeler,

OF NEW YORK.

Hayes' Platform in War.

In 1864, when Hayes was in the army, being nominated for Congress he was requested to come home and stump his district. His reply was, "I have other business just now. Any man who would leave the army at this time to electioneer for Congress ought to be scalped!"

Hayes' Platform in Peace.

"Honest money for all, and free schools for all. There should be no inflation which will depreciate the one, nor sectarian interference which will destroy the other."

They Don't Agree.

The Hartford, Conn., Times, one of that class of zealous democratic organs that utterly ignores truth whenever it seems necessary "for the good of the party," in commenting on the Hamburg massacre (in an article copied by the Portsmouth Times) says: "On the Fourth of July a colored volunteer company (not a lawful company of militia) assembled and blocked the roadway. A republican colored justice ordered them to disperse and give up their arms. The colored troops declined, and went into defensive quarters. The trial justice issued an order of arrest for contempt, and something of a struggle ensued, the colored volunteers finally surrendering. It is claimed that five of them were killed after the surrender, but this claim is disputed." Who disputes the "claim," other than such papers as the Hartford Times and the New Haven Register, is not stated; but certainly not the democratic papers of the South, for the South Carolina and Georgia papers all agree that not five but nearly double that number of negroes were killed after the surrender, and not a few of those same papers openly or covertly boast that the Hamburg massacre is but an indication that the "white men"—that is, the democrats—mean to carry South Carolina for "Tilden and reform" at all hazards, on the Mississippi plan. The extracts we have already published from southern papers fully bear us out in this assertion. Similarly, the Hartford paper's statement that the colored company was "not a lawful company of militia" is a square-toed lie, as the company was a regularly organized company of South Carolina militia, and has not been alluded to as being anything else either by any southern paper or by the Governor of South Carolina. As an offset to the willful falsification or suppression of facts in this matter by the democratic papers of the East, and the cringing subserviency to their southern rulers displayed in their apologies for the assassins, we give the following from one of the earnest western supporters of "Tilden and reform," the democratic Chicago Times:

"And what is to be expected from a strict observance of State lines, as defined by Grant? A few words will suffice to present the case as it is. Here is one Gen. Butler, who raised an army of eighty-three men, or more, and proceeded to butcher a number of black men in cold blood. Some thirty of the members of this army were from the State of Georgia, and a Georgia Confederate in Congress lied when he said they were not from Georgia. He obtained his artillery in Georgia also. Now this Butcher Butler calls Gov. Chamberlain a liar, and asks for an investigation. Gov. Chamberlain's answer should be very decisive. It should consist, first, of a requisition upon the Governor of Georgia for the surrender of "General" Butler's Modocs from that State. It should consist, secondly, of the supply of a sufficient force, if it can be obtained in the State, for the arrest of "General" Butler and all South Carolina Sioux who obeyed his orders on that bloody day and night at Hamburg. If the valiant Butcher Butler raises another army to resist the officers of South Carolina—an army that Gov. Chamberlain can not handle—that official should at once apply to the President for aid, and it would be the duty of the President to respond forthwith. That is what should come of the State line. It means in such a case as this, war,—first, between the State and a band of assassins, and, second, war, if necessary, between the United States and the same band of assassins. If it shall be a war of extermination in which Butcher Butler and all his Confederate assassins shall be sent to their final account, it will be well for the country. The assassins must be dealt with according to their deserts, and the State line as correctly defined by Grant will not stand as a barrier in the path of justice."

Had to Swallow It.

Scott Lord, democratic member of Congress from New York, and one of the Belknap impeachment managers, threw the democratic ranks into confusion in the House one day last week by introducing a resolution which he said had been approved by a number of southern democrats. The preamble virtually assumed that colored voters of the South had been intimidated and crimes demanding punishment of death committed. It was followed by resolutions vigorously condemning these outrages. The democrats rose in arms in a moment, and though Lord is one of their most prominent members, he was refused a chance for an explanation, and they began at once to filibuster to prevent a vote. After an hour spent in that way, as Mr. Lord had demanded the previous question there was no way of avoiding the vote in the end, and so with immense disgust and reluctance they rallied to swallow the dose. There was great indignation over Lord's course, which southern democrats charged was simply a trial to make political capital at the North at their expense. Mr. Lord could not get the democrats to vote until he went around on the floor and showed them a letter from Tilden or his New York managers, urging that the resolution must be passed "for the good of the party" in the North. It was a cheap attempt of the great "reformer" to make political capital for himself, and it failed utterly of the desired effect because the House "reformers" had not been informed beforehand what the Tammany "reformer" expected them to do.

The Reason Why.

It is worthy of notice that all the "outrages" upon negroes at the South are in the republican States, where the governors, judges, prosecuting attorneys, and the rest of the office-holders are republicans. In the democratic States there is good order. —Hartford Times.

Just so; that's what the republicans all say,—that where the democrats have a majority the republicans neither make nor attempt to make any disturbance, but submit to the expressed will of the majority; but that in States where the republicans are in the majority the democrats foment disturbances and inaugurate a reign of terror—as in Mississippi, Louisiana, and more recently in South Carolina—to make the majority subservient to the will of the minority. No one pretends to imagine that the democrats would murder or flog the colored men if they would all vote the democratic ticket, or abstain entirely from voting.

News and Notes.

George Fruits died at Crawfordsville, Indiana, August 6, aged 114 years. He was born in Baltimore, and his parents removed to Philadelphia shortly after. His life was one of rare experiences. In 1787 he was fighting the Indians in Virginia and Kentucky, and in 1790 enlisted in General Harmor's army, and the following year was detailed to build forts in different parts of Ohio. While in St. Clair's army on detail, a part of the time he acted as a scout or Indian spy. He lived a rough life in Ohio till 1792. He voted for General Washington for President, and in the battle of Maumee was wounded. He married Catherine Stonebreaker, in 1806, and lived in Ohio till 1819, when he removed to Indiana. Mr. Fruits was temperate in his habits, enjoyed good health and eyesight, but was very deaf. Although he had been married over seventy years his wife still survives him. She was 89 years old on the 6th day of last May. They had thirteen children born to them—nine boys and four girls—eleven of whom are still living.

At Rochester, N. Y., on the 10th, Victor Smith shot dead Catharine, wife of Frank Bowman, his neighbor. He then shot himself, probably fatally.

The first race between the yacht Madeline, of the New York Yacht Club fleet, and the Countess of Dufferin, a Canadian yacht, for the possession of the Queen's cup, won by the America in the regatta at Cowes, England, more than twenty years ago, came off in New York bay, Friday. The course sailed over is about twenty miles in extent. In the early part of the race the Madeline (which crossed the starting line eighteen seconds ahead of the Countess of Dufferin) gradually increased the distance between herself and her competitor, rounding the Southwest Spit buoy about two miles ahead of the Countess, and the Sandy Hook lightship five and a half minutes ahead of her. The Madeline crossed the winning line eleven minutes ahead, thus winning the first of the three races which are to be sailed for the possession of the cup. There was great excitement at the close of the race.

A special to the Globe, from Windsor, Me., a small town of about $300,000 valuation, says the town "is found to have been defrauded of $13,443.17 some time within the past fourteen years, during which time the officers have been democratic. At the last annual meeting republican officers were elected and a thorough investigation instituted. Hon. J. A. Patterson of Augusta has examined the accounts and records, and will report the liabilities $13,443.17 greater than reported by the officers of last year." If this story is correct, the stealings of the Tammany ring at the time Tweed was "Boss" and Tilden was chairman of the democratic State Central Committee of New York, are eclipsed; the Windsor "reformers" affiliated a much larger proportion of the town's money than the Tammany "reformers" did of New York's.

A railroad workmen's strike in Indiana has assumed serious proportions, 800 armed men having taken possession of the road. The strike is to secure pay due the men, and not for increase of wages. The railroad company has appealed to Gov. Hendricks for State assistance.

There are strong suspicions that John W. McElroy, of Boston, who was found drowned last week, was murdered by being thrown overboard while intoxicated, after being robbed. It is certain he was robbed, but whether before or after death has not been proved.

The Senate, by a vote of 30 to 15, on Friday adopted an amedment to the postal bill restoring the franking privilege. Senator Cragin voted yes, Senator Hamlin no. Party lines had no influence on the voting, democrats and republicans being found on both sides.

The Confederate House on Friday did a good thing; voted to adjourn on Monday, August 14, at 4 o'clock P. M.

Ben Jackson and Ben Jackson, Jr., gave an old negro employe of the Ocean Bluff Hotel, at Kennebunk, a terrible beating one day last week. The old man Jackson was bound over in the sum of $300, his son being fined $15 and costs.

A cock-and-bull story has been going the rounds to the effect that Gen. Sherman is to resign his position next March and that Grant would succeed him as General of the army. The law expressly provides that the office of General and Lieutenant General shall cease whenever they become vacant.

The dory Centennial, Capt. Johnsen, was spoken on the 9th fifteen miles east of Tuskar light.

An exchange says: "Flags with thirty-seven stars are now behind the times. Colorado is now a State, the people of that territory having accepted the conditions imposed by Congress, and the President having proclaimed the fact to the world. Colorado will elect two republican Senators probably and give three electoral votes for Hayes." As to the political prediction we give no opinion; but flags with thirty-seven stars will not be "behind the times" until July 4th, 1877, that being the day fixed by act of Congress on which new stars are always to be added to the flag. Thirty-seven stars will be the correct thing on the evening of July 3d, but not the next day.

By the breaking of a dam in Montana, on the night of the 8th, a woman and two men were drowned and much property destroyed.

Rev. J. Sella Martin, a prominent colored politician of New Orleans, formerly of Boston, died in New Orleans on Friday from an overdose of laudanum. He attracted a great deal of notice in the democratic papers four years ago by coming out for Mr. Greeley.

A half-dozen idiots from Canada visited Richford, Vt., on Saturday, and two of them fought a duel. Two shots were fired, and the challenger was wounded in the leg. All the parties are under arrest. They are French Canadians, and it is said are of very respectable families. The penalty for duelling in Vermont, in cases where murder is not committed, is two years in jail and $1000 fine for principals, and one year in jail and $1000 fine for seconds. If the Vermont officials enforce the law, that drove of Canadian donkeys won't be in a hurry to appeal to "the code" next time.

Political.

Hendricks, in his letter, says: "The profligate expenditure which increased taxation from $5 per capita in 1860 to $18 in 1870 tells its own story of our need of fiscal reform." Undoubtedly the outlay of treasure between 1860 and 1870, to put down the democratic war for the destruction of the Union, was a "profligate expenditure" in the estimation of both Hendricks and Tilden; but those expenditures would have been much less than they were had men like Tilden and Hendricks been patriots, instead of giving every aid and comfort to the rebels, as Tilden and Hendricks did at the commencement of and all through the war. The less Hendricks has to say about the "profligate expenditure" that saved the Union the better it will be for his chances of success.

Parke Godwin says: "If Tilden were President at this moment, in less than three months we should see our finances on their best feet, taxation reduced a half, and the currency in a sure way to recovery, by gentle and almost imperceptible means." Tilden may be a very wonderful man; so may Parke Godwin,—but when he talks as above he talks very like a fool, for the whole sentence is but a jumble of extravagant and contradictory nonsense. "In less than three months" Tilden would "reduce taxation one-half" and put "our finances on their best feet"—in which case the "currency would be in a sure way to recovery" "by almost imperceptible means." How our finances could be on their best feet without the currency being fully recovered, and how all this could be brought about in less than three months by imperceptible means, Mr. Parke Godwin does not explain. Tilden himself says it can't be done in three years, and for that reason he advocated the repeal of the date fixed for resumption.

The Concord People, in a half-column of extracts from different papers concerning Tilden's long-winded letter, classes the Boston Globe as a "republican" paper and the Boston Herald and New York Sun as "independent!"

The Cincinnati Enquirer, the leading organ of the western inflationists, is more than satisfied with Tilden's letter. It says: "If any western democrat had been nominated for the Presidency, it is doubtful if he would have put into his letter of acceptance such pronounced professions in favor of the western belief concerning the currency." The eastern hard-money democratic papers are equally well pleased with it as a hard-money document. Both parties are right, for the great "reformer" really says nothing in his three columns of twaddle about financial matters to indicate which theory he supports,—barring his recommendation that the act fixing a date for resumption be repealed.

James Gordon Bennett has been nominated for Mayor of New York by the independent labor party—whatever party that may be.

Alabama's State election was "the quietest ever known; no attempts at intimidation of the negroes are reported from any part of the State. The colored men voted with us largely. "That is exactly the way the Mississippi election was reported at first; wonder if the late Alabama election will turn out to have been "quiet" in the same way that was.

New Hampshire Items.

The Amherst Cabinet says Major George Danforth of Amherst Station witnessed a queer contest in his field a few days ago. In the grass was a large black snake, upon the back of which was a little weasel, who would bite him through, and then as the snake turned his head to defend himself would jump into the air and very soon spring upon him and bite again. This was continued until the snake was bitten from head to tail, his blood extracted and life extinct. It measured four feet and four inches in length.

Two men are under arrest at Keene on suspicion of being the murderers of Joseph Perry of Swanzey.

The house and barn of Josiah Moore and Anson G. Bebee, in Fitzwilliam, were burned Thursday. Loss $1200; fully insured.

The town of Marlow had to raise but $1 to defray the town charges, the savings bank tax creating a revenue sufficient for town expenses.

William H. L. Place's house, barn and sheds, in Littleton, were burned Friday. Loss $1200; insurance $650.

LaPage, the murderer of Josie Langmaid, is to have a new trial, on the ground that the evidence of Julienne Rousse, his sister-in-law, regarding his outraging her in Canada years before, was improperly admitted. The opinion of the Superior Court on this point was unanimous.

On Friday afternoon a young man named Curtis, belonging in East Salisbury, was drowned while trying to ford the river in Seabrook marsh. He waded into the so-called "deep hole" near the junction of Dead creek and Blackwater river, and his body was not recovered for an hour and a half.

Several tenement blocks in Suncook, belonging to Dr. F. E. Potter, were burned Friday night. Loss $5000; insurance $4000. Many families were burned out, losing all their furniture.

Several stores in Lebanon were entered by thieves on Friday night. The burglars got $250 worth of goods in one place.

—The editor of the Norristown Herald thus criminates himself: "A man who succeeds in passing a counterfeit fifty cent note after carrying it in his pocket two weeks, goes to bed with a deeper feeling of satisfaction than if he had earned twenty-five dollars legitimately."

—Considerable so-called slang is classic. "Escaped with the skin of my teeth," is from Job. "He is a brick," from Plutarch. The historian tells of a king of Sparta who boasted that his army was the only wall of the city—"and every man is a brick." We call a fair and honest man "a square man," but the Greeks described the same person as Tetragonos—"a four-cornered man."

Don't Poison Your System

With such hurtful drugs as quinine, calomel, or blue pills, but take instead that safe, prompt and agreeable substitute, Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, which, whether it is used to remedy or prevent malarial fevers, overcome general debility, or to correct torpidity of the liver and bowels, will in every case be found fully adequate to the wants of the sick and feeble. It entirely removes dyspetic symptoms, and by stimulating the flow of gastric juice, facilitates digestion and insures the conversion of food into blood, whereby the system is efficiently nourished and regains its lost vigor. This great vegetable restorative has received the endorsement of men of science, the press has repeatedly borne voluntary testimony to its excellence, and the public has long since given it the preference to every medicinee of its kind.

American Belles.

America is justly proud of her beautiful ladies, but how many mar their beauty, and lose their health and youth, become prematurely old in appearance, by neglecting to take proper care of their teeth. There can be no excuse for this, as SOZODONT, pronounced by all worthy a place between the sweetest lips, can now be had in all civilized countries.

FIRE, AND ACCIDENT.

The alarm of fire, Saturday forenoon, was occasioned by the partial burning of a shed sheltering the engine which lifts water to the tanks on Brewster street, from which the sprinkling carts are filled. The Fire Department turned out, but their services were not required, the Kearsarge Mills department having laid a hose and put out the fire before the city machines arrived. The first steamer on the ground was Kearsarge, No. 3, which engine coupled on the hose but did not throw any water.

As Extinguisher No. 5 was being drawn out from the engine house, a lad about twelve years of age, a son of Mr. George H. Ham, while running on the drag-rope was tripped and thrown down by a large dog (which has been accustomed to play with the boys) jumping upon him, and before the machine could be stopped both wheels on one side passed over the boy's body. Fortunately he had fallen face downward, and the wheels went over his back, at the third ribs, leaving a black band on his flesh of the width of the tires. It was at first thought his back was broken, but at noon he was comparatively comfortable, and in answer to a suggestion that he had probably got about all he wanted of "runin' wi' der masheen" he announced his intention to run some more as soon as his bruises disappear.

PRESENTATION.

Capt. Frank L. Bird, of the steamer Major, at the Oceanic on Saturday evening was summoned to appear in the dining hall just as he was about to leave the island on a return trip to Portsmouth. The tables had been removed, the guests of the house were seated around the hall, and it was evident something was about to occur. The popular captain, with his mate, engineer and all hands, were conducted to the centre of the hall, and Mr. John A. Poor, on behalf of the guests, presented Capt. Bird with an envelope containing a hundred dollars, as a testimonial of their appreciation of his fidelity and ability as a commander, and of the recognition by the Oceanic sojourners of his constant kind attention to their wants and wishes. The engineer, and in turn every one connected with the steamer, received a token in the currency of the country, and each responded. Mr. Poor's remarks were neat and appropriate, and his presentation speeches, as well as the respective replies of the captain and the rest of the steamer's company, were heartily applauded.

JOTTINGS.

The most practical and valuable book we have ever seen relating to the care of the young is one entitled "Physical Training of Children," by Dr. P. H. Chavasse. It is written in a colloquial style, and treats of the whole care and management of children from the time of their birth until they are too big—or feel too big—to allow any one to take care of them; yet it has little in common with the class of works commonly called "doctors' books" or "medical works." It is highly recommended by eminent medical men and by the press; but its best recommendation is to be found in an examination of its contents. It is a book of over 350 pages, handsomely bound, and nicely printed on good paper; sold only by subscription. It should be in every house where there are children, and we cordially recommend parents in particular to examine the book carefully; if they do that, and have the money to spare, they will purchase it.

There was an alarm of fire at the navy yard on Saturday, at about three o'clock P. M., occasioned by the partial burning of some timber near the pitch-house. The fire was promptly extinguished by the yard fire department, and the damage was trifling.

The Times tell a little story about some of the new police blowing out the gas lights on the first night they went their rounds to extinguish them. The story is just as funny as if it were true.

Mr. Ozro J. Hobbs still fills the position of Assistant Marshal, which he has held for two years past and in which he has proved himself a capable and efficient officer. In the face of many adverse and discouraging circumstances (as we happen to know) he has evidently striven to perform his whole duty,—and he has so nearly succeeded in doing it that his reputation as a vigilant and trusty officer is fully deserved.

"Popping the Question" and "Poor Pillicoddy" were given to an audience of two hundred at Miss Morgan's Institute on Saturday evening, the parts being taken by young amateurs, of whose performance high encomiums are heard.

The Times sorrows asone having no hope because the republicans did not reinstate "the long-tried and efficient ex-Marshal Frank B. Johnson." The compliment to Mr. Johnson is deserved, for he was a thoroughly efficient City Marshal for many years; but he was just as efficient when the former editor of the Times used to slur at and abuse him, of him on the occasions ejected him office two years ago, as when the republicans did not re-elect him last week. Had the democracy been less unfortunate or injudicious in their own selection of city officials than according to their own admissions they were, it is possible (though nor very probable) the republicans might have asked their advice as to who should be selected to take the places of the democratic appointees.

The Traveller announces the failure of Charles H. Coffin, President of the First National Bank of Newburyport, and a gentleman well-known by travellers on the line of the Eastern Railroad. Mr. Coffin is the owner of several cottages at Little Boar's Head. His liabilities are announced to be extensive. [The Boston papers of Saturday evening contradict the statement that Mr. Coffin has failed, and state that he has met all his liabilities as they became due and has but little paper out. The bank is well managed, his indebtedness to it is slight, and there is no cause for anxiety regarding it.]

The Portsmouth Reform Club are to have a picnic at Greenland on Thursday, in which the Greenland club will join.

Rev. George M. Adams, formerly pastor of the North Parish, preached in the North Church on Sunday.

The harbor lights might as well as not be put out these warm nights, so as to save oil. Vessels bound in would have no difficulty in making the harbor from a week's sail at sea, by following up the odor of the millponds.

The auction sale of bank stock on Saturday caused the gathering of very many substantial men on 'Change. The prices realized by Col. Hackett were, for Rockingham, (par $50) $66 1-4; Mechanics and Traders, $104 7-8; New Hampshire National $115.50.

The President of the Cleveland, Columbus & Indianapolis Railroad passed through this city in his own special palace car on Friday, on his way to North Conway with his wife and family.

The Boston grocers with their guests from Providence, Lynn, Salem and Newburyport, the whole party numbering about two hundred, arrived here shortly after 11 o'clock on Friday and took the steamer for Star Island. A number of invited guests from Portland joined the party here.

Sheriff Kent on Saturday brought to this city from Boston, and lodged in jail, a first-class dead beat who some time ago collected, on behalf of the Times, a good deal more money than a newspaper man can afford to lose in such times as the present, and forgot to hand it over to its lawful proprietor. We believe Mr. Guppy means to do his duty in the premises, and give the swindling scoundrel all the "justice" the law allows.

Persons intending to emigrate to the South may be interested in the advertisement of the Griffin (Ga.) Press and Cultivator, a paper devoted to the interests of that State and containing much information concerning its affairs of interest to intending settlers.

Democratic Testimony.

Some readers of Tilden's letter may wonder how he could use up so much space in that hard-greenbacks-soft-gold-advocating document in telling how easy a matter it is to resume specie payments without contracting the currency, and yet not give a hint as to any practical plan of resumption, or any measure looking in that direction. Such persons do not know how much experience Tilden has had in financial manipulations. The following, which we clipped from the democratic New Haven Union before Tilden's nomination, and which was by that paper condensed from the more circumstantial account of the democratic Cincinnati Enquirer (which now supports Tilden as a straight-out inflationist), will give an idea of just how much stock the democrats themselves take in the honesty of their extensively-advertised "reformer"—the fact that it was written before his nomination taking nothing from its force to-day:

"The publishers of that paper learned that certain iron mine owners in the Lake Superior region of Michigan had been carrying on business for years through the medium of a wild-cat currency based upon private credit. One of the members of its editorial staff was sent to investigate the facts, and the result is given in Monday's issue of that paper. It seems that the mine owners in the region mentioned, from a period beginning in 1863 and ending in 1874, used a currency of their own manufacture in their business, discarding all kinds of Government money. Samuel J. Tilden is largely interested in these mines, and is the principal proprietor of the largest—the New York mine. In 1863 the New York Mine Company, among others, issued demand notes in payment of its laborers and local mine debts, which notes were beautifully engraved and presented a striking similitude to a greenback note. These mine shinplasters circulated among the people of the Upper Peninsula of Michigan as money and were soon issued in such numbers that they drove legitimate money out of circulation. In the ten years in which they had full sway, the sub-collector of the Marquette district estimates that fully fifty millions of this worthless trash was issued by Tilden and his mining friends. In 1874 three enterprising gentlemen, seeing that the mine owners were having a soft thing and were amassing large profits out of the swindling system, counterfeited the Tilden shin-plasters. The counterfeit was poorly executed and soon discovered. The forgers were arrested and prosecuted. During the trial the scheme of the mine owners was fully exposed and the court, instead of finding the arrested parties guilty, let them go, and declared that Sam Tilden and his crowd had perpetrated a fraud upon the community. The judge in instructing the jury to return a verdict of not guilty, 'they are a spurious, worthless, bastard currency,' and he held that the utterers of them were liable to fine and imprisonment for their enterprise. In the meantime the attention of the government authorities had been called to the fact that the mining corporations had not paid any of the tax required by law in such cases, and an agent was sent to assist the resident revenue agent in assessing and collecting the tax due for years. It was also announced that the statute taxing National and State banks ten per cent. on every dollar of this money that had or might issue would be enforced. This killed Mr. Tilden's rag-baby effectually, and he and his fellow wild-catters set about devising a plan to escape paying the tax that was justly due the Government on the shin-plasters they had issued. Accordingly, they framed an act directing the Secretary of the Treasury to settle all claims and penalties against them on the payment of a mere moiety of the amount they owed, and this act they got rushed through on the night of the last session of the Forty-third Congress. Another of Tilden's frauds, at his New York mine, was to hire none but married men, pay them tardily, so that they would have to trade with the 'company's store,' and by this means keep the poor workmen in a state bordering on serfdom. A nice man for the democrats to nominate for President!"

Col. Spencer's "Spoons."

It is told of Col. Charles Spencer, counsellor-at-law, that some years ago he had to defend one Marshall, charged with larceny, and against whom there was very strong evidence. Before the trial Spencer went to his client and told him that his only chance of escape was in a plea of insanity, and he advised him to play the lunatic and to answer all questions put to him with the word "spoons." The day of the trial came on and Marshal took his place in the dock, pale, haggard and wild-looking.

"Guilty or not guilty?" asked the clerk.

"Spoons!" drawled the prisoner, with a blank stare.

"Come, plead guilty or not guilty?" repeated the clerk.

"Spoons," was the only reply.

"Prisoner, will you answer the questions put to you, or do you want to be punished for contempt?" asked the judge.

"Spoons," bawled the prisoner, still unmoved.

At this point the counsel for the prisoner interfered and told the Court that his client was not in a condition to be put on trial, as he was evidently not responsible for his actions, and it was an outrage on free citizens, etc.

"Do you understand what is said?" asked the Judge, addressing the prisoner.

"Spoons," was his reply, in accents wild.

It was evident that the man was crazy, and the Judge ordered him discharged. He was taken charge of by his friends, who were present, and left the court with him. Counsellor Spencer followed them, and, congratulating him on his escape, suggested that it might be a good idea to pay him his fee. His client stared at him in blank amazement, and moved away with the simple remark, "Spoons."—World.

COOKED CORNED BEEF.

Articles are being published calculated to prejudice the public against using Cooked Corned Beef, and we would say in answer to them that in no instance has positive proof been established to show that such is the case.

Our goods are packed in a manner very similar to that of Corn, Tomatoes, Fruit and canned goods generally, (which have long been tested) and we use nothing whatever of a poisonous nature in their preparation.

In addition to our own statement we have the strong endorsement of Prof. Hosford of Cambridge, one of the most eminent Chemists in the country, who has fully tested and is familiar with the entire details of the preparation of our goods.

We would also state that we use none but the choicest of Beef that our Chicago market affords, and trust that with these statements the rapidly growing popularity of our Corned Beef may be increased.

For the information of those not knowing the fact we would state that in the process of canning there is a liability of imperfect sealing, which causes the can to expand. Meat contained in such cans is unfit for use and will be cheerfully paid for when returned to any grocer selling it.

This kind of bread having come into extensive family use, it has been my purpose to furnish, from choice materials, an article which should meet the approval of the most fastidious as to neatness, looks and taste. Whether I have succeeded in giving to the public a PILOT BREAD,

SUPERIOR IN EXCELLENCE,

the consumer may be the judge; that the quality will not be suffered to depreciate, the past with the present is my best pledge. That I can compete with all the various qualities of Pilot Bread in the market, as to price, I make no pretensions,—but in price, all things being equal, I fear no competition.

Researches made to determine the validity and utility of Patents of Inventions, and legal and other advice rendered in all matters touching the same. Copies of the claims of any patent furnished, by remitting one dollar. Assignments recorded in Washington.

No Agency in the United States possesses superior facilities for obtaining Patents or ascertaining the patentability of inventions.

All necessity for a journey to Washington to procure a Patent and the usual great delay there, are here saved inventors.

TESTIMONIALS.

"I regard Mr. Eddy as one of the most capable and successful practitioners with whom I have had official intercourse. CHARLES MASON, Commissioner of Patents."

"I have no hesitation in assuring inventors that they cannot employ a man more competent and trustworthy, or more capable of putting their applications in a form to secure for them an early and favorable consideration at the Patent Office.

EDMUND BURKE, Late Commissioner of Patents."

"MR. R. H. EDDY has made for me over THIRTY applications for Patents, having been successful in almost every case. Such unmistakable proof of great talent and ability on his part leads me to recommend all inventors to apply to him to procure their Patents, as they may be sure of having the most faithful attention bestowed on their cases and at very reasonable charges. JOHN TAGGART."

CONDITION PILLS!

The Wonderful Remedy for Liver Complaint, Biliousness, Dyspepsia, Constipation, Neuralgia, Rheumatism, Headache, Kidney Complaint, Nervousness, Scrofula, Piles, and all diseases arising from a bad state of the Blood!

Is the ultima thule of Medical Discovery.

No medicine ever offered to the public has given such universal satisfaction as Dr. Quain's Magic Condition Pills. Their praises are on every tongue where their merits are known. They strike at once at the seat of disease and show their healing power almost immediately. Thousands of voluntary testimonials of their merits have been received by the agent, from those who have been cured by them, of which the following are samples:

Dyspepsia Four Years, Constipation and Inflammation of the Bowels Three Years, Confined to my Room Two Years, Pain so I Could Not Sleep Without Morphine. One Package of Dr. Quain's Condition Pills Made Me Eat Well, Sleep Well and Free from Pain, after being given up by Physicians.

WEST LEBANON, ME., Feb. 22, 1

MR. THOMAS W. LANE:—I have been sick for four years with Dyspepsia, and for the past three years Constipation and Inflammation of the Bowels. I have suffered all the pain I could endure and live. I have been confined to my room for two years, and could not sleep nights without the use of morphine. I have been given up by physicians as past cure. I have taken one package of DR. QUAIN'S CONDITION PILLS, and they have done me more good than all the doctors I have had. I sleep well, I eat well and have no pain. They are all they are recommended to be. Please send me three packages, as two of my neighbors wish to try them. I enclose $1.00.

Your truly, JOHN W. LORD.

Another Letter from Maj. John W. Lord, one month later. Wonderful Cures by Dr. Quain's Pills Effected on Him in Thirteen Days. First time Free from Pain for Three Years.

WEST LEBANON, ME., March 22, 1875

MR. THOMAS W. LANE:—I commenced taking DR. QUAIN'S CONDITION PILLS February 9th, and wrote you February 22d of their wonderful effect. I have continued to improve ever since. My appetite is good, and I sleep as well as I ever did in my life. I am free from pain for the first time in three years. When I was taken sick four years ago, I weighed one hundred and eighty-six pounds; I now weigh one hundred and thirty, but, as I am gaining in strength, I have faith I shall regain my flesh this summer, by the use of the Pills. I shall continue taking them for some time to come.

Yours truly, JOHN W. LORD.

Dr. Quain's Pills the Remedy for Soldiers' Aches and Pains.

WEST LEBANON, ME., June 1, 1875.

MR. THOMAS W. LANE—Dear Sir:—I am now able to walk out every day, and am gaining in strength very fast, all of which is due to you as agent for the best Pills in the world. I have taken no other medicine, and my improvement has been steady since first taking DR. QUAIN'S CONDITION PILLS. They have done everything for me, and I will say to you, advertise them direct to the soldiers, for they will certainly cure them of aches and pains caused from exposure and hardship on the field. Please send me by return mail another package.

JOHN W. LORD.

Rheumatism for Twenty Years Cured by One Package of Dr. Quain's Condition Pills—"The Best Medicine in the World."

EAST ANDOVER, N. H., Dec. 10, 1875.

MR. LANE—Dear Sir:—As I know the value of DR. QUAIN'S CONDITION PILLS and the good they have done me, I take pleasure in giving them to you; so I send you another testimonial. My father has been troubled with Rheumatism for twenty-years or more, and has tried everything that could be thought of, but to no good. At times it would be so bad that he could not lift his hand to his head or do any work at all, especially in cold weather. A short time ago I advised him to get some of these Pills. He believed nothing in them, but I gave him the last package I had of you, as I did not need them, and he has not been as free from the Rheumatic Complaint for years. Not a pain, not a twinge. What helped him? It was DR. QUAIN'S CONDITION PILLS, the best medicine in the world. There is nothing like them. I know it, for I have tried them, and they are all, yes, more than they are recommended to be. Give them a fair trial and you will say so. I write this because I know the goodness of them and wish others to know the same. Some may think I am telling a big story. I am. But remember I am not giving them half the praise they ought to have.

Yours with respect, ED. F. PEVARE.

DAINGERFIELD, MORRIS CO., TEXAS, Nov. 15, 75.

MR. THOMAS W. LANE—Dear Sir:—I have been afflicted for near twelve years with Neuralgia in the face and head. I tried I do not know how many physicians, and could only get partly relieved. I also tried many patent medicines with the same result. I have been confined to my room most all the time for eight or ten winters, and have been traveling and visiting medical springs, and I still suffered most intensely. The physicians pronounced my case the worst and most stubborn that they had had anything to do with. One told me I could never get well; they all advised me to go South and spend the winter, and thought that was the only chance for me, and I was ready to go to Florida, when through the kindness of Rev. H. M. Mathis, my attention was called to the advertisement of Dr. Quain's Magic Condition Pills. I immediately sent to you for a package. I have taken four doses and I am almost free from pain. The impression here seems to be that if your pills will cure me, they will cure anybody. I have five applications to send for the pills. Enclosed I send five dollars; send five packages to me and one to Mrs. Laura Sherrell, Sulphur Springs, Hopkins county, Texas.

Yours truly, J. S. PATTON.

Liver Complaint, Nervousness, Dropsy and Headache.

LACONIA, N. H., Jan. 29, 1875.

THOS. W. LANE—Sir:—I have been troubled with Bad Blood, Liver Complaint, Nervousness, Dropsy and Headache. I have taken one package of DR. QUAIN'S CONDITION PILLS. They have done me more good than all the medicine I ever took; I have taken considerable medicine within the last five years. For the nerves I think there is nothing so good as those pills. I can recommend them to all who are similarly afflicted, they have done me so much good. I think they will recommend themselves wherever they go. I shall recommend those Pills to all who need them. Please send me two packages more, one for myself and one for a lady friend of mine. Many thanks to the inventor, agent and advertiser of those Pills. MRS. P. L. ELLIOTT.

DR. QUAIN'S MAGIC CONDITION PILLS are put up only by the AMERICAN MEDICINE CO., Manchester, N. H., THOMAS W. LANE, Agent.

Buchman's Pulmocine Cordial.

The Pulmocine Cordial is not a quack medicine, is not an experiment, is not composed of any ingredients "discovered" by "walking in pastures" in South America or anywhere else, nor by one who discovered a weed and thereby cured himself. Most of the ingredients are such as our best educated physicians daily use for the complaints specified in some form or other. The recipe is that perfected by one of New England's most learned and famous physicians, who used it entirely in his daily practice until his death. It is offered to the profession and to the public, absolutely pure and unadulterated.

Good Fresh Butter All The Year Round.

BUTTER IN 20 MINUTES.

Lincoln Butter Powder is an entirely harmless article made from a celebrated English recipe, and now in daily use by many of the most noted farmers in the butter counties around Philadelphia.

In hot weather this Powder makes butter much firmer and sweeter than it usually is, and keeps it from turning rancid. It also removes the strong flavor of turnips, rutabagas, corn stalks, cotton seed, etc.; and the increased yield of butter much more than pays the trifling expense of using it.

Portsmouth Chronicle.

—Among the recent Summer guests at Narragansett Pier have been a wealthy resident of Baltimore, his blooming daughter, and a companion whose office it was to stand guard over her young mistress, and intercept any letters that she might send to a young gentleman at the South. Before a fortnight had elapsed a dainty little missive was in the Baltimore mail-bag. The young gentleman packed his valise and set out for Rhode Island. The father was forbidden by his physician to bathe in the surf, and his daughter's companion hated salt water and usually sat on the rocks when her charge donned her bathing-suit. While the happy girl was in the water her lover suddenly appeared before her, swimming like a duck, and proposed that they should be married the next day in the breakers. She said yes. The next noon the lovers, a clergyman, and two witnesses formed a little group in the surf further out than other bathers dared to go. The marriage ceremony had to be suspended every few seconds on account of the breakers, and a laugh broke from the lips of the girl when the clergyman solemnly gave full opportunity for the forbidding of the banns. Everybody noticed how gay she was at dinner that day, and her father thought, "She's forgotten that Baltimore upstart already." A few hours later he was undeceived. Then the tempest raged again, but a lawyer's cool counsel finally prevailed. The bridegroom lingered a few days, and then went back to Baltimore.—Providence Journal.

Centaur

iniments.

White for the Human Family.

Yellow, for Horses and Animals.

These Liniments are simply the wonder of the world. Their effects are little less than marvellous, yet there are some things which they will not do. They will not cure cancer or mend broken bones, but they will always allay pain. They have straightened fingers, cured chronic rheumatism of many years standing, and taken the pain from terrible burns and scalds, which has never been done by any other article.

THE WHITE LINIMENT is for the human family. It will drive Rheumatism, Sciatica and Neuralgia from the system; cure Lumbago, Chilblains, Piles, Itch, and most Cutaneous Eruptions; it extracts frost from frozen hands and feet, and the poison of bites and stings of venomous reptiles; it subdues swellings, and alleviates pain of every kind.

For sprains or bruises it is the most potent remedy ever discovered. The Centaur Liniment is used with great efficacy for Sore Throat, Toothache, Caked Breasts, Earache, and Weak Back. The following is but a sample of numerous testimonials:

"INDIANA HOME, JEFF. CO., IND., May 28, 1873.

"I think it my duty to inform you that I have suffered much with swollen feet and chords. I have not been free from these swellings in eight years. Now I am perfectly well, thanks to the Centaur Liniment. The Liniment ought to be applied warm.

BENJAMIN BROWN."

The proof is in the trial. It is reliable, it is handy it is cheap, and every family should have it.

To the sick and bed-ridden, the halt and lame, to the wounded and sore, we say, "Come and be healed."

To the poor and distressed who have spent their money for worthless medicines, a bottle of CENTAUR LINIMENT will be given without charge.

THE YELLOW CENTAUR LINIMENT is adapted to the tough muscles, cords and flesh of horses and animals. It has performed more wonderful cures of Spavin, Strain, Wind-galls, Scratches, Sweeny, and general Lameness, than all other remedies in existence. Read what the great Expressmen say of it:

"NEW YORK, January, 1874.

"Every owner of horses should give the CENTAUR LINIMENT a trial. We consider it the best article ever used in our stables.

"H. MARSH, Supt. Adams Ex. stables, N. Y.
"E. PULTZ, Supt. U. S. Ex. Stables, N. Y.
"ALBERT S. OLIN, Supt. Nat. Ex. Stables, N. Y."

"MONTGOMERY, ALA., Aug. 11, 1874.

"GENTLEMEN,—I have used over one gross of CENTAUR LINIMENT, yellow wrapper, on the mules of my plantation, besides dozens of the family Liniment for my negroes. I want to purchase it at the wholesale price, and will thank you to ship me by Savannah steamer one gross of each kind. Messrs. A. T. Stewart & Co. will pay your bill on presentation.

"Respectfully, JAMES DARROW."

The best patrons of this Liniment are Farriers and Veterinary Surgeons. It heals Galls, Wounds and Poll-evil, removes Swellings, and is worth millions of dollars to Farmers, Livery-men, Stock-growers, Sheep-raisers, and those having horses or cattle.

What a Farrier cannot do for $20 the Centaur Liniment will do at a trifling cost.

These Liniments are warranted by the proprietors, and a bottle will be given to any Farrier or Physician who desires to test them. Sold everywhere.

Laboratory of J. B. ROSE & CO., 45 DEY ST., NEW YORK.

Castoria.

Is a pleasant and perfect substitute, in all cases, for CASTOR OIL. Castoria is the result of an old Physician s effort to produce, for his own practice, an effective cathartic, pleasant to the taste and free from griping.

Dr. Samuel Pitcher, of Hyannis, Mass., succeeded in combining, without the use of alcohol, a purgative agent as pleasant to take as honey, and which possesses all the desirable properties of Castor Oil.

It is adapted to all ages, but is especially recommended to mothers as a reliable remedy for all disorders of the stomach and bowels of children. It is certain, agreeable, absolutely harmless, and cheap. It should be used for wind colic, sour stomach worms, costiveness, croup, &c., then children can have sleep and mothers may rest.

J. B. ROSE & CO., of 45 Dey Street, New York, are he sole proprietors of Castoria, after Dr. Pitcher recipe.

Daily Chronicle.

TUESDAY, AUGUST 15, 1876.

FOR PRESIDENT,

Rutherford B. Hayes,

OF OHIO.

FOR VICE PRESIDENT,

William A. Wheeler,

OF NEW YORK.

Hayes' Platform in War.

In 1864, when Hayes was in the army, being nominated for Congress he was requested to come home and stump his district. His reply was, "I have other business just now. Any man who would leave the army at this time to electioneer for Congress ought to be scalped!"

Hayes' Platform in Peace.

"Honest money for all, and free schools for all. There should be no inflation which will depreciate the one, nor sectarian interference which will destroy the other."

"The People" vs. Truth.

The "Tilden and reform" organs are terribly exercised to find something to say against Gov. Hayes, but not being able to rake up anything true to urge against him they are obliged to print things they know to be false. The Concord People, under the heading of "The Salary-Grabber Candidate," says:

"Although a man of great wealth, Mr. Hayes, the republican candidate for the presidency, when a member of Congress, not only voted for but took and pocketed his share of the salary-grab. He has never to this day restored it. Yet this man is to reform all the abuses of the government, if we are to believe his advocates. A vote for Hayes is a vote to endorse the salary grab. Will honest men of the republican party vote to sanction the infamous salary-grab? Such will be the effect of a vote for Hayes."

The evident intention of that item is to lead voters to believe that Mr. Hayes voted for the back-pay salary-grab,—the only salary increase for Congressmen that the people ever denounced. True, the People is careful not to say that, but it implies it in asking "will honest men of the republican party vote to sanction the infamous salary-grab?" and stating that "such will be the effect of a vote for Hayes." The People is well aware that at the time of the back-pay grab Gov. Hayes was not and for years had not been a member of Congress; yet it—this sterling advocate of "Tilden and reform," honesty, square dealing and all that sort of thing—it is willing to tell the meanest of all lies, a lie by insinuation, to injure an opponent "for the good of the party."

True, the salaries of Congressmen were raised when Gov. Hayes was a member, to $5000 per year; and that is the "salary-grab" the People wishes to confound with the back-pay steal, in the minds of the voters, when it says Gov. Hayes "voted for" and "pocketed his share of the salary-grab." But even that statement is false; for Gov. Hayes voted against the bill increasing Congressmen's salaries at every stage and at its final passage,—while Thomas A. Hendricks, at present the democratic candidate for Vice President, voted for the bill every time! After the bill passed every Congressman took the increased pay.

It shows the desperate straits to which the "reform" organs are reduced when the worst they can do is to charge the republican candidate with something he did not do, but which the democratic candidate did do. And so far as the back-pay steal is concerned, we should fancy discretion would keep the democrats from saying much about that so long as the democratic leader of the "reform" House is Sam. Randall—the leader of the democratic back-pay thieves, and a man who but last week was taunted by the democratic Senator Bayard with still having in his pocket the five thousand dollars or more that he stole under the name of back-pay. Verily, "reform" is a fearful and wonderful thing when the democrats are running it.

Old Time Chronicles, No. 129.

BY UNCLE JOSEPH.

FIRST NEW HAMPSHIRE REGIMENT. It was organized in 1775. The news of the battle of Lexington, April 19, reaching New Hampshire, men flew to arms and assembled at Cambridge, Mass. John Stark of Deerfield, now Manchester, was commissioned Colonel of the first regiment, April 26. Isaac Wyman soon became Lt. Colonel and Andrew McClary, Major.

TROUBLE WITH A NEW HAMPSHIRE CAPTAIN. Three days before the regiment was organized Mr. McClary wrote from Cambridge, that one from this State, who appeared at the head of a company, by some means had it circulated that by order of the General, the New Hampshire men were dismissed, and so a considerable number left. He wrote that he and Capt. Cilley, afterwards a Colonel in the service, and from Nottingham went to the General and were told it was false. The General spoke in high terms of commendation of the New Hampshire soldiers. The man who did the mischief had gone home and the laws of the army were then so imperfect that no further proceedings could well be had.

This letter was sent to the Provincial Congress then sitting at Exeter. We have good reason for believing the offender in this case was from Brentwood, and not long before this, had been a Friend or Quaker, and a speaker in their meetings. Most likely he still retained their sentiments in some degree, so did not like to fight. He before this lived in Raymond, was in town office, moved to Maine where he died. His name was Samuel Dudley.

IN BATTLE. The first regiment was in the battle of Bunker Hill, June 17. Henry Dearborn, who had studied the medical profession with Dr. Hall of Portsmouth, was Captain of one company under Col. Stark. He afterwards rose to distinction as a meritorious officer of a higher rank, and in the second war with England, 1812-1815 was a Major-General.

Major McClary was killed by a shot from the British when the battle was about over. He was from Epsom, where he was born. He was much lamented. He was manly, brave and soldierly in his bearing. In person it is said he was tall and of fine personal appearance.

EXPENSES AS TO MAJOR MCCLARY'S LOSS IN THE BATTLE AND HIS BURIAL. The bill was made out and sent to the Provincial Congress as follows:

To one new bridle lost on said day		8
To one pair silver knee buckles lost		8
To one pair stone sleeve buttons		8
To horse keeping six weeks	1	10
To a coffin for the deceased	1
To digging a grave for do.		6
To one pair pistols lost in the engagement	2	8
To one large powder-horn shot to pieces		8
To one pair holsters lost in battle	1	10
To cash to buy necessaries while in Haverhill	1	10

In January, 1776, the Provincial Congress voted as follows: "That the account of the funeral of Major Andrew McClary amounting to ten pounds eight shillings be allowed and paid out of the Treasury."

Miss Emma Abbott.

A sensational story affecting the character of Miss Emma Abbott,—a gifted young protege of Rev. Dr. Chapin's church, who has recently finished her musical studies, and accomplished her operatic debut at Covent Garden, London, having been set afloat by the English correspondent of a western newspaper and circulated over the country in various forms, some twenty well-known ladies and gentlemen of New York publish the following card, which fully explains itself:

"The undersigned, friends of Miss Emma A. Abbott, and contributors to the fund raised in 1872 for her musical education in Europe, have read with pain and indignation a statement reflecting unfavorably upon that young lady, in the London correspondence of the Cincinnati Commercial, and copied thence into several New York newspapers. No person in London or elsewhere, has been authorized by us to say that we are dissatisfied with Miss Abbott's course. Her marriage to Mr. E. I. Wetherell, of New York, is a matter which concerns no one but the parties themselves. That "since Miss Abbott's marriage, she has lived upon the bounty of her friends," as alleged, we believe to be unsusceptible of any proof whatever. We pronounce this charge against a pure and gifted woman who is not here to defend herself, false and malicious."

Correspondence.

WASHINGTON, D. C. August 9.

Among the merits of Governor Hayes' letter of acceptance, those of brevity and explicitness were apparent in every line, unerringly indicating the character of the author. There was no attempt at dodging questions of public interest or concealment of the writer's views thereon. Every prominent issue involved in the present campaign—the currency, civil service reformer the public schools, the southern and the one-Presidential-term question,—were squarely met and the method of their treatment indicated in case of republican success, to the satisfaction of a large majority of those addressed.

On the contrary, Governor Tilden has so disguised his meaning and purposes—designedly it seems—upon these points, that his declarations are susceptible of almost any construction and may mean much, little or nothing at all. Such, at least, is the almost universal opinion begotten here by a perusal of this letter of forty days' incubation. His utterances relative to the currency are regarded as symptomatic of a complete, abject surrender to the repudiators of the West, headed by Governor Hendricks, rather ambiguously expressed as a blind to his hard money supporters of the East. Notwithstanding his professed desires for a non-partisan civil service reform, his treatment of that matter is accepted as a notification of a clean sweep of every republican official upon his induction into office, the resulting vacancies to be filled by political friends, graded in accordance with the partisan services performed.

The letter of Governor Hendricks is everywhere accepted as proof that he is a hide-bound Bourbon, without variableness or the shadow of turning, who yearns for a return to the days of slavery with all its attendant barbarisms and debasing influences. The studied avoidance by both, of any mention of the democratic outrages and murders in the South, leaves them in the position of tacitly approving the Ku-Klux and White League methods of conducting political campaigns and piling up democratic majorities.

Mr. Throckmorton yesterday startled the reformers and economists of the House by the introduction of a resolution to pay Fitzhugh his salary up to the first of August. He has been loafing around town, cogitating upon the mutability of political positions, ever since his summary disgrace last May. He is not near as much of a "favorite," nor does he compare as favorably in stature with "old Grant" as he did when he and Fay were feeding out of the public crib; and it is sought by this steal from public funds to get him out of town, where he is a standing menace to many of his democratic friends.

A very hot debate occurred the other day in the Senate over the motion of Mr. Morton to print 10,000 extra copies of the President's message, relative to the Hamburg butcheries. It was, probably, intended by the motion to force democratic Senators to declare their positions. It was an embarrassing matter to them, and they, no doubt, were sincere in their protestations of abhorrence; but the humiliating fact remains that the exigencies of their party leads them to ignore such atrocities until driven to take sides for or against the assassins; and in their efforts to evade the consequences and to belittle such democratic murders, their condemnation is half-hearted and always expressed in an apologetic strain, and deprived of all force and point by admixture with wholesale denunciations of the murdered victims of KuKlux savagery and of the republican party. The report of the committee sent to investigate Mississippi will tax their ingenuity to the utmost. It shows a condition of terrorism impossible except in a community under the dominion of savages; intimidation and wanton murder were everywhere the rule. The committee declare that the present officials secured their places by such means, and should not be recognized by the U. S. Government; and they further recommend that the State be remanded to a Territorial form of government in the event that such practices are persisted in. MAXWELL.

News and Notes.

The second yacht race for the possession of the Queen's cup, between the Madeline and Countess of Dufferin, came off on the 12th. The course was twenty miles to windward from Sandy Hook, and return, the Madeline beating her competitor 27 min., 14 sec., thus winning the match, which was to be decided by the best two out of three races. The yacht America, the original winner of the cup, sailed over the course and her time was taken by the judges; on the outward course (a dead beat to windward) the America beat both contestants, leading the Madeline 1 min., 40 sec., but on the run home the Madeline beat the America 9 min., 45 sec.; the America beat the Countess of Dufferin 19 min., 9 seconds. There was a grand jollification at the club house in the evening.

James B. Hickock, alias Wild Bill, known in Kansas and the Territories as a scout of some prominence in early days, was killed in a saloon at Deadwood, August 2, by one Bill Sutherland, who, in justification of the act, alleges that Bill killed his brother at Fort Hayes, Kansas, some years ago.

A man named O'Leary has walked five hundred miles in six days, in New York.

The value of the Confederate archives, for the search of which the Confederate House has refused to make an appropriation, is illustrated by a recent instance. A man by the name of De Haven made claim for the loss of a vessel destroyed by the United States, fixing the amount at $50,000. The claim was before a committee of the Senate, and was favorably considered on the papers presented. The claimant had made oath to his loyalty during the war. It happened that the case was searched out in the archives, and it was discovered that De Haven had sold his vessel to the Confederate government, and his signature, proved to be his own by comparison with his present handwriting, was discovered upon the vouchers for the payment. Morever, he had received pay for the use of the vessel as a freight boat. These records being called to the attention of the committee, Mr. De Haven may as well disappear as a claimant. In this one case alone a few minutes' work among these records saved the Government more than eight times the amount appropriated last year for the search.

One of the best things said of William T. Garner since his heroic death in trying to save his wife and friends, is that he paid good salaries and gave proper vacations to his clerks, and when any of them fell sick in his employment he sent the check regularly when the pay day came round. This is the kind of obituary that tells. When a man dies people think of the body of his life, and never mind its fringes and frills on its edges.

The new court of New Hampshire, which meets to-day, has appointed all the old clerks, with one exception. In place of James M. Folsom of Dover, clerk of Strafford County, George E. Durgin of Lee has been appointed; he was removed by address from the office of Register of Probate of that county.

Two Dories Crossing the Atlantic.

The Cape Ann Advertiser has a theory that another dory besides the Centennial is attempting to make the passage across the Atlantic, and that this accounts for the conflicting reports concerning Capt. Johnson in the Centennial. The craft is of the same general description as the Centennial, and is called the Brittle, and was spoken in lat. 40 45, lon. 67 10, partially disabled. In support of this theory is the statement of the master of the schooner Newport, at Windsor, N. S., from New York, whose vessel was boarded by the master of the Brittle, July 16, in lat. 41 30, lon. 67 13. The captain of the Newport reports that at 11 o'clock on the morning of July 16th he sighted a small boat, under sail, about sixteen feet keel and sloop-rigged. At first sight two persons were apparent, but on nearer approach one disappeared:

"The little vessel was completely decked, having but a small hatchway amidships. The individual in command of the boat made a signal indicating that he wished to board us. I had my vessel laid to; he came on board, made fast his line with me, and walked rapidly aft to the quarter deck. He shook hands with me, and asked the course to England. I told him he would never reach England in his cockle-shell. He laughed, and said, "Oh, yes, he would." I took him to the cabin to show him the chart, but he was so nervous and excited that he appeared not to understand anything I told him. His general movements and looks were of the most suspicious character. I asked what he was doing so far from land in so small a boat. He said that he was eight days out from New York, had run away and was bound for England. He stayed on board about ten minutes, and, having shaken hands, left precipitately, and wished to be reported. He gave his name as Charles Matheson. The boat was clinker built. My impression at the time was that the second person on board was a lady, and the adventure an elopement. If they persevere in steering for the British Islands, they will too probably spend the remainder of their honey moon deep down under the waters of the Atlantic."

The dory Centennial was spoken on the 9th inst., fifteen miles east of Tuscar light; the Tuskar rock is off the southern coast of Ireland, some twenty miles from the port of Wexford, so the Centennial was "bound up channel" for her port of destination on that date, and if the daring navigator's previous good luck has still kept by him he is safe on shore in Liverpool before this.

—"So you are going to marry a druggist's clerk?" remarked a Chicago girl to another on the street cars. The question was asked in an unmistakable tone of derision, and so the fair one addressed half apologetically replied: "Of course—don't they have all the soda water they want for nothing?" "Yes," was the gloomy reply; "they're all right in summer, but what about next winter?" "Oh," mildly answered the engaged one, "maybe by that time we'll be divorced!" The interfering friend seemed satisfied then.

Don't Poison Your System

With such hurtful drugs as quinine, calomel, or blue pills, but take instead that safe, prompt and agreeable substitute, Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, which, whether it is used to remedy or prevent malarial fevers, overcome general debility, or to correct torpidity of the liver and bowels, will in every case be found fully adequate to the wants of the sick and feeble. It entirely removes dyspetic symptoms, and by stimulating the flow of gastric juice, facilitates digestion and insures the conversion of food into blood, whereby the system is efficiently nourished and regains its lost vigor. This great vegetable restorative has received the endorsement of men of science, the press has repeatedly borne voluntary testimony to its excellence, and the public has long since given it the preference to every medicinee of its kind.

American Belles.

America is justly proud of her beautiful ladies, but how many mar their beauty, and lose their health and youth, become prematurely old in appearance, by neglecting to take proper care of their teeth. MORE ROOM.

The constantly increasing demand for rooms at the popular and favorite Appledore House has compelled the Laighton Brothers to inaugurate plans for the accommodation of the hosts who will gladly avail themselves of the opportunity next season. Hon. C. E. Rymes, of Somerville, Mass., has just completed the plans for an additional building, and the work will be begun in September. The structure will be ninety feet by thirty-eight, four stories high, and contain two large parlors and seventy-five commodious sleeping rooms. Many of the best rooms are already engaged for next season. The new addition will occupy the site of Mrs. Thaxter's cottage, which will be removed westerly. It will be connected with the main buildings by a broad covered piazza, and when completed will give over 1500 feet of piazza. The house has been completely packed during the present season, not only from the fact that the location is the healthiest and coolest on the Atlantic coast, but because the house is kept even better than ever before. The Laighton Brothers are most liberal providers and spare no expense that will contribute to the comfort of their guests, and they hope that the enlargement will enable them to accommodate all who desire to favor them with their company.

JOTTINGS.

The fellow brought from Boston to this city on Saturday by Sheriff Kent, to answer to a charge of larceny of subscription lists and bill-heads of the States and Union, on which he raised a large sum of money which he converted to his own use, is named Frederick D. James. He claims a residence in Tamworth, but if one-quarter of the stories told of his career as a swindler, confidence-man and sneak are true and can be proved, he deserves a residence in State prison and will be likely to get it.

The contemplated picnic of the Portsmouth Reform Club is to take place at Pinkham's Grove instead of in Greenland, as at first announced. The first picnic was such a thorough success in the matter of pleasure and enjoyment as to create an unbounded enthusiasm for another like gathering; and it was thereupon deemed best to hold it in a place where the large crowd could be better accommodated. Judging from the popularity of the former picnic it would not be a matter of surprise if even a larger number were present at Pinkham's Grove next Thursday than attended at Greenland last Thursday.

The Universalist society of this city has extended a call to Rev. Eugene A. Grant, of West Waterville, Me.

The Times thinks we are in error in saying the Kearsarge Fife and Drum Band is the only band belonging here, as the Portsmouth Cornet Band is still alive.

David L. Magoon, the alleged wife poisoner, of Raymond, was returned to his old quarters in the jail here on Saturday, his bondsmen having surrendered him.

Elder Moses How and Rev. Dr. Peabody spoke at the semi-centennial service at the Middle street church, Sunday evening.

We were convinced on Monday evening that the Times was correct in saying the Portsmouth Cornet Band "still lives." The Heavy Artillery, Capt. Williams, turned out to escort the City Guards, Capt. Haddock, from camp at Newcastle to their armory on Congress street, and the Portsmouth Cornet Band furnished the music,—very good music, too.

An excursion train will leave Dover for Portland at 7:30 this morning, going by the way of this city, leaving here a 8 o'clock. The passengers at Portland will take a steamer for Long Island in Portland harbor, and return in the evening. The whole trip will cost $1.75 per person.

A Maine Romance.

Early in the first part of the last century there lived in Wells, Me., a man by the name of Furbush, a farmer. He made a clearing as it was called, built a log hut, married a Miss Hobbs, and commenced life in earnest.

The Indians were troublesome, driving off cattle, burning crops, etc., but as yet had not ventured very near the settlement, openly. Two children, a pair of twin sisters, were born to them. While they were babies in the cradle, their mother went into the cow yard one morning to milk the cows, when she was seized by an Indian, her handkerchief torn from her neck and jammed into her mouth to keep her from screaming so as to arouse the neighbors, and her hands tied behind her, preparatory to carrying her away.

Next, a whoop was uttered, to attract the husband's attention. He seized his gun and ran to rescue his wife, only to be smitten down by a blow from a tomahawk, and left for dead. They next ransacked the house, taking what they wanted, such as blankets and provisions, but omitting to kill or overlooking the babies in the cradle. They then set fire to the house, which was seen by the settlers, who immediately went to their relief. They found the man still living though senseless. They staunched his bleeding wounds, then went to the burning house, and in the midst of fire and smoke they could see the cradle with its living household treasures in it. With almost superhuman efforts, and at the risk of their own lives, the cradle was rescued from the burning house. The children had been tucked so closely under the covers that they were still sleeping securely where their kind mother had placed them. Their names were Dorothy and Phœbe Furbush. Dolly, as she was called, married John Dennett, my great grandfather, and Phœbe married Elisha Littlefield, my husband's grandfather. This narrative I obtained from him in manuscript form; also, Mother Littlefield has told me incidents enough to fill up a volume.

After twenty years' absence, the poor, weary, worn mother of the little twin girls made her appearance at the same spot where she had been captured. But, oh! how changed.

Instead of the dense forest or huge stumps around the door, beautiful meadows waved their golden grain, and a good, substantial house covered the same cellar where her own had formerly stood. As she gazed intently on the scene before her, the well with its tall sweep and oaken bucket caught her attention—the same old well she had helped her husband dig long years ago. Then turning to see the little rivulet that flowed along at the foot of the hill on which the house stood, there, also, changes met her view. A large saw mill had been erected, and immense piles of lumber, with their uncouth dimensions, adorned what was the beautiful green hillside of her girlish fancy.

But she, thinking that her husband and children had gone from her sight forever, yet knowing that the lands before her were her own by right, gathered courage to knock faintly at the door. A modest, neatly-dressed young woman came to the door, holding in her arms a babe (the babe was Joseph Littlefield, and the mother of the child was Phœbe Furbush Littlefield, who had married Elisha Littlefield, and lived on the old place.) On seeing the babe, all the mother nature was at once aroused, and she cried out, in bitterness of spirit,—

"It is my child! Give it to me! Give me both of them!"

At the sound of the well-known voice, a shattered, prematurely old man came hobbling to the door with the exclamation—

"It is her! My wife! The dead has truly come to life again, the graves are opened!"

The scene beggars description. There stood upon the same threshold the husband and wife, young no longer, each looking intently in the other's face, trying to gather some faint resemblance to the young husband and wife who had separated long years ago. The daughter, also, who had heard the oft-told tale of her mother's captivity and supposed death, was no less interested.

After the first surprise, and order had been restored, the neighbors came flocking into the house to hear of her wonderful escape from her captors. Strange as it may seem, she had lost much of her native language, which she had not heard spoken for many years. Her story was as follows: After tying her hands and stifling her cries for help by filling her mouth with her handkerchief, the Indians showed her a tomahawk and performed a gesture of scalping. This was done to scare her into silence. They had no thought of killing her. Her extreme beauty saved her life. The old Indian chief who had planned her capture was a widower of a few days, with a little baby boy to be cared for, the mother squaw having died on her way to the settlement. So this dark savage came to the conclusion that it would be best to secure this fair white woman for a bride. The baby was brought to her by the inhuman wretch, whom she had seen prostrate her noble, youthful husband to the ground, and then had seen him set fire to the hut in which her own darlings were happily sleeping face to face. The poor mother could not at first touch this little black thing; but its cries soon brought her to herself. She saw in it a deliverance from present death at least, and accepted it as sent from Heaven—for hard as her lot seemed, still she could not but believe that God was over all.

While the settlers were trying to save what they could from the fire and all were busy, the Indians skulked back into the deep forest, taking her along with them. They turned westward, and commenced their weary march through the wilderness, stopping by night only long enough to cook what little venison they could trap or otherwise secure on their way. After long months of weary travel over broad forests whose silence had never been broken by the sound of a human voice, save the Indian whoop, and where railroads and canals now carry their thousands, crossing streams of water in canoes where steamboats now go, they at last reached the great lakes, their home.

There then must be her future home. After she had learned some of their language, enough to understand what the old savage meant, he came to her and demanded of her to become his wife. This she refused to do, and preparations were made to roast her alive. Still she was firm. After frightening her all that they could, they released her to endure still greater sufferings. But time passed on and the aged chief fell in battle. His sons hunted for her and treated her kindly, but they refused to grant her her liberty.

The baby boy, her adopted child, grew to be a man in stature, obeying and loving her as a son. It was the bright spot in her existence. The Indian women reverenced her as something more than human. She taught them how to cook, and nursed them when they were sick, and was considered by them to be a sort of medicine woman or magician, as they called her. She might have been happy in her rude wigwam home if the one dreadful scene of her capture could have been obliterated from her memory. Her incessant longing for her own people at last took shape in a determination to escape from the Indians. Dried venison was packed away for future use, corn parched, moccasins made, and such other preparations as she thought to be necessary for an extended journey.

On a dark night in the spring, when all around her were asleep, she silently stole away, travelling eastward, toward the rising sun until she reached the Atlantic coast. Here she met with settlers, who aided her by purchasing such trinkets as she had brought with her. She at last found her home, only to find her husband on the verge of the grave, both daughters married, each holding in her arms her first-born. Dolly's child was Joseph Dennett, and Phœbe's child was Joseph Littlefield.

John Dennett of Kittery married Dorothy Furbush of Wells, and their first home was in Kittery, where Joseph Dennett, our grandfather, was born; afterward they moved to Wells, while grandfather was yet a babe.

[It is a fact worthy of mention that Mrs. Lydia A. Littlefield, author of the foregoing narrative, is a descendent from John Dennett and Dorothy Furbush, one of the twin babies in the cradle; and her husband, Cyrus K. Littlefield, is a descendent from Elisha Littlefield and Phœbe Furbush, the other twin babe in the cradle.—Maine Democrat.

Political.

Somebody asks; "Why did Fisk and Gould pay Tilden $1,000,000 in 1867 and 1868 for services to the Erie railway?" We give it up.

The Cincinnati Enquirer, a rampant inflation paper, significantly says: "The Steubenville Gazette, one of the most pronounced greenback journals in the State, has hoisted the names of Tilden and Hendricks. The letters did it."

And still they come. The Putnam News, the only democratic organ in Windham county, Conn., is out for Hayes and Wheeler.

The debt of the democratic city of New York, with a population but little more than that of South Carolina, is fourteen times that of the latter. Democratic economists call South Carolina a debt-ridden State. What of New York?

L. W. Humphrey, a member of the democratic Central State Committee of North Carolina, has resigned and declared for Hayes for President and Judge Settle for Governor.

COOKED CORNED BEEF.

Articles are being published calculated to prejudice the public against using Cooked Corned Beef, and we would say in answer to them that in no instance has positive proof been established to show that such is the case.

Our goods are packed in a manner very similar to that of Corn, Tomatoes, Fruit and canned goods generally, (which have long been tested) and we use nothing whatever of a poisonous nature in their preparation.

In addition to our own statement we have the strong endorsement of Prof. Horsford of Cambridge, one of the most eminent Chemists in the country, who has fully tested and is familiar with the entire details of the preparation of our goods.

We would also state that we use none but the choicest of Beef that our Chicago market affords, and trust that with these statements the rapidly growing popularity of our Corned Beef may be increased.

For the information of those not knowing the fact we would state that in the process of canning there is a liability of imperfect sealing, which causes the can to expand. Meat contained in such cans is unfit for use and will be cheerfully paid for when returned to any grocer selling it.

PILOT BREAD.

This kind of bread having come into extensive family use, it has been my purpose to furnish, from choice materials, an article which should meet the approval of the most fastidious as to neatness, looks and taste. Whether I have succeeded in giving to the public a PILOT BREAD,

SUPERIOR IN EXCELLENCE,

the consumer may be the judge; that the quality will not be suffered to depreciate, the past with the present is my best pledge. That I can compete with all the various qualities of Pilot Bread in the market, as to price, I make no pretensions,—but in price, all things being equal, I fear no competition.

REASONS WHY FARMERS should purchase

The Halladay Wind-Mill

It is the first reliable self-regulating Wind Mill ever made, and continues to lead the van.

It has stood the test of nearly a quarter of a century, and has gained a reputation as broad as its use is extensive.

It is the only wind mill generally adopted on all the railroads.

It is the cheapest wind mill.

The United States Wind Engine and Pump Co. have the largest wind mill manufactory in the world. We are willing to put our mill upon its merits. We ask an investigation of facts and motives. We only appreciate the patronage and support we have received in the past, and while we solicit a continuance of favors, we strive to merit them. We are the pioneers in the production of a wind mill adapted to the use of farmers.

—A new way of enforcing payment of bank deposits was illustrated in Eldorado, Kansas. The bank at that place having recently closed its doors, two of the depositors appeared before its officers and demanded their money at the point of a pistol. The argument was short and decisive, and resulted in the immediate payment of the claim. Learning of their success, a third depositor sought to imitate their example and got into a wrangle with the President, Mr. Gossard, the latter drawing a pistol and snapping it several times. Then the depositor, named Shehan, shot and killed Gossard instantly. This tragedy terminated the payment of deposits for the day.

MR. THOMAS W. LANE:—I commenced taking DR. QUAIN'S CONDITION PILLS February 1st, and I write you February 22d of their wonderful effect. I have continued to improve ever since. My appetite is good, and I sleep as well as I ever did in my life. I am free from pain for the first time in three years. When I was taken sick four years ago, I weighed one hundred and eighty-six pounds; I now weigh one hundred and thirty, but, as I am gaining in strength, I have no fears I shall regain my flesh this summer, by the use of the Pills. I shall continue taking them for some time to come.
Yours truly, JOHN W. LORD.
Dr. Quain's Pills the Remedy for Soldiers' Aches and Pains.
WEST LEBANON, ME., June 1, 1875.
MR. THOMAS W. LANE—Dear Sir:—I am now able to walk out every day, and am gaining in strength very fast, all of which is due to you as agent for the best Pills in the world. I have taken no other medicine, and my improvement has been steady since first taking DR. QUAIN'S CONDITION PILLS. They have done everything for me, and I will say to you, advertise them direct to the soldiers, for they will certainly cure them of aches and pains contracted from exposure and hardship on the field. Please send me by return mail another package.

Rheumatism for Twenty Years Cured by One Package of Dr. Quain's Condition Pills—"The Best Medicine in the World."
EAST ANDOVER, N. H., Dec. 10, 1875.
MR. LANE—Dear Sir:—As I know the value of DR. QUAIN'S CONDITION PILLS and the good they have done me, I take pleasure in giving them praise; so I send you another testimonial. My father has been troubled with Rheumatism for twenty years or more, and has tried everything that could be thought of, but to no good. At times it would be so bad that he could not lift his hand to his head or do any work at all, especially in cold weather. A short time ago I advised him to get some of these Pills. He believed nothing in them, but I gave him the last package I had with me. He did not need them, and he has not been as free from the Rheumatic Complaint for years. No Rheumatism, no pain. What helped him? It was DR. QUAIN'S CONDITION PILLS, the best medicine in the world. There is nothing like them. I know it, for I have tried them, and they are all, yes, more than they are recommended to be. Give them a fair trial and you will say so. I write this because I feel the goodness of them and wish others to know the same. Some may think I am telling a big story. I am. But remember I am not giving them half the praise they ought to have.
Yours with respect, ED. F. PEVARE.
Wonderful Effect of Four Doses of Dr. Quain's Condition Pills upon Neuralgia of Twelve Years' Duration—Testimony of Rev. J. S. Patton.
DAINGERFIELD, MORRIS CO., TEXAS, NOV. 15, 75.
MR. THOMAS W. LANE—Dear Sir:—I have been afflicted for about twelve years with Neuralgia in the face and head. I tried I do not know how many physicians, and could only get partly relieved. I also tried many patent medicines with the same result. I have been confined to my room most all the time for eight or ten winters, and have been traveling and visiting medical springs, and I still suffered most intensely. The physicians pronounced my case the worst and most stubborn that they had had anything to do with. One told me I could never get well; that I would go down to the grave in the winter, and thought that was the only chance for me, and I was trying to get ready to go to Florida, when through the kindness of Rev. H. M. Mudie, my attention was called to the advertisement of Dr. Quain's Magic Condition Pills. I immediately sent to you for a package. I have taken four doses and I am almost free from pain. The impression here seems to be that your pills will cure me, that I will cure anybody. I have five applications to send for the pills. Enclosed please find three dollars; send five packages to the above Mrs. Laura Sherrell, Sulphur Springs, Hopkins county, Texas.
Yours truly, J. S. PATTON.
Liver Complaint, Nervousness, Dropsy and Headache.
LACONIA, N. H., Jan. 29, 1875.
THOS. W. LANE—Sir:—I have been troubled with Bad Blood, Liver Complaint, Nervousness, Dropsy and Headache. I have taken one package of DR. QUAIN'S CONDITION PILLS. They have done me more good than all the medicine I ever took; I have taken considerable medicine within the last five years. For the nerves I think there is nothing so good as those pills. I can recommend them to all who are similarly afflicted; they have done me so much good. I think they will recommend themselves wherever they go. I shall recommend those Pills to all who need them. Please send me two packages more, one for myself and one for a lady friend of mine. Many thanks to the inventor, agent and advertiser of those Pills.
MRS. F. L. ELLIOTT.

PULMOCINE.

BUCHMAN'S PULMOCINE CORDIAL

Is the ultima thule of Medical Discovery.

Among its many ingredients are Wild Cherry Bark, Squill Root, Liquorice Root, Blood root, &c. It is a Blood Purifier, gently stimulating. It increases expectoration and is diuretic. It is sudorific and alterative. It is a necessary family medicine. It is a Tonic and a powerful aid to the digestive organs. It is a gentle sedative, and relieves nervousness. It is aromatic and agreeable to the taste.

CLEAR YOUR THROAT!

Relieve Your Lungs.

For the terrible diseases engendered by the lung trying climate of New England,

PULMOCINE CORDIAL

Is a speedy and reliable Preventive and Remedy. Every Family should have a bottle at hand to check the sudden growth of all Pulmonary Diseases. For the Asthma, Coughs, Croups, Laryngitis, or inflammation of the larynx, Diphtheria, and all kindred Throat Diseases at all times prevalent, it is the ounce of Prevention. Children attacked with Whooping Cough or Croup should be immediately cared for. These painful attacks come with scarcely a moment's warning, when a physician may be out of immediate reach. A dose of PULMOCINE CORDIAL gives speedy relief, and the little ones are spared hours of pain and agony. As "a stitch in time saves nine," so does the possession of this Family Medicine prevent the spread of disease. Parents seeing their children gasping with pain, friends and relatives beholding each other in peril from suffocation by the choking pain in the throat, paralyzed with fear and not knowing the best course to pursue, are liable to apply the wrong remedial agents. There is no safety in delay, no time to waste in such cases. CONSUMPTION, that fearful scourge of the human race, lies at the door of all this afflicted. BUCHMAN'S PULMOCINE CORDIAL arrests it (unless in its advanced stage at which time there is no local cure) relieves the pressing, suffocating feeling at the lungs, and the patient's danger is past.

For Coughs,

Croup,

Diphtheria,

Asthma, etc.,

—USE—

Buchman's Pulmocine Cordial.

The Pulmocine Cordial is not a quack medicine, is not an experiment, is not composed of any ingredients "discovered" by "walking in pastures" in South America or anywhere else, nor by one who discovered a weed and thereby cured himself. Most of the ingredients are such as our best educated physicians daily use for the complaints specified in some form or other. The recipe is that perfected by one of New England's most learned and famous physicians, who used it entirely in his daily practice until his death. It is offered to the profession and to the public, absolutely pure and unadulterated.

LINCOLN BUTTER POWDER.

Good Fresh Butter All The Year Round.

BUTTER IN 20 MINUTES.

Lincoln Butter Powder is an entirely harmless article made from a celebrated English recipe, and now is daily use in many of the most noted farmers in the butter counties around Philadelphia.

In hot weather this Powder makes butter much firmer and sweeter than it usually is, and keeps it from turning rancid. It also removes the strong flavor of turnips, weeds, corn stalks, cotton seed, etc.; and the increased yield of butter much more than pays the trifling expense of using it.

Portsmouth Chronicle.

—A Detroit Alderman, who is quite notorious for holding that citizens have no rights which the city is bound to care for and respect, was waited upon do a constituent, who passed the time of day and remarked: "Alderman, suppose that an old swill cart driving past my—" "Swill-carts are a necessary public nuisance, and I can't interfere with them," interrupted the Alderman. "Well, hear me out, anyway. Suppose an old swill-cart comes banging along, the two boys on the seat in a fight, and the horse runs over my nice lawn, bangs into my fence, and three barrels of swill upset at my gate! Have I any redress?" "Not a bit, sir, not a bit. Accidents will happen in spite of all precautions." The constituent didn't seem to be greatly cast down, but one reason why was because the swill had been upset at the Alderman's gate. When the official reached home and saw the muss he wasn't fifteen seconds deciding that: "This is the grossest outrage of the century, and I'll abolish swill-carts or die in the harness!"

—A gentleman in Danbury, Conn., has long been annoyed by his neighbor's hens, which made a daily practice of roving through his front garden and back yard. And what did this worthy gentleman do? He just went patiently and put some old hats and hay under his steps and in the barn, and when those hens came on their marauding expeditions those that came to scratch remained to lay. He has had all the fresh eggs he wanted this Spring, and has sold $4.60 worth to the man who owns the hens.

The Hudson Register suggests that Columbia County, the birth-place of Martin Van Buren and Samuel J. Tilden, should give him a numerous vote. In no county in the State will Tilden be so badly beaten as in the county where he was born. He was the lowest man on the democratic ticket two years ago. Old Yarbs and his patent paregoric are too well known in Columbia. N. Y. Com. Adv.

Centaur Liniments.

White for the Human Family.

Yellow for Horses and Animals.

These Liniments are simply the wonder of the world. Their effects are little less than marvellous, yet there are some things which they will not do. They will not cure cancer or mend broken bones, but they will always allay pain. They have straightened fingers, cured chronic rheumatism of many years standing, and taken the pain from terrible burns and scalds, which has never been done by any other article.

THE WHITE LINIMENT is for the human family. It will drive Rheumatism, Sciatica and Neuralgia from the system; cure Lumbago, Chillblains, Palsy, Itch, and most Cutaneous Eruptions; it extracts frost from frozen hands and feet, and the poison of bites and stings of venomous reptiles; it subdues swellings, and alleviates pain of every kind.

For sprains or bruises it is the most potent remedy ever discovered. The Centaur Liniment is used with great efficacy for Sore Throat, Toothache, Caked Breasts, Earache, and Weak Back. The following is but a sample of numerous testimonials:

"INDIANA HOME, JEFF. CO., IND., May 29, 1875.

"I think it my duty to inform you that I have suffered much with swollen feet and chordis. I have not been free from these swellings in eight years. Now I am perfectly well, thanks to the Centaur Liniment. The Liniment ought to be applied warm.

BENJAMIN BROWN."

The proof is in the trial. It is reliable, it is handy it is cheap, and every family should have it.

To the sick and bed-ridden, the halt and lame, to the wounded and sore, we say, "Come and be healed."

To the poor and distressed who have spent their money for worthless medicines, a bottle of CENTAUR LINIMENT will be given without charge.

THE YELLOW CENTAUR LINIMENT is adapted to the tough muscles, cords and flesh of horses and animals. It has performed more wonderful cures of Spavin, Strain, Wind-galls, Scratches, Sweeny, and general Lameness, than all other remedies in existence. Read what the great Expressmen say of it:

"NEW YORK, January, 1874.

"Every owner of horses should give the CENTAUR LINIMENT a trial. We consider it the best article ever used in our stables.

"H. MARSH, Supt. Adams Ex. Stables, N. Y.

"G. P. MILTZ, Supt. U. S. Ex. Stables, N. Y.

"ALBERT S. OLIN, Supt. Nat. Ex. Stables, N. Y."

"MONTGOMERY, ALA., Aug. 17, 1874.

"GENTLEMEN.—I have used over one gross of CENTAUR LINIMENT, yellow wrapper, on the mules of my plantation, besides dozens of the family Liniment for my negroes. I want to purchase it at the wholesale price, and will thank you to ship me by Savannah steamer one gross of each kind. Messrs. A. T. Stewart & Co. will pay your bill on presentation.

"Respectfully, JAMES DARROW."

The best patrons of this Liniment are Farriers and Veterinary Surgeons. It heals Galls, Wounds and Poll-evil, removes Swellings, and is worth millions of dollars to Farmers, Livery-men, Stock-growers, Sheep-raisers, and those having horses or cattle.

What a Farrier cannot do for $20 the Centaur Liniment will do at a trifling cost.

These Liniments are warranted by the proprietors, and a bottle will be given to any Farrier or Physician who desires to test them. Sold everywhere.

Castoria.

Is a pleasant and perfect substitute, in all cases, for CASTOR OIL. Castoria is the result of an old Physician's effort to produce, for his own practice, an effective cathartic, pleasant to the taste and free from griping.

Dr. Samuel Pitcher, of Hyannis, Mass., succeeded in combining, without the use of alcohol, a purgative agent as pleasant to take as honey, and which possesses all the desirable properties of Castor Oil.

It is adapted to all ages, but is especially recommended to mothers as a reliable remedy for all disorders of the stomach and bowels of children. It is certain, agreeable, absolutely harmless, and cheap. It should be used for wind colic, sour stomach worms, costiveness, croup, &c., then children can have sleep and mothers may rest.

J. B. ROSE & Co., of 46 Dey Street, New York, are the sole proprietors of Castoria, after Dr. Pitcher's recipe.

FOR PRESIDENT,

Rutherford B. Hayes,

OF OHIO.

FOR VICE PRESIDENT,

William A. Wheeler,

OF NEW YORK.

Hayes' Platform in War.

In 1864, when Hayes was in the army, being nominated for Congress he was requested to come home and stump his district. His reply was, "I have other business just now. Any man who would leave the army at this time to electioneer for Congress ought to be scalped!"

Hayes' Platform in Peace.

"Honest money for all, and free schools for all. There should be no inflation which will depreciate the one, nor sectarian interference which will destroy the other."

Correspondence.

WASHINGTON, D. C., August 11.

In defiance of the prostration induced by an eight months' session in the miserably ventilated House and Senate chambers, intensified by the present hot weather, the past ten days at both ends of the Capital have been largely devoted to campaign work rather than legislation; and a marked indifference is observable among the leaders of both parties relative to adjournment; although the newner and less consequential members have so generally acted upon the promptings of homesickness as to have left the Senate largely reduced and the House with hardly a quorum. If the leaders of the Ku-Klux savages could appreciate the burdens they impose on democratic members of Congress in denying their existence, or in belittling and apologizing for their cold-blooded butcheries, there would be a cessation of them for the next three months except where they were imperatively necessary during the campaign to insure the absence of republican voters from the polls at the November elections.

The evidence in the hands of the committee that investigated the last Mississippi election shows that it is entirely feasible in the South to so overwhelm whole communities with dread and terror as to practically disfranchise republican voters. This appears to have been accomplished in Mississippi by a resort to every means calculated to be effectual, emphasized by the requisite number of murders, judiciously distributed. The barbaric social condition of such communities can be imperfectly estimated when it is shown, as by the testimony taken, that even ministers of the gospel not only tacitly approved, but in one instance, at least, led the low savages in their ghastly work. This report, and the facts of the Hamburg massacre, have taxed democratic ingenuity to its utmost capacity in Congress; and the inconsiderate action of democratic constituencies in the late insurrectionary States has obliged every apologist therefor to sink out of sight every sentiment of humanity, justice, mercy and manhood, having an eye single only to the rehabilitation of the rebel-democratic party. Of course there is only one provocation urged in extenuation of these outrages—the morale of negroes, scallawags and carpet-baggers. But it would appear that no one at all conversant with the history of political and social events in this country during the past quarter of a century, need be deceived by such an absurd plea, which shows the frightful extremity to which democracy is reduced; and no one can fail to note the similarity of the spirit now prevailing, with that existing prior to the war, which deemed the possession of a copy of Uncle Tom's Cabin or the New York Tribune deserving of punishment by torture or death, or both.

Tilden's letter is generally regarded as a surrender to the inflation wing of his party, and Hendricks has been avenged for the slight of the St. Louis convention. It is the general verdict that amid all the ambiguities of Mr. Tilden's letter his purpose is evident to make a clean sweep of republican officials, should he succeed in reaching the White House; and no one has yet been able to discover that he commits himself, in his letter, to any of the reforms to which he was so hastily converted after his confidential relations with the "Boss" and his pet thieves had been shown up through the revelations that followed the assaults of the New York Times.

Mr. Blueford Wilson and Mr. Yaryan have been so often contradicted by all the other witnesses examined in their efforts to convict the President of lukewarmness in the whisky prosecutions, as to vitiate their testimony; and the discovery of public papers, including the Barnard letter, in the boxes Mr. Wilson had caused to be packed to be sent to him as his private papers, and his statements that he had no evidence of the President's indifference save his effort to shield Babcock, his unwilling admission that he believed the President had special reference to Babcock when he wrote the let-no-guilty-man-escape endorsement, and his virtual contradiction of Yaryan's statement that the President made it very reluctantly, has wrought a great change in public sentiment here, not very favorable to either. Senator Logan's testimony will very likely increase this feeling against them.

MAXWELL.

Louisiana.

A couple of "confidential" circulars issued by the democratic State Committee of Louisiana for the guidance of the faithful, have fallen into republican hands, and are worth noting as a key to Southern democratic tactics in the Presidential campaign. Every parish, and where possible, every township, is to have its organization, not so much to bring out the democratic vote as to impress the negroes with a belief that opposition to the democracy is futile and dangerous. Coercion in its grosser forms is not, indeed, prescribed. There is no specific order to prevent republican assemblages or to shoot down those who are daring enough to adhere to the republican cause. But there are many and suggestive instructions for appealing to the fears of the colored voters, and, by a display of superior force, overawing them into submission. "You cannot convince a negro's reason," say the committee, "but you can impress him by positive statements continually repeated." The positive statement which is specially enjoined is that the democrats are determined at any cost to carry the State, and that they are sufficiently strong to do it. To give effect to the declaration, members of the democratic clubs are to parade on horseback whenever the negroes assemble, and particular care is to be taken to mark any white man who shall make an appeal which the democratic regulators consider "of an incendiary character." Neutrality is not to be tolerated. Mr. Hendricks reverently remarked to his Johnstown audience, "As our great Master eighteen hundred years ago said, 'You have got to be with me or against me.' So these New Orleans managers bid their organized brethren to make everybody understand "that whosoever is not for us is against us," and with this maxim for their guidance they are to go forth "a disciplined political body," mounted and equipped for any emergency.

New Hampshire Items.

A violent thunder-shower passed over Richmond Sunday afternoon. The barn of Medad Evans was struck by lightning, and, with its contents, destroyed. A blacksmith shop belonging to Willard Randall was also struck, and a person passing was prostrated by the shock, but not severely injured.

At the last sitting of the old Superior Court, the action of the selectmen of the town of Mason in fixing the boundaries between that town and Granville was declared void on account of fraud. In the case of the State vs. William Barrett, late solicitor of Hillsborough County, charged with misconduct in his profession, the Court rendered a decision ordering that the name of the respondent be stricken from the roll of attorneys. Barrett is in the West. He was one of the democratic officials whom the republicans found in office when they regained the State after Weston's first administration, and whom they left in.

The house of George H. Clark of Sherburne was entered by burglars, Monday night and the kitchen completely cleared of crockery, napkins, silver ware and table cloths. The rogues entered by the kitchen window.

Moody, the revivalist, preached to a very large congregation in Winchester on Sunday.

Trial terms of the Supreme Court for the autumn of 1876 have been assigned as follows: Colebrook, August 15, Doe, C. J.; Newport, September 5, Stanley, J.; Nashua, September 5, Bingham J.; Dover, September 5, Allen, J.; Laconia, September 26, Foster, J.; Haverhill, September 26, Sawyer, J.; Concord, October 3, Stanley, J.; Portsmouth, October 17, Doe, C. J.; Keene, October 17, Foster, J.; Ossipee, October 17, Allen, J.; Lancaster, November 7, Sawyer, J.; Plymouth, November 7, Bingham, J.

Martin Slaughter, in attempting to climb over a fence at the county farm, in Dover, while intoxicated, fell and broke his neck, killing him instantly.

Last April the wife of Alvin P. Johnson, of Bridgewater, disappeared, and no trace of her was found until her dead body was discovered in the Ashuelot river on Thursday last, and identified by remnants of clothing upon it. Johnson, who is a young jailbird, has been arrested for murder, but takes the whole matter unconcernedly.

News and Notes.

Hon. James G. Blaine addressed an immense audience at Portland, Monday, making a speech worthy of himself and which was enthusiastically received. Not half the people who wished to attend the meeting could get into the hall.

It is depressing to learn that those military posts on the Yellowstone, for which the democratic House, at the last moment, consented to provide an appropriation, can not be got ready for use during this summer's campaign. This is the season of low water, and the Yellowstone is so empty that the necessary material can not be carried over the shoals. So the campaign must be carried on, this summer, with our army relying on a base of supplies three or four hundred miles away, and no line of communication save a shoaling river and a dangerous trail. For this the democratic policy of "retrenchment" must be praised.

Dory Centennial, Capt. Johnson, put into a port in Wales last week for provisions. Capt. Johnson reported that his cockleshell was capsized once on the voyage from Gloucester, Mass., but he managed to right her and free her of water.

Mrs. Peter L. Osborne, of Palmyra, Maine, drowned herself and her seven-years-old daughter in a pond recently, while insane.

The English court decisions noticed on another page, wherein Baron Amphlett sentenced a man who had killed his wife (and who pleaded guilty,) to six months' imprisonment, and in the next case called, wherein a man was accused of the theft of four fleeces of wool (which he denied), sentenced him to five years penal servitude, is more than paralleled every week by courts in this country. A man in New York robbed another of a watch and chain in the street at night. Yesterday the culprit was sentenced by Recorder Hackett, who imposed the extreme penalty of twenty years in State prison. In the same city, where wife-murderers are punished by a few months' detention in an insane asylum, men are only sentenced to one year's imprisonment for the crime of bigamy—a worse crime against a woman than actual murder,—and even this farcical punishment is considered too severe by Governor Tilden, who this week pardoned out a bigamist who had not served out half his year.—Portland Advertiser.

The report of Terry's fight with the Sioux, in which the Indians had many killed, and Sitting Bull was wounded, is confirmed. The report of Crook's victory is credited on the frontier, but is not confirmed.

The first cable of the New York and Brooklyn suspension bridge was hauled across on Monday. Two wires were put in place on that day.

A passenger by the steamer Colima, which arrived at San Francisco, on Saturday afternoon, reports that when the steamer left Mazatlan, on the evening of August 5, the city was filled with exciting rumors of insurrection in the interior. A battle had been fought between the government troops and the insurgents; 15,000 had engaged the insurgents, and were defeated with heavy loss. The rebels were reported to be falling back toward the coast, and it was feared that part of the forces would attack Mazatlan.

Political.

When Carl Schurz left the republican party and supported the democratic nominee for the Presidency, the democratic press gushed mightily over his incorruptible honor and virtue, and devotion to principle rather than party; also, his influence over "the German vote" was overpowering. Now that he is opposing the democratic nominees their eyes have been opened; he is a venal trickster and no statesman, has no principles to speak of and no influence at all. But Franz Sigel, who holds a $30,000 office under Tilden's administration and goes for the great "reformer," is a pure man and a virtuous, and carries "the German vote" in his pocket. Yet notwithstanding Sigel fights mit Tilden, the German Turners of Rochester, New York, six societies, have, by an almost unanimous vote, thrown over the Zukunft, the Turner organ, because it supports Tilden. There were but two votes in the negative.

Henry S. Foote, of Mississippi, once Senator of the United States, and more recently a member of the Confederate Congress, has declared for Hayes and Wheeler.

At the time of holding a democratic convention in Okolona, Mississippi, a few days ago, four rebel flags were displayed and men paraded in Confederate uniform.

Brick Pomeroy opposes Tilden bitterly. That is bad; but it would be still worse if he supported Hayes. Fortunately he is quite as bitter against Hayes as against Tilden, so the democrats can't taunt us with having the support of the greatest blackguard and blatherer in the country.

"Live within your income," says Governor Tilden. "Pay what thou owest," say the swindled stockholders of the Terre Haute Railroad.

A democratic exchange, after eulogising Samuel J. Tilden as a true patriot at the commencement of the rebellion, says: "And yet there are many who spread with avidity the base-scandal that Tilden was in direct opposition to the Union, and active in his endeavors to aid the Southern Confederacy. Why do they not look up the records, and see on what a slim foundation their fabrication rests? The letters which Mr. Tilden wrote in that 'time which tried men's souls' show in 'black and white' what manner of man he was." Very good; if the democrats want to prove "what manner of man" Tilden was when the nation's life was in danger, why don't they publish some of the letters he "wrote at that time," and thus overwhelm his alleged traducers?

The miserable bunglers who have put the negro in the Constitution have certainly written themselves down asses, all. When we accept "results of the war" we do not accept the notions of statesmen, but the blunders of unreasoning malice and stupidity, and, of course, we continue to accept it only so long as we are compelled to.—Meridian (Miss.) Mercury.

The radical party of Mississippi contend that intimidation won the white-line-victory. It is not the first time, neither will it be the last time in which intimidation has been successfully used. Let the white men not be afraid to intimidate evil-doers. Intimidation is legitimate, perfectly legitimate.—Okolona (Miss.) States.

The New York Times has issued a "campaign edition" which should be spread broadcast over the country. It unsparingly shows up Tilden's record as a patriot and reformer—also as a secessionist at the outbreak of the war and a sympathizer with the rebellion all through it; as an ally of Tweed's until alliance with him became unprofitable; as a promoter of wild-cat currency in Michigan, etc. It also contains several columns of democratic comments concerning Tilden, published before he was nominated; and other interesting matter. Gov. Hendricks' record is also dissected, though less extensively than Gov. Tilden's. What kind of patriots and "reformers" the two democratic candidates are is made plain.

Much merriment has been created in Washington by the exhibition of genuine "Tilden pills," with descriptive circulars said to have been written by Samuel in his youthful days.

They are now saying in Washington that the National Democratic Committee has considerably difficulty in obtaining money. Did you ever see a partridge feigning injury and looking as if it could be easily captured, in order to draw you away from the nest?

The Evansville (Ind.) Journal, having studied Hendricks' letter of acceptance, asks leave to report: "He plants himself squarely and fearlessly upon both sides of the democratic national platform, and intimates in spirit if not in words, that he proposes to fight it out on that line, if it takes him all Summer."

Mr. Tilden's slur upon the republican administration of the government, that it has not been "living within its income," is answered by the fact that since the close of the war the government has paid four hundred millions of the debt made necessary by the acts of Tilden's own partisans.

Economy is a very proper thing for people to practice. But Governor Tilden didn't think of that when he was drawing half a million a year from the treasury of the Erie Company, which he could not, by any possibility, have honestly earned. He wasn't willing then to aid that Company in resuming the payment of dividend by practicing economy. He grabbed all he could get without caring whether the stockholders ever got a cent on their investment.—Dayton Journal.

Phelps, the democratic candidate for Governor of Missouri, is in trouble. The charges lately made public concerning his acts on board the steamer Andy Johnson, terminating in a lecherous assault upon a young lady, have excited widespread comment, and in some democratic circles the advisability of allowing him to remain on the ticket was formally discussed. The charges, as they now stand, are specific ones, and Mr. Phelps has no alternative but to disprove them, or go into the canvass a disgraced man, expecting the fact to make no difference with democratic voters.

—An Iowa newspaper tells a story of a man in the town where it is published who stood upon the cover of a cistern to peep through a window into a room where he suspected some courting was going on and who got a ducking by the cover of the cistern giving way, which resulted in a slight attack of the typhoid fever. In the same number of his paper, the editor says: "We had quite severe symptoms of typhoid fever last week," and a rival newspaper had the meanness to print both paragraphs in such close proximity as to suggest most unpleasant suspicions.

—A man named Bowman was committed to the Bergen county (N. Y.,) jail by Justice Ruettinger, of Carlstadt, on a novel complaint. His wife charged him with white-washing her. They quarrelled periodically, and the last time he held her down until he had whitewashed her from head to to foot. She made her appearance at court in lime, and her husband was sent up for thirty days.

Don't Poison Your System

With such hurtful drugs as quinine, calomel, or blue pills, but take instead that safe, prompt and agreeable substitute, Hostetters's Stomach Bitters, which, whether it is used to remedy or prevent malarial fevers, overcome general debility, or to correct torpidity of the liver and bowels, will in every case be found fully adequate to the wants of the sick and feeble. It entirely removes dyspetic symptoms, and by stimulating the flow of gastric juice, facilitates digestion and insures the conversion of food into blood, whereby the system is efficiently nourished and regains its lost vigor. This great vegetable restorative has received the endorsement of men of science, the press has repeatedly borne voluntary testimony to its excellence, and the public has long since given it the preference to every medicine of its kind.

American Belles.

America is justly proud of her beautiful ladies, but how many mar their beauty, and lose their health and youth, become prematurely old in appearance, by neglecting to take proper care of their teeth. There can be no excuse for this, as SOZODONT, pronounced by all worthy a place between the sweetest lips, can now be had in all civilized countries.

ENGINE COMPANY ELECTIONS.

On Monday evening Engine Companies Nos. 2, 3 and 4, at special meetings elected officers as follows:

Sagamore S. F. Engine Co., No. 2—Foreman, Frank E. Osgood, vice Thornton Betton, resigned; 1st. Asst., John D. Randall, vice Frank E. Osgood, promoted.

Kearsargo S. F. Engine Co., No. 3—Foreman, Ira C. Seymour, vice Willard J. Sampson, resigned; 1st Asst., John E. Harmon, vice William S. Hazel, resigned.

Moses H. Goodrich S. F. Engine Co., No. 4—Foreman, James Frank Shannon; 1st Asst., John E. Banks; 2d Asst., W. E. Pinder; Steward, W. P. Stover; Pipeman, Geo. F. Pinder.

POLICE COURT.

Judge Bufford having gone on a brief trip to the Centennial, and the newly-appointed Chief Justice not being as yet inducted into office, William H. Hackett, Esq., was requested by the "Court" to preside until another officer should appear. On Tuesday the new officers brought up four cases of drunkenness, of which all but one pleaded guilty. The three went by the twelve o'clock train to Brentwood, and the fourth man was found guilty, fined, and loaned the city $9.60.

Sheriff Kent subsequently appeared with a man charged by Police Officer Keen of Rye with cruelly overdriving a horse in Rye on Sunday. The defendant was a denial, Ex-Judge Page appearing for the respondent and Ex-County Solicitor Frink for the prosecution. Considerable contradictory evidence was offered. The Court imposed a fine of twenty dollars, from which sentence the defendant claimed an appeal.

THE JAIL.

Ex-Sheriff Rowe will leave the jail today and Sheriff Kent will assume the charge of affairs there; but he will not occupy the house as a residence for at least a month, as extensive repairs are to be made. The chimney, fifteen feet square at the base, is to be entirely taken down and out, and a modern one built in its stead. The house is to be renovated throughout, painted and papered, and gas introduced. This has been needed for a long time and is a judicious expenditure of money by the County Commissioners. Col. Kent will have the superintending of the repairs. A deputy jailer will have the immediate charge of the prisoners, under the general orders of the Sheriff, while the house is being repaired. Col. Kent begins his service as Sheriff as though he meant business.

JOTTINGS.

The picnic of the Reform Club at Pinkham's Grove on Thursday, Aug. 17, promises to be an attractive affair. Dancing, sack racing, three-legged racing, tub racing, swinging, croquet, foot ball, burlesque performances, presentation speeches, responses, etc., help fill up the programme, altho' even all this does not exhaust it. Trains leave the Eastern Railroad station at 9, 11 and 3. Tickets 35 cents; children 25.

Rev. James DeNormandie preached in the church at Star Island on Sunday.

The first payment on the Old Ladies' Home was made on Tuesday, and the deeds delivered to the trustees.

The Portsmouth Veteran Artillery Association, Capt. Geo. W. Towle, are to have a parade on the 12th of September, with a general good time. The programme includes a clam-bake at Hotel Wentworth, Newcastle, dancing, etc. The ladies will be sent down in carriages, the Association marching from this city to the residence of Capt. Towle, in Newcastle, where they will be entertained by him.

The alarm of fire at about two o'clock this morning was occasioned by the burning of Mr. Aaron H. Burnham's large dwelling in Kittery, which took fire in the ell, where the cooking was done. Kearsarge steamer, No. 3, was on the spot in a half-hour after starting, but could do no good owing to a lack of water. The house cost about $2500; insured in Craig's agency,—house $1200, furniture $300; furniture mostly saved.

German Peculiarities.

The North Germans are not a funny people. Amongst their many splendid qualities, cheerfulness of temper cannot conscientiously be included, even by those who, like myself, are notoriously their admirers. If there be any latent humor in them, it rarely rises to the surface, and is exhibited quite unconsciously. It is only when the North Germans mean to be particularly earnest that they are, to the foreigner's apprehension at least, now and then comical. Their rare efforts to be the latter in good faith produce a very depressing effect upon the spirits of the intelligent alien. They have no contemporary comic literature, and the laughter of their theatres is derived from French sources. I do not suppose that the Spartans were jocular folk. Those Prussians of antiquity were probably even such grave, valorous, astute and thrifty souls as are these modern Laconians of Deutschland. Perhaps the prevalence of high animal spirits in a nation is incompatible with its possession of qualities such as have enabled Prussia to achieve the extraordinary political and military successes which have raised her, within the brief period of twelve years, from the rank of a third rate kingdom to that of a first-class empire; and it is possible that a keen sense of humor, when a national characteristic, may interfere with the conception of great and perilous enterprises, or at least with their stern and unflinching execution. * * * * * *

Many curious strata of the German character are laid open to the enquiring eye in these advertisement sheets. One of the most remarkable is the German's fondness of publicity. Another is his insatiate passion for titular distinction. It may be that this proclivity is not inborn, but rather the outcome of the very hearty contempt for idleness generally entertained in the Fatherland, which feeling generates a requirement, as it were, that everybody should quite distinctly and unmistakably be something, and prove it. It is not too much to say that every German uses and is described by a titular predicate of some sort; if he have no right to any coming to him through career, profession or even trade, he calls himself "Rentier" or "Privatier" (foreign titles these, surely!) "Rittergutsbesitzer," or what not strange fungus-like designate. Thus, you read in the "Familien Nachrichten," or Family News, of each Berlin journal that Mr. Regular-Income Drawer Sugartart is dead, and Mr. Private-Person Sourherring betrothed, while Mr. Knight's-Estate-Owner Thumb is become a happy father. (I translate names as well as titles literally throughout this letter, and guarantee their authenticity.) Men's titles, hereditary, official or conventional, are invariably adopted by their wives, and accompany the latter as well as the former, down to the very brink of the grave, for they are recapitulated with undeviating formality in the obituary announcements, also coming under the head of "Family News."

Only the other day I read in the National Zeitung an advertisement to the effect that "Widowed Mrs. Master Chimneysweep Growl had softly gone to sleep in the Lord." What possible distinction can be held to be conferred by such a title, and what credit Mrs. Growl's friends can have believed themselves to be reflecting upon her or her family by inserting this predicate in her obituary notice at threepence a line, are questions which Englishmen will find it difficult to answer. Whilst she lived it may have been a gratification to her; but what pleasure could it have been to anybody to see it in print after her death? The "Familien-Nachrichten," which teems with these queer titles, are exhaustive of the chief acts in human life; they record not only births, deaths and marriages, but betrothals to boot. When two persons of opposite sexes become engaged, the parents of the young lady advertise the fact, as well as the parties concerned—the latter in the following formula, "As betrothed ones, recommend themselves Albert Goat and Bertha Valley of Lillies."

A somewhat startling feature of the "Births" announcement is that the papas are associated with the event notified—never the mammas, as, for instance, "Mr. Urban Tribunal Councillor Eagle-mountain, a son," or "Mr. Second-Lieutenant on the Retired List, Grey-hersepenny, twins." This strange attribution I take to be a quite unconscious illustration of the systematic manner in which female influence is ignored throughout Germany. Children are set down to the father's side of the joint account, the mother's share in the very important function is left unrecorded, except in cases where the male parent, unable to restrain his exultation with respect to the "happy event," advertises it himself in such terms as the following: "My dear wife Clara was safely delivered on the 2d inst. The faithful God has given me a strong boy, Hallelujah!" In many of these announcements a comfortable familiarity with the Supreme Being is evinced, which leads one to hope that religion may not, after all, be at such a discount in Prussia as it is alleged to be by the Germania.

Amazingly funny are the matrimonial advertisements, emanating from persons of both sexes, which adorn the columns of morning and evening papers alike. I am assured that they frequently lead to serious business; nothing can be conceived more ludicrous than their wealth of practical details, their single-hearted frankness (frequently overstepping the bounds of discretion,) and their steady contemplation of "the main chance." Here is an excellent specimen, culled from a Governmental organ: "To the for-marriage-wishing. A forty-two-year-old, not comely, but of easy temper, evangelical, and with furniture well-provided Royal State-official wishes earnestly with a tolerably young, of pleasing exterior and fair complexion, blue-eyed, in all domestic arrangements expert, with from £1,200 to £1,500 endowed, maiden or widow, an honorable connection together to hook. Ladies on this proposition friendlily reflecting will most amiably their offers to Rhinoceros, at the Newspaper Expedition Office, send.

May this advertisement soon prove potential, Answers, of course, are strictly confidential."

The more romantic feelings of this class of advertisers frequently break out in verse, as do the raptures of the young lover, before his betrothal has been notified to the public. They subside notably after that event, the calm bliss of fiances in Germany much resembling that of married folks in England. Political or municipal perplexities, too, prompt some enthusiasts to rhythmical utterance in the advertisement sheet. Declarations are made, love-meetings arranged through the same medium. "The dark-eyed, luxuriant-locked beauty who sat in stall 51, fourth row, of the Wallner Theatre, on Tuesday evening, and wept pearly tears over Anna Ivanova's sorrows, is passionately entreated to communicate her honored name to Ypsilon, a young Israelitish merchant in flourishing circumstances. Love, Respect, and Silence! At the editor's office."—Berlin cor. London Telegraph.

—Wednesday evening, as two young girls were passing the corner of Georgia and Sutter streets, they were rudely accosted by one of a couple of overgrown hoodlums who were standing on that corner. The girls, on reaching their destination, informed a gentleman acquaintance of the affair, and as it was not the first time that ladies had been insulted in passing that point, he determined not to let it pass unnoticed. Arraying himself in one of the tightest of pull-backs, "borrowed for the occasion," and accompanied by the two girls he started on his avenging mission. On arriving at the corner, the two "mashers" were found to be still there, and as the trio were passing, one of the two advanced a step, offering his arm to one of the ladies with the remark: "Ah, good evening, my dear girl. Can I have the pleas—" He didn't have time to say any more, for just then his "dear girl" gave him one straight from the shoulder, knocking the "killer" up against the wall of the building with such force that it shook the building as though there were two or three first-class earthquakes having a lively revival inside. As soon as he got his wind he apologized and was allowed to escape further punishment, his comrade having already fled.—Toland (Cal.) Times.

—Buckland in his recent work, gives the origin of the word "kangaroo" as applied to the animal: "When Captain Cook first discovered Australia he saw some natives on the shore, one of them holding a dead animal in his hand. The captain sent a boat's crew ashore to purchase the animal, and finding on receiving it that it was a beast quite new to him, he sent a boatswain back to ask the natives its name. 'What do you call this 'ere animal?' said the sailor to the naked native. The native shook his head and answered, 'Kan-ga-roo,' which means in Australia lingo, 'I don't understand.' When the sailor returned to the ship the captain said, 'Well, and what's the name of the animal?' The sailor replied, 'Please, sir, the black party says it is a kangaroo.' The beast has kept this name ever since."

COOKED

CORNED BEEF.

Articles are being published calculated to prejudice the public against using Cooked Corned Beef, and we would say in answer to them that in no instance has positive proof been established to show that such is the case.

Our goods are packed in a manner very similar to that of Corn, Tomatoes, Fruit and canned goods generally, (which have long been tested) and we use nothing whatever of a poisonous nature in their preparation.

In addition to our own statement we have the strong endorsement of Prof. Hosford of Cambridge, one of the most eminent Chemists in the country, who has fully tested and is familiar with the entire details of the preparation of our goods.

We would also state that we use none but the choicest of Beef that our Chicago market affords, and trust that with these statements the rapidly growing popularity of our Corned Beef may be increased.

For the information of those not knowing the fact we would state that in the process of canning there is a liability of imperfect sealing, which causes the can to expand. Most contained in such cans is unfit for use and will be cheerfully paid for when returned to any grocer selling it.

PILOT BREAD.

This kind of bread having come into extensive family use, it has been my purpose to furnish, from choice materials, an article which should meet the approval of the most fastidious as to neatness, looks and taste. Whether I have succeeded in giving to the public a PILOT BREAD,

SUPERIOR IN EXCELLENCE,

the consumer may be the judge; that the quality will not be suffered to depreciate, the past with the present is my best pledge. That I can compete with all the various qualities of Pilot Bread in the market, as to price, I make no pretensions,—but in price, all things being equal, I fear no competition.

It is the only wind mill generally adopted on all the railroads.

It is the cheapest wind mill.

The United States Wind Engine and Pump Co. have the largest wind mill manufactory in the world. We are willing to put our mill upon its merits. We ask an investigation of facts and motives. We daily appreciate the patronage and support we have received in the past, and while we solicit a continuance of favors, we shall try to merit them. —Of the good things floating about just now in the French papers, the following is a very good specimen: A hussar is sitting on the summit of a hill overlooking a garrison town. His horse is picketed near by; he is smoking leisurely, and, from time to time, glancing from the esplande to a big official envelope he has in his hand. A comrade passes and says: "What are you doing there?" "I am bearing the King's pardon for our friend Flichmann, who is to be shot this morning." "Well, then, hurry along with it." "Not much. See, there is hardly a soul on the esplanade, and the firing platoon has not yet been formed. You surely would not have me rob my appearance of all dramatic effect?"

SURE CURES AND LOW PRICES.

Dr. YOUNG,
SUCCESSOR TO
Dr. TELLER,
DECEASED.

The above named private Hospital was established in Albany in 1835 by Dr. Lispenard and for a number of years its affairs were presided over by that gentleman, but for the past 20 years, Dr. Tellog, who is now deceased, transacted the business of the institution.

Owing to the great demand for more spacious apartments on account of the large increase of business, the Hospital has been removed to No. 9 Beaver Street, two doors above its old location, where patients will find magnificently furnished rooms for their reception, and are so arranged that patients do not come in contact with one another, seeing only the doctor, thereby avoiding the unpleasantness of meeting others, which always occurred at the old office.

LADIES will find rooms provided for their especial accommodation and entirely private.

YOUNG MEN, addicted to secret habits, who have impaired their health and destroyed the vigor of their minds, thus depriving themselves of the pleasures of married life and also those afflicted with private diseases of an nature, are advised that in consulting Dr. Young they will find a physician fully qualified to cure and restore them to full health and manly vigor.

Dr. Teller's great work for the married, or those contemplating marriage—300 pages—full of plates—price 25 cents. Sent to all parts, under seal, by mail post paid.

TO THE LADIES—DR. YOUNG still retains the only agency in America for the sale of Dr. Vichol's Italian Female Monthly Pills. Sent by mail on receipt of $1.00, price per box.

DR. YOUNG is the only agent for Dr. La Mott's celebrated Galvanic Belts.

Invalids out of the city can be cured by consulting the Doctor by letter, and enclosing remittance. Medicines sent by mail or express, securely packed from observation. All letters must be addressed to

MAGIC
CONDITION PILLS!

The Wonderful Remedy for Liver Complaint, Billiousness, Dyspepsia, Constipation, Neuralgia, Rheumatism, Headache, Kidney Complaint, Nervousness, Scrofula, Piles, and all diseases arising from a bad state of the Blood!

No medicine ever offered to the public has given such universal satisfaction as Dr. Quain's Magic Condition Pills. Their praises are on every tongue where their merits are known. They strike at once at the seat of disease and show their healing power almost immediately. Thousands of voluntary testimonials of their merits have been received by the agent, from those who have been cured by them, of which the following are samples:

Dyspepsia Four Years, Constipation and Inflammation of the Bowels Three Years, Confined to my Room Two Years, Pain so I Could Not Sleep Without Morphine. One Package of Dr. Quain's Condition Pills Made Me Eat Well, Sleep Well and Free from Pain, after being given up by Physicians.

WEST LEBANON, ME., Feb. 22, 1

MR. THOMAS W. LANE:—I have been sick for four years with Dyspepsia, and for the past three years Constipation and Inflammation of the Bowels. I have suffered all the pain I could endure and live. I have been confined to my room for two years, and could not sleep nights without the use of morphine. I have been given up by physicians as past cure. I have taken one package of DR. QUAIN'S CONDITION PILLS, and they have done me more good than all the doctors I have had. I sleep well, I eat well and have no pain. They are all they are recommended to be. Please send me three packages, as two of my neighbors wish to try them. I enclose $1.50.

Your truly, JOHN W. LORD.

Another Letter from Maj. John W. Lord, one month later. Wonderful Cures by Dr. Quain's Pills Effected on Him in Thirteen Days. First time Free from Pain for Three Years.

WEST LEBANON, ME., March 22, 1875

MR. THOMAS W. LANE:—I commenced taking DR. QUAIN'S CONDITION PILLS February 8th, and wrote you February 23d of their wonderful effect. I have continued to improve ever since. My appetite is good, and I sleep as well as I ever did in my life. I am free from pain for the first time in three years. When I was taken sick four years ago, I weighed one hundred and eighty-six pounds; I now weigh one hundred and thirty, but am fast gaining in strength; I have faith I shall regain my flesh this summer, by the use of the Pills. I shall continue taking them for some time to come.

Yours truly, JOHN W. LORD.

Dr. Quain's Pills the Remedy for Soldiers' Aches and Pains.

WEST LEBANON, ME., June 1, 1875.

MR. THOMAS W. LANE—Dear Sir:—I am now able to walk out every day, and am gaining in strength very fast, all of which is due to you as agent for the best Pills in the world. I have taken no other medicine, and my improvement has been steady since first taking DR. QUAIN'S CONDITION PILLS. They have done everything for me, and I will say to you, advertise them direct to the soldiers, for they will certainly cure them of aches and pains caused from exposure and hardship on the field. Please send me by return mail another package.

JOHN W. LORD.

Rheumatism for Twenty Years Cured by One Package of Dr. Quain's Condition Pills—"The Best Medicine in the World."

EAST ANDOVER, N. H., Dec. 10, 1875.

MR. LANE—Dear Sir:—As I know the value of DR. QUAIN'S CONDITION PILLS and the good they have done me, I take pleasure in giving that publicity; so I send you another testimonial. My father has been troubled with Rheumatism for twenty years or more, and has tried everything that could be thought of, but to no good. At times it would be so bad that he could not lift his hand to his head or do any work at all, subjecting to cold weather. A short time ago I advised him to get some of these Pills. He believed nothing in them, but I gave him the last package I had of you, as I did not need them, and he has not been as free from the Rheumatic Complaint for years. No pain, no aches. When I helped him? It was DR. QUAIN'S CONDITION PILLS, the best medicine in the world. There is nothing like them. I know it, for I have tried them, and they are all, yes, more than they are recommended to be. Give them a fair trial and you will say so. I write this because I know the goodness of them and wish others to know the same. Some may think I am telling a big story I am. But remember I am not giving them half the praise they ought to have.

Yours with respect, ED. F. PEVARE.

DAINGERFIELD, MORRIS CO., TEXAS, Nov. 15, '75.

MR. THOMAS W. LANE—Dear Sir:—I have been afflicted for near twelve years with Neuralgia in the face and head. I tried all I do not know how many physicians, and could only get partly relieved. I also tried many patent medicines with the same result. I have been confined to my room most all the time for eight or ten winters, and have been traveling and visiting medical springs, and I still suffered most intensely. The physicians pronounced my case the worst and most stubborn that they had had anything to do with. One told me I could never get well; they all advised me to go South and spend the winter, and thought that was the only chance for me, and I was trying to get ready to go to Florida, when through the kindness of Rev. H. M. Mathis, my attention was called to the advertisement of Dr. Quain's Magic Condition Pills. I immediately sent to you for a package. I have taken four doses and I am almost free from pain. The improvement here seems to be that if your pills will cure me, they will cure anybody. I have five applications to send for the pills. Enclosed please find three dollars; send five packages to me and one to Mrs. Laura Sherrell, Sulphur Springs, Hopkins county, Texas.

Yours truly, J. S. PATTON.

Liver Complaint, Nervousness, Dropsy and Headache.

LACONIA, N. H., Jan. 29, 1875.

THOS. W. LANE—Sir:—I have been troubled with Bad Blood, Liver Complaint, Nervousness, Dropsy and Headache. I have taken one package of DR. QUAIN'S CONDITION PILLS. They have done me more good than all the medicine I ever took; I have taken considerable medicine within the last five years. For the nerves I think there is nothing so good as those pills. I can recommend them to all who are similarly afflicted, they have done me so much good. I think they will recommend themselves wherever they go. I shall recommend those Pills to all who need them. Please send me two packages more, one for myself and one for a lady friend of mine. Many thanks to the inventor, agent and advertiser of those Pills.

BUCHMAN'S PULMOCINE CORDIAL

is no new discovery. Twenty-three years ago it was used by one of New England's most famous physicians as the best Pulmonary Curative he could prescribe, after a dozen years spent in experimenting with it before he was satisfied that the Materia Medica could add nothing in its favor.

Is the ultima thule of Medical Discovery.

Among its many ingredients are Wild Cherry Bark, Squill Root, Liquorice Root, Blood root, &c. It is a Blood Purifier, gently stimulating. It increases expectoration and is diuretic. It is sudorific and alterative. It is a necessary family medicine. It is a Tonic and a powerful aid to the digestive organs. It is a gentle sedative, and relieves nervousness. It is aromatic and agreeable to the taste.

CLEAR YOUR THROAT!

Relieve Your Lungs.

For the terrible diseases engendered by the lung trying climate of New England

PULMOCINE CORDIAL

is a speedy and reliable Preventive and Remedy. Every family should have a bottle at hand to check the sudden growth of all Pulmonary Diseases. For the Asthma, Coughs, Croups, Laryngitis, or inflammation of the larynx, Diphtheria, and all kindred Throat Diseases at all times prevalent, it is the ounce of Prevention. Children attacked with Whooping Cough or Croup should be immediately cared for These painful attacks come with scarcely a moment's warning, when a physician may be out of immediate reach. A dose of PULMOCINE CORDIAL gives speedy relief, and the little ones are spared hours of pain and agony. As "a stitch in time saves nine," so does the possession of this Family Medicine prevent the spread of disease. Parents seeing their children gasping with pain, friends and relatives beholding each other in peril from suffocation by the choking pain in the throat, paralyzed with fear and not knowing the best course to pursue, are liable to apply the wrong remedial agents. There is no safety in delay, no time to waste in such cases. CONSUMPTION, that fearful scourge of the human race, lies at the door of all this afflicted. BUCHMAN'S PULMOCINE CORDIAL arrests it (unless in its advanced stage at which time there is no local cure) relieves the pressing, suffocating feeling at the lungs, and the patient's danger is past.

For Coughs,
Croup,
Diphtheria,
— AND —
Asthma, etc.,
— USE —
Buchman's Pulmocine Cordial.

The Pulmocine Cordial is not a quack medicine, is not an experiment, is not composed of any ingredients "discovered" by "walking in pastures" in South America or anywhere else, nor by one who discovered a weed and thereby cured himself. Most of the ingredients are such as our best educated physicians daily use for the complaints specified in some form or other. The recipe is that perfected by one of New England's most learned and famous physicians, who used it entirely in his daily practice until his death. It is offered to the profession and to the public, absolutely pure and unadulterated.

LINCOLN BUTTER POWDER.

Good Fresh Butter All The Year Round.

BUTTER IN 20 MINUTES.

Lincoln Butter Powder is an entirely harmless article made from a celebrated English recipe, and now in daily use by many of the most noted farmers in the butter counties around Philadelphia.

In hot weather this Powder makes butter much firmer and sweeter than it usually is, and keeps it from turning rancid. It also removes the strong flavor of turnips, weeds, corn stalks, cotton seed, etc.; and the increased yield of butter much more than pays the trifling expense of using it.

LITTLE GOLDENHAIR.

Goldenhair climbed upon grandpapa's knee,
Dear little Goldenhair! tired was she;
All the day busy, as busy could be.

Up in the morning, as soon as 'twas light,
Out with the birds and butterflies bright,
Skipping about till the coming of night.

Grandpapa toyed with the curls on her head,
"What has my darling been doing" he said,
"Since she arose with the sun from her bed?"

"Pitty much," answered the sweet little one,
"I cannot tell so much things I have done,
Played with my dolly, and feeded my Bun;

"And then I jumped with my little jump-rope;
And I made, out of some water and soap,
Bootiful worlds, mama's castles of hope.

"I afterward readed in my picture-book;
And Bella and I we went down to look
For smooth little stones by side of the brook.

"And then I comed home and eated my tea;
And I climbed up on grandpapa's knee;
And I jes as tired, as tired can be."

Lower and lower the little head pressed,
Until it dropped upon grandpapa's breast.
Dear little Goldenhair, sweet be thy rest!

We are but children. The things that we do
Are as sports of a babe to the infinite view,
That marks all our weakness, and pities it, too.

God grant that when night overshadows our way,
And we shall be called to account for our day,
He may find us as guileless as Goldenhair lay.

And oh, when aweary, may we be so blest,
As to sink like the innocent child to our rest,
And feel ourselves clasped to the infinite breast.

—A lady who had been teaching her little four-year-old the elements of arithmetic was astonished by his running in and propounding the following problem: "Mamma, if you had three butterflies, and each butterfly had a bug in his ear, how many butterflies would you have?" The mother is still at work on the problem.

—They have a curious way of deciding lawsuits in North Siam: both parties are put under cold water, and the one staying the longest wins the suit. In this country both parties are thrust into hot water, and are usually kept there until they become bankrupt.

Centaur

Liniments.

White for the Human Family.

Yellow, for Horses and Animals.

These Liniments are simply the wonder of the world. Their effects are little less than marvellous, yet there are some things which they will not do. They will not cure cancer or mend broken bones, but they will always allay pain. They have straightened fingers, cured chronic rheumatism of many years standing, and taken the pain from terrible burns and scalds, which has never been done by any other article.

THE WHITE LINIMENT is for the human family. It will drive Rheumatism, Sciatica and Neuralgia from the system; cure Lumbago, Chilblains, Palsy, Itch, and most Cutaneous Eruptions; it extracts frost from frozen hands and feet, and the poison of bites and stings of venomous reptiles; it subdues swellings, and alleviates pain of every kind.

For sprains or bruises it is the most potent remedy ever discovered. The Centaur Liniment is used with great efficacy for Sore Throat, Toothache, Caked Breasts, Earache, and Weak Back. The following is but a sample of numerous testimonials:

"INDIANA HOME, JEFF. CO., IND., May 28, 1873.
"I think it my duty to inform you that I have suffered much with swollen feet and chords. I have not been free from these swellings in eight years. Now I am perfectly well, thanks to the Centaur Liniment. The Liniment ought to be applied warm.
BENJAMIN BROWN."

The proof is in the trial. It is reliable, it is handy it is cheap, and every family should have it.

To the sick and bed-ridden, the halt and lame, to the wounded and sore, we say, "Come and be healed."

To the poor and distressed who have spent their money for worthless medicines, a bottle of CENTAUR LINIMENT will be given without charge.

THE YELLOW CENTAUR LINIMENT is adapted to the tough muscles, cords and flesh of horses and animals. It has performed more wonderful cures of Spavin, Strain, Wind-galls, Scratches, Sweeny, and general Lameness, than all other remedies in existence. Read what the great Expressmen say of it:

"NEW YORK, January, 1874.
"Every owner of horses should give the CENTAUR LINIMENT a trial. We consider it the best article ever used in our stables.
"H. MARSH, Supt. Adams Ex. Stables, N. Y.
"R. RATTS, Supt. U. S. Ex. Stables, N. Y.
"ALBERT S. OLIN, Supt. Nat. Ex. Stables, N. Y."

"MONTGOMERY, ALA., Aug. 17, 1874.
"GENTLEMEN.—I have used over one gross of CENTAUR LINIMENT, yellow wrapper, on the mules of my plantation, besides dozens of the family Liniment for my negroes. I want to purchase it at the wholesale price, and will thank you to ship me by Savannah steamer one gross of each kind. Messrs. A. T. Stewart & Co. will pay your bill on presentation.
"Respectfully, JAMES DARROW."

The best patrons of this Liniment are Farriers and Veterinary Surgeons. It heals Galls, Wounds and Poll-evil, removes Swellings, and is worth millions of dollars to Farmers, Livery-men, Stock-growers, Sheep-raisers, and those having horses or cattle.

What a Farrier cannot do for $20 the Centaur Liniment will do at a trifling cost.

These Liniments are warranted by the proprietors, and a bottle will be given to any Farrier or Physician who desires to test them. Sold everywhere.

Castoria.

Is a pleasant and perfect substitute, in all cases, for CASTOR OIL. Castoria is the result of an old Physician's effort to produce, for his own practice, an effective cathartic, pleasant to the taste and free from griping.

Dr. Samuel Pitcher, of Hyannis, Mass., succeeded in combining, without the use of alcohol, a purgative agent as pleasant to take as honey, and which possesses all the desirable properties of Castor Oil.

It is adapted to all ages, but is especially recommended to mothers as a reliable remedy for all disorders of the stomach and bowels of children. It is certain, agreeable, absolutely harmless, and cheap. It should be used for wind colic, sour stomach worms, costiveness, croup, &c., then children can have sleep and mothers may rest.

J. B. Rose & Co., of 45 Dey Street, New York, are the sole proprietors of Castoria, after Dr. Pitcher's recipe.

Important General Order.

The following important general order has been issued from the Navy Department:

The estimates made for the pay of the navy for the current year were $7,600,000. To keep the personnel of the navy properly employed to meet the best interests of the country this amount was in the opinion of the Department actually required, as will appear from estimates submitted and statements made up in the office of the Fourth Auditor of the Treasury, where all naval accounts are finally settled. The representatives of the people in Congress, however, determined that the sum was not necessary upon the express grounds (See explanation of conference report on naval appropriation bill) that by a very rigid enforcement of a sometime disused power on the part of the Secretary of the Navy to furlough officers instead of having them render other duty or on waiting orders, a considerable reduction could be made, and they therefore give the Secretary of the Navy the disagreeable duty of putting officers on furlough when they can be spared from the actual needs of the service, at the same time saying that if it should be found by experiment that it is impossible to get through the fiscal year, another session of Congress will perhaps make it right. In pursuance of this policy Congress appropriates for the current year for the pay of the navy to be administered upon this plan, and also reduced by cutting off to $5,750,000, or nearly $ 2,000,000 less than the amount of estimates. Under the circumstances, the Department, although entertaining different views, feels bound to make a good, faithful effort at putting those unemployed upon the lowest pay recognized by the provisions of existing laws. It is, indeed, a disagreeable duty of the Secretary to be obliged to put so many well-deserving officers in a position reserved of late years solely for the useless and undeserving, and perhaps to reduce the pay of some gallant men below what is actually necessary for the support of their families; but he has no other alternative except that of refusing to carry out the expressed will of the representatives of the people. Congress will be asked at its next session to remedy to deserving men the evil which is thus done them, and in the meantime it will be understood that this order neither imputes any wrong to nor involves the disgrace of any such officer, but that it is simply an effort to meet as may be the requirements of public law binding upon the Department and the service. It is therefore ordered that:

First—Until further orders officers relieved from sea-going vessels, and having made a cruise or part of a cruise, will have as many months' leave or waiting orders, from the day of their detachment in any part of the United States, or, if detached abroad, from the date of their arrival in the first port of the United States, as that cruise or part of a cruise has been in years, with a proportion for a fraction of a year of such service. At the expiration of their leave or waiting orders, such officers will be regarded as on furlough, and are, by virtue of this order, so placed on furlough, and will be so paid by the disbursing officers without further instructions from the Department.

Second—Officers relieved from shore stations, harbor ships, or special duty will have one month's leave, or waiting order, dating from the date of their detachment, at the expiration of which they will be regarded as on furlough, and will be so paid by the disbursing officers without further instructions from the Department.

Third—All officers not on duty on the 1st of September next, and who are not affected by either of the two preceding paragraphs, will be regarded as on furlough from that date, and will thereafter be so paid by the disbursing officers without instructions from the Department.

The foregoing applies only to the active list of the navy, retired officers being fixed by special law.

(Signed) GEORGE M. ROBESON,
Secretary of the Navy.

The pay tables of the navy are so arranged that officers do not draw full pay of their grade, except when on sea service. When on shore or other duty an officer draws about the pay of the grade next junior, and when "waiting orders," that of the grade next junior still; a Commodore comes down a grade and a half on shore duty, and three grades when "waiting orders." On furlough an officer's pay is just half that when on leave; therefore a Commodore, whose pay at sea is $5000, on shore duty $4000, and on leave $3000, on furlough receives but $1500 per annum. The foregoing general order, which puts a large number of officers on furlough, will naturally create considerable of a sensation in naval circles; in particular, many active, efficient and meritorious officers will consider it hard to be placed "in a position reserved of late years solely for the useless and undeserving." In fact, many of the former class of officers will draw less pay than officers who have been retired for inefficiency or conduct not creditable to the navy, as the pay of officers on the retired list is fixed by Congress and cannot be altered by the department. Setting aside the question of the right or wrong of keeping the "useless and undeserving" on any naval list at all, it is easy to understand how unjust it must seem to good officers to be placed below such men. The Secretary of the Navy explains that he has no option in the matter; Congress has cut down the appropriations far below the point at which it is possible to keep the navy in a state of efficiency, "at the same time saying that if it should be found by experiment that it is impossible to get through the fiscal year, another session of Congress will perhaps make it right." That tells the whole story in a few words; the "reform" House has slashed in all directions at the public service, regardless of how much the best interests of the country may suffer, in order to make political capital for the democratic party during the Presidential campaign; but as soon as that is decided the public interests will be attended to, and injurious "experiments" be given up and the damage done by them rectified as far as possible. In the meantime, "politics is politics."

News and Notes.

Mary Ann Dolan was killed by lightning in Providence, R. I., on the 15th.

There was an affray in Alamo, Tenn., on Monday, in which one man was killed and nine wounded. The fight occurred in and around a justice's office where some men had been arraigned for an assault on a political opponent.

The New Jersey Rubber Factory, at New Brunswick, N. J., and five adjoining buildings, were burned on Tuesday; loss $300,000. Three hundred and fifty hands are thrown out of employment.

There is now a depth of twenty-one feet of water clear through the South Pass jetties at the mouth of the Mississippi.

In Plymouth, Ill., on the 15th, a young man named Wilson instantly killed with a shot-gun a man named McDonald, whose daughter he had seduced. Wilson then ran away, and in his flight met the brother of the murdered man, told him he had killed his brother and would now kill him; but the second McDonald was too quick for the assassin and "got the drop on him," putting two bullets out of five into Wilson's body. The latter escaped to a cornfield, where he was surrounded by the pursuing citizens.

John Feen, alias John Fay, had a fist-fight with Daniel McCarty in a tenement house on Essex street, Boston, on the 15th, and got the worst of it. On the 16th McCarty was passing Feen's door when the latter stepped out and inflicted a fatal wound on the other's throat with a razor. Feen was soon arrested. Both men were Irish; but Feen is said to be a quarrelsome and not over honest man, while McCarty was honest, industrious and peaceble.

Speaker Kerr's death is momentarily expected.

Congress adjourned at 7:30 P. M. on the 15th.

Further Servian reverses and Turkish atrocities are reported. On the other hand, a desperate battle is said to have occurred on the 14 between the Turks and Montenegrins near Kutchi, in which 20,000 troops were engaged, the battle lasting all day and the Turks being defeated with great slaughter, losing their arms and battle flags and being pursued a long distance by the victorious Montenegrins.

Members of the Congregational society of Kensington have manifested their friendly interest in their pastor, Rev. F. D. Chandler, by contributing funds to send him to the Centennial.

Political.

On the last day of the session of Congress, Proctor Knott's judiciary committee—or, rather, the democratic majority of that committee—submitted a report exonerating him from malice in suppressing the Caldwell dispatch. The House adopted the report by a party vote. The white-washing report of Knott's party friends in Congress will not go far toward convincing anybody that his action in suppressing the dispatch was not actuated by partisan malice of the most contemptible sort.

We have to contend with the blunder of the fifteenth amendment while it stands, as best we can. Ridiculous appeals to the reason and judgment of the negro have been the cause of incalculable injury in the inflation of his vanity and making him believe he was of real consequence as a governing element in the body-politic. Now that the negro in this State is down and his personal self-conceit well knocked out of him, it is probably a fit time for the white people to impress upon him that the white people will in future control the politics of this State, and that he should keep himself in his proper sphere and leave to the intelligent white man the exclusive use of statecraft for the best interest of both races. Impress him continually with the idea of his unfitness for the ballot and his proper place on election day—away from the polls.—Meridian (Miss.) Mercury.

Governor Tilden knows that a good character is valuable, especially to a Presidential candidate, and so he is bound to have one whether it costs him and his friends much or little. When such a thing has to be bought it is apt to cost roundly, and though $3.50 a puff would not be much of an object to any first-class paper, the aggregate cost of printing such puffs in five hundred papers of any class at the price named, must make it considerable of an object for the purse bearers to get some benefit from the good character they are paying for. But this is not all the cost the purchase of a good character for Mr. Tilden is imposing upon him, or upon those very distinguished persons who are pushing matters thus without the Governor's consent or knowledge. A democratic member of Congress in a letter to the New York Express says that there is in Washington a bureau of correspondence and intelligence which supplies rural weekly papers with letters from the capital gratuitously, giving the drift of news and opinion. These letters all contain Tilden sentiments, more or less covered up at times, and sometimes very plainly expressed. The machine, as it is called, sends out some 2500 letters weekly, and it is run at a cost of about $1500 a week. Of course Mr. Tilden knows nothing about. Injudicious friends, over industrious in his behalf, are anonymously giving largely of their means in order to make a great reform democratic President of the United States. How blessed he is in friends! The men are few for whom so expensive a good character would be purchased by men who do not let their right hands know what their left hands are doing.—Ex.

Aleck McClure, of the Philadelphia Times, is one of the ablest politicians in the country, and he says that if Tilden fails to carry either Ohio or Indiana, he will be beaten. He thinks that, "on the whole, the outlook is favorable for Tilden," though he is not as sure about the election of Tilden "as he was four years ago about the election of Greeley." This is not very comforting to the Tildenites. It is a fact, however, that Greeley's prospects four years ago were brighter than are Tilden's to-day.—New Haven Union (inf. dem.)

Sigel fights mit Tilden, and carries the German vote in his pocket. The only German paper in Iowa, Der Demokrat, has come out for Hayes and Wheeler.

Ex-Congressional Printer A. M. Clapp, who was turned out of his position by the House "reformers" after an investigation in which they exhibited all the worst features of partisanship, injustice and dishonorable dealing, in order that a bitter democratic partisan might get the job at a higher rate of payment, has been confirmed by the Senate as Public Printer. So the hungry democratic aspirant will have to wait awhile yet for his anticipated "fat take."

It now turns out that President Grant twice induced Secretary Bristow to withdraw his tendered resignation, which the latter finally insisted on his accepting, as his private affairs demanded his attention, and his official duties had exhausted him.

Bluford Wilson's long yarn about the misdoings of President Grant and others does not stand examination worth a cent. It has been proved that at the time Wilson swore Gen. Babcock was engaged in the "Black Friday" gold speculation he was in San Domingo. Mr. Wilson was evidently "a swift witness" for the democratic mud-throwers, but not a very profitable one.

Henry Watterson, the newly elected Congressman from Kentucky, was sworn in Monday, the 14th, and at the first call of the House thereafter was reported among the absentees.

The New York Graphic says Charles Francis Adams if nominated for governor will be sure of one vote in Springfield. It adds: "We shall not reveal the name of his friend, but leave it as an obscure conundrum for the country."

The Grandmother's Trick.

It was in Natchez, where a gambler was indicted for swindling, having won from a rich greeny a thousand dollars with the grandmother's trick. Judge Edward Turner was then on the bench. The Judge was eminently practical in his character—knew nothing of cards, or the tricks of those who contrive to find a livelihood by handling them. He had never heard of the grandmother's trick and when the indictment was read asked if there was anything in the statutes making the grandmother's trick an act of swindling. He was answered there was not, but that it came under the head of swindling generally. "I don't know what it is," said the judge, "and it is moved to quash this indictment because the grandmother's trick is not in the statues denounced as swindling."

"If your Honor pleases," said the District Attorney, "we have a witness here who understands and can play the trick, and, if the court please, we will have him show to your Honor this trick."

"Let him be called then."

"Mr. Sheriff, call Kail Hurst," said the attorney. If was done, and a pack of cards was provided.

"Can you show me the grandmother's trick, Mr. Hurst?" asked the Judge. "If you can, do so."

Hurst took the cards, and, shuffling them well, held them up, and asked the Judge to turn over the top card. He did so, and said it was the knave of hearts.

"What did your Honor say was the card?" asked Hurst, as he held the pack in one hand.

"The knave of hearts."

"Knave play tricks, your Honor," answered facetiously Hurst. "Are you sure it is the knave of hearts?"

"Yes, I know it is."

"Now perhaps your Honor would like to bet something on it."

"Show the trick sir," testily ordered the Judge.

"I have no trick to show, your Honor. The cards do this. And now since you say the knave of hearts, will your Honor turn it over?" The Judge reached forth his hands and carefully turned the cards, when it turned up the ace of hearts. Throwing himself back in his seat evidently much surprised, he brought his clenched fist down upon his docket, exclaiming vehemently, again and again, "Swindling—swindling of the very worst sort; let the case proceed," and the indicted was found guilty, fined, and imprisoned to the extent of the law.—New Orleans Times.

Liberate the Impurities of the System.

This can easily be done through the instrumentality of the searching blood depurent and alterative, Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, which incites those scavengers of the body, the kidneys and the bowels, to vigorous action. The first named organs secrete impurities—where such exist—from the blood, which would otherwise poison it, and it is the office of the bowels to carry off the useless portions of the food rejected during the process of digestion, and which if retained interfere with digestion and bilious secretion. Rheumatism and gout, both products of acid elements in the circulation, are remedied by the Bitters, which will likewise be found a prompt though gentle cathartic. Both kidneys and bowels are invigorated, as well as stimulated by this famou medicine, which possesses tonic properties of the highest order.

JOTTINGS.

The United States corvette Huron, Commander C. C. Carpenter, arrived at Port Royal, S. C., Aug. 4, from Vera Cruz, where she had been for some time. The Huron is to have pratique, and will then proceed to Port Royal to take in coal, when she will start for this naval station. The Huron, while lying off Sacrificios, near Vera Cruz, experienced on the 23d and 24th of July a very severe hurricane, which did great damage to the shipping at Vera Cruz. The Huron rode the storm out with three anchors down.

Under the new order of things in the Navy Department, as explained in another place, Paymaster A. J. Clark, U. S. N., purchasing paymaster at this naval station, is detached, with one month (on waiting orders) in which to settle his accounts, after which he will be "regarded as on furlough."

Don't forget the Reform Club picnic at Pinkham's Grove to-day. Trains leave the Eastern railroad station at 9, 11 and 3. Tickets for adults, 35 cts; children 25 cts. Turner's Quadrille Band will furnish music for the dancing.

The Unitarians of Hampton Falls had their annual excursion to the beach on the 9th.

The Granite State and Sea View base ball nines will play their second game on Saturday afternoon, at the Plains. The first game having been won by the Granite States by the close score of 7 to 5, the game will doubtless be an interesting one.

A number of the Manchester police passed through this city on this way to the Shoals, on Wednesday. They returned in the evening.

We are informed that Mr. Elbridge G. Peirce, Sr., lost two fingers from one hand at the navy yard on Wednesday.

The Band of Hope, which now numbers some three hundred members, will have a grand demonstration here on 22d inst., consisting of a floral procession, grove meeting and other festivities. Several elaborately decorated cars are now being prepared, and banners and mottoes innumerable gotten up for the street demonstration, which, besides including all the local temperance organization, will embrace representative bodies from Dover, Greenland, Exeter and other places, each with emblematic cars. The Veteran Association, Portsmouth Heavy Artillery, Light Artillery and City Guards are invited to participate as escort. Several prominent advocates of temperance have been invited to deliver addresses at the field meeting, most of whom have signified their acceptance.

The New England Association of Gas Companies, represented by about twenty organizations, had a session at the Rockingham House on the 15th, debating matters of special interest to those concerned. They went to the Shoals on the 15th, returning at night.

Saved by a Dream.

Early on Friday morning last Mr. Hall, a butcher, of Franklin, Mass., went into his ice chest to inspect the premises, when the door accidentally swung back, operating the spring lock, and the man was a prisoner in a very small room of icy temperature, and without means of escape. A speedy and frightful death stared him in the face. He shouted, and thumped upon what promised to be his coffin, but all in vain. Now comes the marvelous part of the circumstance. When Mr. Hall's son arose on that morning he was deeply impressed with a dream which he had during the previous night. He dreamed that his father had been caught and suffocated in the ice chest! Not finding his father on inquiring for him, the son at once proceeded to the ice chest and found it locked. On opening it the apparently dead body of his father was discovered and rescued. So near death had the unfortunate prisoner come that it was hours before he came to a state of consciousness, and is still in an enfeebled condition. To those (ourselves among the number) who have no faith in dreams and visions, it may be difficult to account for the connection between the son's dream and the father's accident. Who can give a reasonable theory concerning it?—Woonsocket Patriot.

—A wealthy man from Chicago who married a Bridgeport lady went to that city about the Fourth of July to make a visit. The gentleman took a party of nineteen friends to the Centennial for the Fourth, paying all railroad and hotel expenses, and giving each member of the party five dollars a day for incidental expenses. His fiftieth birthday came upon the Fourth, and he celebrated the anniversary by giving his wife $50,000.

—In the Liverpool Police Court a Parsee was sworn on the Koran, the crier of the Court solemnly ejaculating at the close of the oath, "So help you Koran!" As may be imagined, great merriment was created, and the crier afterward explained that he thought Koran was the Mohammedan name for God.

—A young gentleman who moves in the best society at the south-end said the other evening to a young lady: "The foliage is much more exuberant this year than usual." "Yes," she answered thoughtfully, "all them imported fruits is cheaper than they used to was."

—A tramp in passing a residence in North Raynham a few days since, called in and requested the use of blacking and brush to give his shoes a shining touch, as he was on his way to Taunton.

—On the first morning after his arrival in England, Dom Pedro stepped out a few minutes before breakfast and made a tour of the country.

MRS. WINSLOW'S

SOOTHING SYRUP!

For Children Teething,

greatly facilitates the process of teething, by softening the gums, reducing all inflammation—will allay ALL PAIN and spasmodic action, and is Sure to Regulate the Bowels.

Depend upon it, mothers, it will give rest to yourselves, and

Relief and Health to Your Infants.

We have put up and sold this article for years, and CAN SAY IN CONFIDENCE AND TRUTH of it, what we have never been able to say of any other medicine—NEVER HAS IT FAILED, IN A SINGLE INSTANCE, TO EFFECT A CURE, when timely used. Never did we know an instance of dissatisfaction by any one who used it. On the contrary, all are delighted with its operations, and speak in terms of highest commendation of its magical effects and medical virtues. We speak in this matter "WHAT WE DO KNOW," after years of experience, AND PLEDGE OUR REPUTATION FOR THE FULFILMENT OF WHAT WE HERE DECLARE. In almost every instance where the infant is suffering from pain and exhaustion, relief will be found in fifteen or twenty minutes after the syrup is administered.

This valuable preparation has been used with NEVER FAILING SUCCESS in

Thousands of Cases.

It not only relieves the child from pain, but invigorates the stomach and bowels, corrects acidity, and gives tone and energy to the whole system. It will almost instantly relieve Griping in the Bowels and Wind Colic.

We believe it the BEST AND SUREST REMEDY IN THE WORLD, in all cases of DYSENTERY and DIARRHŒA IN CHILDREN, whether it arises from teething, or from any other cause. We would say to every mother who has a child suffering from any of the foregoing complaints—do not let your prejudice, nor the prejudices of others, stand between your suffering child and the relief that will be SURE—yes, ABSOLUTELY SURE—to follow the use of this medicine, if timely used. Full directions for using will accompany each bottle.

Be sure and call for

"MRS. WINSLOW'S SOOTHING SYRUP,"

PULMOCINE CORDIAL.

COOKED

CORNED BEEF.

Articles are being published calculated to prejudice the public against using Cooked Corned Beef, and we would say in answer to them that in no instance has positive proof been established to show that such is the case.

Our goods are packed in a manner very similar to that of Corn, Tomatoes, Fruit and canned goods generally, (which have long been tested) and we use nothing whatever of a poisonous nature in their preparation.

In addition to our own statement we have the strong endorsement of Prof. Hosford of Cambridge, one of the most eminent Chemists in the country, who has fully tested and is familiar with the entire details of the preparation of our goods.

We would also state that we use none but the choicest of Beef that our Chicago market affords, and trust that with these statements the rapidly growing popularity of our Corned Beef may be increased.

For the information of those not knowing the fact we would state that in the process of canning there is a liability of imperfect sealing, which causes the can to expand. Meat contained in such cans is unfit for use and will be cheerfully paid for when returned to any grocer selling it.

PILOT BREAD.

This kind of bread having come into extensive family use, it has been my purpose to furnish, from choice materials, an article which should meet the approval of the most fastidious as to neatness, looks and taste. Whether I have succeeded in giving to the public a PILOT BREAD,

SUPERIOR IN EXCELLENCE,

the consumer may be the judge; that the quality will not be suffered to depreciate, the past with the present is my best pledge. That I can compete with all the various qualities of Pilot Bread in the market, as to price, I make no pretensions,—but in price, all things being equal, I fear no competition.

should purchase

The Halladay Wind-Mill

It is the first reliable self-regulating Wind Mill ever made, and continues to lead the van.

It has stood the test of nearly a quarter of a century, and has gained a reputation as broad as its use is extensive.

It is the only wind mill generally adopted on all the railroads.

It is the cheapest wind mill.

The United States Wind Engine and Pump Co. have the largest wind mill manufactory in the world. We are willing to put our mill upon its merits. We ask an investigation of facts and motives. We duly appreciate the patronage and support we have received in the past, and while we solicit a continuance of favors, we shall try to merit them. We are the pioneers in the production of a wind mill adapted to the use of farmers.

—An imitator of Joan of Arc has appeared in the Herzegovina. The Manchester (Eng.) Courier gives the following information concerning her: "Miss Mercus is of Dutch nationality. She is about thirty years of age, of diminutive stature, dark, and not handsome. She has squandered away the greater portion of a large fortune in the realization of her romantic dreams; nevertheless, she is still in possession of more than £70,000. Her first fancy was to erect a Protestant temple at Jerusalem, in front of the monument supposed to be our Saviour's tomb. The temple, which cost £14,000, still exists. Mlle. Mercus' present ambition is to command a battery of artillery, and she recently gave £1200 for the purchase of guns, but the gentleman intrusted with the money suddenly disappeared, and nothing further has been heard of him. The extraordinary lady is not admired, having supported the Paris Commune and approved the Archbishop's assassination. She spends her time running after battle-field adventures wherever they are to be encountered."

Directions for Restoring Persons Apparently Dead from Drowning.

I. Lose no time. Carry out these directions on the spot.

II. Remove the froth and mucous from the mouth and nostrils.

III. Hold the body, for a few seconds only, with the head hanging down, so that the water may run out of the lungs and windpipe.

IV. Loosen all tight articles of clothing about the neck and chest.

V. See that the tongue is pulled forward if it falls back into the throat. By taking hold of it with a handkerchief it will not slip.

VI. If the breathing has ceased, or nearly so, it must be stimulated by pressure of the chest with the hands, in imitation of the natural breathing;, forcibly expelling the air from the lungs, and allowing it to re-enter and expand them by the elasticity of the ribs. Remember that this is the most important step of all. To do it readily, lay the person on his back, with a cushion-pillow, or some firm substance, under the shoulders; then press with the flat of the hands over the lower part of the breast, bone and the upper part of the abdomen, keeping up a regular repetition and relaxation of pressure; twenty or thirty pounds may be applied with safety to a grown person.

VII. Rub the limbs with the hands, or with dry cloths, constantly, to aid the circulation and keep the body warm.

VIII. As soon as the person can swallow, give a table-spoonful of spirits in hot water, or some warm tea or coffee.

IX. Work deliberately. Do not give up too quickly. Success has rewarded the efforts of hours.

UNITED STATES.
No. 9 Beaver Street, - - - Albany, N. Y.
SURE CURES AND LOW PRICES.

Dr. YOUNG,
SUCCESSOR TO
Dr. TELLER,
DECEASED.

The above named private Hospital was established in Albany in 1855 by Dr. Lispenard and for a number of years his affairs were predominant. Dr. Teller, gentleman, but for the past 20 years, Dr. Teller, who is now deceased, transacted the business of the Institution.

Owing to the great demand for more spacious apartments on account of the large increase of business, the Hospital has been removed to No. 9 Beaver Street, two doors above its old location, where patients will find magnificently furnished rooms for their reception, and are so arranged that patients do not come in contact with one another, seeing only the doctor, thereby avoiding the unpleasant ordeal of meeting others, which always occurred at the old office.

LADIES will find rooms provided for their especial accommodation and entirely private.

YOUNG MEN, addicted to secret habits, who have impaired their health and destroyed the vigor of their minds, thus depriving themselves of the pleasures of married life and also those afflicted with private diseases of any nature, are advised that in consulting Dr. Young they will find a physician fully qualified to cure and restore them to full health and manly vigor.

Dr. Teller's great work for the married, or those contemplating marriage—100 pages—full of plates,—price 25 cents. Sent to all parts, under seal, by mail post paid.

TO THE LADIES—DR. YOUNG still retains the only agency in America for the sale of Dr. Vichot's Italian Female Monthly Pills. Sent by mail on receipt of $1.00, price per box.

DR. YOUNG is the only agent for Dr. La Mott's celebrated Galvanic Belts.

Invalids out of the city can be cured by consulting the Doctor by letter, and enclosing remittance. Medicines sent by mail or express, securely packed from observation. All letters must be addressed to

Is the ultima thule of Medical Discovery.

No medicine ever offered to the public has given such universal satisfaction as Dr. Quain's Magic Condition Pills. Their praises are on every tongue where their merits are known. They strike at once at the seat of disease and show their healing power almost immediately. Thousands of voluntary testimonials of their merits have been received by the agent, from those who have been cured by them, of which the following are samples:

Dyspepsia Four Years, Constipation and Inflammation of the Bowels Three Years, Confined to my Room Two Years, Pain so I Could Not Sleep Without Morphine. One Package of Dr. Quain's Condition Pills Made Me Eat Well, Sleep Well and Free from Pain, after being given up by Physicians.

WEST LEBANON, ME., Feb. 22, 1

MR. THOMAS W. LANE:—I have been sick for four years with Dyspepsia, and for the past three years Constipation and Inflammation of the Bowels. I have suffered all the pain I could endure and live. I have been confined to my room for two years, and could not sleep nights without the use of morphine. I have been given up by physicians as past cure. I have taken one package of DR. QUAIN'S CONDITION PILLS, and they have done me more good than all the doctors I have had. I sleep well, I eat well and have no pain. They are all they are recommended to be. Please send me three packages, as two of my neighbors wish to try them. I enclose $1.00.

Your truly, JOHN W. LORD.

Another Letter from May. John W. Lord, one month later. Wonderful Cures by Dr. Quain's Pills Effected on Him in Thirteen Days. First time Free from Pain for Three Years.

WEST LEBANON, ME., March 22, 1875

MR. THOMAS W. LANE:—I commenced taking DR. QUAIN'S CONDITION PILLS February 6th, and would you February 23d of their wonderful effect. I have continued to improve ever since. My appetite is good, and I sleep as well as I ever did in my life. I am free from pain for the first time in three years. When I was taken sick four years ago, I weighed one hundred and eighty-six pounds; I now weigh one hundred and thirty, but, as I am gaining in strength, I have faith I shall regain my flesh this summer, by the use of the Pills. I shall continue taking them for some time to come.

Yours truly, JOHN W. LORD.

Dr. Quain's Pills the Remedy for Soldiers' Aches and Pains.

WEST LEBANON, ME., June 1, 1875.

MR. THOMAS W. LANE—Dear Sir:—I am now able to walk out every day, and am gaining in strength very fast, all of which is due to you as agent for the best Pills in the world. I have taken no other medicine, and my improvement has been steady since first taking DR. QUAIN'S CONDITION PILLS. They have done everything for me, and I will say to you, advertise them direct to the soldiers, for they will certainly cure them of the diseases caused from exposure and hardship on the field. Please send me by return mail another package.

JOHN W. LORD.

Rheumatism for Twenty Years Cured by One Package of Dr. Quain's Condition Pills—"The Best Medicine in the World."

EAST ANDOVER, N. H., Dec. 10, 1875.

MR. LANE—Dear Sir:—As I know the value of DR. QUAIN'S CONDITION PILLS and the good they have done me, I take pleasure in giving them praise; so I send you another testimonial. My father has been troubled with Rheumatism for twenty years or more, and has tried everything that could be thought of, but to no good. At times it would be so bad that he could not lift his hand to his head or do any work at all, especially in cold weather. A short time ago I advised him to get some of these Pills. He believed nothing in them, but I gave him the last package I had of you, as I did not need them, and he has not been as free from the Rheumatic Complaint for years. No Rheumatism, no pain. What helped him? It was DR. QUAIN'S CONDITION PILLS, the best medicine in the world. There is nothing like them. I know it, for I have tried them, and they are all, yes, more than they are recommended to be. Give them a fair trial and you will say so. I write this because I know the goodness of them and wish others to know the same. Some may think I am telling a big story I am. But remember I am not giving them half the praise they deserve. Yours with respect, ED. F. PEVARE.

Wonderful Effect of Four Doses of Dr. Quain's Condition Pills upon Neuralgia of Twelve Years' Duration—Testimony of Rev. J. S. Patton.

DAINGERFIELD, MORRIS CO., TEXAS, Nov. 15, '75.

MR. THOMAS W. LANE—Dear Sir:—I have been afflicted for near twelve years with Neuralgia in the face and head. I tried I do not know how many physicians, and could only get partly relieved. I also tried many patent medicines with the same result. I have been confined to my room most all the time for eight or ten winters, and have been traveling and visiting medical springs, and I still suffered most intensely. The physicians pronounced my case the worst and most stubborn that they had had anything to do with. One told me I could never get well; they all said and did what they could and spend the winter, and thought that was the only chance for me, and I was trying to get ready to go to Florida, when through the kindness of Rev. H. M. Mathis, my attention was called to the advertisement of Dr. Quain's Magic Condition Pills. I immediately sent to you for a package. I have taken four doses and I am almost free from pain. The impression here seems to be that pills are no use, they will cure anybody. I have five applications to send for the pills. Enclosed please find three dollars; send five packages to me and one to Mrs. Laura Sherrell, Sulphur Springs, Hopkins county, Texas.

Yours truly, J. S. PATTON.

Liver Complaint, Nervousness, Dropsy and Headache.

LACONIA, N. H., Jan. 29, 1875.

THOS. W. LANE—Sir:—I have been troubled with Bad Blood, Liver Complaint, Nervousness, Dropsy and Headache. I have taken one package of DR. QUAIN'S CONDITION PILLS. They have done me more good than all the medicine I ever took; I have taken considerable medicine within the last five years. For the nervous I think there is nothing so good as those pills. I can recommend them to all who are similarly afflicted, they have done me so much good. I think they will recommend themselves wherever they go. I shall recommend those Pills to all who need them. Please send me two packages more, one for myself and one for a lady friend of mine. Many thanks to the inventor, agent and advertiser of those Pills. MRS. P. L. ELLIOTT.

PULMOCINE.

BUCHMAN'S PULMOCINE CORDIAL

is no new discovery. Twenty-three years ago it was used by one of New England's most famous physicians as the best Pulmonary Curative he could prescribe, after a dozen years spent in experimenting with it before he was satisfied that the Materia Medica could add nothing in its favor.

Among its many ingredients are Wild Cherry Bark, Squill Root, Liquorice Root, Blood root, &c. It is a Blood Purifier, gently stimulating. It increases expectoration and is diuretic. It is sudorific and alterative. It is a necessary family medicine. It is a Tonic and a powerful aid to the digestive organs. It is a gentle sedative, and relieves nervousness. It is aromatic and agreeable to the taste.

CLEAR YOUR THROAT!

Relieve Your Lungs.

For the terrible diseases engendered by the lung-trying climate of New England,

PULMOCINE CORDIAL

Is a speedy and reliable Preventive and Remedy. Every Family should have a bottle at hand to check the sudden growth of all Pulmonary Diseases. For the Asthma, Coughs, Croups, Laryngitis, or inflammation of the larynx, Diphtheria, and all kindred Throat Diseases at all times prevalent, it is the ounce of Prevention. Children attacked with Whooping Cough or Croup should be immediately cared for. These painful attacks come with scarcely a moment's warning, when a physician may be out of immediate reach. A dose of PULMOCINE CORDIAL gives speedy relief, and the little ones are spared hours of pain and agony. As "a stitch in time saves nine," so does the possession of this Family Medicine prevent the spread of disease. Parents seeing their children gasping with pain, friends and relatives beholding each other in peril from suffocation by the choking pain in the throat, paralyzed with fear and not knowing the best course to pursue, are liable to apply the wrong remedial agent. There is no safety in delay, no time to waste in such cases. CONSUMPTION, that fearful scourge of the human race, lies at the door of all thus afflicted. BUCHMAN'S PULMOCINE CORDIAL arrests it (unless in its advanced stage at which time there is no local cure) relieves the pressing, suffocating feeling at the lungs, and the patient's danger is past.

For Coughs,

Croup,

Diphtheria,

Asthma, etc.,

— USE —

Buchman's Pulmocine Cordial.

The Pulmocine Cordial is not a quack medicine, is not an experiment, is not composed of any ingredients "discovered" by "walking in pastures" in South America or anywhere else, nor by one who discovered a weed and thereby cured himself. Most of the ingredients are such as our best educated physicians daily use for the complaints specified in some form or other. The recipe is that perfected by one of New England's most learned and famous physicians, who used it entirely in his daily practice until his death. It is offered to the profession and to the public, absolutely pure and unadulterated.

LINCOLN BUTTER POWDER.

Good Fresh Butter All The Year Round.

BUTTER IN 20 MINUTES.

Lincoln Butter Powder is an entirely harmless article made from a celebrated English recipe, and now in daily use by many of the most noted farmers in the inter-counties around Philadelphia.

In hot weather this Powder makes better much firmer and sweeter than it usually is, and keeps it from turning rancid. It also removes the strong flavor of turnips, weeds, corn stalks, cotton seed, etc., and the increased yield of butter much more than pays the trifling expense of using it.

An Operation in Insurance.

A man in business, who is somewhat noted for his care in driving a bargain, applied to one of the insurance offices to know the lowest rate at which they would insure one hundred dollars worth of pitch for a month. It was well stored, and the underwriter mechanically replied:

"One per cent., Mr. Squeezer."

"Isn't that a leetle high, and couldn't you say three-quarters?" asked the applicant.

"No, Sir! Good gracious! Why, 'tis only one dollar, and we won't write a policy for less."

"Very well, send it down to my store, and I'll take it."

Down to Squeezer's store went the policy by a clerk, one of the hottest days of the season, and the dollar was collected, but about two weeks afterward the old man came panting into the office quite anxious.

"See here, Mr. President, I'm afraid I shall have to have this policy altered. The pitch is all right, but I wish you would cross out the words 'war or civil commotions.'"

"We cannot do that, Mr. Squeezer; we insure your property against the ordinary hazard of fire, not war or riot."

"Well, well," said the old man, "then I suppose you'll refund the premium, and I'll return the policy."

"You forget, Mr. Squeezer, that you have been insured for two weeks already."

"Yes, yes; then gi' me back half the premium, an' cancel it."

Amused at this display of meanness, the official drew fifty cents from his pocket, which the old man seized with avidity, slapped down his policy, and shuffled off with a chuckle, for he had sold the pitch that morning.

—The caucus managers are getting ready for the annual campaign, and soon it will be: "Well, you see, my dear, the caucus held rather late," when he is out after midnight.

Centaur Liniments

White for the Human Fam

Yellow, for Horses and Anim

These Liniments are simply the wonder of the world. Their effects are little less than marvellous, yet there are some things which they will not do. They will not cure cancer or mend broken bones, but they will always allay pain. They have straightened fingers, cured chronic rheumatism of many years standing, and taken the pain from terrible burns and scalds, which has never been done by any other article.

THE WHITE LINIMENT is for the human family. It will drive Rheumatism, Sciatica and Neuralgia from the system; cure Lumbago, Chilblains, Palsy, Itch, and most Cutaneous Eruptions; it extracts frost from frozen hands and feet, and the poison of bites and stings of venomous reptiles; it subdues swellings, and alleviates pain of every kind.

For sprains or bruises it is the most potent remedy ever discovered. The Centaur Liniment is used with great efficacy for Sore Throat, Toothache, Caked Breasts, Earache, and Weak Back. The following is but a sample of numerous testimonials:

"INDIANA HOME, JEFF. CO., IND., May 28, 1873.

"I think it my duty to inform you that I have suffered much with swollen feet and shorts. I have not been free from these swellings in eight years. Now I am perfectly well, thanks to the Centaur Liniment. The Liniment ought to be applied warm.

BENJAMIN BROWN."

The proof is in the trial. It is reliable, it is handy it is cheap, and every family should have it.

To the sick and bed-ridden, the halt and lame, to the wounded and sore, we say, "Come and be healed."

To the poor and distressed who have spent their money for worthless medicines, a bottle of CENTAUR LINIMENT will be given without charge.

THE YELLOW CENTAUR LINIMENT

is adapted to the tough muscles, cords and flesh of horses and animals. It has performed more wonderful cures of Spavin, Strain, Wind-galls, Scratches, Sweeny, and general Lameness, than all other remedies in existence. Read what the great Expressmen say of it:

"NEW YORK, January, 1874.

"Every owner of horses should give the CENTAUR LINIMENT a trial. We consider it the best article ever used in our stables.

"H. MARSH, Supt. Adams Ex. Stables, N. Y.
"E. FULTZ, Supt. U. S. Ex. Stables, N. Y.
"ALBERT S. OLIN, Supt. Nat. Ex. Stables, N. Y."

"MONTGOMERY, ALA., Aug. 17, 1874.

"GENTLEMEN,—I have used over one gross of CENTAUR LINIMENT, I now write for another lot for use of my plantation, besides dozens of the family Liniment for my negroes. I want to purchase it at the wholesale price, and will thank you to ship me by Savannah steamer one gross of each kind. Messrs. A. T. Stewart & Co. will pay your bill on presentation.

"Respectfully, JAMES DARROW."

The best patrons of this Liniment are Farriers and Veterinary Surgeons; It heals Galls, Wounds and Poll-evil, removes Swellings, and is worth millions of dollars to Farmers, Livery-men, Stock-growers, Sheep-raisers, and those having horses or cattle.

What a Farrier cannot do for $20 the Centaur Liniment will do at a trifling cost.

These Liniments are warranted by the proprietors, and a bottle will be given to any Farrier or Physician who desires to test them. Sold everywhere.

Castoria.

Is a pleasant and perfect substitute, in all cases, for CASTOR OIL. Castoria is the result of an old Physician's effort to produce, for his own practice, an effective cathartic, pleasant to the taste and free from griping.

Dr. Samuel Pitcher, of Hyannis, Mass., succeeded in combining, without the use of alcohol, a purgative agent, as pleasant to take as honey, and which possesses all the desirable properties of Castor Oil.

It is adapted to children, but it is especially recommended to mothers as a reliable remedy for all disorders of the stomach and bowels of children. It is certain, agreeable, absolutely harmless, and cheap. It should be used for wind colic, sour stomach, worms, costiveness, croup, &c., then children can have sleep and mothers may rest.

J. B. Rose & Co., of 45 Dey Street, New York, are the sole proprietors of Castoria, after Dr. Pitcher' recipe.

FOR PRESIDENT,

Rutherford B. Hayes,

OF OHIO.

FOR VICE PRESIDENT,

William A. Wheeler,

OF NEW YORK.

Hayes' Platform in War.

In 1864, when Hayes was in the army, being nominated for Congress he was requested to come home and stump his district. His reply was, "I have other business just now. Any man who would leave the army at this time to electioneer for Congress ought to be scalped!"

Hayes' Platform in Peace.

"Honest money for all, and free schools for all. There should be no inflation which will depreciate the one, nor sectarian interference which will destroy the other."

News and Notes.

Mr. Carlyle Petersilea, the well known music teacher of Boston, came very near losing his life at Old Orchard Beach on the 15th, in an attempt to rescue from drowning a Mr. Clement of Manchester. The latter finally got on shore, notified the bystanders of Mr. Petersilea's peril, and he was rescued by a boat's crew.

The steamer Mersey, from Marypool, Eng., for Antwerp, was wrecked off St. David's Head, and the captain and fourteen man were lost.

Secretary Robeson has placed his resignation in the hands of the President, the partisan "investigation" by the democrats for six months having utterly failed to connect him with dishonesty or corruption.

A Houston (Texas) dispatch says there has been considerable disturbance at a place called Eagle Lake, a short distance from there, between whites and blacks. "A fight took place, in which a general firing ensued and several negroes were killed. The struggle promises to be severe. Both parties are under arms and trouble is hourly expected." Another "fight" in which "several negroes were killed." We await further reports from this "fight" with some interest.

Belfast, Ireland, had its annual riot on the 15th and 16th. The accounts say that "no serious rioting" took place, but twenty-six persons were so badly injured that they were sent to the hospital.

The English Consuls at Belgrade and Constantinople have been directed to inform the Servians and Turks, respectively, that if they will consent to the mediation of the Powers, England is willing to act.

On the 16th the north bound train on the Longmount division of the Colorado Central Railroad was stopped near Denison and boarded by twenty masked men with cocked revolvers. They kidnapped Judge Stove, who was on his way to Boulder to open court for the purpose of approving the bonds of the receiver recently appointed for the Colorado Central. Great excitement exists, and it is feared the judge has been murdered. A large posse of men has been started in pursuit.

By the explosion of a boiler in the Merrimac cotton mill, at Lowell, on the 16th, a man was killed and a boy fatally scalded, and the mill damaged $30,000.

In New York, on the 15th, an old man named John Cody cruelly abused a young boy. Hugh Fitzpatrick, a laborer, interposed for the boy, when James Cody, son of John, broke Fitzpatrick's arm with a club. Patrick Cody, another son of John, then opened on Fitzpatrick with a revolver, inflicting a severe scalp wound. A gang of laborers rushed to Fitzpatrick's rescue, when the old man Cody and his son James, together with a gang of laborers in their employ, fled, leaving Patrick Cody facing the crowd with his revolver pointed at them. They closed on him, when he fired four shots, wounding James Clifford and John Haskins severely, if not fatally. He then fled and officer Jefferson captured him, although Cody threatened to shoot him. The other Codys were subsequently arrested. There was great excitement and a mob threatened to lynch the Codys. Fitzpatrick, Haskins and Clifford will probably die. Cody, the would-be murderer, is an old prison bird, a thief, burglar and pickpocket, and democratic politician.

Judge Stone, who was kidnapped near Boulder, Colorado, on the 15th, while on his way to open court, was released next day. He was to go to Boulder on the 17th, guarded by two companies of soldiers.

New Hampshire Items.

Frank E. Ballou and Charles E. Fisher, the young men arrested in Keene on suspicion of having some knowledge of the Swanzey murder, have been discharged by the officers without a hearing. It is supposed they told all they know about the matter.

Pickpockets are busy on the Boston and Maine Railroad. On the 16th one of them tried to pick a lady's pocket while the train was at Dover, and being detected, jumped out of the window and fled; his coat and duster are at Dover station.

Two barns belonging to John Woodburn, situated on high range, Londonderry, were burned on the 15th, with twenty-five tons of hay and a lot of grain and farming tools. Loss $1500, partly insured in Rockingham Farmers' Company; cause unknown.

East Northwood has a lively resident in the person of a fellow who, four years ago, when sixteen years old, eloped with and married a girl of fourteen, who left him in about two years, whereupon he married another girl of the town without the formality of a divorce. Wife number two left him a while ago, and nothing daunted he now takes to himself a third.

A fireman on the Boston, Concord & Montreal Railroad was fatally injured at Concord on the 16th, by being struck by an overhead bridge.

The evidence against Alvin H. Johnson, of Bridgewater, for the murder of his wife last April, is fast accumulating.

Political.

The New Haven Union (democratic and inflation) says: Tilden, immediately after his nomination, announced that he intended to conduct an "aggressive campaign," and for awhile the republicans were put on the defensive. But now Tilden is on the defensive, and he must fight it out on that line during the canvass. The trouble is, the man has a very bad record, and the republican mud throwers are fast digging it up. His affair with the Terre Haute and Alton road is giving him all he can attend to, although he has yet to explain his connection with the Credit Mobilier, and other railroad swindles. All the democratic papers are now defending Tilden's private character. "Reform" is "played out."

The San Antonio Herald (democratic) says: "Truly is the State Government of Texas a curse, and its laws a mockery." That State Government is democratic in all its branches.

Wade Hampton has been nominated for Governor by the South Carolina democrats. This nomination probably means an "aggressive campaign," after the Hamburg plan.

Governor Hayes declines to take any part in the canvass or to work for his own election. Gov. Tilden has a private "headquarters" in Liberty street, New York, where a force of clerks is engaged in sending out documents and conducting correspondence in his interest.

Robert Clarke & Co., of Cincinnati, have issued "The Life, Public Services, and Select Speeches of Rutherford B. Hayes," by J. Q. Howard; 12mo., cloth, with fine steel portrait, $1.25; cheap edition, paper covers, 75 cents. It gives an account of his ancestry, boyhood and education, his career at the bar, in the field, in Congress and as Governor of Ohio. Trade orders may be sent to Lockwood, Brooks & Co., or Lee & Shepard, Boston.

Col. Daniel Hall, chairman of the Republican State Committee, has called a meeting of the committee at Concord on the 22d, to appoint times and places for holding electoral conventions, and other important business.

New Britain, Conn., has a new democratic paper, the editor of which eulogizes Lamar as "this negro from the South!"

Mr. Darrall, of the committee who particularly inquired into the Coushatta outrages, submits a separate paper to the effect that the murder of David King and the attempted murder of Senator Twitchell was of a political character, and for political reasons entirely; and, second, that it is very unsafe for a member of the republican party to actively advocate his principles in that part of the State.

The Post says: "This is going to be a glorious year for democracy. The Hartford Times wants Connecticut counted for the biggest Presidential majority she has given since the war." The Hartford Times wants a good many things more than it is likely to get; we don't believe Hayes will have any bigger majority in Connecticut than Grant had four years ago, although the "enthusiasm" for Greely three months before his defeat was a thousand times greater than even the democratic organs pretend is now shown for Tilden.

The Brooklyn Argus, one of the ablest democratic papers in the State of New York, was a sturdy opponent of Tilden's nomination and still refuses to try a crow diet. It ridicules the assumption of the Tilden men that the great "reformer" was ignorant of the Tweed stealings while he (Tilden) was the democratic head centre, as follows: "From the time Tilden became Chairman of the State Committee—1866—to the time of the burst up of the New York branch of the ring—1871—there was added to the debt of New York $56,000,000. During those five memorable years the rings of these two cities had collected in taxes and borrowed $236,000,000. They had the handling of the imperial revenues of $47,000,000 per annum. And yet the very head of the organization, through which they retained a political existence, knew nothing of their transactions!"

Perils of the Ocean.

Alexander Jessamine, one of the four survivors of the wreck of ship N. W. Bleethen, lost on the voyage from Baltimore for London, with the captain, his wife and two children, two mates and eleven seamen, gives the following account of the disaster:

At 5 o'clock A. M., July 31, the ship then being under short sail, the wind having increased to a gale, the order was given for all hands on deck to again shorten sail, and the foresail was furled. Shortly after this the ship lurched heavily to leeward, shifting her cargo, and was thrown on her beam ends; the lower and topsail, main and after yards were squared, and the helm put hard up. The captain, finding the vessel would not pay off, ordered the outer staysail and jib to be set, and then the ship slowly began to cant off, and she finally went before the wind. All this time the decks were being swept by water, and the men were unable to get forward in order to get the head yards round; consequently the captain hauled her up to the wind on the same tack. After several other manoeuvres she was again got before the wind, and they succeeded in getting the head yards around.

Soon afterward a terrific squall struck the ship, blowing the sails from the gaskets, and forcing the ship on her beam ends to starboard, and Capt. Cox was washed overboard. The ship was then past her bearings, and began gradually to keel over. I, however, succeeded in getting to the weather bulwarks, where I found all hands hanging on to the rigging, excepting the captain, his wife and two children. The lady and children were below at the time, but it was impossible to get to them, the cabin being full of water. A tremendous sea then broke over the vessel, sweeping us clear of the wreck to leeward.

After being in the water some time, and looking around, I saw a pile of lumber no great distance from me. I swam toward it and found a plank sufficient to bear me up in the water. I now looked about me and saw the rest of the crew floating on different portions of the wreck. After floating for an hour and a half I saw the fore part of the pilot house, which had been torn from the ship by the sea. I got on it, and looking around I could see nothing of the rest of the crew or the wreck. After drifting about for 56 hours on my raft, which was too small to allow me to stand up, I succeeded in signalling a ship (barque C. E. Jayne), by taking off my shirt and making it fast to a stick I broke from the raft. They answered my signal, heading their vessel for me; coming up they threw a life buoy overboard, and hauled me on board.

The four survivors are Alexander Jessamine, James Doty, Henry Bailey and F. T. Vetesen.

Senator Jones--Autobiographical.

Some twenty-eight years ago I went to California, and on the way out was an old gambler with a set-out of faro-boxes, roulette tables, etc. He took a liking to me, and he said, "Johnny, I'll tell you a secret that may save you many a dollar. Do you see this roulette wheel? Its circle is black and red, and they bet on the colors—a nearly even chance. Now, watch me, Johnny, as I sit here and spin the ball. Do you see me gently raise my knees and press under the frame of the table? Well, those red and black compartments are connected by two sets of wires. I raise my knee when I see that the bulk of money is on the red, and that wire running through the red thrills and trembles, so that the ball won't rest on any red cell, but is repelled, and settles on some black spot. Johnny, remember this when you have bagged your gold dust." Now, said Jones, I went into a gambling house about a year afterwards to raise a stake. There was a fine, fighting gambler, about as smart as Jim Blaine, sitting there spinning roulette. Said I to myself, "Young man, I'll just take a peep at your knees." He raised them very gently and I planted my money against the pile, knowing that when he swept the great amount off for the red he must pay the black. So I picked up a hundred dollars or so. Every time I hit it. That gambler got his eye on me. It was an eye full of small-pox audacity. He addressed me finally in a loud tone of voice. Said he: "Didn't I tell you not to come here again? Didn't I tell you that this was a place for gentlemen? This is a gentleman's game. That man, gentlemen, it is my duty to warn you against; that loafer is a thief!" Well, continued Jones, I had never in my life been there before, but I saw the scheme. If I resented what the boss said there were forty fellows there, cappers and so forth, to kick me down stairs and rob me; so I meekly said: "Well, sir, I do not wish to make any disturbance here. If you don't want me here I'll take my money and go." So I picked up my winnings with fear, not unmixed with humiliation, and in the sight of everybody I went down the stairs and crept away.

New York Pickpockets.

The New York Trioune gives some interesting details respecting the habits and modus operandi of the pickpockets of that city. The majority of the fraternity are now absent from the metropolis, having gone either to Philadelphia or the leading Summer resorts. The pickpocket not unfrequently commences life as a newsboy or bootblack, his first attempts being on the change in his customers' pockets, until he gradually withdraws altogether from the appearance of leading an honest livelihood, and becomes duly enrolled in the brotherhood of crime. The pickpocket often develops into the highway robber or burglar, and sometimes ends his career on the gallows, as in the case of John Dolan, the Noe murderer. The horse-car robberies perpetrated by gangs of eight or ten men with scarcely an attempt at concealment, formerly so common in New York are now of rare occurrence. At present there are seldom more than one or two complaints a week of robberies on the street cars, and those principally made by parties who were intoxicated when robbed. The detectives now exercise greater vigilance on the cars than formerly. Pickpockets seldom travel in gangs, but work alone, and most of this class of thefts is done by youths of from 16 to 18. It is difficult to keep track of professional thieves. They change their residences frequently and their names as often. All professional thieves when arrested have their photographs placed in the Rogues' Gallery; in the rare case of a thief's reformation his portrait is moved and given up to him after a period of probation. Funerals afford them a prolific source of emolument. They read the morning papers to ascertain where funerals are to be held, and mingle with the mourners at the house, in the church or even around the grave. There were formerly several schools in New York where pocket-picking and other branches of crime were regularly taught, but it is believed that they have all been broken up.

—The Chicago Inter-Ocean says General Sherman and the President are engaged upon measures that will "bring Sitting Bull to time." We should prefer that they would engage upon measures that will bring Sitting Bull to eternity.—St. Paul Press.

Liberate the Impurities of the System.

This can easily be done through the instrumentality of the searching blood depurent and alterative, Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, which incites those scavengers of the body, the kidneys and the bowels, to vigorous action. The first named organs secrete impurities—where such exist—from the blood, which would otherwise poison it, and it is the office of the bowels to carry off the useless portions of the food rejected during the process of digestion, and which if retained would interfere with digestion and bilious secretion. Rheumatism and gout, both products of acid elements in the circulation, are remedied by the Bitters, which will likewise be found a prompt though gentle cathartic. Both kidneys and bowels are invigorated, as well as stimulated by this famous medicine, which possesses tonic properties of the highest order.

The energy of the New York and New England Railroad in offering new and desirable through routes from Boston to Brooklyn, New York, Philadelphia, Baltimore and Washington, at popular rates, has already won a fair reward in the large passenger and through freight traffic between these points, and the public can rest assured no effort will be spared to keep all details of the road up to its present high standard.

SCHOOL COMMITTEE.

At the regular meeting of the school committee, Wednesday evening the various subcommittees were appointed a committee to report what changes, if any, it may be expedient to make in the employment of teachers of the public schools.

The rules and regulations for the government of the public schools, as printed in the City Report for 1875, were adopted.

The election of High School committee was made a special order for the next meeting of the Board.

POLICE COURT.

Before Hackett, Special Justice, August 17th.

The matinee attendance at the Court on Thursday morning was numerous. The first case tried was that of George W. Thompson, charged upon a complaint of Moses H. Tilton for cruelty to a horse on Sunday. The evidence did not sustain the charge, and the respondent was acquitted.

In the complaint against Charles Mace, throwing down a guide-board, a nolle prosequi was entered on motion of Solicitor Hodgden.

Charles Hammond was found guilty of being drunk. He said Dr. Potter advised him to take something every day for his health; but the Court said it was better to change the treatment, and prescribed three months country air at Brentwood.

A marine seemed to feel the depressing influence of the recent order of Secretary Robeson, and shew the effect of too much stimulant, on Daniel street. Fined.

A shoe-builder from South Berwick, found on Court street at midnight with too much fungle-foot, acknowledged the corn and was assessed the usual sum.

The police then fell back, and Sheriff Kent appeared with Frederick D. James, who has been in custody since Saturday, the 12th, on a charge of stealing the subscription list of the States and Union. James is a good democrat and can disburse funds from the rich candidates of the party in the close towns as well as the next man; but when it comes to invading the office of our neighbor and purloining his list it was too much for Bro. Guppy's good nature to endure. George thinks it is bad enough to publish a democratic journal, without being robbed of his chances of collecting from his subscribers, and he had James imported from Boston to answer to this complaint. James thought he would like an adjournment for ten days, in order to look over the situation and see if he could find some one to conduct his defence, but the Court, in view of the fact that five days had already elapsed since his arraignment, concluded that the ends of justice would be promoted by proceeding with the case. Frederick then came down, waived an examination, and was held in $1200 to appear and answer at the October term of the Supreme Court in this city.

JOTTINGS.

The picnic of the Reform Club at Pinkham's Grove, Thursday, was attended by a very large number of persons, and was in every way a success.

Abner Lowell was brought to this city on Thursday by officer Blake of Raymond, and committed to jail on charge of threatening to kill his family, burning buildings of a man named Spencer at Raymond, and divers others "misdemeanors." He has been in State prison two terms on charge of attempting rape, and has been out a year.

Mr. Jerry McCarthy of this city, well known a few years ago as a driver in the employ of Joseph Parry, Esq., was on the 15th confirmed as a Catholic priest at Portland. He has been a student at one of the Catholic colleges for some time.

The Piscataqua Fire Engine Co., of South Berwick, with a band, were in town on Thursday, and took a trip in steamer Mystic.

On Thursday evening the Aldermen elected the following officers: Assistant Marshal, Franklin Cole; special police without pay, Daniel H. Spinney, George H. Smart.

Run on a Railroad.

An incident occurred on the Union Pacific express train from the West, yesterday, on its passage between Ogden and Omaha, that created a good deal of consternation, and some very excited and lively scrambling around in one of the Pullman sleeping-cars. About 2 o'clock yesterday morning, when the train was at Ogallala, a passenger got aboard and took a berth in the sleeper. He did not get aboard in the full light of the station lamps, but jumped on in the darkness, after the train had passed the platform, and immediately got into his berth without removing any of his clothing, except his boots, and otherwise acted as if he feared that something would catch him. And something did catch him, sure enough, at the next station. The fellow was a gambler who had been carrying on operations at Ogallala in a way that would not square with even the gambler's code of morals. Ogallala is the great shipping point for cattle on the line of the Union Pacific, and at times a great many cattle dealers are there. The chap in question had got to playing with these fellows, and beat them out of $8000 or $10,000, and refused to disgorge. He had succeeded in sneaking out and getting aboard the train in the manner related, and was sneaking off with his stake. The enraged cattle-men did not propose to submit to the circumstances and lose their money in that way; so they telegraphed the particulars to some friends in Alkali, the next station, who were likewise of the same resolute stamp of cattle-men. When the train arrived they had possession of it and were tearing through it to find the man who got on at Ogallala. They found him innocently pretending to sleep in his berth about the middle of the Pullman, and the trouble commenced. The fellow refused to leave the car, but the cattle-men assured him if he wouldn't go they had the tools to take him, and directed his attention to a mule standing quietly in the moonlight, with a long rope coiled up on the saddle. The bell rang to start, and matters were precipitated by all parties drawing revolvers and beginning to shoot promiscuously. Curtains were torn down and frightened passengers tumbled out to escape the whistling bullets, and the utmost confusion reigned, women screaming and everybody rushing out of the car by means of windows as well as doors, and soon the prairie was covered with white-robed forms flitting like ghosts in the moonlight. The cattle men finally dragged out their victim, tied him on the mule and started away with him, and the passengers returned to the coach, whence cries and screams and groans were still issuing. One young lady, whose parents were on board, was screaming and declaring that she was shot in the leg, and medical attendance was summoned from the station. The train was held to await the arrival of the man of knives and probes, and when he came a professional examination revealed the fact that a pin in the lady's stocking was cruelly sticking her. There were some bullet holes through the coach and several narrow escapes, but not a single passenger was hit by the reckless firing. The fate of the gambler who caused the trouble could not be learned, but it is known positively that he rode back to Ogallala on that mule with the rope in sight. The bunks, curtains and sides of the Pullman were pretty freely perforated with balls.—Omaha Herald.

The Man Who was Scalped.

A seedy individual stood at the corner of Fourth and Walnut. It was midnight, and the moon glimmered among the floating clouds. A well dressed citizen approached. The seedy one planted himself in the centre of the sidewalk. "See here, mister, can you lend me a quarter to rent a bed for the night? 'Pon my soul I haven't slept under a roof for six long months."

"Where did you come from?"

"Black Hills. I'm the man what was scalped. You have heard about me, I 'spose?"

"Yes, I read something in the papers about a man being scalped by the Indians; but you can't be the individual, because you have not lost your hair."

"Oh, it growed on; just feel them lumps on top. It's a dreadful thing to be scalped by the Indians, and I don't want it to happen again, I tell you. Feel how tight my hair sticks to my head. Its glued on."

The citizen put his hand on the man's head, and declared he could see no difference between his hair and that of other men. He told the fellow that he was an imposter, and passed on. When he had proceeded about two blocks he put his hand to his vest pocket to draw out his watch, but the ticker had disappeared. Then he was mad.—Globe-Democrat.

—A Charlemont marketman, when delivering goods one morning, discovered on leaving the house of a customer a custard pie sitting in a window where the lady of the house had placed it to cool for dinner. He at once appropriated it, and driving directly to the store of the lady's husband, called him out and told him he had "hooked" a nice custard pie, and if he would get some cheese they would have a nice time eating it. Of course the cheese was forthcoming, and after satisfactorily disposing of the pie the question arose what to do with the plate. The merchant said he would take care of that, and suiting his actions to his words, dashed it against the wall. When the merchant went home to dinner that day his wife apologized for not having any dessert, saying she made a custard pie for dinner and set it in the window to cool, and she supposed some boys must have stolen it. Her husband wasn't pie hungry, and seemed quite pleased about something, but kept "mum." Next morning the merchant meeting the marketman sang out "Pie!" In reply the other said: "Cheese! And whose plate was that you smashed?"

—The deepest perpendicular mining shaft in the world is in Frizibram, Bohemia. It measures 3280 feet. The mine is for lead, and is supposed to have been worked three hundred and fifty years. Greater depths have been reached in other places, but not in one perpendicular. A rock-salt mine near Berlin is 4175 feet deep, and a coal mine in Belgium is 3542. The deepest hole in the earth is the artesian well at Potsdam, Mo., 5500 feet.

—Two residents of New London were married recently under rather peculiar circumstances. At the conclusion of the ceremony the bridegroom refused to fee the clergyman or allow the bride to be kissed, and on arriving home told her she might go her way and he would go his, which they immediately did.

—The paragraph about taking soda water surreptitiously appears to have been lost from the current original sayings.

PULMOCINE CORDIAL.

COOKED CORNED BEEF.

Articles are being published calculated to prejudice the public against using Cooked Corned Beef, and we would say in answer to them that in no instance has positive proof been established to show that such is the case.

Our goods are packed in a manner very similar to that of Corn, Tomatoes, Fruit and canned goods generally, (which have long been tested) and we use nothing whatever of a poisonous nature in their preparation.

In addition to our own statement we have the strong endorsement of Prof. Hosford of Cambridge, one of the most eminent Chemists in the country, who has fully tested and is familiar with the entire details of the preparation of our goods.

We would also state that we use none but the choicest of Beef that our Chicago market affords, and trust that with these statements the rapidly growing popularity of our Corned Beef may be increased.

For the information of those not knowing the fact we would state that in the process of canning there is a liability of imperfect sealing, which causes the can to expand. Meat contained in such cans is unfit for use and will be cheerfully paid for when returned to any grocer selling it.

PILOT BREAD.

This kind of bread having come into extensive family use, it has been my purpose to furnish, from choice materials, an article which should meet the approval of the most fastidious as to neatness, looks and taste. Whether I have succeeded in giving to the public a PILOT BREAD,

SUPERIOR IN EXCELLENCE,

the consumer may be the judge; that the quality will not be suffered to depreciate, the past with the present is my best pledge. That I can compete with all the various qualities of Pilot Bread in the market, as to price, I make no pretensions,—but in price, all things being equal, I fear no competition.

REASONS WHY FARMERS should purchase

The Halladay Wind-Mill

It is the first reliable self-regulating Wind Mill ever made, and continues to lead the van.

It has stood the test of nearly a quarter of a century, and has gained a reputation as broad as its use is extensive.

It is the only wind mill generally adopted on all the railroads.

It is the cheapest wind mill.

The United States Wind Engine and Pump Co. have the largest wind mill manufactory in the world. We are willing to put our mill upon its merits. We ask an investigation of facts and motives. We duly appreciate the patronage and support we have received in the past, and while we solicit a continuance of favors, we shall try to merit them. We are the pioneers in the production of a wind mill adapted to the use of farmers.

Important Report on Disinfectants.

The sixth of the new series of reports of the medical officers of the privy council and local government board contains an article on the study of disinfectants, by Dr. Baxter. A great number of very careful experiments were made, with a view to test the disinfecting properties of the so-called disinfectants commonly used. Evidence was adduced to show that carbolic acid, sulphur, permanganate of potash and chlorine are all endowed with true disinfectant properties, though in very varying degrees. The effectual disinfectant operation of chlorine and permanganate of potash appears to depend far more on the nature of the medium through which the particles of the infective matter are distributed than on the specific character of the particles themselves. A virulent liquid cannot be regarded as certainly and completely disinfected by sulphur unless it has been rendered permanently and thoroughly acid. No virulent liquid can be considered disinfected by carbolic acid unless it contains at least two per centum by weight of the pure acid.

When disinfectants are mixed with a liquid it is very important to be sure that they are thoroughly incorporated with it, and that no solid matters capable of shielding contagion from immediate contact with its destroyer be overlooked. Aerial disaffection, as commonly practiced in the sick-room, is either useless or positively objectionable, owing to the false sense of security it is calculated to produce. To make the air of a room smell strongly of carbolic acid by scattering carbolic powder about the floor, or of chlorine by placing a tray of chloride of lime in a corner, is, so far as the destruction of specific contagia is concerned, an utterly futile proceeding.

The practical result of these experiments goes to prove, (1) that dry heat, when it can be applied, is probably the most efficient of all disinfectants; (2) that the old plan of stopping up crevices and fumigating with sulphur and charcoal is more efficacious than any other proceeding with more modern disinfectants; (3) that the use of carbolic vapor for disinfecting purposes should be abandoned, owing to the relative feebleness and uncertainty of its action. London Times.

Dr. YOUNG;

Dr. TELLER,

ESTABLISHED.

The above named private Hospital was established in Albany in 1835 by Dr. Lispenard and for a number of years its affairs were presided over by that gentleman, but for the past 20 years, Dr. Teller, who is now deceased, transacted the business of the institution.

Owing to the great demand for more spacious apartments on account of the large increase of business, the Hospital has been removed to No. 9 Beaver Street, two doors above its old location, where patients will find magnificently furnished rooms for their reception, and are so arranged that patients do not come in contact with one another, seeing only the doctor, thereby avoiding the unpleasantness of meeting others, which always occurred at the old office.

LADIES will find rooms provided for their especial accommodation and entirely private.

YOUNG MEN, addicted to secret habits, who have impaired their health and destroyed the vigor of their minds, thus depriving themselves of the pleasures of married life and also those afflicted with p.l.vate diseases of any nature, are advised that in consulting Dr. Young they will find a physician fully qualified to cure and restore them to full health and manly vigor.

Dr. Teller's great work for the married, or those contemplating marriage—300 pages—full of plates,—price 25 cents. Sent to all parts, under seal, by mail post paid.

TO THE LADIES—DR. YOUNG still retains the only agency in America for the sale of Dr. Vichol's Italian Female Monthly Pills. Sent by mail on receipt of $1.00, price per box.

DR. YOUNG is the only agent for Dr. La Mott's celebrated Galvanic Belts.

Invalids out of the city can be cured by consulting the Doctor by letter, and enclosing remittance. Medicines sent by mail or express, securely packed from observation. All letters must be addressed to

MAGIC

CONDITION PILLS!

The Wonderful Remedy for Liver Complaint, Biliousness, Dyspepsia, Constipation, Neuralgia, Rheumatism, Headache, Kidney Complaint, Nervousness, Scrofula, Piles, and all diseases arising from a bad state of the Blood!

No medicine ever offered to the public has given such universal satisfaction as Dr. Quain's Magic Condition Pills. Their praises are on every tongue where their merits are known. They strike at once at the seat of disease and show their healing power almost immediately. Thousands of voluntary testimonials of their merits have been received by the agent, from those who have been cured by them, of which the following are samples:

Dyspepsia Four Years, Constipation and Inflammation of the Bowels Three Years, Confined to my Room Two Years, Pain so I Could Not Sleep Without Morphine. One Package of Dr. Quain's Condition Pills Made Me Eat Well, Sleep Well and Free from Pain, after being given up by Physicians.

WEST LEBANON, ME., Feb. 22, 1

MR. THOMAS W. LANE:—I have been sick for four years with Dyspepsia, and for the past three years Constipation and Inflammation of the Bowels. I have suffered all the pain I could endure and live. I have been confined to my room for two years, and could not sleep nights without the use of morphine. I have been given up by physicians as past cure. I have taken one package of DR. QUAIN'S CONDITION PILLS, and they have done me more good than all the doctors I have had. I sleep well, I eat well, and have no pain. They are all they are recommended to be. Please send me three packages, as two of my neighbors wish to try them. I enclose $1.50.

Your truly, JOHN W. LORD.

Another Letter from Maj. John W. Lord, one month later. Wonderful Cures by Dr. Quain's Pills Effected on Him in Thirteen Days. First time Free from Pain for Three Years.

WEST LEBANON, ME., March 22, 1875

MR. THOMAS W. LANE:—I commenced taking DR. QUAIN'S CONDITION PILLS February 25th, and wrote you February 22d of their wonderful effect. I have continued to improve ever since. My appetite is good, and I sleep as well as I ever did in my life. I am free from pain for the first time in three years. When I was down sick four years ago, I weighed one hundred and eighty-six pounds; I now weigh one hundred and thirty, but, as I am gaining in strength, I have faith I shall regain my flesh this summer, by the use of the Pills. I shall continue taking them for some time to come.

Yours truly, JOHN W. LORD.

Dr. Quain's Pills the Remedy for Soldiers' Aches and Pains.

WEST LEBANON, ME., June 1, 1875.

MR. THOMAS W. LANE—Dear Sir:—I am now able to walk out every day, and am gaining in strength very fast, all of which is due to you as agent for the best Pills in the world. I have taken no other medicine, and my improvement has been steady since first taking DR. QUAIN'S CONDITION PILLS. They have done everything for me, and I will say to you, advertise them direct to the soldiers, for they will certainly cure their aches and pains caused from exposure and hardship on the field. Please send me by return mail another package.

JOHN W. LORD.

Rheumatism for Twenty Years Cured by One Package of Dr. Quain's Condition Pills—"The Best Medicine in the World."

EAST ANDOVER, N. H., Dec. 10, 1875.

MR. LANE—Dear Sir:—As I know the value of DR. QUAIN'S CONDITION PILLS and the good they have done me, I take pleasure in giving them praise; so I send you another testimonial. My father has been troubled with Rheumatism for twenty years or more, and has tried everything that could be thought of, but to no good. At times it would so bad that he could not lift his hand to his head or do any work at all, especially in cold weather. A short time ago I advised him to get some of these Pills. He believed nothing in them, but I gave him the last package I had of you, as I did not need them, and he has not been as free from the Rheumatic Complaint for years. No Rheumatism, no pain. What helped him? It was DR. QUAIN'S CONDITION PILLS, the best medicine in the world. There is nothing like them. I know it, for I have tried them, and they are all, yes, more than they are recommended to be. Give them a fair trial and you will say so. I write this because I know the goodness of them and wish others to know the same. Some may think I am telling a big story I am. But remember I am not giving them half the praise they ought to have.

Yours with respect, ED. F. PEVARE.

DAINGERFIELD, MORRIS CO., TEXAS, Nov. 15, 75.

MR. THOMAS W. LANE—Dear Sir:—I have been afflicted for near twelve years with Neuralgia in the face and head. I tried I do not know how many physicians, and could only get partly relieved. I also tried many patent medicines with the same result. I have been confined to my room most all the time for eight or ten winters, and have been traveling and visiting medical springs, and I still suffered most intensely. The physicians pronounced my case the worst and most stubborn that they had had anything to do with. One told me I could never get well; they all advised me to go South and spend the winter, and thought that was the only chance for me, and I was getting ready to go to Florida, when through the kindness of Rev. H. M. Mathis, my attention was called to the advertisement of Dr. Quain's Magic Condition Pills. I immediately sent to you for a package. I have taken four doses and I am almost free from pain. The impression here seems to be that if your pills will cure me they will cure anybody. I have five applications to send for the pills. Enclosed please find three dollars; send five packages to me and one to Mrs. Laura Sherrell, Sulphur Springs, Hopkins county, Texas.

Yours truly, J. S. PATTON.

Liver Complaint, Nervousness, Dropsy and Headache.

LACONIA, N. H., Jan. 29, 1875.

THOS. W. LANE—Sir:—I have been troubled with Bad Blood, Liver Complaint, Nervousness, Dropsy and Headache. I have taken one package of DR. QUAIN'S CONDITION PILLS. They have done me more good than all the medicine I ever took; I have taken considerable medicine within the last five years. For the nerves I think there is nothing so good as these pills. I can recommend them to all who are similarly afflicted, they have done me so much good. I think they will recommend themselves wherever they go. I shall recommend those Pills to all who need them. Please send me two packages more, one for myself and one for a lady friend of mine. Many thanks to the inventor, agent and advertiser of those Pills. MRS. P. L. ELLIOTT.

PULMOCINE.

BUCHMAN'S PULMOCINE CORDIAL

is a new discovery. Twenty-three years ago it was used by one of New England's most famous physicians as the best Pulmonary Curative he could prescribe, after a dozen years spent in experimenting with it before he was satisfied that the Materia Medica could add nothing in its favor.

Is the ultima thule of Medical Discovery.

Among its many ingredients are Wild Cherry Bark, Squill Root, Liquorice Root, Blood root, &c. It is a Blood Purifier, gently stimulating. It increases expectoration and is diuretic. It is sudorific and alterative. It is a necessary family medicine. It is a Tonic and a powerful aid to the digestive organs. It is a gentle sedative, and relieves nervousness. It is aromatic and agreeable to the taste.

CLEAR YOUR THROAT!

Relieve Your Lungs.

For the terrible diseases engendered by the lung trying climate of New England,

PULMOCINE CORDIAL

is a speedy and reliable Preventive and Remedy. Every Family should have a bottle at hand to check the sudden growth of all Pulmonary Diseases. For the Asthma, Coughs, Croups, Laryngitis, or Inflammation of the larynx, Diphtheria, and all kindred Throat Diseases at all times prevalent, it is the ounce of Prevention. Children attacked with Whooping Cough or Croup should be immediately cared for. These painful attacks come with scarcely a moment's warning, when a physician may be out of immediate reach. A dose of PULMOCINE CORDIAL gives speedy relief, and the little ones are spared hours of pain and agony. As "a stitch in time saves nine," so does the possession of this Family Medicine prevent the spread of disease. Parents seeing their children gasping with pain, friends and relatives beholding each other in peril from suffocation by the choking pain in the throat, paralyzed with fear and not know ing the best course to pursue, are liable to apply the wrong remedial agent. There is no safety in delay, no time to waste in such cases. CONSUMPTION, that fearful scourge of the human race, lies at the door of all this afflicted. BUCHMAN'S PULMOCINE CORDIAL arrests it (unless in its advanced stage at which time there is no local cure) relieves the pressing, suffocating feeling at the lungs, and the patient's danger is past.

For Coughs,

Croup,

Diphtheria,

Asthma, etc.,

Buchman's Pulmocine Cordial.

The Pulmocine Cordial is not a quack medicine, is not an experiment, is not composed of any ingredients "discovered" by "walking in pastures" in South America or anywhere else, nor by one who discovered a weed and thereby cured himself. Most of the ingredients are such as our best educated physicians daily use for the complaints specified in some form or other. The recipe is that perfected by one of New England's most learned and famous physicians, who used it entirely in his daily practice until his death. It is offered to the profession and to the public, absolutely pure and unadulterated.

And no person shall throw or suffer to be thrown from his land into either of said ponds, or upon any of said flats or marshes, any dead, decaying, unwholesome or offensive animal or vegetable substances.

BUTTER IN 20 MINUTES.

Lincoln Butter Powder is an entirely harmless article made from a celebrated English recipe, and now in daily use by many of the most noted farmers in the butter counties around Philadelphia.

In hot weather it makes better much firmer and sweeter than it usually is, and keeps it from turning rancid. It also removes the strong flavor of turnips, weeds, corn stalks, cotton seed, etc.; and the increased yield of butter much more than pays the trifling expense of using it.

Portsmouth Chronicle.

The Course of True Love, etc.

A lively matrimonial affair occurred recently in Kansas City. It appears that Mr. Moreland, a prosperous merchant of the place, has a daughter of whom he is remarkably fond, and who was eagerly sought after by a young man whose character was not so winning as his manners and general appearance. So bad was his character that Mr. Moreland positively forbade his daughter keeping the young man's company; but Miss Moreland was determined to reciprocate the young man's affection in spite of the parental mandate. She not only continued to recognize him; but also became engaged to him, and they were secretly married by the clergyman who resided in the neighborhood. The news did not reach the ears of the father until several days after the marriage, but when it finally came his rage was intense. He attacked his unwelcome son-in-law, who fled precipitately from his presence, leaving the old man in a frenzy of indignation. The father then offered his daughter the alternative of renouncing her husband or going from her father's house for all time. The girl said she had made up her mind, and she was going with her husband, and she went. The father's wrath was still unappeased, and he sent word to the minister who tied the marriage knot that he intended to thrash him out of sight at the first opportunity. Subsequently, meeting the minister, the old man collared him. The reverend gentleman kicked and yelled lustily, but Moreland held on and pounded. Matters were getting serious, when the police interfered and the father was arrested. The trouble is not over yet. The penalty for preachers marrying children under age is a severe one, and Moreland has retained legal counsel for the prosecution of the minister.

Centaur Liniments

[White for the Human Family

Yellow, for Horses and Animals.

These Liniments are simply the wonder of the world. Their effects are little less than marvellous, yet there are some things which they will not do. They will not cure cancer or mend broken bones, but they will always allay pain. They have straightened fingers, cured chronic rheumatism of many years standing, and taken the pain from terrible burns and scalds, which has never been done by any other article.

THE WHITE LINIMENT is for the human family. It will drive Rheumatism, Sciatica and Neuralgia from the system; cure Lumbago, Chilblains, Palsy, Itch, and most Cutaneous Eruptions; it extracts frost from frozen hands and feet, and the poison of bites and stings of venomous reptiles; it subdues swellings, and alleviates pain of every kind.

For sprains or bruises it is the most potent remedy ever discovered. The Centaur Liniment is used with great efficacy for Sore Throat, Toothache, Caked Breasts, Earache, and Weak Back. The following is but a sample of numerous testimonials:

"INDIAN HOUSE, JEFF. CO., IND., July 28, 1873.

"I think it my duty to inform you that I have suffered much with swollen feet and chords. I have not been free from these swellings in eight years. Now I am perfectly well, thanks to the Centaur Liniment. The Liniment ought to be applied warm.

BENJAMIN BROWN."

The proof is in the trial. It is reliable, it is handy it is cheap, and every family should have it.

To the sick and, bed-ridden, the halt and lame, to the wounded and sore, we say, "Come and be healed."

To the poor and distressed who have spent their money for worthless medicines, a bottle of CENTAUR LINIMENT will be given without charge.

THE YELLOW CENTAUR LINIMENT is adapted to the tough muscles, cords and flesh of horses and animals. It has performed more wonderful cures of Spavin, Strain, Wind-galls, Scratches, Sweeny, and general Lameness, than all other remedies in existence. Read what the great Expressmen say of it:

"NEW YORK, January, 1874.

"Every owner of horses should give the CENTAUR LINIMENT a trial. We consider it the best article ever used in our stables.

"H. MARSH, Supt. Adams Ex. Stables, N. Y.

"E. PULTZ, Supt. U. S. Ex. Stables, N. Y.

"ALBERT S. OLIN, Supt. Nat. Ex. Stables, N. Y."

"MONTGOMERY, ALA., Aug. 17, 1874.

"GENTLEMEN,—I have used over one gross of CENTAUR LINIMENT, yellow wrapper, on the mules of my plantation, besides dozens of the family Liniment for my negroes. I want to purchase it at the wholesale price, and will thank you to ship me by Savannah steamer one gross of each kind. Messrs. A. T. Stewart & Co. will pay your bill on presentation.

"Respectfully, JAMES DARK."

The best patrons of this Liniment are Farriers and Veterinary Surgeons. It heals Galls, Wounds and Poll-evil, removes Swellings, and is worth millions of dollars to Farmers, Livery-men, Stock-growers, Sheep-raisers, and those having horses or cattle.

What a Farrier cannot do for $20 the Centaur Liniment will do at a trifling cost.

These Liniments are warranted by the proprietors, and a bottle will be given to any Farrier or Physician who desires to test them. Sold everywhere.

Castoria.

Is a pleasant and perfect substitute, in all cases, for CASTOR OIL. Castoria is the result of an old Physician s effort to produce, for his own practice, an effective cathartic, pleasant to the taste and free from griping.

Dr. Samuel Pitcher, of Hyannis, Mass., succeeded in combining, without the use of alcohol, a purgative agent as pleasant to take as honey, and which possesses all the desirable properties of Castor Oil.

It is adapted to all ages, but is especially recommended to mothers as a reliable remedy for all disorders of the stomach and bowels of children. It is certain, agreeable, absolutely harmless, and cheap. It should be used for wind colic, sour stomach worms, costiveness, croup, &c., then children can have sleep and mothers may rest.

J. B. ROSE & CO., of 45 Dey Street, New York, are the sole proprietors of Castoria, after Dr. Pitcher' recipe.

Hayes' Platform in War.

In 1864, when Hayes was in the army, being nominated for Congress he was requested to come home and stump his district. His reply was, "I have other business just now. Any man who would leave the army at this time to electioneer for Congress ought to be scalped!"

Hayes' Platform in Peace.

"Honest money for all, and free schools for all. There should be no inflation which will depreciate the one, nor sectarian interference which will destroy the other."

Important Military Order.

WAR DEPARTMENT,
WASHINGTON, D. C., August 15, 1876.

To General W. T. Sherman, Commanding the United States Army:

SIR: The House of Representatives of the United States on the 10th inst. passed the following preambles and resolution, viz:

WHEREAS, The right of suffrage prescribed by the Constitutions of the several States, subject to the fifteenth amendment of the Constitution of the United States, which is as follows: Article 15, section 1. The right of citizens of the United States to vote shall not be denied nor abridged by the United States or by any State on account of race, color or previous condition of servitude. Section 2. Congress shall have power to enforce this article by appropriate legislation; and,

WHEREAS, The right of suffrage so prescribed and regulated should be faithfully maintained and observed by the United States and the several States thereof; and,

WHEREAS, It is asserted that the exercise of the right of suffrage is in some of the States, notwithstanding the efforts of all good citizens to the contrary, resisted and controlled by fraud, intimidation and violence so that in such cases the object of the amendment is defeated; and, whereas, all citizens, without distinction of race, or class, or color, are entitled to the protection conferred by such article; therefore, be it

Resolved by the House of Representatives, That all attempts by fraud or intimidation to prevent the free exercise of citizenship in any State should meet with certain, condign and effectual punishment, and that in any case which has heretofore occurred or that may hereafter occur in which violence or murder has been or shall be committed by one race or class upon the other, the prompt prosecution and punishment or the criminal or criminals in any court having jurisdiction, is imperatively demanded, whether the crime be punishable by fine or imprisonment, or one demanding the penalty of death.

The President directs that in accordance with the spirit of the above, you are to hold all the available force under your command, not now engaged in subduing the savages of the western frontier, in readiness to be used upon the call or requisition of the proper legal authorities for protecting all citizens, without distinction of race, color or political opinion, in the exercise of the right to vote as guaranteed by the fifteenth amendment, and to assist in the enforcement of certain, condign and effectual punishment upon all persons who shall attempt by force or fraud to intimidate or otherwise to prevent the free exercise of the right of suffrage as provided by the law of the United States, and have such force so distributed and stationed as to be able to render prompt assistance in the enforcement of the law. Such additional orders as may be necessary to carry out the purpose of these instructions will be given to you from time to time, after consultation with the law officers of the Government.

Very respectfully your obedient servant,
(Signed) J. D. CAMERON,
Secretary of War.

Democratic Testimony.

The northern democratic papers have never acknowledged the means by which their party in Mississippi won the "glorious victory" of 1875, but on the contrary have always showed "radical lies and slanders," or "bloody shirt," whenever a republican paper or speaker attempted to make the truth known. But possibly the southern democratic papers may be credited with knowing something of the matter, and we give a few extracts from such, showing that not only was violence and terrorism resorted to by the democrats, but such action was boldly commended by their party press; and that the southern democrats regard negro suffrage and the other results of the war as something to be endured only until the democratic party gains strength to overthrow them.

We have to contend with the blunder of the fifteenth amendment while it stands, as best we can. Ridiculous appeals to the reason and judgment of the negro have been the cause of incalculable injury in the inflation of his vanity and making him believe he was of real consequence as a governing element in the body-politic. Now that the negro in this State is down and his personal self-conceit well knocked out of him, it is probably a fit time for the white people to impress upon him that the white people will in future control the politics of this State, and that he should keep himself in his proper sphere and leave to the intelligent white man the exclusive use of statecraft for the best interest of both races. Impress him continually with the idea of his unfitness for the ballot and his proper place on election day—away from the polls.—Meridian (Miss.) Mercury.

The radical party of Mississippi contend that intimidation won the white-line victory. It is not the first time, neither will it be the last time in which intimidation has been successfully used. Let the white men not be afraid to intimidate evil-doers. Intimidation is legitimate, perfectly legitimate.—Okolona (Miss.) States.

The miserable bunglers who have put the negro in the Constitution have certainly written themselves down asses, all. When we accept "results of the war" we do not accept the notions of statesmen, but the blunders of unreasoning malice and stupidity, and, of course, we continue to accept it only so long as we are compelled to.—Meridian Mercury

Everybody knows that Mississippi, which in 1873 was carried by the republicans by a majority of 21,403, and in 1872 by a majority of 34,725, went democratic last year by a majority of 30,147. How this was accomplished is a matter of history. Intimidation and violence reigned there, as perhaps in no other State at any time. A few figures will show the work that was done. It should be remembered that the population of the State was, by the census of 1870, distributed as follows; white, 382,896; colored, 444,201. The vote would be about this: white, 75,000; colored, 88,000. If the vote were divided strictly on the color line, the republicans would have a majority of some 13,000. Of course there were many white republicans whose number would add to the republican vote, and correspondingly diminish the democratic. Bearing this in mind, look at the following figures. We give in the first column the name of the county, in the second the republican vote of 1872, in the third that of 1873, and in the fourth that of 1875.

Claiborne	2,240	1,844	496
Coahama	1,282	1,281	234
Franklin	2,971	1,977	542
Greene	458	388	59
Hancock	1,260	1,553	257
Holmes	4,015	3,480	1,254
Itawamba	1,494	1,105	30
Jones	757	642	4
Kemper	1,734	1,278	418
Marion	2,512	2,328	214
Neshoba	901	929	136
Pearl	2,214	2,826	7
Prentiss	508	560	71
Smith	323	383	44
Yazoo	2,433	2,399	7

Run along the lines of these figures, crosswise, and the extent of democratic intimidation and violence can be seen by the most careless observer.

Free Elections.

Whether Scott Lord, when he introduced his dynamite resolution in the House, did so because his principles are far in advance of his party or because he saw the absolute necessity of doing something to counteract the damaging effect in the North of the Hamburg butchery, we cannot say; but its adoption put the House squarely on record as demanding of the Executive that the purity of the ballot-box be maintained, and intimidations for political purposes put down by the strong arm of the Nation if required. Agreeably to the demand of the democratic House, President Grant, through the Secretary of War, has issued instructions to the General of the army to hold all troops not otherwise employed in readiness to act in accordance with the spirit expressed in Mr. Lord's resolution.

How necessary such action is, if the country is to be ruled by ballots instead of bullets, every one knows. Coushatta, Colfax, Baton Rouge, the Feliciana and other places in Louisiana, have been rendered infamous by the political murders committed there; Ben Hill within a year openly boasted before the Georgia Legislature that the first democratic victory in that State was won "by bribery and intimidation of the black vote," and the shameless boast was cheered; how Mississippi was won by the democrats another article in this paper (including a few extracts from Mississippi papers, and a table copied from the Cincinnati Times,) shows; and the action of the recent democratic convention of South Carolina gives plausibility to the suspicion that the Hamburg massacre was but the opening of a campaign intended to reduce the colored republicans to "an attitude of terrified submission" that shall enable the democracy to elect Wade Hampton governor.

The table referred to in the preceding paragraph is worthy the attention of every honest voter, showing, as it does, how farcical it is to call the seizure of Mississippi by the democrats an "election." It will be seen that in not a single county in the State did the republican vote of 1875 reach one-half that of 1873. Claiborne county in 1873 gave 1844 republican votes; in 1875, but 496; [During the Senate investigation into the Mississippi election a leading democrat of Claiborne county was examined by Senator Boutwell: "How do you expect to carry this election?" "In the same way we did last year," was the reply; "and you might as well understand that we are going to run that election just as we please in spite of all the Senatorial committees that can be sent down here." "That will do, sir; that will do," said Senator Bayard, and the examination came to a pause.] Jones county, which in 1873 gave 642 votes for the republican ticket, gave but four votes for that ticket in 1875; and Pearl and Yazoo counties, which together gave 5225 republican votes in 1873, in 1875 gave but fourteen!

News and Notes.

James Gay, who has rowed from Boston via the ocean, the St. Lawrence River and the Lakes, to Detroit, on a wager that he could not accomplish the feat in four months, reached Detroit on the 17th, having occupied 109 days in the passage.

Martin Welch, John O'Donnell and John E. McDermott are under arrest in Boston on suspicion of having robbed the late John W. McElvoy, who was drowned in the dock some time ago, the robbery being committed before his death. It is supposed that after robbing him they threw him overboard, he being intoxicated at the time.

The Supreme Council of Sovereign Grand Inspectors-General of the Thirty-third Degree of Free Masons, in Convention in New York on the 17th, elected officers for the next three years. Josiah H. Drummond of Maine was elected Grand Commander; Henry L. Palmer of Wisconsin, Lieutenant-Commander; Joseph D. Evans of New York, Minister of State; Hermann Ely of Ohio, G. F. General; Clinton F. Page of New York, Grand Secretary-General; H. E. Samuel of Lawrence, Mass., Grand Keeper of the Archives; W. A. Stevens of Illinois, Grand Marshal-General of Ceremonies; H. S. Goodwin of Pennsylvania, Grand Marshal-General; W. R. Higby of Connecticut, Grand Standard-Bearer; Thomas A. Doyle of Rhode Island, Grand Captain; also a number of Grand Deputies.

The Attorney-General is preparing, and will in a few days issue, specific instructions to United States Marshals in every State in the Union, instructing them as to their duties and rights under the election laws. The object of the Administration, as stated by the Attorney-General, is to secure to every citizen in Massachusetts, as well as in South Carolina, his full rights under the laws. The Marshals having once been instructed as to their rights under the law, will be expected to enforce them, and if they cannot do this with the force at their disposal they can call on the United States troops.

The Attorney-General has instructed the United States District Attorneys in Alabama to begin suit in certain cases of fraud and intimidation during the late election in that State. These cases will be prosecuted to the fullest extent of the law.

Maggie Baur, a little girl of seven or eight years of age, was murdered and mutilated in the woods on Long Island. It was supposed she had been outraged, but the inquest disproved that, and several men who had been arrested on suspicion were discharged. A woman named Hoffman is now under arrest, the evidence indicating that she murdered the child on account of a grudge against her mother.

Capt. Grindle, of the American ship St. Mark, wrecked on the Pacific coast of South America on the 8th of July, has been arrested in New York on a charge of murdering three seamen by brutal treatment previous to the wreck, the charge being made by the carpenter and cook. The boatswain choked one of the three men to death, and was allowed to leave the ship. At Callao the second mate was sentenced to a year's imprisonment for cruelty. The captain was held to answer to the charges against him.

Mr. Ellison, engineer at the Capitol, on Thursday knocked over Mr. Gardiner, who formerly had charge of the electrical apparatus for lighting the building. Mr. Gardiner procured a warrant for Ellison's arrest.

Secretary of the Navy Robeson has not resigned nor intimated any intention to do so, nor does the President desire his resignation.

The Turks lost 8000 men in their defeat by the Montenegrins at Kuci. It was the gravest disaster that has yet happened to either side during the war. The Servians were attacked by 5000 Turks near the Kliss-soura defile, on the 15th, and repulsed them with heavy loss after six hours' fighting.

The Engineer-in-chief of the Navy, W. W. Wood, considering himself aggrieved by remarks made in debate by J. D. White, a republican Congressman from Kentucky, publishes a belligerent card denouncing White's statements as "base, cowardly and false," and announcing that he holds himself "personally responsible" for what he says.

A correspondent of the Baltimore American says that the residences built by Tweed and his comrades, at Greenwich, show signs of neglect and decay. The neighborhood is full of stories of Tweed's liberality toward all with whom he dealt in any way, and he still has many partisans among those who profited by his expenditures. The correspondent surmises that he may recently have visited his Greenwich establishment, and says: "A few nights after his disappearance a yacht was seen by several to move steadily up into the harbor near his house. All night it lay close in shore, and about eleven o'clock a red signal floated out from the watchtower. Every one believed then, and believes now, that Mr. Tweed visited his Summer home that night, as he had done while he was supposed to be in prison."

Political.

Yazoo county, Mississippi, has a colored population of between twelve and thirteen thousand, and in 1873 cast 2,399 republican votes. In 1875—the shot-gun year—but seven republican votes were cast in the county.

The republicans of Kansas have nominated Col. George T. Anthony for Governor.

The Boston Post correspondents are at their usual pre-election business of prophesying democratic victories, and reporting great enthusiasm everywhere for the democratic ticket, and wholesale accessions to the democratic ranks from the ranks of the republicans,—in all which the Post backs them up editorially just as it used to do. That game was well tried in the Greeley campaign, when the democrats claimed that they were sure to carry every New England State but Massachusetts and stood a good chance to carry that, and when hardly a republican of prominence in the country but was published as having come out for Greeley; but it did not defeat Grant. The Post writers are doing pretty well at it now—they have got all the Eastern States in the "doubtful" list except Rhode Island, which they still think the republicans may carry, and Connecticut, which is sure to give Tilden an immense majority. But the Post was hilariously jubilant over the certain and crushing republican defeat in New Hampshire last March—before the election.

Liberate the Impurities of the System. This can easily be done through the instrumentality of the searching blood depurent and alterative, Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, which incites those scavengers of the body, the kidneys and the bowels, to vigorous action. The first named organs secrete impurities—where such exist—from the blood, which would otherwise poison it, and it is the office of the bowels to carry off the useless portions of the food rejected during the process of digestion, and which if retained interfere with digestion and bilious secretion. Rheumatism and gout, both products of acid elements in the circulation, are remedied by the Bitters, which will likewise be found a prompt though gentle cathartic. Both kidneys and bowels are invigorated, as well as stimulated by this famous medicine, which possesses tonic properties of the highest order.

REFORM CLUB PICNIC.

It is no disparagement to any other affair of the kind to say that the picnic of the Portsmouth Temperance Reform Club at Pinkham's Grove on Thursday was the best that has ever been held there. There was a very large number present, the programme was well managed and everybody seemed determined to have a good time. There was no drunkenness, no grumbling, no confusion; every one seemed happy, and all enjoyed themselves. There was such a diversity of amusements that the most fastidious were suited, alike with those less difficult to please. The first notable feature of the day was the tub race across the river that runs up back of the Grove. There were three contestants, Messrs. Eugene A. Sanborn, George Stringer, and Joseph D. Hanscom, all of whom are powerful swimmers and skilled oarsmen. After getting the word "go," the three kept neck and neck for quite a distance, paddling with admirable dexterity and keeping their respective "shells" evenly balanced—no easy task, even to the most skillful boatman. At last Hanscom began to gain a little, and Stringer, getting nervous in his efforts to win, tipped forward a little and as quick as a flash his tub was bottom up and he overboard. He succeded in righting it, however, but it was of no use, and the unfortunate Stringer succumbed and was taken on board the Judges' boat, which was lying in waiting near by in the stream. Scarcely had the first man got taken care of, ere Sanborn, who was trying in vain to overhaul Hanscom, by the same unlucky movement that sent Stringer to struggle with the briny fluid pitched headforemost into the water, leaving his tub to float behind him. While these little episodes were occurring, Hanscom was proceeding beautifully with every prospect of getting safely back to the place of starting. All of a sudden, Sanborn and Stringer concluded that it would afford more amusement to the spectators on shore if Hanscom could be made to share the fate of his competitors, and they went for him. The latter, seeing their intentions and seeing the two swimmers making for his craft, concluded not to allow them the privilege of tipping him out, and standing up straight in his ticklish boat jumped free and clear over the side and swam to the shore. Of course, he was declared the winner of the race.

So much for the inauguration of the day's sport. Time nor space will permit us to describe the festivities in detail. Dancing, swinging, "Copenhagen" and croquet were indulged in until dinner, after which occurred the sack race, an entertainment as laughable as it was novel and interesting. The three-legged race at a later hour was a novelty to nearly every one present, and provoked roars of laughter from the lookers-on. The potato race was a unique affair, four rows of twenty-five potatoes each being laid, there being three feet distance between each potato. There were four contestants and the task was to pick up the potatoes singly and return them to the basket in the centre. The winners of all the races were called to the stand during the latter part of the afternoon and presented with appropriate testimonials of their prowess.

Thus passed the day, every moment of which was occupied and thoroughly enjoyed by all. Some over-anxious ones, as the time drew near for leaving the grounds, were filled with apprehension lest there might not be cars enough to take back the throng that three trains brought up at 9, 11 and 3; but their fears were dispelled when the train arrived by the ample provision that the road managers had made respecting the condition of things. All were safely provided for, and all seemed to be of the opinion that Pinkham's Grove for a place of meeting and the Portsmouth & Dover Railroad as a means of reaching it cannot be beaten.

POLICE COURT.

Before Hackett, Special Justice, Friday, August 18.

The morning levee opened by the usher, ing in of two fair but frail females.

Miss Lizzie Murphy has just returned from Brentwood again to fall—in the street in a state of inebriety. The Solicitor says she is an old offender, and she goes to assist in the laundry in the County House for six months.

Nellie Harvey admitted inebriety on Daniel street, but says it is a new fault; claims to have come from Biddeford; but the Court sent her to the rural retreat.

Wm. Norton, Jr., while admitting intoxication on Green street, claimed to work for the Fitchburg Railroad. As he was a "railroad man," the Judge gave him a free pass to Epping by rail and thence by carriage to Pollardville.

Robert Welch was the only subject who deemed it worth while to join issue on the question of his intoxication on Market street, but when Assistant Marshal Hobbs told the Court of the affectionate manner in which he gathered him in his arms and bore him to the station house, Robert wilted as a temperance man and justice was done the outraged laws of the State, by the imposing of a fine of three dollars and costs. The times being dull, with no prospect of earning it around the wharves, the last of the morning glories wended his way to the station en route for the home of the fallen at Brentwood, under the attentive care of Officers Johnson and White.

COMPLIMENTARY.

At a meeting of the Overseers of the Poor, at the Alms House, August 18th, after taking an inventory of property at the House, etc., the following resolution was passed unanimously.

Resolved, That the thanks of this Board be hereby extended to Simon H. Mills and wife, for their courtesy to the Overseers and the new Superintendent.

J. H. BROUGHTON, Chairman.

The managers of the Reform Club picnic desire to publicly express their indebtedness to Mr. Samuel Barrett, station agent at the Eastern Railroad, and also to the proprietor of Pinkham's Grove, for the generous aid and courtesy extended by them in furnishing facilities for the enjoyment of the picnic of Thursday last. The Club heartily recommends Pinkham's Grove as the best place for a picnic of Portsmouth parties. *

JOTTINGS.

Don't forget the match game of base ball this afternoon at the Plains, between the Sea Views and Granite States. Game called at 3 o'clock.

Many stories have been told to illustrate the meaning of the phrase "cool cheek," but we have not lately seen anything in that line to go ahead of the action of a fellow who, being committed to Portsmouth jail on a charge of swindling and abusing the confidence of a newpaper man, sends to him from the jail for a supply of newspapers and writing materials!

A correspondent of the Boston Globe, writing from York, Me., says: The old apple tree which was brought over from England in a tub in 1629, and bore fruit till within a few years, has come to an "unnatural death," having been cut down by its owner because people trampled down his grass in getting to it, by reason of, as he expressed it, "Too much advertised in a book called 'Ancient City of Gorgeana and Modern Town of York,'" to suit him.

On Monday, Aug. 21, an extra train for the especial accommodation of stockholders of the Eastern Railroad will leave this city at 7 A. M., and will be run to Boston fifteen minutes ahead of the regular morning train. Returning, will leave Boston at 4:15 P. M.

Rev. Geo. H. Ide of Hopkinton, Mass., who is to supply at the North church tomorrow, has received a call to settle over the Central Congregational church of Lawrence, Mass.

All members of the Band of Hope are invited to be present at the meeting this afternoon. It will be held in Franklin Hall, entrance on Fleet street. Carriage tickets will be distributed to all members, free, for the great celebration next week.

The members of the old Washingtonian Society are requested to meet at A. F. Craig's office, this (Saturday) evening, to make arrangements for joining in the great temperance demonstration to come off next Wednesday. The old veterans will be a pleasant feature of the procession.

We have received the sixth (September) number of the new Magazine, Record of the Year, with a splendid steel portrait of James Gordon Bennett, proprietor of the New York Herald. The Record of the Year is what its name purports,—a record of all important events of the year,—a collection of the wit and humor,—a scrapbook of the best poetry,—a history alike of events and of literature—in short of everything that a scholar or gentleman would choose to remember. Price, 50 cents a month, or $5 for a year's subscription. G. W. Carleton & Co., Publishers, Madison Square, New York.

A NARROW ESCAPE.

On Friday afternoon John Sullivan, aged about twenty-five years, went to the bottom of a well near the old tavern at the Plains to get a tin dipper which had been dropped into it. The well is some thirty feet deep, and has been dug no one knows how many years. While Sullivan was at the bottom of the well the stones suddenly fell in on him, the earth also caving in for some distance around. The stoniog of the well must have been ricketty and all ready to give away at a touch, and Sullivan's descent but hastened what would probably have occurred before a great while had no one gone down. A large gang of men were speedily at work, and were engaged all the afternoon in removing the earth and stones to get at him. The soil being loose and sandy, considerable skill was required to make the excavation and avoid the further caving in of the earth around. A large crowd of men, women and children thronged about the scene of the accident all the afternoon, in a state of great excitement, as the man was still alive and able to talk to those above him; he had escaped crushing or suffocation, but was held down by a large rock on his leg and another on his side; and at six o'clock it was reported that he was fast losing his strength, the relief party having still some eight feet of rocks and sand to remove before he could be rescued.

Many persons went out from town during the evening, and a large number remained to see the end of the affair; and shortly before midnight they were gratified by Sullivan's release from the narrow quarters he had occupied for ten or twelve hours, apparently not seriously injured. Mr. Joseph R. Holmes engineered the work.

—"The mistress of the old manse," is not a good title for a novel. It reflects on the old man.

—Last season was a severe one for "song and dance men" in the variety theatres. The American market was rapidly becoming overstocked with the acrobatic negro, and his monotonous double dance finally became a bore. Detecting this, the performers of the burnt cork acts are turning their faces eastward, and London and the English provinces are to be overrun with "artists" of this class. Several parties are going to St. Petersburg, Russia; another pair are engaged to do their act in a play in Paris illustrative of American manners, and still another party will travel with a circus through Europe. The majority, however, will take engagements in the English music halls. A number of this class of performers have already departed, and next week's installment for our English cousins includes the well-known names of Bobby Newcombe and Little Mac, Johnny Allen, Sheridan and Mack, and others.

—One of the slowest things in the world, except the San Antonio (Texas) City Council when it goes to building bridges (says the Herald of that city) is a court martial. This morning we asked one of the officers in attendance at the court martial, now holding sessions in this city, when he expected to get through. He answered he had no idea, but he hoped San Antonio would establish good schools for his boys to go to during the trial—and the officer isn't married yet.

COOKED

CORNED BEEF.

Articles are being published calculated to prejudice the public against using Cooked Corned Beef, and we would say in answer to them that in no instance has positive proof been established to show that such is the case.

Our goods are packed in a manner very similar to that of Corn, Tomatoes, Fruit and canned goods generally, (which have long been tested) and we use nothing whatever of a poisonous nature in their preparation.

In addition to our own statement we have the strong endorsement of Prof. Hosford of Cambridge, one of the most eminent Chemists in the country, who has fully tested and is familiar with the entire details of the preparation of our goods.

We would also state that we use none but the choicest of Beef that our Chicago market affords, and trust that with these statements the rapidly growing popularity of our Corned Beef may be increased.

For the information of those not knowing the fact we would state that in the process of canning there is a liability of imperfect sealing, which causes the can to expand. Meat contained in such cans is unfit for use and will be cheerfully paid for when returned to any grocer selling it.

the consumer may be the judge; that the quality will not be suffered to depreciate, the past with the present is my best pledge. That I can compete with all the various qualities of Pilot Bread in the market, as to price, I make no pretensions,—but in price, all things being equal, I fear no competition.

REASONS WHY FARMERS should purchase

The Halladay Wind-Mill

It is the first reliable self-regulating Wind Mill ever made, and continues to lead the van.

It has stood the test of nearly a quarter of a century, and has gained a reputation as broad as its use extensive.

It is the only wind mill generally adopted on all the railroads.

It is the cheapest wind mill.

The United States Wind Engine and Pump Co. have the largest wind mill manufactory in the world. We are willing to put our mill upon its merits. We ask an investigation of facts and testimony. We duly appreciate the patronage and support we have received in the past, and while we solicit a continuance of favors, we shall try to merit them. We are the pioneers in the production of a wind mill adapted to the use of farmers.

Anecdote of Forrest.

The little old theatre in Albany, N. Y., has been made the scene of many curious theatrical stories. On one occasion, Edwin Forrest, then a young man, and more famous for his muscle than his genius, gave a tremendous display of really powerful acting. He was supposed to represent a Roman warrior, and to be attacked by six minions of a detested tyrant. At the rehearsal, Mr. Forrest found a great deal of fault with the supes who condescended to play the minions. They were too tame. They didn't lay hold of him. They would not go in as if it were a real fight. Mr. Forrest stormed and threatened; the supes sulked and consulted. At length the captain of the supes inquired in his local slang, "Yer want, this to be a bully fight, eh?" "I do," replied Mr. Forrest. "All right," rejoined the captain, and the rehearsal quietly proceeded.

In the evening the little theatre was crowded, and Mr. Forrest was enthusiastically received. When the fighting scene occurred, the great tragedian took the centre of the stage, and the six minions entered rapidly and deployed in skirmishing order. At the cue, "Seize him!" one minion assumed a pugilistic attitude and struck a blow straight from the shoulder upon the prominent nose of the Roman hero; another raised him about six inches from the stage by a well-directed kick, and the others made ready to rush in for a decisive tussle.

For a moment Mr. Forrest stood astounded, his broad chest heaving with rage, his great eyes flashing like fire, his sturdy legs planted like columns upon the stage. Then came the few moments of powerful acting, at the end of which one supe was seen sticking head foremost in the bass drum in the orchestra; four were having their wounds dressed in the greenroom, and one, finding himself in the flies, rushed out upon the roof of the theatre and shouted "Fire!" at the top of his voice; while Mr. Forrest, called before the curtain, bowed his thanks pantingly to the applauding audience, who looked upon the whole affair as part of the piece, and "had never seen Forrest act so splendidly."

—Dom Pedro is reported to have left behind him orders for American manufacture, mostly for machinery, to the amount of $2,000,000. At St. Louis he left one order for three steamboats, intended for the Amazon River, to be modelled after the steamers that usually ply on the Mississippi.

ESTABLISHED IN 1858.

THE OLDEST ESTABLISHED HOSPITAL
—IN THE—
UNITED STATES.
No. 9 Beaver Street, - - - Albany, N. Y.
SURE CURES AND LOW PRICES.

Dr. YOUNG,
SUCCESSOR TO
Dr. TELLER,
DECEASED.

The above named private Hospital was established in Albany in 1858 by Dr. Lispenard and for a number of years its affairs were presided over by that gentleman, but for the past 20 years, Dr. Teller, who is now deceased, transacted the business of the Institution.

Owing to the great demand for more spacious apartments on account of the large increase of business, the Hospital has been removed to No. 9 Beaver Street, two doors above its old location, where patients will find magnificently furnished rooms for their reception, and are so arranged that patients do not come in contact with one another, seeing only the doctor, thereby avoiding the unpleasantness of meeting others, which always occurred at the old office.

LADIES will find rooms provided for their especial accommodation and entirely private.

YOUNG MEN, addicted to secret habits, who have impaired their health and destroyed the vigor of their minds, thus depriving themselves of the pleasures of married life and also those afflicted with private diseases of any nature, are advised that in consulting Dr. Young they will find a physician fully qualified to cure and restore them to full health and manly vigor.

Dr. Teller's great work for the married, or those contemplating marriage—100 pages—full of plates,—price 25 cents. Sent to all parts, under seal, by mail post paid.

TO THE LADIES—DR. YOUNG still retains the only agency in America for the sale of Dr. Vichot's Italian Female Monthly Pills. Sent by mail on receipt of $1.00, price per box.

Dr. YOUNG is the only Agent for Dr. La Mott's celebrated Galvanic Belts.

Invalids out of the city can be cured by consulting the Doctor by letter, and enclosing remittance. Medicines sent by mail or express, securely packed from observation. All letters must be addressed to

CONDITION PILLS!
The Wonderful Remedy for Liver Complaint, Biliousness, Dyspepsia, Constipation, Neuralgia, Rheumatism, Headache, Kidney Complaint, Nervousness, Scrofula, Piles, and all diseases arising from a bad state of the Blood!
No medicine ever offered to the public has given such universal satisfaction as Dr. Quain's Magic Condition Pills. Their praises are on every tongue where their merits are known. They strike at once at the seat of disease and show their healing power almost immediately. Thousands of voluntary testimonials of their merits have been received by the agent, from those who have been cured by them, of which the following are samples:
Dyspepsia Four Years, Constipation and Inflammation of the Bowels Three Years, Confined to my Room Two Years, Pain so I Could Not Sleep Without Morphine. One Package of Dr. Quain's Condition Pills Made Me Eat Well, Sleep Well and Free from Pain, after being given up by Physicians.
WEST LEBANON, ME., Feb. 22, 1
MR. THOMAS W. LANE:—I have been sick for four years with Dyspepsia, and for the past three years Constipation and Inflammation of the Bowels. I have suffered all the pain I could endure and live. I have been confined to my room for two years, and could not sleep nights without the use of morphine. I have been given up by physicians as past cure. I have taken one package of DR. QUAIN'S CONDITION PILLS, and they have done me more good than all the doctors I have had. I sleep well, I eat well and have no pain. They are all they are recommended to be. Please send me three packages, as two of my neighbors wish to try them. Inclosed find $1.50.
Your truly, JOHN W. LORD.
Another Letter from Maj. John W. Lord, one month later. Wonderful Cures by Dr. Quain's Pills Effected on Him in Thirteen Days. First time Free from Pain for Three Years.
WEST LEBANON, ME., March 23, 1875
MR. THOMAS W. LANE:—I commenced taking DR. QUAIN'S CONDITION PILLS February 9th, and wrote you February 23d of their wonderful effect. I have continued to improve ever since. My appetite is good, and I sleep as well as I ever did in my life. I am free from pain for the first time in three years. When I was taken sick four years ago, I weighed one hundred and eighty-six pounds; I now weigh one hundred and thirty, but, as I am gaining in strength, I have faith I shall regain my flesh this summer, by the use of the Pills. I shall continue taking them for some time to come.
Yours truly, JOHN W. LORD.
Dr. Quain's Pills the Remedy for Soldiers' Aches and Pains.
WEST LEBANON, ME., June 1, 1875.
MR. THOMAS W. LANE—Dear Sir:—I am now able to walk out every day and am gaining in strength very fast, all of which is due to you as agent for the best Pills in the world. I have taken no other medicine, and my improvement has been steady since first taking DR. QUAIN'S CONDITION PILLS. They have done everything for me, and I will say to you, advertise them direct to the soldiers, for they will certainly cure them of aches and pains caused from exposure and hardship in the field. Please send me by return mail another package.
JOHN W. LORD.
Rheumatism for Twenty Years Cured by One Package of Dr. Quain's Condition Pills—"The Best Medicine in the World."
EAST ANDOVER, N. H., Dec. 16, 1875.
MR. LANE—Dear Sir:—As I know the value of DR. QUAIN'S CONDITION PILLS and the good they have done me, I take pleasure in giving my testimony, so I send you another testimonial. My father has been troubled with Rheumatism for twenty years or more, and has tried everything that could be thought of, but to no good. At times it would be so bad that he could not lift his hand to his head or do any work at all, especially in cold weather. A short time ago I advised him to get some of these Pills. He believed nothing in them, but I gave him the last package I had of you, as I did not need them, and he has not been an free from the Rheumatic Complaint for years. No Rheumatism, no pain. What helped him? It was DR. QUAIN'S CONDITION PILLS, the best medicine in the world. There is nothing like them. I know it, for I have tried them, and they are all, yes, more than they are recommended to be. Give them a fair trial and you will say so. I write this because I know the goodness of them and wish others to know the same. Some may think I am telling a big story. I am. But remember I am not giving them half the praise they ought to have.
Yours with respect, ED. F. PEVARE.
Wonderful Effect of Four Doses of Dr. Quain's Condition Pills upon Neuralgia of Twelve Years' Duration—Testimony of Rev. J. S. Patton.
DAINGERFIELD, MORRIS CO., TEXAS, Nov. 15, '75.
MR. THOMAS W. LANE—Dear Sir:—I have been afflicted for near twelve years with Neuralgia in the face and head. I tried I do not know how many physicians, and could only get partly relieved. I also tried many patent medicines with the same result. I have been confined to my room most all the time for eight or ten winters, and have been traveling and visiting medical springs, and I still suffered most intensely. The physicians pronounced my case the worst and most stubborn that they had had anything to do with. One told me I could never get well; they all advised me to go South and spend the winter, and thought that was the only chance for me, and I was trying to get ready to go to Florida, when through the kindness of Rev. H. M. Mathis, my attention was called to the advertisement of Dr. Quain's Magic Condition Pills. I immediately sent to you for a package. I have taken four doses and I am almost free from pain. The impression here seems to be that if your pills will cure me, they will cure anybody. I have five applications to send for the pills. Enclosed please find three dollars; send five packages to me and one to Mrs. Laura Sherrell, Sulphur Springs, Hopkins county, Texas.
Yours truly, J. S. PATTON.
Liver Complaint, Nervousness, Dropsy and Headache.
LACONIA, N. H., Jan. 29, 1875.
THOS. W. LANE—Sir:—I have been troubled with Bad Blood, Liver Complaint, Nervousness, Dropsy and Headache. I have taken one package of DR. QUAIN'S CONDITION PILLS. They have done me more good than all the medicine I ever took; I have taken considerable medicine within the last five years. For the nerves I think there is nothing so good as those pills. I can recommend them to all who are similarly afflicted, they have done me so much good. I think they will recommend themselves wherever they go. I shall recommend those Pills to all who need them. Please send me two packages more, one for myself and one for a lady friend of mine. Many thanks to the inventor, agent and advertiser of those Pills. MRS. P. L. ELLIOTT.

PULMOCINE.

BUCHMAN'S PULMOCINE CORDIAL

is no new discovery. Twenty-three years ago it was used by one of New England's most famous physicians as the best Pulmonary Curative he could prescribe, after a dozen years spent in experimenting with it before he was satisfied that the Materia Medica could add nothing in its favor.

Is the ultima thule of Medical Discovery.

Among its many ingredients are Wild Cherry Bark, Squill Root, Liquorice Root, Blood root, &c. It is a Blood Purifier, gently stimulating. It increases expectoration and is diuretic. It is sudorific and alterative. It is a necessary family medicine. It is a Tonic and a powerful aid to the digestive organs. It is a gentle sedative, and relieves nervousness. It is aromatic and agreeable to the taste.

CLEAR YOUR THROAT!

Relieve Your Lungs.

For the terrible diseases engendered by the lungs trying climate of New England!

PULMOCINE CORDIAL

is a speedy and reliable Preventive and Remedy. Every Family should have a bottle at hand to check the sudden growth of all Pulmonary Diseases. For the Asthma, Coughs, Croups, Laryngitis, or inflammation of the larynx, Diphtheria, and all kindred Throat Diseases at all times prevalent, it is the ounce of Prevention. Children attacked with Whooping Cough or Croup should be immediately cared for. These painful attacks come with scarcely a moment's warning, when a physician may be out of immediate reach. A dose of PULMOCINE CORDIAL gives speedy relief, and the little ones are spared hours of pain and agony. As "a stitch in time saves nine," so does the possession of this Family Medicine prevent the spread of disease. Parents seeing their children gasping with pain, friends and relatives beholding each other in peril from suffocation by the choking pain in the throat, paralyzed with fear and not knowing the best course to pursue, are liable to apply the wrong remedial agent. There is no safety in delay, no time to waste in such cases. CONSUMPTION, that fearful scourge of the human race, lies at the door of all this afflicted. BUCHMAN'S PULMOCINE CORDIAL arrests it (unless in its advanced stage at which time there is no local cure) relieves the pressing, suffocating feeling at the lungs, and the patient's danger is past.

For Coughs,
Croup,
Diphtheria,
Asthma, etc.,
—USE—
Buchman's Pulmocine Cordial.

The Pulmocine Cordial is not a quack medicine, is not an experiment, is not composed of any ingredients "discovered" by "walking in pastures" in South America or anywhere else, nor by one who discovered a weed and thereby cured himself. Most of the ingredients are such as our best educated physicians daily use for the complaints specified in some form or other. The recipe is that perfected by one of New England's most learned and famous physicians, who used it entirely in his daily practice until his death. It is offered to the profession and to the public, absolutely pure and unadulterated.

Health Regulations.

THE BOARD OF HEALTH OF THE CITY OF PORTSMOUTH call the attention of the public to the following sections of Chapter 10, of the Revised Ordinances, and invite all interested in the preservation of health in our city to aid them in the execution of their duty:

SEC. 3. All waste water of houses, yards, cellars, sinks, pumps, etc., shall be conveyed by their owners or occupiers to the common sewers, or to such places as the Health Officers may direct.

SEC. 4. No person shall be allowed to throw any vegetable or dead animal substance, or any other matter capable of producing infection, into any street, lane, alley or dock, or upon any wharf, but shall bury them or throw them into the river below low-water mark.

SEC. 5. The contents of vaults and privies shall not be permitted to rise within one foot of the surface of the earth. And all owners or occupiers of buildings having such vaults or privies as may require it, shall cause them to be emptied within ten days from the promulgation of this ordinance, and in future on or before the the first day of May in each year. And any such owner or occupier neglecting so to do, shall forfeit and pay for every such neglect a sum not less than three nor more than twenty dollars, and a like sum for every week's neglect after the time above specified.

SEC. 6. No vender of meat at the stalls shall be permitted to leave any stale meat, heads, foot or offal of any kind about their stalls or stores over night, or suffer them to be thrown into any street, lane or alley of the city. Nor shall any sellers of fish be permitted to throw any offal of fish into any street, lane or alley of the city, or upon any wharf, but shall either bury them or throw them into the river beyond low-water mark.

SEC. 7. If any dead animal or decaying vegetable substance, or any other nuisance, shall be found in any part of the city, the owners or occupiers of the premises where such nuisance shall be found, shall cause the same to be removed within twenty-four hours after being notified so to do by one or more of the health officers.

SEC. 12. When any householder shall know that any person within his family is taken sick of the small pox, or any other disease dangerous to the public health, he shall immediately give notice thereof to the Health Officers.

SEC. 13. When any physician shall know that any person whom he is called to visit is infected with the small pox, or any other disease dangerous to the public health, such physician shall immediately give notice thereof to the Health Officers.

SEC. 14. If any such householder or physician shall refuse or neglect to give the notice required in the preceding sections, he shall for each refusal or neglect, forfeit the sum of twenty dollars, to be recovered by either of the Health Officers in the name of the city.

SEC. 15. The Health Officers may give written notice to the owner or occupier of any building, vessel or enclosure, to remove or destroy any nuisance or other thing deemed by them on examination, to be injurious to the public health, within a certain time limited therein; and in case such owner or occupier—the said notice having been given to him, or left at his usual place of abode—shall neglect to comply therewith, the said Health Officers may, by direction of the mayor and accompanied by the city marshal, forcibly enter such building, vessel, or enclosure, and cause said nuisance or other thing aforesaid to be removed or destroyed.

SEC. 21. No person shall erect, keep or continue, or permit to be erected, kept or continued, upon any land occupied by him, any pen for the keeping of swine, or privy, over either of the mill ponds in this city, or so placed that offensive substances therefrom shall be discharged or drained into either of said ponds, or into any creek, or cove, or drain leading thereto. And no person shall construct, keep or continue any drain leading from any pen for the keeping of any swine, slaughter-house, privy vault, or other unwholesome or offensive place, into either of said ponds, or to any flat or marsh adjoining the same. And no person shall throw or suffer to be thrown from his land into either of said ponds, or upon any of said flats or marshes, any dead, decaying, unwholesome or offensive animal or vegetable substances.

Good Fresh Butter All The Year Round.

BUTTER IN 20 MINUTES.

Lincoln Butter Powder is an entirely harmless article made from a celebrated English recipe, and now in daily use by many of the most noted farmers in the butter counties around Philadelphia.

In hot weather this Powder makes better much firmer and sweeter than it usually is, and keeps it from turning rancid. It also removes the strong flavor of turnips, weeds, corn stalks, cotton seed, etc.; and the increased yield of butter much more than pays the trifling expense of using it.

HOW NOT TO DO IT.

When enemies threaten
With musket or fist,
The way to resist them
Is—not to resist.

Sound Copperhead doctrine!
And so they assume
The way to resumption
Is—not to resume.

As Hendricks and Tilden
Those doctrines affect,
The way to elect them
Is—not to elect.

—The sensational story going the rounds of a marriage at Monongahela City, where the happy couple sat in a carriage and were joined in wedlock without the officiating clergyman seeing them or knowing their names, suggests something more than the plot of a dime novel. It indicates not only that Monongahela City is an excellent point for secret marriages, but that great improvement is possible in the costly methods now employed of entering the matrimonial state. Why could not parties desiring conjugal happiness send dummies in a carriage to the Monongahela minister, while they remain quietly at home, and receive by mail the certificate—to be afterward filled up? Or why not merely send the money for a blank certificate? If the Monongahela method is legal, it is better than the Loo Miller plan.

—An "able seaman" from Ardamurchan was at the tiller of his sloop one night, shortly after the introduction of colored signal lights on ships. A steamer was approaching, and Archy saw the green and red light for the first time at sea. He astonished his shipmates by yelling out: "Hard a-port—hard a-port! We're gaun richt intae the 'pothecary's shop at Gourock!"

—The deepest Atlantic soundings ever made were about sixty miles north of the island of St. Thomas, in three thousand, seven hundred and seventy-five fathoms, and the pressure was so great that the bulb of the thermometer broke, though made to stand a pressure of three tons.

Centaur Liniments.

White for the Human Family.

Yellow, for Horses and Animals.

These Liniments are simply the wonder of the world. Their effects are little less than marvelous, yet there are some things which they will not do. They will not cure cancer or mend broken bones, but they will always allay pain. They have straightened fingers, cured chronic rheumatism of many years standing, and taken the pain from terrible burns and scalds, which has never been done by any other article.

THE WHITE LINIMENT is for the human family. It will drive Rheumatism, Sciatica and Neuralgia from the system; cure Lumbago, Chilblains, Palsy, Itch, and most Cutaneous Eruptions; it extracts frost from frozen hands and feet, and the poison of bites and stings of venomous reptiles; it subdues swellings, and alleviates pain of every kind.

For sprains or bruises it is the most potent remedy ever discovered. The Centaur Liniment is used with great efficacy for Sore Throat, Toothache, Caked Breasts, Earache, and Weak Back. The following is but a sample of numerous testimonials:

"INDIANA HOME, JEFF. CO., IND., May 28, 1873.

"I think it my duty to inform you that I have suffered much with swollen feet and chorea. I have not been free from these swellings in eight years. Now I am perfectly well, thanks to the Centaur Liniment. The Liniment ought to be applied warm.

BENJAMIN BROWN."

The proof is in the trial. It is reliable, it is handy it is cheap, and every family should have it.

To the sick and bed-ridden, the halt and lame, to the wounded and sore, we say, "Come and be healed."

To the poor and distressed who have spent their money for worthless medicines, a bottle of CENTAUR LINIMENT will be given without charge.

THE YELLOW CENTAUR LINIMENT is adapted to the tough muscles, cords and flesh of horses and animals. It has performed more wonderful cures of Spavin, Strain, Wind-galls, Scratches, Sweeny, and general Lameness, than all other remedies in existence. Read what the great Expressmen say of it:

"NEW YORK, January, 1874.

"Every owner of horses should give the CENTAUR LINIMENT a trial. We consider it the best article ever used in our stables.

"H. MARSH, Supt. Adams Ex. Stables, N. Y.

"E. TUETZ, Supt. U. S. Ex. Stables, N. Y.

"ALBERT S. OLIN, Supt. Nat. Ex. Stables, N. Y."

"MONTGOMERY, ALA., Aug. 17, 1874.

"GENTLEMEN—Have used your stock of CENTAUR LINIMENT, yellow wrapper, on the mules of my plantation, hundreds dozens of the family Liniment for my negroes. I want to purchase it at the wholesale price, and will thank you to ship me by Savannah steamer one gross of each kind. Messrs. A. T. Stewart & Co. will pay your bill on presentation.

"Respectfully, JAMES DARROW."

The best patrons of the Liniment are Furriers and Veterinary Surgeons. It heals Galls, Wounds and Poll-evil, removes Swellings, and is worth millions of dollars to Farmers, Livery-men, Stock-growers, Sheep-raisers, and those having horses or cattle.

What a Farrier cannot do for $20 the Centaur Liniment will do at a trifling cost.

These Liniments are warranted by the proprietors, and a bottle will be given to any Farrier or Physician who desires to test them. Sold everywhere.

Castoria.

Is a pleasant and perfect substitute, in all cases, for CASTOR OIL. Castoria is the result of an old Physician's effort to produce, for his own practice, an effective cathartic, pleasant to the taste and free from griping.

Dr. Samuel Pitcher, of Hyannis, Mass., succeeded in combining, without the use of alcohol, a purgative agent as pleasant to take as honey, and which possesses all the desirable properties of Castor Oil.

It is adapted to all ages, but is especially recommended to mothers as a reliable remedy for all disorders of the stomach and bowels of children. It is certain, agreeable, absolutely harmless, and cheap. It should be used for wind colic, sour stomach worms, costiveness, croup, &c., then children can have sleep and mothers may rest.

J. B. ROSE & Co., of 46 Dey Street, New York, are be sole proprietors of Castoria, after Dr. Pitcher' recipe.

OF OHIO.

FOR VICE PRESIDENT,

William A. Wheeler,

OF NEW YORK.

Hayes' Platform in War.

In 1864, when Hayes was in the army, being nominated for Congress he was requested to come home and stump his district. His reply was, "I have other business just now. Any man who would leave the army at this time to electioneer for Congress ought to be scalped!"

Hayes' Platform in Peace.

"Honest money for all, and free schools for all. There should be no inflation which will depreciate the one, nor sectarian interference which will destroy the other."

Correspondence.

WASHINGTON, D. C., August 17.

The army of famishing office seekers which invaded this city last December from every section, but chiefly from the South, contained many a "rag tag and bob tail" holding views very similar to those entertained by the unfortunate Fitzhugh as to his relative size compared with the President. This delusion extended to many newly elected members of Congress, swept into the House on the flood tide of the Confederate democratic triumph of 1874. It even extended to a small class of United States officials. Fitzhugh's modesty led him to confide his convictions only to his most intimate friends, while many of the others forced their views upon the public on all occasions. But those of them with a capacity to learn have been made wiser if not better men by the staggering blows administered by the President upon the three or four occasions when, forgetting discretion, they came so near him as to annoy him by their howls, and tempted him to strike back with such force as to prompt them to an immediate retreat without regard to the order of their going. His comments upon the river and harbor bill when he returned it with his signature, fired the democratic heart again; and his assurances that none of the money appropriated by the bill would be spent to increase the popularity of members seeking a nomination, has depressed the spirits of many Congressmen to the lowest possible ebb. But his position is regarded as sound and will be endorsed by intelligent tax-payers everywhere.

More campaign work has been done in Congress during the two past weeks than during the first eight months of the session. The democrats struggled hard to prevent any discussion of the atrocities committed during the last Mississippi campaign and at Hamburg. But they have become too notorious to be ignored by men who should have been moved by every inducement of Christianity, patriotism and humanity, to stay the bloody hands of savages who have revelled in a carnival of human torture and bloodletting during the past sixteen years. Denials are no longer available, for the facts are admitted by the perpetrators. The spirit of these debates are known to the country and world, and the apologetic manner of democratic Representatives and Senators in meeting the charges of fraud, intimidation, rapine and murder, rained down upon their party in the South from the republicans, and their attempts to cover up and belittle them, have become matters of record.

Their efforts to divert attention from democratic outrages and to blind the eyes of the intelligent masses composing the republican party, by thrusting forward on all occasions their reformatory and economic measures, have not been attended with the success they hoped for. They have been met at every step by some hypercritical opponent, who has effectually exposed the fallacious character of their claims to the confidence of the country. Mr. Windom, chairman of the Senate appropriation committee, dissected in detail the appropriations upon which these were based, and compared them with those made at previous sessions, conclusively showing that the reductions effected, of $38,000,000 as claimed, do not amount to more than $10,000,000 at the outside—a reduction not greater than has often been made by a republican Congress, and that too, without boast or brag. To show the deception used he cited the fact, among scores of a like nature, that the Centennial appropriation of last session was included in the grand total, while this session the appropriation made for the same purpose was designedly omitted, making the total, as given by the democratic authority, less than what it is in fact, just by the amount of that appropriation. He showed that they had refused to appropriate about $2,000,000 awarded by the Court of Claims, thus repudiating a national obligation, and one that must ultimately be paid, thus swelling the total of a future session while it legitimately belongs in that for the present one. $6000 was refused for the purpose of examining the rebel archives in connection with the investigations of rebel war claims against the government, which source of evidence has already prevented the payment of millions of dollars, by showing their illegality or the disloyalty of the claimants, and which must otherwise have been paid. He further showed that in other directions the appropriations had been kept down with the sole view of affecting the Presidential election, and would have to be provided for next session. But then there will be no Presidential election calling for a show of economy; and what has been neglected this year at the expense of the next, can then be provided for.

Foster, Kasson and others in the House, impaled the democrats of that end of the Capitol; and Mr. Kasson exasperated them to the last degree of endurance by showing up the great reformer as a sympathizer with the South during the rebellion; as a peace-at-any-price democrat in 1864; as an intimate with Tweed during his infamous lead of the Empire city and State democracy; as a "railroad wrecker" and as a first class fraud. Cox attempted to reply amid great excitement, accused Kasson of lying, and was driven into an apology by the determined attitude of Mr. Hoar, supported by the republicans.

On the whole, it has been a disastrous two weeks for Tilden and Hendricks. Scott Lord, a democrat from New York, inadvertently led his political associates into virtually committing themselves in favor, negatively at least, of the democratic method of conducting political campaigns as practiced by the Ku-Klux and White Liners in Mississippi.

The appropriation bills were all finally passed. Bland's silver bill never came to a vote; but a commission was provided for to look into the merits of the silver, gold and greenback question. The bill for the equalization of bounties failed to reach a final vote in the Senate. The report exonerating Mr. Knott from maliciously suppressing the Caldwell dispatch, signed only by the democrats of the committee, was passed by a vote of 81 to 89.

The latest reports from Speaker Kerr lead to the belief that he can survive but a few days. Before adjournment Mr. Banks alluded feelingly to his condition, and offered a resolution, tendering the loving regard of the House and expressing a hope of his early recovery which, was unanimously adopted.

MAXWELL.

A Sharp Answer.

Gov. Tilden, in answer to the complaint of the stockholders of the Terre Haute and Alton Railroad, says that he was the legal adviser of the corporation for eleven years, and therefore he considers that the amount of bonds he took without leave belonged to him. This is an easy way to pay one's self out of other people's funds. Tilden had no more right to take the bonds without permission than has the employe of any business firm to seize the cash drawer and help himself, and if caught say he was taking his pay. Mr. Garrison, former president of the road, thus gives his opinion of Tilden's answer.

In 1859 I picked up this road—the Terre Haute, Alton & St. Louis railroad—a waif. Its men had not been paid for five months. For protection against execution its fuel was paid for as it was delivered upon the engines. I carried it alone for six months, and indorsed for it personally in all, including renewals, to the amount of more than $500,000. I gave it all my time and all my abilities, and after four years I delivered it up worth $6,000,000. Five thousand dollars a year, without any commission for indorsing, was all I was paid—all I demanded; and if there is any such merit in service as is asserted, and if Mr. Tilden or the purchasing committee were entitled to steal $200,000 or $300,000 of bonds, then I claim it was my honest right to have stolen the railroad itself.

News and Notes.

Barnard McNulty, of Everett, Mass., has been arrested for inciting boys to steal. A love of sensation seems to have been his only motive, for he profited nothing by their thefts. He will have a chance to find out what kind of a sensation prison life affords.

George L. Fox, the famous comedian, who has been confined in a lunatic asylum for a year past, has thoroughly recovered and will soon return to his home.

The fools who invaded Vermont from Canada to fight a duel have been bailed and liberated. They are "sporting men," alias gamblers. Their "honor" was satisfied "according to the code." The particulars of their quarrel have not been made public, but they probably got angry and told the truth of each other—called each other cheats and swindlers.

A four days' fight between Terry's forces and the Indians is reported, in which Terry was finally victorious, both sides losing heavily.

Mrs. Bridget Fean, wife of the Fean who murdered an inoffensive Irishman named McCarty in Boston by cutting his throat with a razor, has been arrested as an accessory before the act. Both Fean and his wife bear bad characters as being quarrelsome and aggressive.

The premium on gold, Friday, was down to 10 3-4, lower than it has been before since December, 1874.

Two blacklegs, while shooting at each other in New Orleans, seriously wounded William Keller in front of his bookstore, on St. Charles street. Kelly's father died two years ago of a wound received from a stray bullet in the White League war.

The defeat of the "Countess of Dufferin" by the American yacht "Madeline" we regarded as a matter of course. There was the impudence that falls short of the sublimity of heroism in the attempt to wrest from the Unlthd States the cup which she had won from England. Whilst the fresh water captain who made the attempt had a perfect right to do as he pleased the country itself was rendered ridiculous by the attempt that was made to identify it with the enterprise. We condemn the Americans, seeing readily the mote in our neighbor's eye, for their brag, but when there is the slightest excuse for it, we are too ready to brag, too. St. John, we think, had one lesson which had a good influence upon it. We refer to the way it celebrated, before time, the victory which it did not win at Lachine. Some of the Upper Canadian papers shed enough ink over the "Countess of Dufferin" to float a good sized boat, and one or two of them actually sent down reporters in her to chronicle the way in which she won the victory! After all she proved herself a tub, and a poorly sailed one at that.—St. John Globe.

The whaling bark Catalpa, Capt. Anthony, arrived at New York on Saturday from New South Wales, with the Fenian prisoners who escaped from that country some time since.

Hon. Michael C. Kerr, of Indiana, Speaker of the United States House of Representatives, died at Rockville Alum Springs, Va., at half-past seven o'clock on Saturday evening.

Political.

Scott Lord is greatly beloved by the democrats.

Hon. Simeon K. Wolfe of Indiana, elected to Congress by the democracy of the New Albany district in 1872, has pronounced squarely for Hayes and Wheeler, and will take the stump for the republican ticket.

The Milwaukee (Wis.) Sentinel says: "Governor Hendricks could stand African slavery with unflinching fortitude. He could vote in Congress for its extension into Kansas and Nebraska. He could even vote against its abolition by the thirteenth amendment. But when he reflects upon the Coolie system, 'the Chinese bondsmen,' and that 'species of slavery,' he bursts into tears. Of course he must draw the line somewhere."

A Union man who wore blue, with shoulder straps on it, in the recent discussion, writes from Georgia: "My ten years' observation in the South has taught me that the colored people, as a rule, are treated better, with more consideration, by their old masters than by Northern persons. They are more patient with them, will put up with their shortcomings as well as naturally lazy ways, while a Northern man will lose his temper." Yes; it is only when Sambo persists in voting the republican ticket, election day, that "ole mas'r" goes back on him. But the exception is rather important.—Springfield Republican.

Tilden has recently pardoned and restored to citizenship Joseph Simmons, alias "Peppermint Joe," a hotel sneak-thief; John J. Mullin, a highway robber; James O. Chambers, convicted of assault with attempt to kill; and Joseph Matthews, who had been condemned to be hung for murder, but was afterward sentenced to imprisonment for life. All of these men were local democratic politicians, and will no doubt work vigorously for reform this fall. N. Y. Com. Adv.

It is noticeable that Professor Scelye, (says the Springfield Union,) who before his election was neither a politician nor wedded to any party, and was elected by independent and democratic votes, is now the strongest and most enthusiastic republican in the town. He does not hesitate to declare that democratic rule, judged from present aspects, would be a fearful thing to contemplate.

The Western New Hampshire Poultry Association will hold its next exhibiton at the City Hall, Keene, December 19, 20 and 21. A premium list will be offered sufficient to make the exhibition a success.

Mr. and Mrs. Lorenzo E. Decatur, of Great Falls, celebrated their silver wedding on Thursday evening. A large number of people were present from Dover, Portsmouth and other places. Many elaborate and costly presents were made. A banquet was served in a large tent erected for the purpose, which was gayly decorated and illuminated.

Daniel O'Flynn, the young man who was assulted by Mrs. Dodge at Goffstown, last Fall, has been put under $500 bonds to keep the peace. He has been hanging about the Dodge premises lately with a pistol, and it is thought he intends to be revenged on Mrs. Dodge, since she has been pardoned.

—For many years an old chest, supposed to contain valueless papers, has been standing in the Town Hall at Bantzen, in the Tyrol. It was opened recently, and several beautiful drinking cups, with the dates 1672, 1684, 1732, some silver spoons, and a gold ring were found.

Liberate the Impurities of the System.

This can easily be done through the instrumentality of the searching blood depurent and alterative, Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, which incites those scavengers of the body, the kidneys and the bowels, to vigorous action. The first named organ secrets impurities—where such exist—from the blood, which would otherwise poison it, and it is the office of the bowels to carry off the useless portions of the food rejected during the process of digestion, and which if retained would interfere with digestion and bilious secretion. Rheumatism and gout, both products of acid elements in the circulation, are remedied by the Bitters, which will likewise be found a prompt though gentle cathartic. Both kidneys and bowels are invigorated, as well as stimulated by this famous medicine, which possesses tonic properties of the highest order.

POLICE COURT.

Before Hacket, Special Justice, Saturday, August 19.

Not a ripple, not a grain of dust to fall on the balance of the scale of Justice to-day, a promised assault and battery case, accompanied by severe wounds, etc., having disappeared before the time of session as melts the morning dew of a dog day before the unclouded sun. Nothing before the Court but a civil case, in which a lady denominated in the writ "spinster,"—a good, old-fashioned appellation,—demanded possession of a dwelling house occupied by a colored man as a tenant. The defendant failed to put in an appearance, and the spinster showing a "color of title" took judgment.

THE WELL MAN.

The escape of John Sullivan (the man who was buried in the well at the Plains) from death was almost miraculous, and his rescue unharmed after nearly twelve hours of unremitting labor was something the earnest workers and the cool and skillful men who directed affairs might well feel proud of.

The well, which was forty feet deep, was very old, and the loose sand in the course of years had, it is supposed, gradually washed out from beneath and behind the stone-work at the bottom, so that when Sullivan got well down his additional weight caused the whole stone-work to settle, the stones and sand crushing in from the bottom and filling the well up to nearly where the man was, while the topmost stones toppled down upon him, followed by enough sand to fill the well nearly even full. One immense stone and several smaller ones fortunately jammed in such a position as to form a rude arch over the prisoner, whose life was thus saved, though he was in a decidedly unpleasant position, fastened down by rocks on his legs and body, and with twenty-eight feet of rocks and sand between him and the surface.

The news of the accident spread rapidly, and Messrs. Charles H. Hayes, Andrew Sherburne and other near residents, with their full gangs of men, were quickly on the spot; the police were notified, people hurried to the Plains, and soon as many willing hands as could find employment were working under the efficient direction of Mr. William G. Marshall, in the endeavor to save the buried man.

All through the trying hours Sullivan maintained his courage, conversing with those above him; and at nine o'clock the relief party had gotten so near him that they saw his hand move, through a crevice in the rude arch, the crown of which was about four inches above his head, he being still some five feet below the workers. At this time he announced that the sand was fast filling in around him, and an air tube which had been taken up by Mr. Nathaniel D. Miller was successfully slipped though a small opening to him; he got hold of it, and for three hours a supply of air was pumped to him from above by Mr. Isaac Furber.

Shortly before ten o'clock a lot of lanterns and engine head-lights arrived, and with these the surface surrounding the pit was brilliantly illuminated. At half-past ten o'clock Sullivan's head was uncovered, a piece of news that was greeted by those on the surface with a tremendous shout; but the man was not yet clear, and the most delicate portion of the job—the removal of the arch without crushing the man or starting the loose sand on a run to smother him—was yet to be done. But there were capable and cool men in charge—Mr. Marshall, ex-Street Commissioner Holmes, Street Commissioner Sides, Messrs. A. Brackett Trefethen, C. Hiram Hayes and Charles H. Downs—and steadily but cautiously the work went on, until at half-past eleven o'clock Sullivan was freed, placed in a dump-tub and hauled to the surface, the cheers with which he was greeted being distinctly heard on Market Square.

Mr. Sullivan had had all he wanted of that well, and immediately left its vicinity to seek his mother and fiancee, who were in the tavern, having been summoned from Newmarket during the afternoon, he being reported to them as dead. He wants to see the next tin dipper that he will go down in a well to get, just to know what kind of a looking dipper it is.

One of the gentlemen engaged in the work of resurrecting the man informs us that fully twenty feet of the stonework of the well was intact until it was torn to pieces by the laborers, it having settled bodily as the support at the bottom gave away, only some six or eight feet of the top having tumbled in. That Sullivan should have happened to be at just the spot in the well where the bridge formed is not the least remarkable circumstance connected with the affair.

Mayor Broughton was on the ground from an early hour in the afternoon until the man was released, and saw that the workers had plenty of hot coffee; and the police had the well roped off at a considerable distance from its mouth to keep back the crowd, though even then it was all they could do to repress the eager curiosity of the multitude, and keep them from crowding dangerously near the treacherous pit. To the tireless gangs of workers, and their cool and judicious directors, is due a degree of credit which words can but poorly express.

THE NEW TELEGRAPH.

Mr. Roach, of the Atlantic & Pacific Telegraph Co., was in town on Saturday to select a suitable place for an office for the new line. It was suggested that the room in the first story of the City Building would be a convenient locality, but the high rental demanded may induce the managers to ask for a room in the northwest corner of the Post-office building for present use, although several other central places were spoken of. The Company intend to have a centrally located office, which shall be conveniently arranged and opened in a week or two.

ON A STRIKE.

By direction of the Board of Aldermen, City Marshal Dame last week notified the druggists of the city that the observance of Ordinance No. 20 of the City Ordinances, of which Section One forbids any place being kept open "for selling, exposing for sale or for giving away any intoxicating liquor, merchandise or commodities whatever," on Sunday, would be enforced. Section Two of the Ordinance says: "Nothing contained in this chapter shall be construed to prevent any druggist or apothecary from selling medicine, or to prevent any person from making a coffin, or doing any other work of necessity or mercy on said day;" but the druggists, with one exception, closed their stores on Sunday,—a virtual acknowledgment that unless they are allowed to violate the Sunday law there is no object to be gained by keeping the drug stores open on that day.

JOTTINGS.

Hon. E. H. Rollins was in town on Saturday.

During the absence of Judge Bufford, Chas. A. Shannon, Esq., is acting as City Clerk.

U. S. S. Huron arrived in the lower harbor on Friday, and came up to the navy yard on Saturday.

Chief Constructor Hanscom, U. S. N., visited the navy yard on Saturday and received the usual salute.

Steamer "Mystic," of Dover, took an excusion party from that city to York Beach on Sunday.

The Times has an article on the President's recent order to the General of the army, headed "What the new order means." It means that the democrats in the South are to be prevented, if possible, from a further use of the means—murder and terrorism—by which they reduced the republican vote in two counties of Mississippi from 5525 at one election to fourteen at the following one. That is just what it means.

Capt. Frank L. Bird is now able to give the correct time of starting the Major by referring to a new and splendid gold watch with his name engraved on it—a fitting testimonial from the guests of the Oceanic last week. This present is quite a feather in the cap of this Bird.

NOTICE.

Owing to the enforcement of a City Ordinance against the sale on the Sabbath day of intoxicating liquors, cigars, confectionery and other unnecessary articles, the apothecaries of this city have seen fit to close their stores on that day, thereby rendering it difficult to obtain articles necessary for the sick, with the apparent intention of coercing the public. COOKED CORNED BEEF.

Articles are being published calculated to prejudice the public against using Cooked Corned Beef, and we would say in answer to them that in no instance has positive proof been established to show that such is the case.

Our goods are packed in a manner very similar to that of Corn, Tomatoes, Fruit and canned goods generally, (which have long been tested) and we use nothing whatever of a poisonous nature in their preparation.

In addition to our own statement we have the strong endorsement of Prof. Horsford of Cambridge, one of the most eminent Chemists in the country, who has fully tested and is familiar with the entire details of the preparation of our goods.

We would also state that we use none but the choicest of Beef that our Chicago market affords, and trust that with these statements the rapidly growing popularity of our Corned Beef may be increased.

For the information of those not knowing the fact we would state that in the process of canning there is a liability of imperfect sealing, which causes the can to expand. Meat contained in such cans is unfit for use and will be cheerfully paid for when returned to any grocer selling it.

Our First "China-Boy."

Never shall we forget the first Chinaman whom we employed as a house servant. The excellent and trusted Bridget who had lived with us so long was to be married, and, after her, we felt indeed, that "no Irish need apply." She remained beyond her time that we might fill her place, but each aspirant to the culinary domain seemed worse than the preceding, and finally we asked our Chinese laundry-man if he could send us "a China-boy," as they are called. Biddie protested.

"Och! I can't bear to think of ye's having a Chinaman! They will stale all there is in the house, and ye's won't know where it goes."

But we made due allowance for Biddie's prejudices, engaged "a boy," and he came at the time appointed.

A neat, rather handsome fellow, he was, and as he disappeared into his room, bundle in hand, we were conscious of a great drawing of the spirit toward him. In five minutes he emerged, clad in the daintiest of white blouses and aprons, his pigtail girded around his head as meaning business, and with the quietest step and mien he sought us out in the parlor, and "came and stood before us," his head slightly bowed, his hands folded, perfectly silent, awaiting orders. There was a submissiveness in his attitude, his expression, his whole aspect, which suggested the Old Testament and the "Arabian Nights" in turn. Our heart leaped up, as Wordsworth's to a rainbow. Here was a new regime, indeed! How promising! How delightful!

He went to work in a way which showed perfect acquaintance with his duties, and we mentally planned to teach him (was he not a heathen?) to make much of him, and to keep him a long time. It was nice to have such a distingue-looking creature around, and how deftly he waited on door and table! About the middle of the afternoon, another Chinaman appeared on the scene, and the two had much cackle together. No. 1 showed No. 2 his kitchen, laundry, and closet; and we concluded that he was pleased with his conveniences, and was receiving congratulations thereupon. By five o'clock he again "came and stood before us."

"My fliend heap-good boy; he stay you; I catch-um place, San Francisco."

And China-boy No. 1 summarily departed, leaving behind him quite an inferior substitute. And with him went, as we found that evening, all the cracked-wheat which we chanced to have in the flour-closet.

THE OLDEST ESTABLISHED HOSPITAL — IN THE — UNITED STATES.

No. 9 Beaver Street, - - - Albany, N. Y.

SURE CURES AND LOW PRICES.

Dr. YOUNG, SUCCESSOR TO Dr. TELLER, DECEASED.

The above named private Hospital was established in Albany in 1853 by Dr. Lispenard and for a number of years its affairs were presided over by that gentleman, but for the past 20 years, Dr. Teller, who is now deceased, transacted the business of the institution.

Owing to the great demand for more spacious apartments on account of the large increase of business, the Hospital has been removed to No. 9 Beaver Street, two doors above its old location, where patients will find magnificently furnished rooms for their reception, and are so arranged that patients do not come in contact with one another, being only the doctor, thereby avoiding the unpleasantness of meeting others, which always occurred at the old office.

LADIES will find rooms provided for their especial accommodation and entirely private.

YOUNG MEN, addicted to secret habits, who have impaired their health and destroyed the vigor of their minds, thus depriving themselves of the pleasures of married life and also those afflicted with private diseases of any nature, are advised that in consulting Dr. Young they will find a physician fully qualified to cure and restore them to full health and manly vigor.

Dr. Teller's great work for the married, or those contemplating marriage—300 pages—full of plates,—price $3 cents. Sent to all parts, under seal, by mail post paid.

TO THE LADIES—DR. YOUNG still retains the only agency in America for the sale of Dr. Vichol's Italian Female Monthly Pills. Sent by mail on receipt of $1.00, price per box.

DR. YOUNG is the only agent for Dr. La Mott's celebrated Galvanic Belts.

Invalids out of the city can be cured by consulting the Doctor by letter, and enclosing remittance. Medicines sent by mail or express, securely packed from observation. All letters must be addressed to DR. S. V. R. YOUNG, 9 Beaver St., Albany, N. Y.

DR. QUAIN'S MAGIC CONDITION PILLS!

The Wonderful Remedy for Liver Complaint, Biliousness, Dyspepsia, Constipation, Neuralgia, Rheumatism, Headache, Kidney Complaint, Nervousness, Scrofula, Piles, and all diseases arising from a bad state of the Blood!

No medicine ever offered to the public has given such universal satisfaction as Dr. Quain's Magic Condition Pills. Their praises are on every tongue where their merits are known. They strike at once at the seat of disease and show their healing power almost immediately. Thousands of voluntary testimonials of their merits have been received by the agent, from those who have been cured by them, of which the following are samples:

Dyspepsia Four Years, Constipation and Inflammation of the Bowels Three Years, Confined to my Room Two Years, Pain so I Could Not Sleep Without Morphine. One Package of Dr. Quain's Condition Pills Made Me Eat Well, Sleep Well and Free from Pain, after being given up by Physicians.

WEST LEBANON, ME., Feb. 22, 1

MR. THOMAS W. LANE:—I have been sick for four years with Dyspepsia, and for the past three years Constipation and Inflammation of the Bowels. I have suffered all the pain I could endure and live. I have been confined to my room for two years, and could not sleep nights without the use of morphine. I have been given up by physicians as past cure. I have taken one package of DR. QUAIN'S CONDITION PILLS, and they have done me more good than all the doctors I have had. I sleep well, I eat well and have no pain. They are all they are recommended to be. Please send me three packages, as two of my neighbors wish to try them. I enclose $1.50.

Your truly, JOHN W. LORD.

Another Letter from Maj. John W. Lord, one month later. Wonderful Cures by Dr. Quain's Pills Effected on Him in Thirteen Days. First time Free from Pain for Three Years.

WEST LEBANON, ME., March 22, 1875

MR. THOMAS W. LANE:—I commenced taking DR. QUAIN'S CONDITION PILLS February 8th, and wrote you February 22d of their wonderful effect. I have continued to improve ever since. My appetite is good, and I sleep as well as I ever did in my life. I am free from pain for the first time in three years. When I was taken sick four years ago, I weighed one hundred and eighty-six pounds; I now weigh one hundred and thirty, but, as I am gaining in strength, I have faith I shall regain my flesh this summer, by the use of the Pills. I shall continue taking them for some time to come.

Yours truly, JOHN W. LORD.

Dr. Quain's Pills the Remedy for Soldiers' Aches and Pains.

WEST LEBANON, ME., June 1, 1875.

MR. THOMAS W. LANE—Dear Sir:—I am now able to walk out every day, and am gaining in strength very fast, all of which is due to you as agent for the best Pills in the world. I have taken no other medicine, and my improvement has been steady since first taking DR. QUAIN'S CONDITION PILLS. They have done everything for me, and I will say to you, advertise them direct to the soldiers, for they will certainly cure them of aches and pains caused from exposure and hardship on the field. Please send me by return mail another package.

JOHN W. LORD.

Rheumatism for Twenty Years Cured by One Package of Dr. Quain's Condition Pills—"The Best Medicine in the World."

EAST ANDOVER, N. H., Dec. 10, 1875.

MR. LANE—Dear Sir:—As I know the value of DR. QUAIN'S CONDITION PILLS and the good they have done me, I take pleasure in giving them praise; so I send you another testimonial. My father has been troubled with Rheumatism for twenty years or more, and has tried everything that could be thought of, but to no purpose. At times it would be so bad that he could not lift his hand to his head or do any work at all, especially in cold weather. A short time ago I advised him to get some of these Pills. He believed nothing in them, but I gave him the last package I had of you, as I did not need them, and he has not been as free from the Rheumatic Complaint for years. No Rheumatism, no pain. What helped him? It was DR. QUAIN'S CONDITION PILLS, the best medicine in the world. There is nothing like them. I know it, for I have tried them, and they are all, yes, more than they are recommended to be. Give them a fair trial and you will say so. I write this because I know the goodness of them and wish others to know the same. Some may think I am telling a big story I am. But remember I am not giving them half the praise they ought to have.

Yours with respect, ED. F. PEVARE.

DAINGERFIELD, MORRIS CO., TEXAS, Nov. 15, '75.

MR. THOMAS W. LANE—Dear Sir:—I have been afflicted for nine twelve years with Neuralgia in the face and head. I tried I do not know how many physicians, and could only get partly relieved. I also tried many patent medicines with the same result. I have been confined to my room most all the time for eight or ten winters, and have been traveling and visiting medical springs, and I still suffered most intensely. The physicians pronounced my case the worst and most stubborn that they had had anything to do with. One told me I could never get well; they all told me to go South and spend the winter, and thought that was the only chance for me, and I was trying to get ready to go to Florida, when through the kindness of Rev. H. M. Mathis, my attention was called to the advertisement of Dr. Quain's Magic Condition Pills. I immediately sent to you for a package. I have taken four doses and I am almost free from pain. The impression here seems to be that if your pills will cure me, they will cure anybody. I have five applications to send for the pills. Enclosed please find three dollars; send five packages to me and one to Mrs. Laura Sherrell, Sulphur Springs, Hopkins county, Texas.

Yours truly, J. S. PATTON.

Liver Complaint, Nervousness, Dropsy and Headache.

LACONIA, N. H., Jan. 29, 1875.

THOS. W. LANE—Sir:—I have been troubled with Bad Blood, Liver Complaint, Nervousness, Dropsy and Headache. I have taken one package of DR. QUAIN'S CONDITION PILLS. They have done me more good than all the medicine I ever took; I have taken considerable medicine within the last five years. For the nerves I think there is nothing so good as those pills. I can recommend them to all who are similarly afflicted, they have done me so much good. I think they will recommend themselves wherever they go. I shall recommend those Pills to all who need them. Please send me two packages more, one for myself and one for a lady friend of mine. Many thanks to the inventor, agent and advertiser of those Pills.

MRS. P. L. ELLIOTT.

PULMOCINE.

BUCHMAN'S PULMOCINE CORDIAL.

is no new discovery. Twenty-three years ago it was used by one of New England's most famous physicians as the best Pulmonary Curative he could prescribe, after a dozen years spent in experimenting with it before he was satisfied that the Materia Medica could add nothing in its favor.

Is the ultima thule of Medical Discovery.

Among its many ingredients are Wild Cherry Bark, Squill Root, Liquorice Root, Blood root, &c. It is a Blood Purifier, gently stimulating. It increases expectoration and is diuretic. It is sudorific and alterative. It is a necessary family medicine. It is a Tonic and a powerful aid to the digestive organs. It is a gentle sedative, and relieves nervousness. It is aromatic and agreeable to the taste.

CLEAR YOUR THROAT!

Relieve Your Lungs.

For the terrible diseases engendered by the lungs trying climate of New England;

PULMOCINE CORDIAL

Is a speedy and reliable Preventive and Remedy. Every Family should have a bottle at hand to check the sudden growth of all Pulmonary Diseases. For the Asthma, Coughs, Croups, Laryngitis, or inflammation of the larynx, Diphtheria, and all kindred Throat Diseases at all times prevalent, it is the ounce of Prevention. Children attacked with Whooping Cough or Croup should be immediately cared for. These painful attacks come with scarcely a moment's warning, when a physician may be out of immediate reach. A dose of PULMOCINE CORDIAL gives speedy relief, and the little ones are spared hours of pain and agony. As "a stitch in time saves nine," so does the possession of this Family Medicine prevent the spread of disease. Parents seeing their children gasping with pain, friends and relatives beholding each other in peril from suffocation by the choking pain in the throat, paralyzed with fear and not knowing the best course to pursue, are liable to apply the wrong remedial agents. There is no safety in delay, no time to waste in such cases. CONSUMPTION, that fearful scourge of the human race, lies at the door of all thus afflicted. BUCHMAN'S PULMOCINE CORDIAL arrests it (unless in its advanced stage at which time there is no local cure) relieves the pressing, suffocating feeling at the lungs, and the patient's danger is past.

For Coughs,

Croup,

Diphtheria,

Asthma, etc.,

USE

Buchman's Pulmocine Cordial.

The Pulmocine Cordial is not a quack medicine, is not an experiment, is not composed of any ingredients "discovered" by "walking in pastures" in South America or anywhere else, nor by one who discovered a weed and thereby cured himself. Most of the ingredients are such as our best educated physicians daily use for the complaints specified in some form or other. The recipe is that perfected by one of New England's most learned and famous physicians, who used it entirely in his daily practice until his death. It is offered to the profession and to the public, absolutely pure and unadulterated.

SEC. 14. If any such householder or physician shall refuse or neglect to give the notice required in the preceding sections, he shall for each refusal or neglect, forfeit the sum of twenty dollars, to be recovered by either of the Health Officers in the name of the city.

SEC. 16. The Health Officers may give written notice to the owner or occupier of any building, vessel or enclosure, to remove or destroy any nuisance or other thing deemed by them on examination, to be injurious to the public health, within a certain time limited therein; and in case such owner or occupier—the said notice having been given to him, or left at his usual place of abode—shall neglect to comply therewith, the said Health Officers may, by direction of the mayor and accompanied by the city marshal, forcibly enter such building, vessel, or enclosure, and cause said nuisance or other thing aforesaid to be removed or destroyed.

SEC. 31. No person shall erect, keep or continue, or permit to be erected, kept or continued, upon any land occupied by him, any pen for the keeping of swine, or privy, over either of the mill ponds in this city, or so placed that offensive substances therefrom shall be discharged or drained into either of said ponds, or into any creek, or cove, or drain leading thereto. And no person shall construct, keep or continue any drain leading from any pen for the keeping of any swine, slaughter-house, privy vault, or other unwholesome or offensive place, into either of said ponds, or to any flat or marsh adjoining the same. And no person shall throw or suffer to be thrown from his premises into either of said ponds, or upon any of said flats or marshes, any dead, decaying, unwholesome or offensive animal or vegetable substances.

Lincoln Butter Powder is an entirely harmless article made from a celebrated English recipe, and now is daily used by many of the most noted farmers in the butter counties around Philadelphia.

In hot weather this Powder makes butter much firmer and sweeter than it usually is, and keeps it from turning rancid. It also removes the strong flavor of turnips, weeds, corn stalks, cotton seed, etc.; and the increased yield of butter much more than pays the trifling expense of using it.

A Slight Misunderstanding.

In our town there are two families of Cadwalladers, and until a few weeks ago the head of each of them was named Henry. One Henry was a storekeeper and the other Henry was a butcher, and neither was related in any way to the other. About the middle of June the butcher died rather suddenly, but somehow the impression got out around town that it was the other Henry. Late one evening a wagon drove up in front of the living Cadwallader's house, and a man rung the bell. Cadwallader was in bed. He arose, opened the window and shouted:

"Who's there?"

"Me; Toombs!"

"Toombs! Who's Toombs? What d'you want?"

"Why, I've just run around with a load of ice for the old man. Let me in, so's I can fix him."

"Dunno what you mean. Nobody in here that wants fixings with ice. We're temperance people."

"No, no! I'm the undertaker, I brought it around to pack the old man in, so's he'll keep for a couple of days. Hurry up, sonny, I want to get done."

"What old man?"

"Why, Cadwallader. Don't you know if he isn't laid in ice he'll spoil before morning, and afflict his good family like thunder."

"I guess you've struck the wrong house."

"Isn't this Mr. Henry Cadwallader's place?"

"Yes."

"Well, then, he's my man. I've got a coffin in here that'll fit him like a glove, after we've froze him up awhile. I dunno if anybody can get him up better for the sepulchre than I can; but I don't think so. Le'me in 's quick as you can, and I'll show you the silver-plated handles and the mahogany trimmings. Queen Victoria don't want anything more gorgeous and splendid than them."

While Toombs was speaking another man came up and rang the bell, and Cadwallader asked him what he wanted.

"Want to see Mrs. Cadwallader about the tomb-stone."

"Tombstone! This is getting solemn! What tombstone?"

"Old Cadwallader's. Mr. Mix sent me round to ask whether he should cut the name 'Henry Cadwallader' in a straight line or a curve, and whether she wants to put on the stone a broken rose-bud or a torch upside down. You tell the widder to take my advice, and go in on the rosebud and the straight line. It's cheaper and 'twon't made any great difference to the corpse."

"I'll mention it to her. When is the tombstone to be done?"

"Wednesday, right after the funeral. Weighs about a ton. Mix says Mrs. Cadwallader probably wanted it heavy, so's to be sure it would hold Henry down. He will have his fun."

During the conversation, and while Mr. Toombs was removing his funeral appliances from the wagon, a third man arrived. He asked for Mrs. Cadwallader.

"What do you want?" asked Mr. C.

"How's the widow takin' it? Hard?" he asked.

"Not so very."

"Well, you tell her, for me, not to go on about it. Plenty of fish in the sea's good as any ever caught. Tell her the company's all right. It'll pay her in full, and then she can get on her feet again, and may be consolidate with some better man."

"What company do you mean?"

"Why, the Hopelessly Mutual. I'm Benjamin P. Gunn, the insurance agent. Took his risk in January. Thought may be the widow might be suffering from grief and I'd call to cheer her up. I'm coming to the funeral, and I'll see that Henry's stowed away as snug as a bug in a rug."

Cadwallader came down and explained the matter, and got things straightened out a little. On the day of the dead Henry's funeral he thought he would go to it in order to ascertain how it felt to attend the obsequies of Henry Cadwallader. It turned out that some of the live Henry's friends who didn't know where he lived, were at the house of the dead man, thinking that it was the storekeeper's funeral. When the latter came in, Mr. Jones met him and said to him:

"Heaven and earth, Cadwallader! how'd you get out of that coffin?"

"I never was in it."

"What! I've been crying like a baby about you in the parlor there. Not dead! Now see here, Cadwallader, this is not the square thing! Blame me if I haven't wasted an enormous amount of sacred emotion over you, and now you go back on me. Is that treating a man right?"

"I dunno. Seems to me so."

"Well, hang me if it seems so to me. If you advertise that you are going to be buried, why in the name of Nebuchadnezzar don't you stand by your contract like a man?"

"Let me explain—"

"No, sir; no apologies. This lets you out, as far as I am concerned. When I die, I die. I don't invite my friends to see me interred, get them to cry like thunder, and then came shuffling around with some shabby excuse about not being dead! I'd rather pick a man's pocket at once than trample on his feelings that way?"

And as Mr. Jones shouldered his umbrella and marched off home, Cadwallader went also, a little gloomy because he felt that if he had been a thoroughly conscientious man who understood his duty to society, he would be a corpse. He is going to apply to the legislature at the next session for permission to change his name.—Illustrated Weekly.

Daily Chronicle.

TUESDAY, AUGUST 22, 1876.

FOR PRESIDENT,

Rutherford B. Hayes,

OF OHIO.

FOR VICE PRESIDENT,

William A. Wheeler,

OF NEW YORK.

Hayes' Platform in War.

In 1864, when Hayes was in the army, being nominated for Congress he was requested to come home and stump his district. His reply was, "I have other business just now. Any man who would 'leave the army at this time to electioneer for Congress ought to be scalped!"

Hayes' Platform in Peace.

"Honest money for all, and free schools for all. There should be no inflation which will depreciate the one, nor sectarian interference which will destroy the other."

Bayonet Rule.

The democratic and "independent" papers feel badly because the President so promptly acceded to the demand of the democratic House that the National government should assist in maintaining the right of suffrage in the South, in places where the State authorities do not oppose or cannot prevent or punish murder and intimidation for political reasons; they think the order to hold troops in readiness to move will cost the republican party many votes,—a danger the republicans are willing to face,—assert that there is nothing to justify it, and shout "bayonet rule."

Well, we fancy we should prefer to be ruled by bayonets in the hands of disciplined men who are responsible to their superior officers and to the National law, rather than by pistols, knives, shot-guns, halters and whips in the hands of masked ruffians who acknowledge no law, statute or moral. But all the talk about the people of the South being "overawed by federal bayonets" is clap-trap, for not an instance has ever been brought up in which any one was overawed by the troops, excepting in cases where elections have been sought to be carried, or their results overthrown, by violence and fraud—just such works as the democratic House demanded that the government put a stop to. As to there being no justification for National interference—the democratic House almost unanimously voted that such interference was necessary; and until the memory of how the democrats carried Mississippi, sought to carry Louisiana, and are now seeking to carry South Carolina, dies out of the public mind, the northern democratic press will have to declare that everything is lovely at the South many times before the people of the North will believe it.

The vigorous opening of the democratic campaign at Hamburg—a campaign which is intended to put in the highest office in the State a bitter, out-spoken, unrepentant rebel, Gen. Wade Hampton, late of the Confederate army—has already been made known through the medium of the southern democratic press, and it seems it is to be as vigorously prosecuted to the end, if the democrats can manage it. A correspondent of the leading democratic paper of the State, the Charleston News and Courier, gives in that paper an account of a republican meeting held last week in the Hamburg district. Governor Chamberlain presided, but hardly had the meeting begun before an organized and armed band of whites, led by the notorious Butler, (the ex-rebel general who raised the mob that murdered the blacks at Hamburg, and who directed the murders,) crowded into the meeting and insisted that half the time should be given to democratic speakers. The second republican who attempted to speak was silenced by the jeers and groans of the organized mob, which broke up the meetieg and scattered the republicans, declaring that they should not have a public meeting anywhere. Butler declared that there were democrats enough in the district to carry the election, and if they could not do it peacably they would do it by force.

Rev. H. M. Church, Presiding Elder of the Gulf District, Mississippi Conference, and a brother of Rev. Dr. Church of the Providence (R. I.) Conference, writes to Zion's Herald as follows: "I have taken my departure from the land of chivalry, after having been warned by enemies and entreated by friends, and having been marched through the streets of Summit by a mob, and been rescued by the Mayor of the town. I have been often threatened with violence since our last Conference, and as I am not much of a fighter, especially when there are a thousand to one against me, I have left the country of the 'White League' and the 'Regulators,' and returned to New York. On the Liberty circuit, the Regulators shot and killed one of our local preachers last month. A perfect reign of terror exists over a large part of my district. The whole State is at white heat of race antagonism, and any white man, especially a Northern man, will work until after election with the colored man at his peril."

The Eufaula Times helps to explain the democratic victory in Alabama thus: "Owing to the fact that there was no opposition to the democratic candidates, the election in Eufaula was so quiet as to be absolutely dull. Nevertheless, a good vote was polled with the expected result of triumph for the democratic nominees. The negroes did not turn out very largely; those who did, voted the democratic ticket." This was in a county which has given—when the negroes thought it safe to "turn out"—two thousand republican majority.

Political.

The Tammany reformers, under the leadership of Boss Kelly, and the anti-Tammany reformers, under the lead of Tilden's right-hand man, John Morrissey, prize-fighter, gambler, etc., are trying to come to an agreement which shall unite both factions for Tilden and reform.

There was a lively time in Lawrence, Mass., Saturday evening. The republicans raised a Hayes and Wheeler flag, with a display of fireworks, and out-of-doors speaking. The roughs of the city, who all favor Tilden and reform, did all they dared to break up the meeting, but did not succeed.

The Greenback State convention at Indianapolis, Indiana, gave its opinion of Tilden in an impressive and feeling manner, declaring an utter want of faith in the professions of reform which come from "the corporation thief and railroad wrecker, representing the old Tammany regime in New York." Sam. Cary "spoke for over two hours," and was followed by Blanton Duncan, of Kentucky, who entertained hopes of carrying enough electoral votes for Cooper and Cary to throw the election into the House. He said he had been abused in 1872 for predicting the defeat of Greeley, and yet he believed Tilden's chances were even less promising.

Not many months ago the leading democratic organ of the United States, the New York World, said: "The existing law promises specie resumption for January, 1879. If the [democratic Congressional] caucus decides to recommend the repeal of this promise, there is no tongue so persuasive as to induce the people to believe the democratic party sincere in its demands for resumption." A democratic committee did "recommend the repeal of this promise," and what is worse, a democratic House voted for it.

The Southern democracy have never get over General Dix's patriotic order in regard to pulling down the American flag. The Richmond Whig calls his recent circular to the "Boys in Blue" "the emanation of a vile, treacherous, knavish heart, that would barter the peace, honor and prosperity of the country without a moment's hesitation, to gratify its own base, hellish passions," and heads its article "A Traitor's Appeal."

The democratic papers, as an offset to the White Leagues and Ku-Klux, have busily spead the report that the infamous "Molly Maguires" of Pennsylvania were republicans. It turns out that not a man of them but is a democrat, while nearly every man murdered by them was a republican.

The democratic platform says: "Reform is necessary in the civil service" that government positions may not "be a brief reward of party zeal instead of posts of honor assigned for proved competency and held for fidelity in the public employ." The democratic clerk of the House on the 18th removed Isaac Straw from the position of enrolling and engraving clerk, which he had held for sixteen years and in which his services were invaluable. Cause of his removal—a democrat wanted the place.

New Hampshire Items.

A large forest fire raged on the line of the Portland & Ogdensburg Railroad at North Conway, Saturday, and much timber and wood was destroyed.

Some time since the Reform Club of Laconia secured a mass of evidence to convict the rumsellers of their unlawful dealings, and on their promising to cease selling proceedings were stopped against them. For a time they kept their promises, but soon began selling on the sly, and becoming more bold at last gave up all secrecy and sold openly. Saturday morning the Sheriff and his deputies made a swoop upon them, and they will now be obliged to answer to the State for their misdeeds. Public sentiment in that region, thanks to the reform movement, is becoming quite pronounced against the traffic in rum.

Gov. Noyes of Ohio arrived at the Boar's Head Hotel, Hampton Beach, Saturday, where he was met by United States Senator Rollins, Col. Daniel Hall, Col. A. H. Young, James F. Christie, Esq., Sergeant-at-Arms of the United States Senate, Gen. R. N. Batchelder, United States Army, and several other distinguished gentlemen. He will remain there about a week.

Farmington, New Durham and Alton people are to have an excursion to Old Orchard Beach on the 23d inst.

The Rollins family's annual picnic will take place Wednesday, at the old homestead at Newington. Senator Rollins is to deliver an appropriate address.

The Suncook mills shut down for four days the past week on account of low water.

Mrs. Sarah F. Holt, widow of the late Deacon Henry Holt of Nashua, died Saturday morning under the following circumstances. She was desirous all the morning to view the remains of her dead husband. When the body was laid out in the casket she was admitted to view it. She gazed upon the remains for some moments, when she exclaimed: "Can this be true," then placing her hand upon her forehead, she said: "Oh! how my head pains." Her friends seeing she was about to fall caught her, when on lying her down it was discovered she was dead. Her death is supposed to have resulted from an apopletic stroke, caused from her grief at the loss of her husband. She was a good christian woman and respected by the whole community. The funeral of Mr. Holt, which was to have taken place Saturday, was postponed to Monday that the husband and wife might be buried together.

The saloons of H. P. Bachelder, J. C. Pickering and Henry Carroll, in Laconia, were visited Sunday morning and liquor seized in the afternoon; several loads of bar fixtures and empty barrels were seized, but not much liquor.

A woman, representing herself as a Mason's widow, has been travelling about Milford and its vicinity, telling a tale of need and poverty, and collecting money to assuage her sufferings. Being proved to be an impostor she was compelled to leave town.

The body of Michael Toomey, aged seven years, son of John Toomey, was found on the curbstone on the west side of Church street, Manchester, Saturday, with the back part of his skull broken in. A physician was promptly called, but the boy died within a few minutes. There is some mystery connected with the affair.

News and Notes.

There is every reason to believe that the 4 1-2 per cent. loan will be placed very promptly and taken up with alacrity. All that is necessary is to remove all doubt of the good faith of the Government and its determination to pay its obligations at maturity according to the standard of value recognized and accepted the world over, to place the credit of the United States as high as that of any nation in the world. There could be no better measure of economy than a complete and final assurance that the Government will never repudiate any part of its obligations by paying in depreciated money. Then, we believe, our whole bonded debt could be easily funded at four per cent. Interest, and the bonds be maintained at par or higher, saving to the nation not far from $40,000,000 yearly in interest.—Globe.

The smaller war vessels will be sent to foreign ports to protect American interests and commerce, in order to comply with the law of Congress just passed, reducing men from 8500 to 7500 in the navy. The Franklin, 3173 tons, has been ordered home, and the Trenton, 2800 tons, will take her place. Other large vessels will be replaced by the recently built new sloops.

The Turkish atrocities in Bulgaria continue. Women are outraged every day, and it is now proved that children have been carried about the streets on the points of bayonets by the Turkish soldiers. People are also reported to have been burned alive. Over three thousand men, women and children have been killed at Otluktan, and at Burzardjik over 1,000 persons have fallen victims to Turkish cruelty. At Jambuli a bag full of human heads was emptied in the street before the house of the Italian consul, and eaten by dogs.

Twenty-five years ago this month the Territory of Minnesota was ceded to the Indians by treaty. Last year 23,400,000 bushels of wheat was raised in that State, which is more than was raised by any other State in the Union.

The American lady who was recently murdered in the Tyrolese Alps by being thrown over a precipice by her husband, turns out to have been an Englishwoman; and she jumped over the cliff purposely. The young American husband who murdered her is a Frenchman.

Hydrophobia.

Mr. George W. Johnston, Superintendent of the Brooklyn Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals, writes to the Brooklyn Argus as follows: Hydrophobia, in the dog, I am satisfied, is the result of the animal having been inoculated by biting some person suffering from the disease of intoxication. Startling as this theory may appear, there is not the least question but that the facts will bear it out. First, hydrophobia and mania a potu are identical in most physical conditions—subjects dead of either disease presenting nearly the same autopsy.

Second, the saliva of a man dying of delirium tremens, and that of a dog suffering from rabies, bear the same chemical analysis. Third, the entire system of the patient suffering from alcoholic madness is so poisoned that rapid inoculation will follow any contact with the virus of the blood. Fourth, the bite of a man in an alcoholic fit has been known to result in hydrophobia. As to the application of these facts:

First, with the canine race, hydrophobia is never spontaneous; with man, the disease is known to be.

Second, there is not a case on record of a dog having died of hydrophobia that will not admit of proof—if the fact can be ascertained—that the dog had previously bitten an intoxicated person, or had been attacked by some other animal suffering from a like inoculation.

—A wag, passing a livery stable one day, in front of which several very lean horses were tied, stopped suddenly and gazed at them for some time with a countenance indicating the utmost astonishment, and then addressed the owner, who was standing near, and asked him if he made horses. "Made horses?" said the knight of the broom and currycomb, "No. Why do you ask such a question?" "Only," replied the wag, "because I observe you have several frames set up."

—Don Carlos bathes every day at Newport, where the ladies watch him disporting in the surf, and consider the muscular development of his legs as superior even to that of Weston's. They attribute it to the exercise he took in getting out of Spain.—Brooklyn Argus.

—A New York paper offers, as premiums for its subscribers, an annual cutting of the hair or quarterly vaccination free, and to those who pay three years' subscription in advance a coffin at death, or, when it is preferred, a half a dozen silver forks. There can be no doubt as to the truth of this, for it is printed in a Paris newspaper.

Liberate the Impurities of the System.

This can easily be done through the instrumentality of the searching blood depurent and alterative, Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, which incites those scavengers of the body, the kidneys and the bowels, to vigorous action. The blood passed through these organs secrete impurities—where such exist—from the blood, which would otherwise poison it, and it is the office of the bowels to carry off the useless portions of the food rejected during the process of digestion, and which if retained interfere with digestion and bilious secretion. Rheumatism and gout, both products of acid elements in the circulation, are neutralized by the Bitters, which will likewise be found a prompt though gentle cathartic. Both kidneys and bowels are invigorated, as well as stimulated by this famous medicine, which possesses tonic properties of the highest order.

A Relief.

You are troubled with a bad breath; it annoys your friends and acquaintances, as well as yourself. You would like to get rid of it, but scarcely knew what means to adopt. We will tell you. Use the fragrant SOZODONT. It will cleanse and beautify your teeth, and leave your breath pure and sweet.

Accidents happen; keep Spalding's Glue.

Travellers should always be supplied with Adamson's Botanic Cough Balsam. Nothing equals it for coughs and colds. 35 and 75 cents. Large bottles cheapest.

A SKIN LIKE MONUMENTAL ALABASTER may be attained by using Glenn's Sulphur Soap, which does away with the necessity for Sulphur Baths. Try it, ladies. It is a genuine beautifier, and very economical.

LYON'S KATHAIRON prevents the Hair from falling out or turning gray, renews its growth, and gives strength and vigor. It is delightfully perfumed, and makes a splendid dressing. It is the cheapest and most desirable Hair Tonic ever produced. Used by the elite. Price only 50 cents.

POLICE COURT.

Before Hackett, Special Justice, Monday, August 21.

A "single, solitary case" of intoxication by a former habitue of the County Institution came up this morning, and as harvesting is at hand, Pollard will have another assistant for four months.

A case of alleged cruelty to a lame horse by a respectable resident of Lafayette road, was next in order. The respondent was arraigned and pleaded not guilty. There appeared to be a dearth of lawyers this morning; Mr. Hatch concluded that Police Court practice took too much time for the fees received, Mr. Frink remained to entertain visitors at his elegant estate at Greenland, Mr. Hodgdon is City Solicitor and of course could be upon but one side of the case, Mr. Hackett, Jr., was Justice pro tempore, Ex-Judge Page had gone to Boston to look after his investments in the Eastern Railroad, and Mr. Rollins was somewhere in the vicinity of New Bedford upon a visit. In fact, the respondent was unable to obtain such counsel as he desired, and at his request the Solicitor consented to a continuance until Saturday at 2 o'clock in the afternoon.

SIDEWALK LOAFERS.

Eds. Chronicle: Cannot something be done to abate one of the most annoying of nuisances — the nightly crowding of the sidewalks and corners of our public streets? There are a large number of young (men, I was going to say, but I mean) loafers who habitually take their stand in those places, evenings, and make rude and insulting remarks on ladies as they pass, using language of the coarsest kind, loud enough to be heard by any one within twenty feet of them. These caricatures of manhood doubtless regard such conduct as indicating their possession of wondrous wit, but respectable people know that it is the product of ignorance and boorishness of the lowest order. I do not wish to be understood as in any way reflecting upon the police, for they are almost powerless to abate the intolerable nuisance complained of, as there is no city ordinance which effectually applies to such a mean practice. There is, indeed, an ordinance intended to prevent such obstruction of the sidewalks, but it is easily evaded by the loafers. For instance, if an officer orders a crowd of loafers to move they must do so, but they can stop after moving ten feet and follow the same game all night, and there is no law to prevent them or punish them. I—and many others—earnestly hope the new City Government will devise some effective plan of putting an end to this nuisance and of protecting ladies from being insulted by being compelled to hear such openly vile language and disgusting innuendoes as are constantly used by these street loafers.

LAW AND ORDER.

THE TEMPERANCE CELEBRATION

To-morrow, (Wednesday,) will doubtless be the greatest demonstration of the kind which has taken place in our city for the last quarter of a century. It will combine both a procession and a picnic, and the grand feature will be that the whole procession will consist of decorated carriages. The Kearsarge Fife and Drum Band will furnish music for the day, and the Portsmouth Light Artillery, Capt. Marvin, have volunteered to perform escort duty. Major M. T. Betton will act as chief marshal, with John S. Perry and R. H. Perkins as aids.

The Band of Hope will occupy fourteen evergreen cars, each car supporting a banner with an appropriate motto. Another car will represent the "Old Oaken Bucket" in full operation.

The Portsmouth Reform Club will be represented in two large decorated carriages, drawn by eight horses, with banner and emblematical designs.

The Woman's Temperance League will be represented in a handsome decorated carriage.

The veteran Washingtonians, of the reform of 1840, will be in line in a decorated carriage.

The Dover Reform Club will appear in a splendid decorated carriage, with banner, drawn by six horses.

The Greenland Reform Club will be represented in a large decorated carriage, drawn by four horses.

Other temperance organizations are expected to appear in line, but no definite information has been received from them as yet.

The procession will form on Market Square, and start at 10 o'clock, precisely; and will pass through Congress, Islington, Cass, Middle, State, Pleasant and Court streets, and Richards Avenue and South and Sagamore roads to the Sagamore, where exercises will be held in the Davis grove, and the usual picnic amusements indulged in.

Gen. Neal Dow, of Portland, and other speakers, will address the assembled multitude. All friends of temperance are invited to join in the festivities of the day either in carriages or at the grove.

In the evening, a grand rally of all the temperance organizations will take place at the Temple, at half-past seven o'clock. Gen. Neal Dow and others will address the assembly.

SHORT ROAD TO LUXURY.

Eds. Chronicle: I wish to put all the ladies of Portsmouth who are entertaining guests under obligations to me by telling them that they can possess themselves of a book of Choice Receipts by M. S. W., which is invaluable as a safe guide to the most delicate and delicious dishes in which "there is no such word as fail." The manner of composing these various tid-bits is so unmistakably set forth that a child could not fail to produce them in perfection. I speak of the value of this book to "those entertaining guests," because everybody knows that Portsmouth is the Paradise of visitors and that they are always treated to the "top of the market;" but our friends will certainly keep it by them for every day use if they be of the taste of

AN EXPERIENCED HOUSEKEEPER.

JOTTINGS.

Wendell Phillips is in town.

The painful appearance of the back of the standing collar which the swell young man of the period deems the proper thing to wear, far exceeds in its contracted look that of the tied-back female whom we first pity, then endure and then embrace—the opportunity to criticise.

The Times copies the democratic campaign slander against Gov. Hayes, that he "not only voted for but took and pocketed his share of the salary-grab." The story is a flat-footed lie, and has been repeatedly shown to be so, but the democratic papers keep on repeating it all the same. Gov. Hayes was not in Congress at the time of the "salary-grab," and had not been for years, as the democratic editors well know. And at the time he was in Congress, though the members' salaries were raised, (to $5000 per year—a raise that never was stigmatised as a "salary-grab,") Gov. Hayes voted against the bill making the increase at every stage and on its final passage, while Thomas A. Hendricks voted for the bill every time. These facts are notorious; but then truth and honesty are mere bagatelles in the eyes of the advocates of "Tilden and reform."

It is understood now that a beginning is soon to be made upon new depots for the Portsmouth & Dover railroad in this city. Next week, we are told that the grounds for the new buildings will be laid out and arrangements will be made for the disposition of the old buildings now in the way. We hope this movement will go on at once, for if there ever was a necessity for anything, it is that new depots should be erected for the accommodation of the constantly increasing business of that road.—Dover Democrat, 19th.

We wish it understood that while the columns of this paper are freely open for the discussion of all matters of public interest, communications which are of interest but to the writers can be inserted only at the usual rates for local advertising notices.

Secretary Robeson, of the Navy, was in town on Monday.

The U. S. S. Despatch, with supplies for the navy yard, arrived on Monday afternoon.

A large fleet of naval vessels are now lying at the navy yard, viz.: the Lancaster, Congress, Sabine, Ticonderoga, Enterprise, Kansas, Speedwell, Huron and Despatch. Work on the Enterprise is progressing slowly, under the contractors; the Huron and Despatch are in commission; and the rest are laid up awaiting extensive repairs.

Work in the construction department of the Navy Yard is to be revived this week.

The mill-ponds are not frozen over, reports to the contrary notwithstanding.

It is said the Rockingham Ten Cents Savings Bank will pay sixty-two cents on the dollar to depositors.

The Folsom Family.

As the Folsoms were, 150 years ago, prominent citizens of Rockingham County, it may be interesting to many to know that the descendants of Jeremiah Folsom, a grandson of the Puritan emigrant, John, held a meeting, August 17, at the residence of the oldest known member of the family, who lives in Lee, N. H. Mrs. Joanna Folsom Chesley is about 86 years old, and lives with her sons, Geo. E. and Thos. B. Chesley.

The meeting was called upon short notice and some unable to come wrote letters expressing their interest. After the dinner brief addresses were made, and reminiscences of olden times and ancient men given by different persons. Abraham Folsom of Boston, J. M. Folsom of Dover, and J. Chapman of Kingston, were chosen to confer with members of other branches of the family, respecting a reunion of all descended from emigrant John, who came from England in 1638.

Mr. J. Chapman, of Kingston, who has for some years in his leisure hours been collecting materials for a Folsom book, has received many letters from all the northern and north-western States, and learned the residences of quite a number in the South, showing that the offspring of one man has rapidly increased and been widely dispersed. The Folsom Family, including the first four generations, and some families brought down to the present, is printed; and a copy will be sent for 30 cents, on application to Rev. Prof. N. S. Folsom, Boston Highlands, Mass., or to Rev. J. Chapman, Kingston, N. H. It is only designed to afford a specimen of what the whole volume will be, if it is ever finished. Quite a number of the family once lived in Portsmouth. The son of Gen. Nathaniel Folsom was a merchant there, nearly one hundred years ago. J.

CARD.

The undersigned, who was rescued from a terrible death on Friday last, is at a loss to find words by which to express his grateful thoughts towards those who assisted in saving his life, yet he would publicly tender his heartfelt thanks to Messrs. Wm. G. Marshall, A. R. Trefethen, N. D. Miller, Isaac Furber, C. H. Hayes and the many others whose names he has not learned, who labored so long and well and brought him alive and unharmed out of the deep well at the Plains. May the Lord always prosper these noble men, is the prayer of

JOHN SULLIVAN.

NOTICE.

Owing to the enforcement of a City Ordinance against the sale on the Sabbath day of intoxicating liquors, cigars, confectionery and other unnecessary articles, the apothecaries of this city have seen fit to close their stores on that day, thereby rendering it difficult to obtain articles necessary for the sick, with the apparent intention of forcing the public. Therefore, notice is hereby given that on the Sabbath day and necessary articles, other than wines and liquors, may be obtained (day or night) at the office of Dr. F. E. POTTER,

MEDICINES

No. 2 Market Street, up stairs,

COOKED CORNED BEEF.

Articles are being published calculated to prejudice the public against using Cooked Corned Beef, and we would say in answer to them that in no instance has positive proof been established to show that such is the case.

Our goods are packed in a manner very similar to that of Corn, Tomatoes, Fruit and canned goods generally, (which have long been tested) and we use nothing whatever of a poisonous nature in their preparation.

In addition to our own statement we have the strong endorsement of Prof. Hosford of Cambridge, one of the most eminent Chemists in the country, who has fully tested and is familiar with the entire details of the preparation of our goods.

We would also state that we use none but the choicest of Beef that our Chicago market affords, and trust that with these statements the rapidly growing popularity of our Corned Beef may be increased.

For the information of those not knowing the fact we would state that in the process of canning there is a liability of imperfect sealing, which causes the can to expand. Meat contained in such cans is unfit for use and will be cheerfully paid for when returned to any grocer selling it.

CHILDREN TEETHING

MRS. WINSLOW'S SOOTHING SYRUP!

For Children Teething,

greatly facilitates the process of teething, by softening the gums, reducing all inflammation—will allay ALL PAIN and consequent death.

Sure to Regulate the Bowels.

Depend upon it, mothers, it will give rest to yourselves, and

Relief and Health to Your Infants.

We have put up and sold this article for years, and CAN SAY IN CONFIDENCE AND TRUTH of it, what we have never been able to say of any other medicine—NEVER HAS IT FAILED IN A SINGLE INSTANCE, TO EFFECT A CURE, when timely used. Never did we know an instance of dissatisfaction by any one who used it. On the contrary, all are delighted with its operations, and speak in terms of highest commendation of its magical effects and medical virtues. We speak in this matter "WHAT WE DO KNOW," after years of experience, AND PLEDGE OUR REPUTATION FOR THE FULFILMENT OF WHAT WE HERE DECLARE. In almost every instance where the infant is suffering from pain and exhaustion, relief will be found in fifteen or twenty minutes after the syrup is administered.

This valuable preparation has been used with NEVER FAILING SUCCESS in

Thousands of Cases.

It not only relieves the child from pain, but invigorates the stomach and bowels, corrects acidity, and gives tone and energy to the whole system. It will almost instantly relieve Griping in the Bowels and Wind Colic.

We believe it is the BEST AND SUREST REMEDY IN THE WORLD, in all cases of DYSENTERY and DIARRHŒA IN CHILDREN, whether it arises from teething, or from any other cause. We would say to every mother who has a child suffering from any of the foregoing complaints—do not let your prejudices, nor the prejudices of others, stand between your suffering child and the relief that will be SURE—yes, ABSOLUTELY SURE—if the right medicine, if timely used. Full directions for using will accompany each bottle.

—Mount Union College has on exhibition at the Centennial a stuffed gorilla, which fell after a bloody encounter with Paul Du Chaillu, and for which the sum of ten thousand dollars was paid. Those who have read Du Chaillu's travels will probably remember something of this adventure. This formidable animal was attacked by Du Chaillu and two negroes, and wrenched the guns out of the hands of the latter, bent them into the shape of a horseshoe, killing both Africans; he then rushed toward Du Chaillu screeching horribly and beating his breast with his forepaws or hands, as the gorilla always does when enraged. Du Chaillu, however, ended his fate by shooting him through the heart, the mark of which may be seen. This stuffed gorilla stands erect, grasping with one hand the limb of a tree. In outward appearance he is the nearest approach to man. His height is 5 feet 11 inches. The legs are six inches shorter, and the thighs thinner than those of an ordinarily developed man. He measures 54 inches around the chest and 40 around the waist. The gorilla is on exhibition in the mineral annex to the main building.

—In the north part of the city, as a veracious reporter reports, a young man and a young lady companion got on the steps of a Sunday evening and made a contract. For each shooting star he was receive a kiss. On one of these interesting occasions a half hour passed away and not a solitary star shot across the sky. But after a while the cherry lips of the young lady parted, and she called her young man's attention to the flying meteors that were about to escape his observation; then she got to calling his attention to the lightning bugs, and finally got him down to steady work on the light of a lantern a man was carrying about the depot where the trains were switching. Artless girl!—Iowa State Register.

—Several months ago, a man residing on East street, Alleghany, sold his wife to another man residing on the same street for $25. The purchaser paid $5 down and took his purchase home on trial. The woman was perfectly satisfied with her new husband, and made herself so useful that he concluded he would keep her. He, therefore, on yesterday, called upon her former husband and paid over the remaining $20 in the presence of several witnesses. The woman's relatives and all concerned were perfectly satisfied with the whole transaction.—Pittsburg Gazette.

No. 9 Beaver Street, - - - Albany, N. Y.
SURE CURES AND LOW PRICES.

Dr. YOUNG,
SUCCESSOR TO
Dr. TELLER,
DECEASED.

The above named private Hospital was established in Albany in 1855 by Dr. Lispenard and for a number of years his affairs were presided over by that gentleman, but for the past 20 years, Dr. Teller, who is now deceased, transacted the business of the Institution.

Owing to the great demand for more spacious apartments on account of the large increase of business, the Hospital has been removed to No. 9 Beaver Street, two doors above its old location, where patients will find magnificently furnished rooms for their reception, and are so arranged that patients do not come in contact with one another, seeing only the doctor, thereby avoiding the unpleasantness of meeting others, which always occurred at the old office.

LADIES will find rooms provided for their especial accommodation and entirely private.

YOUNG MEN, addicted to secret habits, who have impaired their health and destroyed the vigor of their minds, thus depriving themselves of the pleasures of married life and also those afflicted with private diseases of any nature, are advised that in consulting Dr. Young they will find a physician fully qualified to cure and restore them to full health and manly vigor.

Dr. Teller's great work for the married, or those contemplating marriage—100 pages—full of plates,—price 25 cents. Sent to all parts, under seal, by mail post paid.

TO THE LADIES—DR. YOUNG still retains the only agency in America for the sale of Dr. Vichot's Italian Female Monthly Pills. Sent by mail on receipt of $1.00, price per box.

DR. YOUNG is the only agent for Dr. La Mott's celebrated Gravrate Belts.

Invalids out of the city can be cured by consulting the Doctor by letter, and enclosing remittance. Medicines sent by mail or express, securely packed from observation. All letters must be addressed to

They strike at once at the seat of disease and show their healing power almost immediately. Thousands of voluntary testimonials of their merits have been received by the agent, from those who have been cured by them, of which the following are samples:

Dyspepsia Four Years, Constipation and Inflammation of the Bowels Three Years, Confined to my Room Two Years, Pain so I Could Not Sleep Without Morphine. One Package of Dr. Quain's Condition Pills Made Me Eat Well, Sleep Well and Free from Pain, after being given up by Physicians.

WEST LEBANON, ME., Feb. 23, 1

MR. THOMAS W. LANE:—I have been sick for four years with Dyspepsia, and for the past two years Constipation and Inflammation of the Bowels. I have suffered all the pain I could endure and live. I have been confined to my room for two years, and could not sleep nights without the use of morphine. I have been given up by physicians as past cure. I have taken one package of DR. QUAIN'S CONDITION PILLS, and they have done me more good than all the doctors I have had. I sleep well, I eat well and have no pain. They are all they are recommended to be. Please send me three packages, as two of my neighbors wish to try them. I enclose $1.50.

Your truly, JOHN W. LORD.

Another Letter from Maj. John W. Lord, one month later. Wonderful Cures by Dr. Quain's Pills Effected on Him in Thirteen Days. First time Free from Pain for Three Years.

WEST LEBANON, ME., March 22, 1875

MR. THOMAS W. LANE:—I commenced taking DR. QUAIN'S CONDITION PILLS February 8th, and wrote you February 22d of their wonderful effect. I have continued to improve ever since. My appetite is good, and I sleep as well as I ever did in my life. I am free from pain for the first time in three years. When I was taken sick four years ago, I weighed one hundred and eighty-six pounds; I now weigh one hundred and thirty, but as I gain flesh and strength, I have faith I shall regain my flesh this summer, by the use of the Pills. I shall continue taking them for some time to come.

Yours truly, JOHN W. LORD.

Dr. Quain's Pills the Remedy for Soldiers' Aches and Pains.

WEST LEBANON, ME., June 1, 1875.

MR. THOMAS W. LANE—Dear Sir:—I am now able to walk one mile per day, and am gaining in strength very fast, all of which is due to you as agent for the best Pills in the world. I have taken no other medicine, and my improvement has been steady since first taking DR. QUAIN'S CONDITION PILLS. They have done everything for me, and I will say to you, advertise them direct to the soldiers, for they will certainly cure them of aches and pains caused from exposure and hardships on the field. Please send me by return mail another package.

JOHN W. LORD.

Rheumatism for Twenty Years Cured by One Package of Dr. Quain's Condition Pills—"The Best Medicine in the World."

EAST ANDOVER, N. H., Dec. 10, 1875.

MR. LANE—Dear Sir:—As I know the value of DR. QUAIN'S CONDITION PILLS and the good they have done me, I take pleasure in giving testimony, so I send you another testimonial. My father has been troubled with Rheumatism for twenty years or more, and nothing that he could be thought of, but to no good. At times it would be so bad that he could not lift his hand to his head or do any work at all, especially in cold weather. A short time ago I advised him to get some of these Pills. He believed nothing in them, but I gave him the last package I had of you, as I did not need them, and he has not been so free from the Rheumatic Complaint for years, as Rheumatism, no pain. What helped him? It was DR. QUAIN'S CONDITION PILLS, the best medicine in the world. There is nothing like them. I know of, for I have tried them, and they are all, yes, more than they are recommended to be. Give them a fair trial and you will say so. I write this because I know the goodness of them and wish others to know the same. Some may think I am telling a big story I am. But remember I am not giving them half the praise they ought to have.

Yours with respect, ED. F. PEVARE.

DAINGERFIELD, MORRIS CO., TEXAS, Nov. 15, 75.

MR. THOMAS W. LANE—Dear Sir:—I have been afflicted for near twelve years with Neuralgia in the face and head. I tried I do not know how many physicians, and could only get partly relieved. I also tried many patent medicines with the same result. I have been confined to my room most all the time for eight or ten winters, and have been traveling and visiting medical springs, and I still suffered most intensely. The physicians pronounced my case the worst and most stubborn that they had had anything to do with. One told me I never would get well; they all advised me to go South and spend the winter, and thought that was the only chance for me, and I was trying to get ready to go to Florida, when through the kindness of Rev. H. M. Mathis, my attention was called to the advertisement of Dr. Quain's Magic Condition Pills. I immediately sent to you for a package. I have taken four doses and I am almost free from pain. The Neuralgia here seems to be that if your pills will cure me, they will cure anybody. I have five applications to send for the pills. Enclosed please find three dollars; send five packages to me and one to Mrs. Laura Sherrell, Sulphur Springs, Hopkins county, Texas.

Yours truly, J. S. PATTON.

Liver Complaint, Nervousness, Dropsy and Headache.

LACONIA, N. H., Jan. 29, 1875.

THOS. W. LANE—Sir:—I have been troubled with Bad Blood, Liver Complaint, Nervousness, Dropsy and Headache. I have taken one package of DR. QUAIN'S CONDITION PILLS. They have done me more good than all the medicine I ever took; I have taken considerable medicine within the last five years. For the nerves I think there is nothing so good as those pills. I can recommend them to all who are similarly afflicted, they have done me so much good. I think they will recommend themselves wherever they go. I shall recommend those Pills to all who need them. Please send me two packages more, one for myself and one for a lady friend of mine. Many thanks to the inventor, agent and advertiser of those Pills.

MRS. P. L. ELLIOTT.

PULMOCINE.

BUCHMAN'S PULMOCINE CORDIAL

e no new discovery. Twenty-three years ago it was used by one of New England's most famous physicians as the best Pulmonary Curative he could prescribe, after a dozen years spent in experimenting with it before he was satisfied that the Materia Medica could add nothing in its favor.

Is the ultima thule of Medical Discovery.

Among its many ingredients are Wild Cherry Bark, Squill Root, Liquorice Root, Blood root, &c. It is a Blood Purifier, gently stimulating. It increases expectoration and is diuretic. It is sudorific and alterative. It is a necessary family medicine. It is a Tonic and a powerful aid to the digestive organs. It is a gentle sedative, and relieves nervousness. It is aromatic and agreeable to the taste.

The Pulmocine Cordial is not a quack medicine, is not an experiment, is not composed of any ingredients "discovered" by "walking in pastures" in South America or anywhere else, nor by one who discovered a weed and thereby cured himself. Most of the ingredients are such as our best educated physicians daily use for the complaints specified in some form or other. The recipe is that perfected by one of New England's most learned and famous physicians, who used it entirely in his daily practice until his death. Its offered to the profession and to the public, absolutely pure and unadulterated.

LINCOLN BUTTER POWDER.

Good Fresh Butter All The Year Round.

BUTTER IN 20 MINUTES.

Lincoln Butter Powder is an entirely harmless article made from a celebrated English recipe, and now in daily use by one of the most noted farmers in the butter counties around Philadelphia.

In hot weather this Powder makes butter much firmer and sweeter than it usually is, and keeps it from turning rancid. It also removes the strong flavor of turnips, weeds, corn stalks, cotton seed, etc.; and the increased yield of butter much more than pays the trifling expense of using it.

Dinner on the Plains.

Dinner has just been finished, and the old soldier who cooks for us is washing up the dinner service in a camp kettle. It consists of six tin plates, six tin cups, each holding about a pint, knives, forks, and spoons such as are sold East for a dollar a dozen. The choice viands were bean soup (an unusual luxury), boiled potatoes and boiled ham, with pickles, and coffee without milk, drank from the aforesaid tin cups, which also served for the soup. For bread there was "hard tack," and wine represented by some muddy water taken from the river near by, and cooled in a soldier's canteen. Of this luxurious meal (and I have sat down to a better one with half a dozen mule-packers), there partook some five or six gentlemen, of whom it is sufficient to say that it is a pleasure to associate with them.

But of more Spartan simplicity, and picturesque to a degree, was the noon lunch by the roadside, yesterday. A long march, under a burning sun, across a barren plain, prepared one to appreciate the grateful shade cast by a solitary tree which spread its branches over the fragments of a gigantic boulder beside the road. Grouped in various attitudes upon these a number of officers gathered. Far back the infantry company could be seen like a black patch on the dusty road, and behind it the slowly-toiling wagon train. Forward, and winding out of sight around the spur of a hill, the cavalry could be indistinctly discerned amid a cloud of dust. The officers' horses, held by wild, guerilla looking cavalrymen, nibbled the sparse grass in the neighborhood of the tree, while their masters discussed a meal of "hard tack," bacon and antelope ribs, washed down with cold water.

A gigantic young lieutenant of cavalry stretched his huge limbs on the rock, while he filled his pipe preparatory to taking a smoke, and laughed at the story which a gay infantry officer was telling between mouthfuls; another cavalry officer, who in the East would probably never have been seen in the street without kid gloves, grasped in his left hand an antelope rib, from which he cut off mouthfuls of meat with a hunting-knife, but found time during the process to discuss the effect of the Piedmontese government on the famous pleasure resorts of Italy.

A step or two off sat the tall, soldierly-looking commander of the infantry detachment, a thoughtful cast on his clear-cut features, which might have been caused by the extreme toughness of the piece of antelope which had fallen to his share; leaning against the rock beside him, and quietly smoking a brier-root pipe, stood another infantry officer, his attitude one of languor and his look one of disgust. He had fought Indians until the business had lost its charm, and, after being stationed for years out here, was just starting for Europe on leave of absence, when this war broke out. He immediately threw up his leave, asked to be sent to the front, went there, took part in Gen. Crook's fight, supposed that Gen. Terry would end the business; after that came back and was about to start again when the Custer affair came. That brought him into the field once more; but, though he came voluntarily, he was actually disgusted at his repeated disappointments, and sufficiently amiable toward the Indians to eat Sitting Bull broiled for breakfast.—N. Y. Times Letter.

Crows in India.

A stranger arriving in India is at once introduced to two of the greatest curiosities of the country. As his vessel slowly steams up the Hooghly, and almost before the Custom House office, has come on board, her rigging has been invaded by at least one kite and two or more crows, all busily overhauling the deck, and scanning from aloft every nook and corner thereof with a keen eye to No. 1. Should any uncovered dish be incautiously conveyed from the galley to the saloon, its contents run a very strong chance of being swooped off by a kite, and any droppings of food are as certainly pounced upon by a crow.

Leaving the vessel the new arrival loses sight temporarily of the kites; but on reaching his quarters he is certain to re-encounter the crow, absolutely certain; wherever he subsequently travels there he will find this amusing and omnipresent bird, and from the first he cannot fail to notice and be amused by its audacious antics. On the morning after his arrival let us imagine him seated in the veranda, discussing his first chota hazree (literally "small breakfast," a light and early meal universally taken in India.) No sooner are the viands placed before him than he will see two or three crows alighting on the veranda rails. Ignorant as yet of their tactics he will quietly discuss his buttered toast, and perhaps introduce himself to the birds by throwing them little fragments thereof. Greedily devouring the inch they quietly prepare to take the oil. Something calls him away for a moment, and he returns to find the thieves retreating with his toast or egg, and he sits down highly amused at their impudence.

Perhaps this scene occurs in his room, all the Venetian shutters of which are wide open. As he sits down to his meal he will see a crow sitting on the top of the Venetian and peering sideways and curiously into the room, and should he for a moment leave the table he only returns to find his toast and the crow gone together.

Everything is fish that comes to the nets of those pillagers. They will plunder alike the stall of the bunga (dealer in grains and flour) or the butcher; they will gorge on sweetmeats or pilfer fruit; and eagerly will they tap the toddy pots hanging from the top of the palm; while with still greater gusto they will revel on the white ant when it swarms into the air as a perfect winged insect at the commencement of the rains. They will plunder the nosebags of horses, remain in close attendance on the kitchen, carry off young chickens from the fowl-yard, devour strawberries and tomatoes, await the daily shakings of the tablecloth, or carry off a greasy duster, and, in short, be in constant readiness to carry off anything and everything. They generally get the first pickings of carrion, and are always to be seen in the company of vultures when engaged in their sanitory operations. I have seen a crow deliberately sit on the back of a gorging vulture, and try to pull out of his beak a choice bit of carrion, the vulture being quite at the mercy of his agile tormentor. Frogs, the young of birds (except of their own kind, for "there is honor among thieves,") mice, weak rats, and small and helpless creatures generally, especially the young of the squirrel, are eagerly carried off and devoured.

Though possessed of such a bad character, the crow is universally tolerated as a comic pest, amusing alike to native and European.—Chamber's Journal.

Hayes' Platform in War.

In 1864, when Hayes was in the army, being nominated for Congress he was requested to come home and stump his district. His reply was, "I have other business just now. Any man who would leave the army at this time to electioneer for Congress ought to be scalped!"

Hayes' Platform in Peace.

"Honest money for all, and free schools for all. There should be no inflation which will depreciate the one, nor sectarian interference which will destroy the other."

News and Notes.

The libel suits against the St. Louis Globe-Democrat, by one of the jurymen who convicted McKee, has brought out evidence that not only this juryman, but several others of the same jury, had been drawn and put on the jury for the avowed purpose of convicting Mc Kee. A transcript of this evidence has been forwarded to the Attorney General's office, and this fact has occasioned the current rumors that McKee's pardon is contemplated.

All the employes of the New York & New Jersey Railroad struck on Monday, they having received no pay for four months past, and for the four months previous only notes which have since gone to protest. Many of the men are suffering for the bare necessaries of life, they and their families living on bread and water only.

During a quarrel between Irish laborers at the Rutland, Vt., marble quarries, on the 21st, John Patten shot Barney McCue through the heart. Patten is said to be a quarrelsome bully, while McCue was a peaceable young man. The murderer is in jail.

New Hampshire Items.

Thomas Sliney, an employe of the McMillan House, North Conway, while sawing a limb from a shade tree, fell from the top of the house, sustaining such injuries that he died.

On Monday afternoon, while J. R. Smith, of Exeter, and a gentleman friend were riding in an express wagon at Rye Beach, the horse became unmanageable and threw the parties out, kicking Smith, causing a compound fracture of one leg, and striking his companion in the ribs, breaking several of them and inflicting severe internal injuries.

An unoccupied house in Peterboro' owned by A. S. Scott, was entirely destroyed by fire on Monday morning. Loss about $2500. The fire was incendiary, and one Allen Williams is in custody for the crime.

North Pond, in Chester, the reservoir for several valuable mills, is fast filling up by vegetable growth.

The Farmers and Mechanics' Club of East Lempster, numbering 120 members, have voted to hold a fair Oct. 3.

George Hinkley of Newtoe, was sunstruck last week, while at work in a salt marsh, and remained unconscious until his death on Sunday.

There was a slight frost in the Ashuelot valley, Sunday night.

The mysterious Goffstown assault case of last Spring, in which Mrs. Dodge, wife of a wealthy farmer, was sentenced to eight years' imprisonment for a murderous assault upon an Irish boy, and since pardoned, is reopened the boy's friends bringing a civil suit against Mrs. Dodge for $10,000 damages.

The Wallace Brothers, of Rochester, are erecting an addition to their shoe factory. They manufacture 20,000 cases of shoes annually now, and are not satisfied with that, albeit the times are hard. They have also purchased recently a shoe factory at East Kingston, where the business will be carried on with energy.

Mary Lynch, an unmarried Irish woman 29 years old, and a cripple, is suspected of the murder of the boy Michael Turney, found dead on a sidewalk in Manchester on Saturday. Turney, who was a saucy lad, is supposed to have irritated her beyond endurance with his impudence.

There was a quite a gale on Lake Winnepisaukee, Sunday, and the little steamers "James Bell" and "Lady of the Lake" had a hard time of it and suffered some damage from the heavy sea.

Political.

The country needs a change, but it neither needs nor can stand a change from Grantism to Tildenism. It would be like a change from the talons of the hawk to the beak of the buzzard. Samuel Tilden is not yet known. Being his own lawyer is all that has saved him from sharing the reputation of Jay Gould, a reputation he is certain to enjoy, without any slander, before he gets out of this canvass. He is now defendant in suits similar to to those which have made Gould famous.—Brooklyn Argus (dem.)

One of Tilden's confederates in the St. Louis, Terre Haute & Alton road confesses. Old Mr. Bayard, a very nice old gentleman, has had a touch of conscience, and tells a reporter of the New York Times that Tilden, Sprague & Co. handed him $33,000 as his share of the "divvy" in the swindle. He could not tell why they gave it to him. He is of the opinion that he did not come by it honestly, and holds it with the interest received on it for the benefit of the stockholders.

Gen. Butler made a speech to a very large meeting of voters, at Lawrence, Mass., on the 21st. His opponents say it wasn't much of a speech, anyway; his supporters say it was magnificent.

Lowell has chosen a Rice delegation to the Massachusetts republican State convention.

The attempted union of the Kelly and Morrissey factions of Tammany has fizzled out. The trouble is not that the factions are divided on State or National questions, both lots being enthusiastic for reform a la Sham Tilden; but the reformers of the gambling-hell variety claim one-half the offices of the city and county of New York, while the reformers of the ballot-box-stuffing class claim two-thirds.

The democrats of South Carolina have nominated for Governor, Gen. Wade Hampton. This ex-Confederate soldier, nominated in a secret State convention, has been accustomed to state frankly, since the close of the war, his view of the political situation, and his hopes of the future. He "will never admit," he has said, "that the lost cause failed, or that its principles were wrong." Addressing a southern meeting, he urged his hearers not to employ one "who votes the radical ticket." "We regard," said he, "the reconstruction acts as unconstitutional, but we look for their overthrow." If any utterance of Gen. Wade Hampton has since been made inconsistent with these above, it has failed to find its way to the northern public.

Professor Protoplasm Huxley.

The eminent English scientist, Professor Huxley, made but a short stay in New York. but his arrival was the cause of a conversation between one of our amateur scientists and a matter-of-fact friend, that seems to be worth reporting. The amateur is an enthusiastic admirer of Huxley, and he spoke so extravagantly about him that the friend finally became curious, and asked:

"Who in thunder, is Professor Huxley, anyway?"

"You don't mean to say you have not heard of Professor Huxley, the great scientist?"

"Yes, I do though. Never heard his name before. What has he done?"

"Why, man, Huxley made the important discovery about protoplasm."

"About what?"

"Protoplasm."

"And what the dickens is protoplasm."

"Now, look here, you don't mean to sit there and tell me you don't know what protoplasm is?"

"That's just it. Nary protoplasm."

"Well, protoplasm is what we may call the life principle."

"Anything to do with insurance?"

"Oh, nonsense; the life principle in nature—the starting point of vital action, so to speak."

"He discovered that, did he?"

"Yes, a few years ago, in England."

"And what good is it going to do?"

"Good! A great deal of good. It expands the circle of human knowledge, and is valuable in bearing out the theory of evolution. It is a noble contribution to science, and it has made Huxley one of the few immortal names that were not born to die."

"So Huxley knows all about the life principle, does he?"

"Yes, all about it."

"And the starting point of final action?"

"Exactly."

"Well, see here now, can he take some of that protoplasm and go to work and make a man or a horse or an elephant with it?"

"Oh, no, he couldn't do that."

"Can he take it and make anything at all of it, even a goat or a fly?"

"I guess not."

"Well, then, he may just go to thunder with his protoplasm. I don't believe it's worth ten cents a pound, anyhow. 'Pears to me these scientific fellows put on a big lot of airs about very little. Protoplasm, eh? Shouldn't wonder if Huxley came over here to get up a company to work it. Did you say the mine is in England?"

The scientist gave him up in great despair.

The Turnstile Man.

"What does it cost to see the show?" inquired Mack of a gate keeper who was languidly fanning himself beside his turnstile.

"Fifty cents is the admittance fee."

"Here you are, then," said Mack; "twenty-five and ten are thirty-five, and five makes forty, and another ten makes fifty cents. I guess you'll find the change all right."

"We can't take change; you must give the exact amount," said the man, shoving back the money.

"Seems to me you're mighty particular," growled Mack. "You're the first person in Philadelphia that I ever knew to refuse money, change or no change. Can you tell us," asked Mack, as he fumbled around in his pocket for a bill, "why we are like an express train?"

"I can tell you why you are not like one, and that is because you are so slow. Hurry up, if you want to go through."

"Now that's evading the question," said Mack, as he slowly unfolded a dollar bill. "Give it up. Well, we're like an express because we go through without change. So here's a dollar bill for the two of us."

"Why, you muddle-headed ignoramus, don't you understand that I must have a fifty cent scrip for every one who passes through?"

"Who's an ignoramus?" cried Mack, leaning over the counter and glaring at the turnstile man.

"I want fifty cents," said the man.

"Who's an ignoramus?" shouted Mack, bringing down his fist on the counter like a stroke of the Corliss engine.

"You are!" cried the exasperated man, getting ready to defend himself. "You are, sir: nobody but an igno—"

"Oh, it's all right," said Mack, stepping back and fishing out two fifty cent pieces. "I didn't know which one of us you meant, you know, and it's always best to have these things well understood."

Mack slipped in the money and the turnstile clicked twice as we passed through.

"What's that thing for?" asked Mack of the entrance man, pointing to the turnstile.

"Now you just move on. I want no more chat from you," said the turnstile man, sullenly resuming the use of his fan.

Mack turned to me and whispered, "I'm going to pay off that fellow for his impudence. You see, every time that turnstile turns he has to pay fifty cents. Now I'll go quietly up there and give it a lightning twist and it will whirl around a dozen or so times, and then follows payment of $6 or $7."

"Do you think the police magistrate won't fine you more than that?" I asked.

"I don't mean that," said Mack; "they can never catch me in this crowd. It's the turnstile man who will have the dollars to pay."

I admired the project very much and retired to a safe distance in order not to be in Mack's way when he "lit out"—after whirling the stile. The man didn't appear to be looking, and Mack cautiously but firmly fixed his grasp on the upper bar of the sturdy stile and gave a tremendous jerk; the stile stood like a rock, but that wasn't Mack's style of doing; his hands slipped, and he sat down swiftly but firmly on the hard pavement. There was a painful tableau of a few moments' duration as the turnstile man, with a calm, seraphic smile, gazed on the prostrate form of poor Mack, who stared steadily back at the man of stile.

I helped poor Mack up and we walked in silence to the Main Building, when I ventured to break the solemn stillness by remarking that it would be rough on that fellow to pay the six or seven dollars these hard times. "See here," said Mack, fiercely, "the less you say on that subject the better; and another thing I want you to understand, and that is, you are not to mention this to anybody or write about it in the Free Press." I promised I never would, and torture could not induce me to reveal the circumstances.—Cor. Detroit Free Press.

In the case of Hobbs vs. the Eastern railroad, in Portland on Monday, Judge Virgin announced the decision of the Law Court, which denies the motion for a new trial, and overrules the exceptions. Mrs. Hobbs was injured by a train on the Eastern road, some time ago, so seriously that she died, and her administrator brought suit for damages and received a verdict for $5000. The road filed exceptions. The verdict is sustained by the full bench, and the road must pay.

—Bashful Spooner (on his honeymoon): "Larry, my wife and I have both noticed that the townspeople stare at us very hard. I hope you haven't been telling anybody that we are newly married." Larry (the faithful factotum): "Me tell 'em, Sor? Is it iokely O'ld go agin my express ordhers? Why, whinever anybody thryed to pump me, Sir, O'ive towld 'em you wasn't married at all."

—At a briliant church wedding one of the ushers showed some very worthy but socially obscure people into good seats in the middle aisle. As soon as he discovered it, the pompous sexton hastened to the usher and exclaimed, "Did you give the ——s that seat?" "Yes." "What on earth did you do that for? Did you not know that they were only side-aisle trash?"

—"I don't see how you have been working all day like a horse," exclaimed the wife of a lawyer, her husband having declared that he had been thus working. "Well, my dear," he replied, "I've been drawing a conveyance all day, anyhow."

—A young man named Powers, living in Lucas county, bit himself (says the Burlington Hawkeye) with a rattlesnake last week. The doctor treated the young man by filling him up to the eyes with whiskey. It saved his life, but it made him the worst democrat you ever saw.

Liberate the Impurities of the System.

This can easily be done through the instrumentality of the searching blood depurent and alterative, Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, which incites those scavengers of the body, the kidneys and the bowels, to vigorous action. The first named organ secrete impurities—where such exist—from the blood, which would otherwise poison it, and it is the office of the bowels to carry off the useless portions of the food rejected during the process of digestion, and which if retained interfere with digestion and bilious secretion. Rheumatism and gout, both products of acid elements in the circulation, are remedied by the Bitters, which will likewise be found a prompt though gentle cathartic. Both kidneys and bowels are invigorated, as well as stimulated by this famous medicine, which possesses tonic properties of the highest order.

A Relief.

You are troubled with a bad breath; it annoys your friends and acquaintances, as well as yourself. You would like to get rid of it, but scarcely know what means to adopt. We will tell you. Use the fragrant SOZODONT. It will cleanse and beautify your teeth, and leave your breath pure and sweet.

Accidents happen; keep Spalding's Glue.

Travellers should always be supplied with Adamson's Botanic Cough Balsam. Nothing equals it for coughs and colds. 35 and 75 cents. Large bottles cheapest.

The new Atlas Hotel, Philadelphia, Pa., is situated within 100 yards of the Exhibition Grounds, near the New Pennsylvania Railroad Depot.

We don't know who is to have the agency of the "Delmonico" Range in this place, but we hope soon to be able to tell our readers where they can buy this splendid range.

A SKIN LIKE MONUMENTAL ALABASTER may be attained by using Glenn's Sulphur Soap, which does away with the necessity for Sulphur Baths. Try it, ladies. It is a genuine beautifier, and very economical.

LYON'S KATHAIRON prevents the Hair from falling out or turning gray, renews its growth, and gives strength and vigor. It is delightfully perfumed, and makes a splendid dressing. It is the cheapest and most desirable Hair Tonic ever produced. Used by the elite. Price only 50 cents.

THE POLICE.

We had always supposed that policemen were selected because of peculiar fitness for the position, but when we look at the men appointed by our new city government to guard our lives and property, and to ferret out criminals, we can't help uttering a prayer that the good Lord will shield us from danger during the next year.—Times.

We are gratified beyond measure to find that there is one democrat who puts his trust in the Lord; but how he can hold that trust and still say he "always supposed that policemen were selected because of peculiar fitness for the position" we cannot quite understand,—unless his memory is too short to reach back two years. He would only have had to go back so far to have found out that a "long-tried and efficient" City Marshal, who possessed "peculiar fitness for the position," and all his subordinates, were removed to make room for officers who were appointed because of their active political services; and we say this without any intention of casting a slur upon the old force on account of the reason for their appointment, for the republicans had previously acted in the matter very much as the democrats did then,—and we do not consider that a man who is earnest in politics should be debarred from office on that account, or that a citizen in accepting office yields up any of his civil or political rights. As to the probable efficiency of the new force, we shall be better able to prophesy at the end of the year; they seem to have done well enough so far, judging from the growling we hear of in certain quarters which desire to be "let alone;" and we trust they will do so well "during the next year" that at its end our neighbor will have reason to consider that his fervent prayer has been abundantly answered. A democrat's prayer ought to be answered, anyhow.

THE TEMPERANCE CELEBRATION.

If the programme as arranged is fully carried out,—and we are assured that it will be—this will be a red-letter day for many a boy and girl of this city, besides proving a pleasant and profitable one to numerous children of larger growth. It will combine both a procession and a picnic, and the grand feature will be that the whole procession will consist of decorated carriages. The Kearsarge Fife and Drum Band will furnish music for the day, and the Portsmouth Light Artillery, Capt. Marvin, have volunteered to perform escort duty. Major M. T. Betton will act as chief marshal, with John S. Perry and R. H. Perkins as aids.

The procession will form on Market Square, and start at 10 o'clock, precisely; and will pass through Congress, Islington, Cass, Middle, State, Pleasant and Court streets, and Richards Avenue and South and Sagamore roads to the Sagamore, where exercises will be held in the Davis grove, and the usual picnic amusements indulged in.

The Band of Hope, which will be the prominent feature of the procession, is composed of upwards of four hundred children from six or seven to fourteen years of age, representing nearly all grades of society, although the major portion of them are the offspring of the poorer classes. And we are gratified to chronicle the promised treat for many of these little ones on account of the poverty of their pleasures and the rare enjoyment that will thus be afforded them.

Gen. Neal Dow, of Portland, Rev. James DeNormandie and others will address the assembled multitude. All friends of temperance are invited to join in the festivities of the day either in carriages or at the grove.

In the evening, a grand rally of all the temperance organizations will take place at the Temple, at half-past seven o'clock. Gen. Neal Dow, Rev. James DeNormandie and other good speakers will address the assembly, Mayor Broughton presiding.

To help defray the very considerable expenses of the celebration a fee of ten cents will be taken at the door.

IMPORTANT LAW CASE.

The hearing before Hon. C. W. Stanley, as auditor of the suit of Hitchings & Lynch, late contractors for building the Nashua & Rochester Railroad, will be resumed at the office of the clerk of the U. S. Court in this city this forenoon. The auditor and parties, with their counsel, have made an examination of the premises upon which the work for which extra compensation, outside of the contract, is claimed to have been performed, and to recover the price of which the suit is brought. Hon. Wm. L. Putnam, of Portland, and John S. H. Frink, Esq., are counsel for the plaintiff, and Messrs. G. F. Hoar, E. Rockwood Hoar, A. W. Sawyer and Gen. A. F. Stevens for the defendants.

JOTTINGS.

The Times gives its readers the following advice: "Be in season: If you anticipate that you shall need a dose of pills on Sunday, lay in a stock during the week." No need of it. If you can't get medicine anywhere else on Sunday, you can procure it at Dr. Potter's office, No. 2 Market street, of Mr. Edmund Pitts Philbrick, apothecary. See advertisement in another column.

In accordance with the report of the New Hampshire Bank Commissioners, that the deposits in the Rockingham Ten Cents Savings Bank, amounting to about $460,000, have been reduced about $175,000 by bad investments in the West and elsewhere, and the recommendation of the Commissioners that the bank be placed in charge of a receiver to wind up its affairs, Judge Stanley on Monday appointed Mr. Edward P. Kimball as receiver.

On Sunday forenoon a boy, apparently about twelve years old, almost helplessly drunk, was being assisted down State street toward his home by another youth, who was sober. A short distance below the Methodist church the first mentioned of the two became quite helplessly drunk, fell down and could not be aroused. A well known lady living near by furnished some salt-and-water, which was poured down the drunken boy's throat and acted as an emetic, after which he was assisted to his home by some men, his mother having in the meantime been notified that her son was in trouble, and came out to find affairs in the condition we have related. It was a powerful temperance lecture, but not much of an argument in favor of Sunday traffic.

On Tuesday afternoon a two-horse carriage containing Mr. and Mrs. Frank L. Stackpole, their two children and two sisters of Mrs. Stackpole, was upset while crossing the railroad tracks on Vaughan street, by the wheel catching beside a rail. One of the children was somewhat bruised, and one of the young ladies had an arm broken close to the elbow joint—a very bad break. That the accident did not result more seriously was a source of wonder to those who witnessed it. Dr. Whittier rendered surgical aid.

Mr. Walter Costello, while walking across Market Square Monday evening attempted to light a cigar with a match, when a turpentine-saturated bandage on his hand (which was lame) took fire and burned him very painfully before he could extinguish the flames, which he finally did by smothering them under his coat.

Pay Inspector J. M. Carpenter, of the navy, who was recently sentenced by court martial to dismissal from the service, has had his sentence mitigated by the President to suspension from rank for five years on furlough pay. This Mr. Carpenter is the official who at one time won considerable notoriety about here by bringing suit for damages against a number of the prominent republicans in this city, on the ground that he had been slandered in a request they made for his removal from the position of Purchasing Paymaster at this station, they having urged as reasons for his removal that he was a blatant copperhead and used his official position to advance the interests of the democratic party. Judgment was given for him in the first suit, but an appeal was taken and we have never heard of the case since.

Hon. John A. Kasson, of Iowa, will address the republicans of Kittery this (Wednesday) evening in Trefethen's Hall.

It is said that the youngest son of David L. Magoon, charged with wife poisoning and returned recently to Portsmouth jail by his boudsmen, refused to imperil his property by signing it over to the bondsmen for security.

The editor of Foster's Democrat has gotten himself in a rage over a political squib about Hon. Frank Jones in the Portsmouth Journal, and advises Bro. Brewster "to get up in the might of an independent manhood and drive out" "the unconscionable reprobates who run the republican party around him" and who "get into his sanctum and palm off upon him the most detestable falsehoods and heresies," "if he intends to maintain a respectable standing in the community." Heavings!

Some person or persons on Monday night laid poison food about the lower part of the city quite liberally, five or six dogs and several cats being found dead on Daniel, State and Water streets, Tuesday. Such exposure of poison is an offence under the State law, and punishable by a fine of $50, we believe, on conviction of the guilty person.

Rudolphsen's English Opera Company are to appear at the Temple in the opera of "Son and Stranger," on the 20th of September instead of the 18th as heretofore announced.

EASTERN RAILROAD.

A meeting of the stockholders of the Eastern Railroad, to choose three members of the board of nine which is to have control of affairs under the "new deal," was held in Boston on Monday. A large number of stockholders (for the day, most of them,) went up from this city in a special train, in the morning.

The bondholders held a meeting at the same time and place as the stockholders, and elected six director, viz: A. P. Rockwell of Boston, G. S. Morrison of New York, J. S. Ludlam of Lowell, G. P. King of Boston, G. E. B. Jackson of Portland, G. S. Curtis of Manchester, Mass.

In the stockholders' meeting considerable dissatisfaction was expressed. There were two tickets in the field, one called the "regular" ticket, with the names of Samuel C. Lawrence of Medford, Frank Jones of Portsmouth, and J. W. Johnson of Enfield, the other ticket, called "the stockholders," bearing the names of James W. Johnson of Enfield, George W. Gill of Worcester, and Onslow Stearns of Concord. A ballot was commenced, but while it was in progress Mr. Stillman B. Allen moved an adjournment for thirty days, and a stock vote was called on that question. Thus three ballots were in progress at once, in the same hall, the bondholders voting on the election of their six directors, and the stockholders voting for their three directors and on the motion to adjourn. At quarter past one o'clock the balloting in both meetings closed, and a recess of one hour was taken by the stockholders, Mr. Allen having been allowed to withdraw his motion before the vote on adjournment was completed. The bondholders took no recess, the chairman ruling that they had no legal power to adjourn for any time or purpose whatever until the business of the meeting was completed. The bondholders' meeting was finally dissolved at two o'clock. At a quarter past four the stockholders committee to receive and count votes reported that the meeting had chosen as directors the following named gentlemen: Samuel C. Lawrence, James W. Johnson, Frank Jones. The meeting then adjourned.

NOTICE.

Owing to the enforcement of a City Ordinance against the sale on the Sabbath day of intoxicating liquors, cigars, confectionery and other unnecessary articles, the apothecaries of this city have seen fit to close their stores on that day, thereby rendering it difficult to obtain articles necessary for the sick, with the apparent intention of coercing the public. Therefore, notice is hereby given that on the Sabbath day and necessary articles, other than wines and liquors, may be obtained (day or night) at the office of Dr. F. E. POTTER,

MEDICINES

No. 2 Market Street, up stairs, over Hill's Drug Store. This to continue in force until further notice.

COOKED CORNED BEEF.

Articles are being published calculated to prejudice the public against using Cooked Corned Beef, and we would say in answer to them that in no instance has positive proof been established to show that such is the case.

Our goods are packed in a manner very similar to that of Corn, Tomatoes, Fruit and canned goods generally, (which have long been tested) and we use nothing whatever of a poisonous nature in their preparation.

In addition to our own statement we have the strong endorsement of Prof. Hosford of Cambridge, one of the most eminent Chemists in the country, who has fully tested and is familiar with the entire details of the preparation of our goods.

We would also state that we use none but the choicest of Beef that our Chicago market affords, and trust that with these statements the rapidly growing popularity of our Corned Beef may be increased.

For the information of those not knowing the fact we would state that in the process of canning there is a liability of imperfect sealing, which causes the can to expand. Meat contained in such cans is unfit for use and will be cheerfully paid for when returned to any grocer selling it.

PILOT BREAD.

This kind of bread having come into extensive family use, it has been my purpose to furnish, from choice materials, an article which should meet the approval of the most fastidious as to neatness, looks and taste. Whether I have succeeded in giving to the public a PILOT BREAD,

SUPERIOR IN EXCELLENCE,

the consumer may be the judge; that the quality will not be suffered to depreciate, the past with the present is my best pledge. That I can compete with all the various qualities of Pilot Bread in the market, as to price, I make no pretensions,—but in price, all things being equal, I fear no competition.]

How to Cure a Cold.

Dr. Ferrier, in a recent number of the Lancet, recommends a novel cure, which he has tried with excellent effect in three cases—his own and those of two other persons. The local symptoms of cold in the head—namely, watery eyes, running nose, sneezing and nasal speech—are the chief source of annoyance and discomfort. On a certain evening recently, Dr. Ferrier says: "I began to suffer with the symptoms of cold in the head, irritation of the nostrils, sneezing, watering of the eyes, and commencing flow of the mucous secretion. Having some trisnitrate of bismuth at hand, I took repeated pinches of it in the form of snuff, inhaling it strongly so as to carry it well into the interior of the nostrils. In a short time the tickling in the nostrils and sneezing ceased, and the next morning all traces of coryza had completely disappeared." Dr. Ferrier adds: "The formula which I find on the whole the most suitable combination of the ingredients of the snuff, is as follows: Hydrochlorate of morphia, two grains: acacia powder, two drachms; trisnitrate of bismuth, six drachms. Of this powder one-quarter to one-half may be taken as snuff in the course of the twenty-four hours. The inhalations ought to be commenced as soon as the symptoms of coryza begin to show themselves, and should be used frequently at first, so as to keep the interior of the nostrils constantly well coated. Each time the nostrils are cleared another pinch should be taken. It may be taken in the ordinary manner, from between the thumb and forefinger, but a much more efficacious and less wasteful method is to use a small gutter of paper, or a snuff spoon, placing it just within the nostril and snuffing up forcibly so as to carry it well within."

—An Alabama sheriff took his negro prisoner to jail, went out and became drunk, was arrested and locked up in the same cell with the negro, slept in the same bed with him at night, was tried in the morning, fined ten dollars for drunkenness, and then brought up the negro for his trial as if he himself were a circumspect and staid officer of the law.

—The latest thing in postal cards, is the frankness of a Yankee postmaster, who ran out from his wayside station the other day, flourishing a card, and calling out to a lady as she drove up to meet a lady friend, "You had better read it! She ain't coming!"

SURE CURES AND LOW PRICES.

Dr. YOUNG,
SUCCESSOR TO
Dr. TELLER,
DECEASED.

The above named private Hospital was established in Albany in 1825 by Dr. Lispenard and for a number of years its affairs were presided over by that gentleman, but for the past 20 years, Dr. Teller, who is now deceased, transacted the business of the Institution.

Owing to the great demand for more spacious apartments on account of the large increase of business, the Hospital has been removed to No. 9 Beaver Street, two doors above its old location, where patients will find magnificently furnished rooms for their reception, and are so arranged that patients do not come in contact with one another, relieving the doctor, thereby avoiding the unpleasantness of meeting others, which always occurred at the old office.

LADIES will find rooms provided for their especial accommodation and entirely private.

YOUNG MEN, addicted to solitary habits, who have impaired their health and destroyed the vigor of their minds, thus depriving themselves of the pleasures of married life and also those afflicted with private diseases of any nature, are advised that in consulting Dr. Young they will find a physician fully qualified to cure and restore them to full health and manly vigor.

Dr. Teller's great work for the married, or those contemplating marriage—100 pages—full of plates,—price $5 cents. Sent to all parts, under seal, by mail post paid.

TO THE LADIES—DR. YOUNG still retains the only agency in America for the sale of Dr. Vichois Italian Female Monthly Pills. Sent by mail on receipt of $1.00, price per box.

DR. YOUNG is the only agent for Dr. La Mott's celebrated Galvanic Belts.

Invalids out of the city can be cured by consulting the Doctor by letter, and enclosing remittance. Medicines sent by mail or express, securely packed from observation. All letters must be addressed to

CONDITION PILLS!

The Wonderful Remedy for Liver Complaint, Billiousness, Dyspepsia, Constipation, Neuralgia, Rheumatism, Headache, Kidney Complaint, Nervousness, Scrofula, Piles, and all diseases arising from a bad state of the Blood!

No medicine ever offered to the public has given such universal satisfaction as Dr. Quain's Magic Condition Pills. Their praises are on every tongue where their merits are known. They strike at once at the seat of disease and commence their healing power almost immediately. Thousands of voluntary testimonials of their merits have been received by the agent, from those who have been cured by them, of which the following are samples:

Dyspepsia Four Years, Constipation and Inflammation of the Bowels Three Years, Confined to my Room Two Years, Pain so I Could Not Sleep With out Morphine. One Package of Dr. Quain's Condition Pills Made Me Eat Well, Sleep Well and Free from Pain, after being given up by Physicians.

WEST LEBANON, ME., Feb. 23, 1

MR. THOMAS W. LANE:—I have been sick for four years with Dyspepsia, and for the past three years Constipation and Inflammation of the Bowels. I have suffered all the pain I could endure and live. I have been confined to my room for two years, and could not sleep nights without the use of morphine. I have been given up by physicians as past cure. I have taken one package of DR. QUAIN'S CONDITION PILLS, and they have done me more good than all the doctors I have had. I sleep well, I eat well and have no pain. They are all they are recommended to be. Please send me two packages, as two of my neighbors wish to try them. I enclose $1.50.
Your truly, JOHN W. LORD.

Another Letter from Maj. John W. Lord, one month later. Wonderful Cures by Dr. Quain's Pills Effected on Him in Thirteen Days. First time Free from Pain for Three Years.

WEST LEBANON, ME., March 22, 1875

MR. THOMAS W. LANE:—I commenced taking DR. QUAIN'S CONDITION PILLS February 9th, and wrote you February 23d of their wonderful effect. I have continued to improve ever since. My appetite is good, and I sleep as well as I ever did in my life. I am free from pain for the first time in three years. When I was taken sick four years ago, I weighed one hundred and eighty-six pounds; I now weigh one hundred and thirty, but, as I am gaining in strength, I have faith I shall regain my flesh this summer, by the use of the Pills. I shall continue taking them for some time to come.
Yours truly, JOHN W. LORD.

Dr. Quain's Pills the Remedy for Soldiers' Aches and Pains.

WEST LEBANON, ME., June 1, 1875.

MR. THOMAS W. LANE—Dear Sir:—I am now able to walk out every day, and am gaining in strength very fast, all of which is due to you as agent for the best Pills in the world. I have taken no other medicine, and my improvement has been steady since first taking DR. QUAIN'S CONDITION PILLS. They have done everything for me, and I will say to you, advertise them direct to the soldiers, for they will certainly cure them of the aches and pains, caused from exposure and hardship on the field. Please send me by return mail another package.
JOHN W. LORD.

Rheumatism for Twenty Years Cured by One Package of Dr. Quain's Condition Pills—"The Best Medicine in the World."

EAST ANDOVER, N. H., Dec. 10, 1875.

MR. LANE—Dear Sir:—As I know the value of DR. QUAIN'S CONDITION PILLS and the good they have done me, I take pleasure in giving them praise; so I send you another testimonial. My father has been troubled with Rheumatism for twenty years or more, and has tried everything that could be thought of, but to no purpose. The doctors would say that he could not lift his hand to his head or do any work at all, especially in cold weather. A short time ago I advised him to get some of these Pills. He believed nothing in them, but I gave him the last package I had of you, as I did not need them, and he has not been so free from the Rheumatic Complaint for years. No Rheumatism, no pain. What helped him? It was DR. QUAIN'S CONDITION PILLS, the best medicine in the world. There is nothing like them. I know it, for I have tried them, and they are all, yes, more than they are recommended to be. Give them a fair trial and you will say so. I write this because I know the goodness of them and wish others to know the same. Some may think I am telling a big story I am. But remember I am not giving them half the praise they ought to have.
Yours with respect, ED. F. PEVARE.

DAINGERFIELD, MORRIS CO., TEXAS, Nov. 15, 75.

MR. THOMAS W. LANE—Dear Sir:—I have been afflicted for near twelve years with Neuralgia in the face and head. I tried I do not know how many physicians, and could only get partly relieved. I also tried many patent medicines with the same result. I have been confined to my room most all the time for eight or ten winters, and have been traveling and visiting medical springs, and I still suffered most intensely. The physicians pronounced my case the worst and most stubborn that they had had anything to do with. One told me I could never get well; they all advised me to go South and spend the winter, and one night that was the only chance for me, and I was trying to get ready to go to Florida, when through the kindness of Rev. H. M. Mobley, my attention was called to the advertisement of Dr. Quain's Magic Condition Pills. I immediately sent to you for a package. I have taken four doses and I am almost free from pain. The impression here seems to be that if your pills will cure me, they will cure anybody. I have live applications to send for the pills. Enclosed please find three dollars; send five packages to me and one to Mrs. Laura Sherrell, Sulphur Springs, Hopkins county, Texas.
Yours truly, J. S. PATTON.

Liver Complaint, Nervousness, Dropsy and Headache.

LACONIA, N. H., Jan. 29, 1875.

THOS. W. LANE—Sir:—I have been troubled with Bad Blood, Liver Complaint, Nervousness, Dropsy and Headache. I have taken one package of DR. QUAIN'S CONDITION PILLS. They have done me more good than all the medicine I ever took; I have taken considerable medicine within the last five years. For the nerves I think there is nothing so good as those pills. I can recommend them to all who are similarly afflicted, they have done me so much good. I think they will recommend themselves wherever they go. I shall recommend those Pills to all who need them. Please send two packages more, one for myself and one for a lady friend of mine. Many thanks to the inventor, agent and advertiser of those Pills.
MRS. P. L. ELLIOTT.

PULMOCINE.

BUCHMAN'S PULMOCINE CORDIAL

Is the ultima thule of Medical Discovery.

Among its many ingredients are Wild Cherry Bark, Squill Root, Liquorice Root, Blood root, &c. It is a Blood Purifier, gently stimulating. It increases expectoration and is diuretic. It is sudorific and alterative. It is a necessary family medicine. It is a Tonic and a powerful aid to the digestive organs. It is a gentle sedative, and relieves nervousness. It is aromatic and agreeable to the taste.

CLEAR YOUR THROAT!

Relieve Your Lungs.

For the terrible diseases engendered by the lungs trying climate of New England!

PULMOCINE CORDIAL

Is a speedy and reliable Preventive and Remedy. Every Family should have a bottle at hand to check the sudden growth of all Pulmonary Diseases. For the Asthma, Coughs, Croups, Laryngitis, or Inflammation of the larynx, Diphtheria, and all kindred Throat Diseases at all times prevalent, it is the ounce of Prevention. Children attacked with Whooping Cough or Croup should be immediately cared for These painful attacks come with scarcely a moment's warning, when a physician may be out of immediate reach. A dose of PULMOCINE CORDIAL gives speedy relief, and the little ones are spared hours of pain and agony. As "a stitch in time saves nine," so does the possession of this Family Medicine prevent the spread of disease. Parents seeing their children gasping with pain, friends and relatives beholding each other in peril from suffocation by the choking pain in the throat, paralyzed with fear and not knowing the best course to pursue, are liable to apply the wrong remedial agent! There is no safety in delay, no time to waste in such cases. CONSUMPTION, that fearful scourge of the human race, lies at the door of all this afflicted. BUCHMAN'S PULMOCINE CORDIAL arrests it (unless in its advanced stage at which time there is no local cure) relieves the pressing, suffocating feeling at the lungs, and the patient's danger is past.

For Coughs,

Croup,

Diphtheria,

Asthma, etc.,

Buchman's Pulmocine Cordial.

The Pulmocine Cordial is not a quack medicine, is not an experiment, is not composed of any ingredients "discovered" by "walking in pastures" in South America or anywhere else, nor by one who discovered a weed and thereby cured himself. Most of the ingredients are such as our best educated physicians daily use for the complaints specified in some form or other. The recipe is that perfected by one of New England's most learned and famous physicians, who used it entirely in his daily practice until his death. It is offered to the profession and to the public, absolutely pure and unadulterated.

LINCOLN BUTTER POWDER.

Good Fresh Butter All The Year Round.

BUTTER IN 20 MINUTES.

Lincoln Butter Powder is an entirely harmless article made from a celebrated English recipe, and now in daily use by many of the most noted farmers in the butter counties around Philadelphia.

In hot weather this Powder makes butter much firmer and sweeter than it usually is, and keeps it from turning rancid. It also removes the strong flavor of turnips, weeds, corn stalks, cotton seed, etc.; and the increased yield of butter much more than pays the trifling expense of using it.

GEN. TUTTLE OF IOWA.

Why He Refuses to act longer with the Democratic Party.

Gen. Tuttle, of Iowa, was a democrat before the war, and since the war he has acted with his old party. But, to use his own words, when the rebels took command he could stand it no longer, and in a speech to his neighbors at Des Moines, recently, he gave his reasons in an off-hand talk, a portion of which we reproduce:

Mr. Chairman and Gentlemen of the Hayes and Wheeler Club: When I concluded to change my party, I thought that I might be allowed to do it quietly. It was a private act and required no public announcement, and there was no one to whom I was obliged to account for such an action. But as my course has been so assailed, and I have been called so severely to account, I may as well embrace the opportunity to tell both my democratic and republican friends why I have left the old democracy, and why I am here to-night. The act of my change was a private one, but my reasons for so doing were public ones, and they shall be told. I am no speaker, and make no pretensions to being. But I can talk to you as neighbors. I have been considered doubtful by many democrats for nearly two years. Indeed, I never have been a democrat, if the issues on which they are fighting this year, are the principles of the party. But nearly two years ago the course of duty was developed much more plainly than it ever had been before. When I had seen before that which was wrong, I had continued to hope they were mistakes that would be mended.

REBEL DEMOCRATS.

Nearly two years ago I was in St. Louis. Now there is nothing peculiar in simply having been in St. Louis. But I was there also in 1861. That was just after the first battle of Bull Run, and St. Louis was thoroughly, wildly, insanely rebel. It was worth a man's life then almost to be seen in the Union uniform. A Union officer about the hotels, where congregated the noisiest secession elements, was hooted at and derided, and told with sneers, "Yes, you'll go South, and you will come back, as the Union soldiers have just come back from Bull Run, with your tails tucked." But, as I remember it, none of our troops from Iowa ever came back in that shape. That was the feeling in St. Louis in 1861, and this feeling I found there again, in the same spirit and in the same places, re-expressed by the very same men, when I was there in 1874. It was then I heard the news that the democrats had elected a majority of the National House, and these same fellows who swarmed about the hotels, talking treason and deriding Union soldiers in 1861, were exultant and deliritious with joy this last time. I remarked to a gentleman who had been a comrade with me in the war, "This looks like the same set of fellows who were spouting treason here at the beginning of the late war. What is it that is exciting them so, and what ails them?" We asked a squad of them what it was that made them "feel so good!" I heard one of them say, "We have got them this time; we can beat them this time." We asked who they meant by "them." They replied, "We'll elect the next President; and then we've got them. Then we'll get pay for all our property destroyed in the late war, and then we'll get pay for our lost slaves. We have the House overwhelmingly now, and in 1876, the Centennial year, we can get the Senate and a democratic President. Then we can appoint our committees to suit ourselves, and choose our own Southern Claims Committee or Southern Claims Court, and make good our losses by the war." They meant that they would get pay for all the property destroyed by the Union army, and pay for all their emancipated slaves.

THE EX-REBEL PROGRAMME.

Said one, "Give us possession of the government, and the North will be the rebels next time." This was the talk, and talk in earnest, as was the talk of the same men in 1861. They mean it. They talked it over coolly and seriously. Said they had already an united South, which would be nearly enough, and that their democratic allies in the North dare not deny them the little more, the few more votes, they would need. This is their idea to-day—to gain, by legislation, by means of diplomacy and trickery, what they failed to gain by means of force. I believe it; I know it. All their expressions suggest it and their actions prove it. What else do they mean? Why is it that the State of Missouri has issued to every former owner of slaves in that State a certificate for $1,000 for every slave, payable when the general government will pay it? This very thing, the total amount of the value of the emancipated slaves, is now estimated as part of the State debt of Missouri! I used to think that this was a republican falsehood, the certificate matter. But it is an actual fact, and these certificates, and all certificates or showings of losses sustained throughout the State are being saved up as carefully as money, against the day when the democracy, and the rebel element ruling it in the National Government, shall have obtained to power. If Missouri will do this thing, and hold out this promise to pay for all emancipated slaves, why not all the Southern, all worse rebel States, do it, and will they not do it?

THE CONFEDERATE HOUSE.

When these things came to my knowledge, I could not do less than halt for further developments, watching suspiciously every development made thereafter which I could see had a tendency toward drawing the democracy North and South nearer together, a union which, I could see, would put the old rebel element at the head of and virtually in control of the party. Events have culminated rapidly since then, and I had not long to wait to see the whole programme. The democratic House soon gave me light enough.

For some time I have been ready to answer the question: "Have you left the democratic party?" I have. And I am often asked now; "Is it so?" "Will you vote for Hayes and Wheeler?" It is so; and I will work for them as well as vote for them. My democratic friends ask me for my reasons. There are plenty of them, and all of them can be told in these few remarks. And it is not necessary to tell all. First let me say that my abandonment of democracy was not caused, as has been charged by the press of that party, because of the currency or tariff questions. I have no objection to those planks in the St. Louis platform. But my reasons are, as I have already indicated, and will now state further.

The democrats who press me for my reasons may know them. On the road recently I met an old democratic friend—one of the Van Buren County democrats, whom Dave Sheward, in his screed in the paper recently, said never had any faith in my democracy after I went into the war. Quite excitedly he wanted to know if it was true, the report that I had really left the democratic party. I answered, "It is a fact." He asked the reasons for it. I told him they were quite plenty and sufficient, and as we had plenty of time I would tell him some of them. Something of what I have already stated here was first said, and then I said that the first thing I didn't like in the democratic House was the appointment of Fitzhugh, the Sergeant-at-Arms of the Confederate Congress, as the doorkeeper of the House, and the displacement of Union soldiers—many of them crippled in the war—with the ex-members of the rebel army. He wanted to know if they didn't have a right to do this; I answered that they had, but that I also had a right to disapprove and denounce it. Another thing I didn't like was Ben Hill's rebel speech, and its bold utterances of treason, and I didn't like the rebel yell in response to it, all over the South, for I had heard that yell before, and knew what it meant. They tell me—the democrats—that I am "scared" of Ben Hill. I don't think I am. I don't think I was "scared of" any of the Hills when I met them in the South; I do not remember that I was. Then I told my friend how, worse than all of the mean, bad and unblushing acts of the democratic House, I esteemed as infamous the act of appointing to the clerkship of the leading committee of the House, the man Hambleton, who named his son John Wilkes Booth, after the assassin of President Lincoln. This outrageous act, in truckling to the rebel element, the Northern democrats dare not disown, and for all I know this man is still the clerk of that committee. The little child so dishonored by his name and the significance of it, had the good sense to die.

That speech of Ben Hill's, and the record that the democratic party has made in regard to it, would have been enough to send any man who cares for his country out of all fellowship with it and the party in whose name and by one of its leading members it was made. Hill in that speech defended Andersonville and the atrocious treatment of Union prisoners in the Southern prison hells. Could I endorse that and still remember my own comrades who suffered in them more than death and hell? Can any party succeed who even tacitly endorses sentiments like these?

Why, old Jake Thompson, encouraged by the defiance of Ben Hill in his speech, went down to Washington a few months ago and like a braggart demanded investigation, pompously saying that he would waive the legal point of time. He went down there blowing, and got sued—for the money he stole for the rebels. If old Floyd were alive, he, too, probably, would go down there under the protection of the rebel shadow of Ben Hill, and demand investigation. But, like the child covered with the curse of the crime against Abraham Lincoln, he also had the good sense to die. He was at Fort Donaldson with the other "Constitution-huggers," but he skipped out early so as to be safe. If he had stood his ground like a brave man, he would probably have had the good fortune to die earlier. But he lit out. He could steal for the confederacy, but he wasn't willing to die for it. It is his fault, gentlemen, and not mine, that his memory is not to be spoken of with more respect. This Thompson and this Floyd were the last of the democratic rulers, and they represented the domination of the South in the democracy then. And Thompson and his friends, and the friends of Floyd, are again pressing to the front to assume entire control of the democratic party. As they have come as leaders, I have asked and taken privilege of leaving the democratic ranks. This, fellow citizens, is why I am here to-night.

* * * * * * *

GOOD-BYE, DEMOCRACY.

And now, in conclusion, as to the reason why I have not left the democratic party sooner. They say that I want office, and that I have wanted office. If I had, gentlemen, I would have left the democratic party long ago, for it is a matter of record that I have said for years that there was never any hope of the democrats carrying Iowa. If I had been an office-seeker I should have left the old party long ago. I am not a candidate for office, and never will be. I have no aspirations for prominence in politics, and I do not see why, when as a private citizen I have tried to change my party quietly, all this abuse should be heaped upon me. I can stand it though, and it in no wise changes my convictions as to my duty, only to intensify my duty, only to intensify and confirm it.

I feel in earnest now, as I did during the war. I have no retreat to make. The reason that I have left the democratic party is that I have no faith in it, and no faith in the old rebel element whom I have so long feared would come to the front, and whom I now know and see have come, and whose coming have made my way clear, and my course of duty plain. Seeing these men again at the head of the party, and seeing the defiance of the men who last held office in the National Government under the democratic party, makes things plain enough. Among the last democratic officers of any note were Floyd and Jake Thompson, the democratic Secretary of War, and Secretary of the Interior. They stole from the government they were sworn to serve, to help the rebellion raised to destroy it, and beside their crimes and their corruptions all that is charged against the republican officials, admit it all to be true even, sinks into in significance.

Hayes' Platform in War.

In 1864, when Hayes was in the army, being nominated for Congress he was requested to come home and stump his district. His reply was, "I have other business just now. Any man who would leave the army at this time to electioneer for Congress ought to be scalped!"

Hayes' Platform in Peace.

"Honest money for all, and free schools for all. There should be no inflation which will depreciate the one, nor sectarian interference which will destroy the other."

Correspondence.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Aug. 22.

No move of the Executive since the assembling of Congress has created so much consternation among the leaders of the democracy as the action of Secretary Cameron, instructing General Sherman to so dispose of all available troops, not engaged in the Indian war, as to be able to promptly respond to any requisition made by the proper authorities for military aid in securing a fair election in the late seceded States; and no member of the democratic party is the subject of more hearty Ku-Klux anathemas than Scott Lord. The temper of the leaders has become irritable because of the Senate's obstinate and successful resistance to that part of the rebel democratic programme repealing (through the appropriation bills) the election laws, which were so many obstacles to a repetition throughout the South of the tactics observed by the democracy in the last Mississippi election. The steadfastness of the Senate defeated this revolutionary scheme, and while its instigators were still smarting from the sting of this signal defeat, Mr. Lord, prompted by his manhood and Christianity, moved a resolution which virtually admitted the truth of the conclusions of the Mississippi committee (Mr. Boutwell's) and which put the party on record against the frauds, intimidations, rapine and murders that the Southern democracy have habitually resorted to in carrying the elections in that section since the war. To say that democratic Representatives were dismayed by the introduction of such a heterodox production—an engine of party destruction and death—is putting it at its very mildest; and they fought its adoption with a desperation seldom equalled, and sullenly yielded after a hand-to-hand conflict of an hour's duration, to a dire necessity; because to further persist would give the lie to all their protestations of abhorrence for their Ku-Klux constituencies, and their professions of acquiescence in the results of the war, including the 14th and 15th amendments to the Constitution. The recent order of the Secretary of War is one of the bitterest sequences of Mr. Lord's indiscretion. That he—a democrat—should have consented to force this black republican draught down their throats is doubly exasperating, and he need look for no quarter.

One of the good results growing out of the general discussions provoked by the introduction of the silver bill from the committee on mines and mining, was the designation of a commission to look into the gold, silver and greenback question and report their conclusions at the next session of Congress. The Bland bill itself failed because of the determined spirit of the opposition in preventing it from coming to a vote. After the passage of the last appropriation bill, every other consideration was made to yield to the universal desire for immediate adjournment.

The scenes in the House during an all-night session, preceding the day of adjournment, were of the most tempestuous and turbulent character. The democrats, appreciating the weakness of their reform candidate for Presidential honors as well as the party supporting him, relative to war record, the currency, reform, economy, patriotism, honesty, morality, etc., and still smarting from the exposures the republican minority had subjected them to upon all these points during the previous ten days, were determined to allow no opportunity for a further ventilation in those directions. But the best laid plans of mice and men—even democrats—often fail; and Mr. Kasson obtaining the floor showed Mr. Tilden up in such a damaging light—as a peace-at-any-price democrat; as a railroad attorney; as a currency reformer, particularly in Michigan; as the confidential adviser of Tweed and his thieving, ruffianly adherents in New York city,—that the democracy, under the lead of the champion crow-eater and Ku-Klux-apologizer, Cox, attempted after the manner of other mobs to silence arguments and statements that could not be successfully refuted, by brute force; and Cox by his insulting language and manners made himself liable to expulsion, but avoided that disgrace by an apology. The party was quite as severely handled in the Senate, when it was conclusively proven that with an expenditure of more than a million dollars, squandered upon investigations without the conviction of a single official of maladministration, (save one democrat, and only morally in his case,) and without the prospect of saving one cent by all this outlay, eight months had been utterly wasted, which had cost many additional millions.

One count in the indictment was especially significant and suggestive of the financial ruin prepared for the country in case of democratic success in November. Some time after the war, the Government came in possession of the rebel archives. The evidence they have furnished has already saved the Government many millions by showing the treasonable character of the claimants or the illegal character of the claims in other directions. $6000 was asked to continue the work of investigation, and was peremptorily refused. The southern war claims already before Congress and in the departments, amount to hundreds of millions of dollars; and it is reasonable to suppose that they constitute but a small fraction of those awaiting democratic supremacy, when they will be vigorously pushed for adjustment; and with every department of the Government in the control of the south, (as it was during Buchanan's administration, when the country was robbed and despoiled in every direction in the interests of the rebellion,) what could stay the avaricious greed of the hordes who have been sedulously educated to the belief that if the entire wealth of the North and West were to be apportioned to them, they would only come into possession of their own, taken from them through emancipation and the other casualties of the late war. There was an award of the Court of Claims of about two millions, which the House also refused to provide for, thus deliberately repudiating an obligation of the Government.

The President's message, accompanying the river and harbor bill with his signature, in which he assures Congress that no part of the appropriations contemplated by it will be expended, except on works of National importance, has secured him the gratitude of the tax-payers and the lasting enmity of Congressmen who hoped through the influences of its bequests in their districts, to secure a re-election. MAXWELL.

News and Notes.

A dispatch from Port Richmond, Pa., states that two miners, James Martin and Peter McCaffrey, were attacked by a crowd of Molly Maguires on the 21st, and beaten with bludgeons, stabbed with knives and treated to a shower of bullets. McCaffrey was killed outright by a pistol shot, and Martin was so terribly injured that he died in a short time.

Ship Puritan, before reported wrecked on the passage from Liverpool for Calcutta, was in charge of a pilot three days before striking on Sangor Sands. The crew were compelled to abandon the ship without saving anything, the ship being entirely out of sight in the quicksands ten hours after striking.

Important Servian successes are reported. Russia is said to be helping Servia in the war against Turkey. The stories of Turkish atrocities in Bulgaria are fully confirmed.

Nations which find it necessary to fill penal colonies with political convicts must not insist upon the sympathy and help of other countries in the task of guarding them. If it was a legitimate employment of English capital for English ship-owners to make a regular trade of running the blockade with supplies to the Confederates during our civil war, it certainly is fair enough for New Bedford whalers, if they are paid for the business, to stand off and on twenty or thirty miles from the coast of West Australia and pick up political prisoners who may swim or row out to them, as John Boyle O'Reilly did formerly, and as Wilson and his companions have now done.—World.

John Fean has been found guilty by a coroner's jury, of having caused the death of Daniel McCarthy, in Boston, by cutting his throat with some sharp instrument; his wife, Bridget Ellen Fean, is charged with being an accessory before the act.

The House of Representatives not being in session, President Grant has issued an executive announcement to the people of the United States, of the death of the late Speaker Kerr.

The coal producers' combination is said to have bursted up, and a rivalry is to take place which will bring down the price of coal.

Capt. Jarvis R. Nickerson has put up, at his expense, a first-class fog whistle near West Chop Light, Martha's Vineyard. It will be blown in two blasts of thirty seconds each, an interval of three minutes occurring.

Why Not?

Why don't our democratic friends say something against Gov. Hayes? It is useless for them to set up the plea that they don't believe in personal warfare, for that is their chief capital. They have abused "old Grant," slandered "Jim Blaine," and poured out calumny without stint upon prominent republicans generally. It is clear that the democracy do not refrain from assaulting Mr. Hayes because of any delicate sense of high-toned journalism. Was such a spectacle ever presented before? Here is a man who has pursued the legal profession for many years, who served a long period in the war, who has been a member of Congress, twice a successful candidate for the gubernatorial chair of a very large State, and has been now two full months before the country as a candidate for the Presidency, and yet the democracy have failed to make an attack upon him! What is the matter, friends? Can't you show him up as "railroad wrecker," a "dealer in the queer," a faithless trustee, a milltary swindler, a gunboat general, a whiskey bloat or a bloated bond holder, a corrupt political log-roller or something of that sort? If you can we want to know it. It is incumbent upon you to make an effort at all events. We have repeatedly quoted the unimpeachable record against your candidates, and have not only shown them to be very far from representatives of reform, but in fact very proper subjects for reformation. We have handled them fairly but without gloves. Thus far you have neither "shown up" Hayes nor Wheeler; neither have you made any respectable defence of Tilden and Hendricks. Do you mean to acknowledge that our candidates are above reproach, and yours beneath defence? Come, now, brethren, the meeting is free; don't stand around like the boy who "hadn't got nothin' to say;" speak out. Let us hear what you have to allege against Hayes and Wheeler.—Biddeford Star.

A Lesson Taught by Experience.

Among the many valuable lessons taught by experience, there is not one of greater moment to the invalid portion of the community than the following, viz: That alterative treatment is only permanently successful when aided by invigoration. When the functions of the body are disordered, the use of a general tonic with which corrective properties are combined is the speediest means of regulating them. Such a tonic is Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, the most popular, as it is the best article of its class. For more than twenty-five years it has been used with signal success as a remedy for, and preventive of malarial fevers, as a means of imparting strength to the debilitated, and as a curative of dyspepsia, biliousness, constipation, kidney troubles and uterine weakness. Not only have multitudes of those whom it has cured borne testimony in its behalf, but it has been repeatedly commended by the medical profession and the press.

The No. 8 "Delmonico" Range, with reservoir and closet, weighs 525 lbs. Other ranges, made principally to look at, weigh from 100 to 150 lbs. less, and, strange to relate, cost nearly as much. It is wise economy to buy a "Delmonico" Range.

FOR THIS EVENING.

The steamer Appledore is to make a special return trip from the Shoals this evening at 10 o'clock, for the accommodation of parties here who desire to attend the superb concert to be given in Appledore Hall by the Artistes' Quartette of Boston, this evening. The fare is $1 for the round trip, including admission to the entertainment, which will be a splendid one, guaranteed in such well known talent as Mrs. Flora E. Barry, Miss Julia A. Wells, Mrs. O. T. Kimball, Mrs. G. H. Oakes and Mr. J. P. Weston. Capt. Robinson will be in charge of the steamer's party. On the following evening the company give a concert at the Sea View, a hop closing the entertainment. We copy the following in relation to a concert given by the quartette in Boston, from one of our cotemporaries:

"The quartette of female voices recently formed, under the name of the "Artistes' Quartette," which will compete in the concert field next season, is one of the later organizations, but it is surely not one of the least. It is composed of Mrs. Kimball, who has the reputation of possessing a remarkably pure and high soprano, and executing easily and smoothly; Mrs. G. H. Oakes, a mezzo-soprano, with a voice of good compass and quality and an excellent style; Mrs. Flora E. Barry, one of our most accomplished and famous singers; and Miss Wells, who is declared to have a "phenomenally low" voice and to enunciate, even in the lowest part of her compass, with entire distinctness. The new club has been heard by a number of critical persons already, in parlor concerts, and has received high praise for the very perfect blending of tone produced, and for the general finish of their style of giving concerted music, as well as for the superior beauty of the individual voices."

THE BAND OF HOPE

Procession and picnic came off on Wednesday, according to programme. The day was all that could be desired, the temperature being just about right, though the sun shone brightly and the sky was almost cloudless. The procession moved very nearly on the advertised time—ten o'clock—in the following order:

Chief Marshal, Lieut. Col. M. T. Betton; Messrs. John S. Perry and R. H. Perkins, aids.

Kearsarge Fife and Drum Band, A. Kay, director.

Portsmouth Light Artillery, Capt. Marvin, with side-arms.

Portsmouth Band of Hope, in fifteen carriages decorated with evergreen. Each carriage bore a banner, among the inscriptions on which we noticed: "We are enlisted for life;" "The grog men think that we are weak;" on the banner of a carriage containing very small boys, "We are little; but you cannot always tell how the toad will jump;" and on the banner of a carriage filled with little girls, "Tee-total or no husband"—which some people thought was "takin' a long look down the dim vister of the futur."

Car with "The old oaken bucket"—a well with the old-fashioned sweep; banner with the inscription, "Ale, Beer, Cider, the A B C of Intemperance."

Landau with Rev. James DeNormandie, the Chaplain; Rev. C. N. Dinsmore, for-of the M. E. Church in this city; His Honor Mayor Broughton; Ex-Mayor Frank W. Miller.

Old Washingtonians of 1840, in decorated carriage drawn by two horses.

Portsmouth Reform Club; two four-horse teams, the second one drawing the "Car of Jug-or-not," bearing an immense demi-john bottom-up, on a stick.

Women's Temperance League, represented by a carriage drawn by two horses and filled with members of the League.

Dover Reform Club, represented by two large carriages crowded with people—the "Redbird," with four horses, and the "Bayview," with three horses.

As the procession started up Congress street, a brewery wagon with several kegs and barrels of beer on board fell in at the end of the line. This feature of the celebration was not mentioned in the programme, but served very well as a "frightful example." The driver took the earliest opportunity to turn out.

The children seemed to greatly enjoy their ride about the city, singing "Hold the fort," "We'll drink no more," and similar songs, and waving their handkerchiefs at crowds on church steps, dwelling house balconies and hotel piazzas, with generous impartiality.

The display was really a fine one, and the delighted countenances of so many children would have stamped the occasion a success, had all the accessories of evergreen, banners, flags and mottoes been wanting. The "Jug-or-not" and "Old oaken bucket" devices were especially happy and appropriate. The Fife and Drum Band gave as good music as usual, which is all that need be said of that excellent muscial organization. The Light Artillery made a very handsome appearance, and exhibited marked and commendable improvement in marching and drill. The procession traversed the route about the city, as previously announced, and then went for the Davis grove at Sagamore, where the picnic came off, the Light Artillery leaving the line at the edge of the city and returning to their armory.

The assembly at the grove was immense, large numbers of people going down in teams or boats, and on foot. The children enjoyed themselves greatly in various games, and the older persons were treated to some excellent, brief speeches. The picnicing was brought to a close at an hour early enough to allow the teams carrying the children to reach the city before five and six o'clock, the young folks cheering vigorously and pretty continuously from the time the procession reached the first houses until it dismissed on Daniel street.

The Temple was crowded in the evening, Mayor Broughton presiding. Gen. Neal Dow, of Maine, Rev. James DeNormandie and others made stirring and earnest speeches, and the evening meeting was a fitting wind-up to the most extensive and successful temperance celebration this city has seen for many years.

JOTTINGS.

Damon Lodge, No. 9, Knights of Pythias, have voted to go to Dover on the 9th of September, to attend the celebration to be held there on that day by the order. They will be accompanied by the Kearsarge Fife and Drum Band.

The upper can buoy, in the river opposite the beacon, was dragged a long distance out of position, on Wednesday, by a passing schooner. Mariners will please take notice.

The dials and hands of the South clock will be taken down to-day to be painted and gilded. Meantime the clock will strike, as usual.

The School Committee, at their meeting on Wednesday evening, elected Albert R. Hatch, James R. May and Charles A. Shannon High School Committee.

The Treasurer of the S. P. C. A. acknowledges the receipt of sixty-three dollars, being the profits of the private theatricals recently given by several young ladies and gentlemen; to all of whom, as well as to Miss Morgan for the use of her house, the thanks of the Society are most cordially tendered. PER ORDER.

Political.

An important meeting of the republican State committee was held in Union Hall, Concord, on the 22d. There was a large representation of the prominent men of the party present. Col. Daniel Hall resigned the position of chairman of the State committee, and a sub-committee was appointed to take the question of chairmanship into consideration, to report at the next meeting. It was voted that the five Councillor conventions for the nomination of the Presidential electors be holden at Concord on the same day, to be followed by a grand mass convention, the time to be fixed by the executive officers of the committee. The convention and mass meeting will probably be called the week following the democratic State convention, and will be addressed by prominent speakers from abroad. The question of the Constitutional convention was then discussed at length by several gentlemen, all favoring making it non-partisan. Speeches on the political situation were made by Messrs. N. G. Ordway, Levi W. Barton, W. E. Chandler, E. H. Rollins and E. G. Pierce.

Messrs. Blaine and Kasson spoke at Saco on the evening of the 22d, and there was a torch-light procession.

Ex-Secretary Bristow delivered a masterly speech at Burlington, Vt., on the 22d. While heartily supporting the republican party and candidates, his speech was free from partisan bitterness and denunciation; it was a close, convincing argument throughout. An immense audience greeted Gen. Bristow; and after the meeting a procession in which were over two thousand torches and many transparencies, marched about the streets.

The republican nominations for Congress in Maine are now complete. They are: First district, Thomas B. Reed; second, William P. Frye; third, Edwin Flye, (vacancy,) Stephen D. Lindsey; fourth, Llewellyn Powers; fifth, Eugene Hale.

The Lowell ward caucuses for choosing delegates to the republican Congressional convention for the seventh district of Massachusettetts, were held on the evening of the 22d, and a solid Butler delegation was chosen.

The republican State convention of New York met at Saratoga on the 23d. Mr. Cornell withdrew his name as a candidate for the gubernatorial nomination, leaving the contest apparently between Gov. Morgan and Mr. Evarts, with the chances in favor of the former.

The Texas democracy have refused to renominate John Hancock for Congress. Mr. Hancock's offences are that he was a Union man during the war, and that he doesn't believe in soft-money. These objections, and these alone, were openly urged against him in the nominating convention. In his place D. C. Giddings, a bitter Confederate democrat, was selected.

The democratic organs are printing a letter, picked up in Indianapolis, and purporting to be from General Kilpatrick to Governor Hayes, telling him that there is but one way to save Indiana to the republicans: a bloody-shirt campaign, with money; a financial campaign and no money will bring defeat. The "letter" of course is a fraud.

Gen. Kueffner, of St. Clair county, Ill., who, like many other Germans, was a liberal four years ago, is now a zealous supporter of Hayes and Wheeler, and predicts a decided majority in the county in November next for the republican State and National tickets.

COOKED CORNED BEEF.

Articles are being published calculated to prejudice the public against using Cooked Corned Beef, and we would say in answer to them that in no instance has positive proof been established to show that such is the case.

Our goods are packed in a manner very similar to that of Corn, Tomatoes, Fruit and canned goods generally, (which have long been tested) and we use nothing whatever of a poisonous nature in their preparation.

In addition to our own statement we have the strong endorsement of Prof. Hosford of Cambridge, one of the most eminent Chemists in the country, who has fully tested and is familiar with the entire details of the preparation of our goods.

We would also state that we use none but the choicest of Beef that our Chicago market affords, and trust that with these statements the rapidly growing popularity of our Corned Beef may be increased.

For the information of those not knowing the fact we would state that in the process of canning there is a liability of imperfect sealing, which causes the can to expand. Meat contained in such cans is unfit for use and will be cheerfully paid for when returned to any grocer selling it.

Daily Chronicle.

Our Common Humanity.

It is the same here as in Cairo or New Jersey. The other day when a Tarbeel, with sunken eyes and high cheek-bones, sat down on the steps of a grocery beside several others, he sighed heavily, and asked:

"Gentlemen, if any of you found a five on the sidewalk would you hunt for the owner?"

"I would," came from each individual with promptness and dispatch.

"Haven't any of you lost a five, have you?" anxiously continued the man.

"I have," answered one, and the echo went all along the line.

"Describe her, gentlemen," he remarked.

One said his had a figure "5" on it. Another said his had a picture of De Soto discovering the Mississippi river. A third said the words United States were plain to be seen on the bill that fell out of his vest pocket.

"Gentlemen, this five don't tally," mournfully remarked the Tarheel. "None of you have hit the description within a mile and a sandbar."

"Let's see it," asked two or three at the same time.

"It's a five and I found it on the sidewalk," he whispered, holding out his hand.

The five was a nickel. Some of the crowd leaned back and held their hands on their outraged hearts, while others rose up, carefully brushed their coat tails and said it was time to go home. Only one of the victims seemed to appreciate the situation. He chuckled and gurgled and gasped, and asked the stranger what he would take.

"Whisky straight," was the prompt reply.

"So would I if I ever drank," said the citizen, and he lounged down town to get up a bet on the weather.

—A Detroiter who didn't know exactly how to get a letter registered sent some money away the other day and wrote on the envelope: "Registered with a two-dollar bill inside." Fearing that this might not be strong enough, one of his friends wrote: "I'll swear that I saw Jim put two dollars in this."

—A professor was expostulating with a student for his idleness, when the latter said, "It's of no use; I was cut out for a loafer." "Well," declared the professor, surveying the student critically, "whoever cut you understood his business."

THE OLDEST ESTABLISHED HOSPITAL
— IN THE —
UNITED STATES.
No. 9 Beaver Street, - - - Albany, N. Y.
SURE CURES AND LOW PRICES.

Dr. YOUNG,
SUCCESSOR TO
Dr. TELLER,
DECEASED.

The above named private Hospital was established in Albany in 1835 by Dr. Lispenard and for a number of years its affairs were presided over by that gentleman, but for the past 20 years, Dr. Teller, who is now deceased, transacted the business of the institution.

Owing to the great demand for more spacious apartments on account of the large increase of business, the Hospital has been removed to No. 9 Beaver Street, two doors above its old location, where patients will find magnificently furnished rooms for their reception, and are so arranged that patients do not come in contact with one another, seeing only the doctor, thereby avoiding the unpleasantness of meeting others, which always occurred at the old office.

LADIES will find rooms provided for their especial accommodation and entirely private.

YOUNG MEN, addicted to secret habits, who have impaired their health and destroyed the vigor of their minds, thus depriving themselves of the pleasures of married life and also those afflicted with private diseases of any nature, are advised that in consulting Dr. Young they will find a physician fully qualified to cure and restore them to full health and manly vigor.

Dr. Teller's great work for the married, or those contemplating marriage—160 pages—full of plates,—price 25 cents. Sent to all parts, under seal, by mail post paid.

TO THE LADIES—DR. YOUNG still retains the only agency in America for the sale of Dr. Vichol's Italian Female Monthly Pills. Sent by mail on receipt of $1.00, price per box.

DR. YOUNG is the only agent for Dr. La Mott's celebrated Galvanic Belts.

Invalids out of the city can be cured by consulting the Doctor by letter, and enclosing remittance. Medicines sent by mail or express, securely packed from observation. All letters must be addressed to DR. S. Y. R. YOUNG, 9 Beaver St., Albany, N. Y.

MAGIC
CONDITION PILLS!
The Wonderful Remedy for Liver Complaint, Biliousness, Dyspepsia, Constipation, Neuralgia, Rheumatism, Headache, Kidney Complaint, Nervousness, Scrofula, Piles, and all diseases arising from a bad state of the Blood!

No medicine ever offered to the public has given such universal satisfaction as Dr. Quain's Magic Condition Pills. Their praises are on every tongue where their merits are known. They strike at once at the seat of disease and show their healing power almost immediately. Thousands of voluntary testimonials of their merits have been received by the agent, from those who have been cured by them, of which the following are samples:

Dyspepsia Four Years, Constipation and Inflammation of the Bowels Three Years, Confined to my Room Two Years, Pain so I Could Not Sleep Without Morphine. One Package of Dr. Quain's Condition Pills Made Me Eat Well, Sleep Well and Free from Pain, after being given up by Physicians.

WEST LEBANON, ME., Feb. 23, 1

MR. THOMAS W. LANE:—I have been sick for four years with Dyspepsia, and for the past three years Constipation and Inflammation of the Bowels. I have suffered all the pain I could endure and live. I have been confined to my room for two years, and could not sleep nights without the use of morphine. I have been given up by physicians as past cure. I have taken one package of DR. QUAIN'S CONDITION PILLS, and they have done me more good than all the doctors I have had. I sleep well, I eat well and have no pain. They are all they are recommended to be. Please send me three packages, as two of my neighbors wish to try them. I enclose $1.50.
Your truly. JOHN W. LORD.

Another Letter from Maj. John W. Lord, one month later. Wonderful Cures by Dr. Quain's Pills Effected on Him in Thirteen Days. First time Free from Pain for Three Years.

WEST LEBANON, ME., March 22, 1875

MR. THOMAS W. LANE:—I commenced taking DR. QUAIN'S CONDITION PILLS February 6th, and write you February 22d of their wonderful effect. I have continued to improve ever since. My appetite is good, and I sleep as well as I ever did in my life. I am free from pain for the first time in three years. When I was taken sick four years ago, I weighed one hundred and eighty-six pounds; I now weigh one hundred and thirty, but, as I am gaining in strength, I look for flesh. I shall regain my flesh this summer, by the use of the Pills. I shall continue taking them for some time to come.
Yours truly, JOHN W. LORD.

Dr. Quain's Pills the Remedy for Soldiers' Aches and Pains.

WEST LEBANON, ME., June 1, 1875.

MR. THOMAS W. LANE—Dear Sir:—I am now able to walk out every day, and am gaining in strength very fast, all of which is due to you as agent for the best Pills in the world. I have taken no other medicine, and my improvement has been steady since first taking Dr. QUAIN'S CONDITION PILLS. They have done everything for me, and I will say to you, advertise them direct to the soldiers, for they will certainly cure them of pain and relief from exposure and hardship on the field. Please send me by return mail another package.
JOHN W. LORD.

Rheumatism for Twenty Years Cured by One Package of Dr. Quain's Condition Pills—"The Best Medicine in the World."

EAST ANDOVER, N. H., Dec. 10, 1875.

MR. LANE—Dear Sir:—As I know the value of DR. QUAIN'S CONDITION PILLS and the good they have done me, I take pleasure in giving them praise; so I send you another testimonial. My father has been troubled with Rheumatism for twenty years or more, and has tried everything that could be thought of, but to no good. At times it would be so bad he could not lift his hand to his head, or do any work at all, especially in cold weather. A short time ago I advised him to get some of these Pills. He believed nothing in them, but I gave him the last package I had of you, as I did not need them, and he has not been as free from the Rheumatic Complaint for years. No Rheumatism, no pain. What helped him? It was DR. QUAIN'S CONDITION PILLS, the best medicine in the world. There is nothing like them. I know it, for I have tried them, and they are all, yes, more than they are recommended to be. Give them a fair trial and you will say so. I write this because I know the goodness of them and wish others to know the same. Some may think I am telling a big story. I am. But remember I am not giving them the praise they ought to have.
Yours with respect, ED. F. PEVARE.

DAINGERFIELD, MORRIS CO., TEXAS, Nov. 15, '75.

MR. THOMAS W. LANE—Dear Sir:—I have been afflicted for near twelve years with Neuralgia in the face and head. I tried I do not know how many physicians, and could only get partly relieved. I also tried many patent medicines with the same result. I have been confined to my room most all the time for eight or ten winters, and have been traveling and visiting medical springs, and I still suffered most intensely. The physicians pronounced my case the worst and most stubborn that they had had anything to do with. One told me I could never get well; they all advised me to go South and spend the winter, and that was the only chance for me, and I was trying to get ready to go to Florida, when through the kindness of Rev. H. M. Mathis, my attention was called to the advertisement of Dr. Quain's Magic Condition Pills. I immediately sent to you for a package. I have taken four doses and I am almost free from pain. The impression here seems to be that if your pills will cure me, they will cure anybody. I have been applications to send for the pills. Enclosed please find three dollars; send five packages to me and one to Mrs. Laura Sherrell, Sulphur Springs, Hopkins county, Texas.
Yours truly, J. S. PATTON.

Liver Complaint, Nervousness, Dropsy and Headache.

LACONIA, N. H., Jan. 29, 1875.

THOS. W. LANE—Sir:—I have been troubled with Bad Blood, Liver Complaint, Nervousness, Dropsy and Headache. I have taken one package of DR. QUAIN'S CONDITION PILLS. They have done me more good than all the medicine I ever took; I have taken considerable medicine within the last five years. For the nerves I think there is nothing so good as those pills. I can recommend them to all who are similarly afflicted, they have done me so much good. I think they will recommend themselves wherever they go. I shall recommend those Pills to all who need them. Please send me two packages, one for myself and one for a lady friend of mine. Many thanks to the inventor, agent and advertiser of those Pills. MRS. P. L. ELLIOTT.

DR. QUAIN'S MAGIC CONDITION PILLS are put up only by the AMERICAN MEDICINE CO., Manchester, N. H., THOMAS W. LANE, Agent.

PULMOCINE.

BUCHMAN'S PULMOCINE CORDIAL

is a new discovery. Twenty-three years ago it was used by one of New England's most famous physicians as the best Pulmonary Curative he could prescribe, after a dozen years spent in experimenting with it before he was satisfied that the Materia Medica could add nothing in its favor.

Is the ultima thule of Medical Discovery.

Among its many ingredients are Wild Cherry Bark, Squill Root, Liquorice Root, Blood root, &c. It is a Blood Purifier, gently stimulating. It increases expectoration and is diuretic. It is sudorific and alterative. It is a necessary family medicine. It is a Tonic and a powerful aid to the digestive organs. It is a gentle sedative, and relieves nervousness. It is aromatic and agreeable to the taste.

CLEAR YOUR THROAT!

Relieve Your Lungs.

For the terrible diseases engendered by the lungs trying climate of New England,

PULMOCINE CORDIAL

is a speedy and reliable Preventive and Remedy. Every Family should have a bottle at hand to check the sudden growth of all Pulmonary Diseases. For the Asthma, Coughs, Croups, Laryngitis, or inflammation of the larynx, Diphtheria, and all kindred Throat Diseases at all times prevalent, it is the ounce of Prevention. Children attacked with Whooping Cough or Croup should be immediately cared for. These painful attacks come with scarcely a moment's warning, when a physician may be out of immediate reach. A dose of PULMOCINE CORDIAL gives speedy relief, and the little ones are spared hours of pain and agony. As "a stitch in time saves nine," so does the possession of this Family Medicine prevent the spread of disease. Parents seeing their children gasping with pain, friends and relatives beholding each other in peril from suffocation by the choking pain in the throat, paralyzed with fear and not knowing the best course to pursue, are liable to apply the wrong remedial agent. There is no safety in delay, no time to waste in such cases. CONSUMPTION, that fearful scourge of the human race, lies at the door of all thus afflicted. BUCHMAN'S PULMOCINE CORDIAL arrests it (unless in its advanced stage at which time there is no local cure) relieves the pressing, suffocating feeling at the lungs, and the patient's danger is past.

For Coughs,
Croup,
Diphtheria,
Asthma, etc.,
—USE—
Buchman's Pulmocine Cordial.

The Pulmocine Cordial is not a quack medicine, is not an experiment, is not composed of any ingredients "discovered" by "walking in pastures" in South America or anywhere else, nor by one who discovered a weed and thereby cured himself. Most of the ingredients are such as our best educated physicians daily use for the complaints specified in some form or other. The recipe is that perfected by one of New England's most learned and famous physicians, who used it entirely in his daily practice until his death. It is offered to the profession and to the public, absolutely pure and unadulterated.

LINCOLN BUTTER POWDER.

Good Fresh Butter All The Year Round.

BUTTER IN 20 MINUTES.

Lincoln Butter Powder is an entirely harmless article made from a celebrated English recipe, and now in daily use by many of the most noted farmers in the butter counties around Philadelphia.

In hot weather this Powder makes butter much firmer and sweeter than it usually is, and keeps it from turning rancid. It also removes the strong flavor of turnips, weeds, corn stalks, cotton seed, etc.; and the increased yield of butter much more than pays the trifling expense of using it.

A Woman's Wit.

A gentleman not unconnected with the Boston press was in St. Louis recently, and while here confided to a friend the details of an adventure in a Boston hotel so remarkable as to deserve a life in print. The story is brief, but with an immense moral as showing how in some things lovely woman will always come to the relief of a sister in distress to outwit the tyrant, man. The journalist above referred to, stopping at the hotel, a private one, where the guests were accustomed to the entire freedom of the house, felt late one night the imperative necessity of eating some fruit before retiring. It was too late to send out to buy any; he did not want to arouse the servants of the house at so late an hour, and yet fruit or preserves or something toothsome of the kind seemed to him a personal necessity. He knew where the storehouse was, knew that the door was left open, and finally resolved to go down very quietly and prig enough sweetmeats to satisfy his need. No sooner was the thought conceived than acted upon, and within five minutes he was in the storeroom hooking preserves out of a jar and enjoying himself immensely in satisfying the craving which had come upon him.

For a few minutes the enjoyment of the man at the preserves was complete. Then he was startled by a light, swift step in the hall, there was a whish and a rustle of garments, the door opened suddenly and some one bounded in with such suddenness as, coming squarely against the form of the midnight raider, to knock him half way across the room, and fairly off his feet. Leaping up at once, he closed with his unconscious assailant to be startled by a subdued shriek, and to find that he had captured a woman! Further, and more terrible still, he discovered that the plump form of the lady who had wanted something to eat as well as he was clad only in a nightdress. Still, though trying, the occasion was one not of unmixed horror by any means, and in a moment the gentleman's nerve returned and his curiosity rose to fever heat.

"Who is this?" he demanded of the plump figure in his arms. No answer.

"Who is it?" he repeated. "You'll not get out of this until you tell." Still no answer, but a struggle in the darkness, the plump figure trying hard to get away.

Again the query was repeated with equal lack of response, but this time a resounding slap in the face from a hand that was doubtless pretty, but which hit with decided force, was the reward of the questioner.

He was put on his mettle at once. "You think you'll get off unknown! We'll see about that!" he exclaimed. "I've a device that'll work, I think." And then, after a silent and determined struggle, he caught a little bit of the lady's right cheek between his teeth and bit it—not badly so as to break the velvety skin, but sufficiently hard to leave a mark which he know could not disappear for a day or two. Then he released his unknown prisoner, and she fled like the wind along the passage, disappearing in some room impossible to locate in the darkness.

The next morning the gentleman with a mystery to solve came down to breakfast early. No ladies had yet appeared, but at his table were one or two intimate male friends, and to them he confided the story of his adventure in the night, relating also the means he had taken to secure the identification of the unknown lady. The most intense curiosity at once prevailed at the table, and the advent of the ladies was awaited with an impatience scarcely to be controlled. Five minutes later the door opened and the belle of the hotel entered demurely, glided across the room and seated herself for breakfast. Eager eyes followed her, and as her face was fairly exposed, there was a sensation among the gentleman. Upon her right cheek was a strip of court plaster an inch long! The excited men exchanged glances, whispers and smiles. The mystery was solved early. But just then another lady entered, this time a dignified matron. As she seated herself there was disclosed upon her right cheek a piece of court plaster identical in appearance with that upon the face of the belle! Another and another lady entered. Upon the right cheek of every one of them appeared a piece of court plaster. The tables filled up and not a lady at one of them but wore court plaster on her right cheek! And then the gentlemen looking confidently for a revelation wilted. They comprehended the situation. The lady who had been captured in the night had confided her extremity to her friends and they had come to the rescue to outwit male humanity. They had succeeded, too. The discomfited men at that particular table knew that beneath one of the many pieces of court plaster in the room were hidden the marks of teeth, but which was the identical bit of court plaster they could not tell. And they never learned.—St. Louis Republican.

—A lawyer having found a purse, and returned it to the owner, one of the papers says it may be honest and honorable, but it is exceedingly unprofessional. The delinquent defends himself on the ground that there was nothing in it.

—Speaking of shaving," said a pretty girl to an obdurate old bachelor, "I should think that a pair of handsome eyes would be the best mirror to shave by." "Yes, many a poor fellow has been 'shaved' by them," the wretch replied.

Daily Chronicle.

FRIDAY, AUGUST 25. 1876.

FOR PRESIDENT,

Rutherford B. Hayes,

OF OHIO.

FOR VICE PRESIDENT,

William A. Wheeler,

OF NEW YORK.

Hayes' Platform in War.

In 1864, when Hayes was in the army, being nominated for Congress he was requested to come home and stump his district. His reply was, "I have other business just now. Any man who would leave the army at this time to electioneer for Congress ought to be scalped!"

Hayes' Platform in Peace.

"Honest money for all, and free schools for all. There should be no inflation which will depreciate the one, nor sectarian interference which will destroy the other."

Democratic Testimony.

The committee appointed by the directors of the St. Louis, Alton and Terre Haute railroad company, have reported to the bondholders and stockholders of the road. It refers to the charges against Tilden and his associate members, which charges were preferred by William C. Whitey, now Corporation Counsel of New York city, who represented the actual holders of one-third of the company's stocks and bonds. From the outset Mr. Tilden was an obstacle in the way of all research. He held the books and refused to exhibit them. The committee found, however, that Mr. Tilden and his confrères had received the munificent compensation of $36,500 in money for conducting a friendly negotiation, almost entirely completed within six months of the sale of the road, and had, after paying all lawful claims, a surplus on hand of securities, consisting of $251,000 of bonds and 3,698 shares of stock, which were subsequently issued and made a liability of the company without the company's receiving any consideration therefor. Mr. Tilden refused to give any information as to what had been done with these securities, but united in a letter with his associates, telling the committee, in distinct terms, that it was none of their business. The committee then offered to Mr. Sinnott, Mr. Tilden's attorney, to submit the matter to arbitration. This offer was refused. Then, seeing no other course open to them, the committee brought suit by filing a bill in equity to which Mr. Tilden recently made answer. One thing, however, was discovered by the investigation, and that is, that the unlawful division of the $131,000 first mortgage bonds was in pursuance of Mr. Tilden's advice. The unlawful issue of other bonds and stocks is also referred to in the report of the committee. By a paragraph near the end of the report it appears that the company has been made to pay out of its earnings to perfect its title to its property, etc., all of which Mr. Tilden said in his answer had been paid for by him and his associates.—New Haven Union (dem.)

The political jobbers, thieves, and betrayers of the people are very generally in favor of Tilden.—Cincinnati Enquirer, (dem.,) June 6, 1876.

It is on the books of the Pacific Railroad that Tilden was paid a fee of $25,000 for his services in the Credit Mobilier swindle. What was this sum to a gang of plunderers who robbed the people of several millions! The man who best aided them to do this with a plan within the bounds of law was worth any price he was disposed to charge and Tilden was paid his fee without a murmur. And we have the suit of the stockholders of the Terre Haute and Alton railroad to show that the "reform" candidate is another Jay Gould. He stands accused in a court of law of stealing over three hundred thousand dollars worth of bonds and putting the property to his own use. With such a record, how can the honest masses vote for Samuel Jones Tilden as a candidate for President? Can such a man be trusted with the government of the United States? Drop the financial issue entirely and judge of the democratic candidate on his personal merits and where does he stand? The candidacy of Samuel J. Tilden is a disgrace to the democratic party, and no honest man will regret his overwhelming defeat.—New Haven Union.

Mr. Barlow is the champion railway "undertaker" and jobber of New York. Of course, he's for Tilden. All men of his stripe are. With Tilden in the White House, men of Mr. Barlow's kidney would be very busy and prosperous. All the vicious, thieving, corrupt elements in the democratic party are moving toward "reform" under the banner of Sam. Tilden. Cincinnati Enquirer (dem.) June 17, 1876.

News and Notes.

An accident to a passenger train on the New Orleans and Jackson Railroad, occurred near Togaloo, Mississippi, on the 23d. A bridge gave way, wrecking the train. Four persons were killed and sixteen wounded, five or six seriously. Very heavy rains raised the creek unusually high, and no doubt weakened the foundation of the bridge.

We learned from the mail rider, yesterday, that a white man at Cotile, named J. T. Hatter, shot and killed a colored man, on Tuesday last, in Mr. Boissett's store. The reason for the killing was that the colored man struck Hatter about three years ago. He could not bear such an indignity. The negro was at Mr. Boissett's bar, and Hatter walked up to him and asked him three times if he was not the same negro who struck him—and was not his name Alex. Johnson? Johnson prevaricated, and on his questioning him the fourth time, he shot him, killing him instantly. It was Johnson, however.—Colfax (La.) Chronicle.

Mrs. Mary Whitten, well known to summer tourists as the proprietress of the Adams House at Old Orchard Beach, died on the 23d inst.

While the republican torchlight procession was passing through the streets of Burlington, Vt., on the evening of the 22d, a party of rowdies threw stones at some of the delegations, and several persons were injured.

The vicious element at Springfield, Mass., has become so bold and outrageous that the police have been armed with revolvers by order of the Board of Aldermen, and each man carries besides a pair of handcuffs, so that law-breakers may be speedily secured.

New Hampshire Items.

Mary Lynch, the Irish girl arrested on suspicion of murdering the Turney boy, in Manchester, has been released, there being no evidence against her save the finding of a hammer which might have made the wounds on the boy's head, and his bloody cap, in an outbuilding of the house where Miss Lynch lives.

Charles Hall's house, in Gilmanton, was burned on the 22d, with most of its contents, and the sparks from it set fire to Mrs. C. Allen's house, which was also burned. Mr. Hall's loss was $800; partly insured. Mrs. Allen's loss $1000; no insurance.

John Mayall's house, barn and out-buildings, with twenty tons of hay, and several horses and hogs, were burned in Exeter on the night of the 22d. Loss $3000. The fire was of incendiary origin.

Alvin H. Johnson, of Bristol, has been fully committed to await trial for the murder of his wife last April. A girl named Bailey, who lived with the Johnsons, says he told her he killed his wife near the engine-house in Bristol, and afterward threw her body into the river. Circumstantial evidence is strong against him.

Political.

The republican State convention of New York, on the 23d, nominated ex-Gov. E. D. Morgan for Governor, on the first ballot, which was as follows: E. D. Morgan, 242; Wm. M. Evarts, 126; Wm. H. Robertson, 24; Martin I. Townshend, 18. On motion of George William Curtis, seconded by Mr. Depew, the nomination was made unanimous. Sherman Rogers was nominated for Lieut. Governor.

Hon. Peter Fagg, a leading German democrat in Milwaukee, Wis., has pronounced for Hayes and Wheeler.

The thinnest electioneering dodge yet is the Kilpatrick letter to Gov. Hayes, "discovered" in the street in a western city and published in all the democratic papers as genuine. The accomplished trickster who is at the head of the democratic "reform" campaign never originated that shallow trick, that's certain.

As soon as it was certain that Bristow was not to be the republican nominee for President, some of the democratic organs began to praise him to the skies. They don't like him so well since that Burlington speech, in which he said the democracy had "originated nothing and advocated no useful measures of national politics for more than a quarter of a century."—Globe.

Hon. Jacob Brinkerhoff, formerly Supreme Judge of Ohio, has declared for Hayes and Wheeler. Gen. R. Brinkerhoff, his relative, has got down from the fence on the other side.

The last year of democratic State government in Texas has made the general expenses $500,000 more than the revenue. Their reform legislature sits the year round, and they 'rah for Tilden and want to buy Jeff Davis a homestead.—N. O. Repub.

Gen. Butler secured eight of Lawrence's fifteen delegates to the Congressional convention.

The Cattaraugus county (N. Y.) Gazette, which has been democratic, has declared for Hayes and Wheeler.

Elegant Extracts.

They (the framers of the Constitution) left revolution organized whenever it should be demanded by the public opinion of a State; left it with power to snap the tie of confederation as a nation might break a treaty, and to repel coercion as a nation might repel invasion.—Samuel J. Tilden, now running for President of the United States. N. B. On the democratic ticket.

"I am sorry that I laid down my arms in 1865. I am in favor of re-enslaving the negro, and if that cannot be done at once my idea is to adopt a plan which will bring about such a condition of things. I would deprive the negro of educational privileges; I would pay him low wages; I would prevent him from acquiring real estate; I would deprive him of arms, ammunition, stocks and agricultural implements."—Zebulon D. Vance, now running for Governor of North Carolina. N. B.—On the democratic ticket.

I yield to none in devotion to the "lost cause" for which we fought. Never shall I admit that the cause itself failed, and that the principles which gave it life were therefore wrong. Never shall I brand the men who upheld it so nobly as "rebels" or "traitors."—Wade Hampton, now running for Governor of South Carolina. N. B.—On the democratic ticket.

Not one cent. It is a black republican war, and black republicans may foot the bills. They'll get enough of it before they get through, I can tell you.—John C. Talbot, now running for Governor of Maine. N. B.—On the democratic ticket.

Luxurious Travelling.

There is such a thing as the enjoyment of travel. It is when swiftly and safely and comfortably the passenger is transported from place to place. Speed, security and ease are characteristics of the famous Fall River line, and to these, in recent years, the directors have added luxury. The cars, that are handsome and commodious, built expressly for this route, and all provided with the Westinghouse air brake and Miller platform, pass between the depot in Boston and the boat-landing, a special steamboat train leaving Boston at 6 P. M., arriving at the boat at 7:30 P. M. The steamers Bristol and Providence, one of which leaves every night upon the arrival of the cars, are alike in their size and construction. There is not in this world their superiors. Each of them cost a million and a quarter of dollars. The grand saloons are as great drawing-rooms, the state-rooms are as chambers in a mansion. The furniture is beautiful and appropriate, the appointments in every way handsome and satisfactory. These boats are alike in size and construction and in furnishing, save that different colors are introduced in decoration.

All that art could do to make these vessels complete in strength, beauty and safety has been done. The grand staircase leads to the grandest steamer saloon in the world. It is 275 feet in length, 28 feet wide, 21 feet high. The staircase itself is of mahogany, inlaid with satin and other rich wood, and in each of the newel posts is a petite chandelier, fit for the boudoir of nymph. Those who have never been on board of one of these palaces cannot imagine the surprise that awaits them. Elegance, magnitude and superb fittings greet the eyes, whichever way they turn. From the half-domed ceiling drop costly chandeliers. Soft, velvet carpets hush the tread; luxuriant velvet plush-covered lounges, chairs, divans and ottomans offer rest. Their frames are of heavy, carved black-walnut, relieved with delicate gold-stripes. Rich tints combine to make the tout ensemble, and heavy mirrors reflect the beauty of the scene. There are 240 state-rooms, nine of these elegantly-furnished bridal-rooms.

One of the advantages of this line is that these boats have a long night trip, and the eastern or western-bound traveller has a good night's rest in a floating palace. If bound eastward, he is not obliged to turn out in the middle of the night to take the cars; if bound westward, the early riser has an opportunity to see some of the most attractive shore scenery as the boats leave the foot of Long Island Sound and enter upon New York waters. On embarking at either end of the route an excellent supper awaits him, if he desires it. A first-class band performs sweet music, and when tired he has but to seek his state-room and sleep till the hour of rising is announced. There can be nothing more delightful to a passenger who desires to travel by water, than the voyage between New York and Fall River upon the Bristol or Providence. It will be seen that by this route the ride by rail is short. The passenger from New York enjoys his full night's rest before taking the cars in the morning, and the passenger for New York from Boston, after only an hour and a half rail ride, is on board the great steamer.

The Old Colony Railroad, over a part of which passengers by the Fall River route ride, now comprises, with all its branches, a line of more than three hundred miles. Some of the most fashionable watering places and most popular resorts of summer tourists are directly reached by the main road or its tributaries. In fact, the Fall River steamers and Old Colony Railroad unite all prominent points of interest in southeastern Massachusetts with the cities of New York and Boston.

Newport, which as a fashionable watering place has no rival, is reached from Boston by a ride of less than three hours, and from New York by a sail of ten.

Oak Bluffs is now a city, and has its handsome hotels and horse railroads, and is lighted by gas. It also has a fine trotting course, and a great many very beautiful drives. It is called the City of the Sea, and its thousand cottage houses are dotted upon the beautiful Martha's Vineyard in an admirably picturesque manner. During the season of 1874 over 60,000 guests visited Oak Bluffs, and that number was largely increased in the past summer.

The old Colony road is the direct route from the East to the quaint, old-fashioned town of Nantucket. This place is now numbered among the very delightful ones that possess great attractions for visitors in summer.

The old town of Plymouth is one of the veteran places on this road. Great interest is associated with its relics and memorials, its paintings, antique furniture and curiosities.

The Cape Cod division of the Old Colony Railroad extends to Provincetown, the extreme point of Cape Cod, one hundred and twenty miles from Boston.

Whether as a connection between the main cities and any of these summer resorts, or as a direct through line, the Old Colony Railroad Company's route is in every respect most desirable and popular. It has but to appeal to those who have journeyed by it to attest concerning its right to be classed among the first-class railway routes of the world.—Advertiser.

—A writer in St. Nicholas says: "What do you say to a flower bigger than a dining plate, and weighing three or four pounds?" It is very rarely that we say anything. Sometimes we are intimate with a vegetable as occasionally we are drawn into a controversy with a cucumber, but as a general thing we find that flowers are to be avoided, as they cost $5 a basket, and the other man usually gets the best buds for his button-hole.—Norwich Bulletin.

A Lesson Taught by Experience.

Among the many valuable lessons taught by experience, there is not one of greater moment to the invalid portion of the community than the following, viz: That alterative treatment is only permanently successful when aided by invigoration. When the functions of the body are disordered, the use of a genial tonic with which corrective properties are combined is the speediest means of regulating them. Such a tonic is Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, the most popular, as it is the best article of its class. For more than twenty-five years it has been used with signal success as a remedy for, and preventive of malarial fevers, as a means of imparting strength to the debilitated, and as a curative of dyspepsia, biliousness, constipation, kidney troubles and uterine weakness. Not only have multitudes of those whom it has cured borne testimony in its behalf, but it has been repeatedly commended by the medical profession and the press.

The No. 8 "Delmonico" Range, with reservoir and closet, weighs 525 lbs. Other ranges, made principally to look at, weigh from 100 to 150 lbs. less, and, strange to relate, cost nearly as much. It is wise economy to buy a "Delmonico" Range.

AN HOUR SAVED.—The cars of the "Norwich Line" leave the New York and New England Railroad depot, foot of Summer street, Boston, an hour later than any other Sound line. The rates by this line are the lowest, the cars are of the best, the boats are first-class, and the patronage is in consequence immense.

FIRE.

Thursday morning at five o'clock an alarm of fire was given, occasioned by the burning of the steam saw and planing mill of Mr. Daniel W. Mason, on Green street. The fire Deparment rallied promptly, Kearsarge steamer being located at the School street reservoir, the Sagamore on Pray's wharf and the Moses H. Goodrich near the Short street entrance to the Raynes shipyard. The latter engine threw two good streams most of the time, though there were several interruptions to her work, occasioned by slight disarrangements, this being her first trial at actual work. The mill and several small outbuildings, and the roof of the engine-house, were destroyed, the portion of the mill left standing being worse than worthless; but there being no wind the firemen easily confined the fire to the limits given above. The fire was undoubtedly incendiary, as the mill had not been running for two days; Mr. Mason had risen shortly before the alarm was given, intending to start a fire under the boiler, and happening to look at the mill discovered that it was full of fire at the north end. The loss is heavy, and will probably reach $6,000; Mr. Mason having but $3300 insurance on the mill property and his house, in Sise's and Morse & Ilsley's agencies. The mill was formerly the saw-mill in the Raynes ship-yard, and was taken down and re-erected on the site where it was burned, some years ago.

POLICE COURT.

Before Hackett, Special Justice, Thursday, August 24.

Ida J. Walker, who assisted at a boarding house in Rye as maid of all work, complained that she was assaulted by the head of the house, who was brought before the Court this morning by Sheriff Kent. Ida failed to appear, and the testimony on behalf of the State not convincing the Court, in view of the respondent's statement of the affair, that anything above a proper preservation of the good order of the house had occurred, discharged the defendant.

JOTTINGS.

Hon. Peter Marcy, of New Orleans, is in this city on a visit to his brother, Hon. Daniel Marcy.

The Times says Mr. John E. Rider, formerly of this city, has been appointed storekeper in the construction department of the Mare Island navy yard.

Hon. John A. Kasson, of Iowa, did not speak at Kittery on Wednesday evening, as had been announced. Hon. John Y. Foster, of New Jersey, will speak there this evening, and Mr. Thomas B. Reed, of Portland, on the evening of the 30th.

Ship Frank Jones, Ross, of this port, from Liverpool with salt, arrived at New York on the 23d inst.

A valued contributor takes umbrage at our item regarding the South clock, yesterday. He says it possibly may kick, but with its "hands taken down" it cannot strike as usual.

The poles of the new telegraph line have been erected through Wibird street, across Middle, through Madison and State to Union street at the corner of Islington.

"Laura," a valuable mare owned by Mr. R. H. Beacham, was found dead in her stall Thursday morning, having got cast with the halter and broken her neck in her struggles to escape, during the night.

While Boston indulges in a constant flow of sentiment in regard to the Old South, we notice the removal of a heretofore respectable landmark of democratic days,—"Gould's barn," which at the upper part of State street toward the Brewery regions did service as a voting place, in which to elect the author of the "Gerrymander" to the office of representative to the General Court. The edifice has been removed and the place that knew it once, shall know it no more forever. It passed away almost, if not quite as easily as did the wicked structure of ward lines created under the democratic rule in our State, and which an indignant municipality at the first opportunity so emphatically repudiated at the polls.

Sixteen hundred words were telegraphed from this city to the Boston Herald on the day of the temperance celebration here, and the Rollins family reunion at Newington.

A Loss to Chicago Journalism.

Chicago reporters mourn the departure from that city of a family by the name of Gammel, the several members of which have delighted the journals by furnishing no end of subjects for local notices. Since Christmas Mr. Gammel has fallen off a house, drawn the first prize in a Southern lottery, cut off three fingers with a circular saw, and had a sunstroke. Mrs. Gammel has had a fortune left her in England; her pocket has been twice picked in the street cars, and her quarrel with Mrs. Doolittle about their hens produced one of the most comic cases ever tried before a police court. Her daughter, Miss Sophia Gammel, was once abducted from the Hayes school, and not found for four days, when she was discovered at Ripon, Wis., whither she had gone, having left the stage, and a few months later eloped with an Italian Count, by whom, in a domestic quarrel, at their castle on the shores of Lake Como, she was stabbed seriously, returning to her parents' home to furnish no less than three editorial articles.

The youngest son, a youth of thirteen, has also earned the gratitude of the reporters by furnishing the following paragraphs to the papers, as shown by a summary of his brief but brilliant career, published in and compiled from the files of the Chicago Tribune:

July 5—Blew off his thumb.

August 26—Fell off shed and broke four ribs.

November 3—Put torpedo on Van Buren street car-track.

December 17—Fell while skating and broke left leg.

February 26, 1876—Set fire to Mr. Ives' barn.

April 3—Arrested for stealing a horse. Case compromised.

April 19—Stole $96 from his father and started for the Black Hills.

April 26—Captured while camping out at Dexter Park.

May 6—Arm broken by a large base-ball bat.

July 4—Blew out one eye and burned off his hair while celebrating the Centennial with powder in a glass bottle.

A President's Widow.

The only lady who ever married a President of the United States is Mrs. Tyler, the widow of President Tyler, who was an occupant of the White House when he married Miss Gardiner. There is a tragedy associated with Mr. Tyler's wooing of this lady, which is thus told by a Washington correspondent:

One day (in 1843) while he was courting the lady, he was invited, together with his cabinet and others, to take a sail down the Potomac and witness the test of a new cannon. Previous to the test the party had a social glass of wine in the cabin below. Miss Gardiner was along, and by her bewitching conversation so enchanted her Presidential suitor that he lingered in the cabin after the rest of the party had gone above. Word was brought him that the gun was about to be fired, and it was gently suggested that he should come on deck. But still he lingered, fascinated.

They got tired waiting for His Excellency, and touched off the gun. It was a fatal experiment. The cannon burst, and spread death among the invited guests who had come to witness its triumph. Two members of the President's cabinet, and Mr. Gardiner, father of the beautiful lady in the cabin below, were killed by the explosion. The President and Miss Gardiner, by their failure to go on deck escaped all injury. Of course the tragedy horrified the nation.

One day, a few months later John Tyler packed his valise at White House, and ran over to New York and made Miss Gardiner his bride. The engagement had been kept a secret, and the marriage came upon the New Yorkers as a surprise. A hundred guns were fired in honor of the event, and it was the social sensation of the day. The bride was taken to the White House, and dispensed its hospitalities in a queenly manner.

—"What is the chief use of bread?" asked an examiner at a recent school exhibition. "The chief use of bread," answered the urchin, apparently astonished at the simplicity of the inquiry, "is to spread butter and jam on it."

—A member of a club objected to the publication of the list of the meeting nights of the club, "because," said he, "if it's published, we married men will have to account for the offnights." The motion to publish was lost.

—When a common school teacher in Virginia found upon his examination papers the question: "How does a ship at sea find its latitude and longitude?" he arose to the occasion and promptly wrote: "Is finds its longitude hot and its latitude kold."

—Odd Jobber—"I wish I'd got my brother on this heer job with me." Inquiring Employer—"Why, my man, your brother especially?" Odd Jobber—"Well, ye see, sir, he's got a rare cheek on him, my brother has. Why, he'd think no more of asking for a quart over a job like this—than nothink!"

—The time for husking bees comes soon. The husking bee, says the Fulton Times, is a delightful entertainment given by the farmers, and is generally attended by eighteen young men, who kiss each of the girls in the house seven times, husk four ears of corn, and go home as soon as they have disposed of what cider they can find.

—A Minnesota juror addressed a note to the judge, in which he styled him "Onorable jug."

—A Hartford man, who took, in his hurry to go to a picnic, what he supposed to be his lunch basket, aired his vocabulary when he got to the grove and found he had taken a litter of kittens instead.

—At a wedding in Chambersburg last week, the services were said to have been very interesting. Among the hymns sung at the ceremony were "Blest be the Tie that Binds," and "What shall the Harvest Be?"

Centennial Expenses.

The fact is, that accommodations in Philadelphia, rate now no higher than before the Exhibition opened. The principal hotels charge $4.50 or $5 per day; from that, the rates run down to $2, the rooms being comfortable and board excellent. In private boarding houses, the charges are from $5 per week up. Single men or women sharing the same room may find boarding in respectable houses at even less than that, if due care be exercised. The usual plan for visitors who wish to remain for a week or more at as small expense as possible, is to take a furnished room and obtain their meals elsewhere. Comfortable rooms for two persons may be had in hotels and houses adjoining the grounds as low as $1, or even 50 cents per day. The meals may cost in the grounds what you please, and range from the most luxurious menu of Parisian cafes, to sandwiches and coffee at ten cents each. Indeed, the variety and cheapness of the different kinds of food offered, make one of the features of the Exhibition. For fifty cents, you may revel in unkown German pudding kase, or taste Austrian kipfeln, and a cup of coffee and whipped cream which shall cause you to abhor the familiar home coffee-pot for ever after; or sip black Mochs from Tunis, looking on bewildering dancing girls the while; or eat the identical enchanted sherbets and rose-conserves and magic cheese-cakes of which we have read, as in a dream, in the "Arabian Nights." Several women that we know with full brains but empty pockets have brought in their satchels enough food to last them during their stay. Crackers and cold ham are a feast when the wonders of the world are served as sauce piquante. Scribner for September.

A Texas Execution.

The occasion attracted a great number of people from the country, and it is estimated that ten thousand people witnessed the execution. At 2 P. M. Thompson's Band played a lively air, marching to the gallows, erected in the river bottom, followed by a large crowd. * * * As he fell, a wild yell rang through the crowd, which was quickly silenced by the officers, and the spectators, evidently well satisfied with the exhibition, turned homeward, Thompson's Band going up the railroad track with the main crowd discoursing lively strains. Great praise is bestowed on Sheriff Moon for the efficient manner in which he performed the task. It is said by connoisseurs to have been a very neat job.—Galveston News.

Dr. TELLER,

DECEASED.

The above named private Hospital was established in Albany in 1835 by Dr. Lispenard and for a number of years its affairs were presided over by that gentleman, but for the past 19 years, Dr. Teller, who is now deceased, transacted the business of the Institution.

Owing to the great demand for more spacious apartments on account of the large increase of business, the Hospital has been removed to No. 9 Beaver Street, two doors above its old location, where patients will find magnificently furnished rooms for their reception, and are so arranged that patients do not come in contact with one another, seeing only the doctor, thereby avoiding the unpleasantness of meeting others, which always occurred at the old office.

LADIES will find rooms provided for their especial accommodation and entirely private.

YOUNG MEN, addicted to secret habits, who have impaired their health and destroyed the vigor of their minds, thus depriving themselves of the pleasures of married life and also those afflicted with private diseases of any nature, are advised that in consulting Dr. Young they will find a physician fully qualified to cure and restore them to full health and manly vigor.

Dr. Teller's great work for the married, or those contemplating marriage—100 pages—full of plates—price 25 cents. Sent to all parts, under seal, by mail post paid.

TO THE LADIES—DR. YOUNG still retains the only agency in America for the sale of Dr. Vichot's Italian Female Monthly Pills. Sent by mail on receipt of $1.00, price per box.

MAGIC

CONDITION PILLS!

The Wonderful Remedy for Liver Complaint, Biliousness, Dyspepsia, Constipation, Neuralgia, Rheumatism, Headache, Kidney Complaint, Nervousness, Scrofula, Piles, and all diseases arising from a bad state of the Blood!

No medicine ever offered to the public has given such universal satisfaction as Dr. Quain's Magic Condition Pills. Their praises are on every tongue where their merits are known. They strike at once at the seat of disease and show their healing power almost immediately. Thousands of voluntary testimonials of their merits have been received by the agent, from those who have been cured by them, of which the following are samples:

Dyspepsia Four Years, Constipation and Inflammation of the Bowels Three Years, Confined to my Room Two Years, Pain so I Could Not Sleep Without Morphine. One Package of Dr. Quain's Condition Pills Made Me Eat Well, Sleep Well and Free from Pain, after being given up by Physicians.

WEST LEBANON, ME., Feb. 22, 1

MR. THOMAS W. LANE:—I have been sick for four years with Dyspepsia, and for the past three years Constipation and Inflammation of the Bowels. I have suffered all the pain I could endure and live. I have been confined to my room for two years, and could not sleep nights without the use of morphine. I have been given up by physicians as past cure. I have taken one package of DR. QUAIN'S CONDITION PILLS, and they have done me more good than all the doctors I have had. I sleep well, I eat well and have no pain. They are all they are recommended to be. Please send me three packages, as two of my neighbors wish to try them. I enclose $1.50.

Your truly, JOHN W. LORD.

Another Letter from Maj. John W. Lord, one month later. Wonderful Cures by Dr. Quain's Pills Effected on Him in Thirteen Days. First time Free from Pain for Three Years.

WEST LEBANON, ME., March 22, 1875

MR. THOMAS W. LANE:—I commenced taking DR. QUAIN'S CONDITION PILLS February 9th, and wrote you February 22d of their wonderful effect. I have continued to improve ever since. My appetite is good, and I sleep as well as I ever did in my life. I am free from pain for the first time in three years. When I was taken sick four years ago, I weighed one hundred and eighty-six pounds; I now weigh one hundred and thirty, but, as I am gaining in strength, I have faith I shall regain my flesh this summer, by the use of the Pills. I shall continue taking them for some time to come.

Yours truly, JOHN W. LORD.

Dr. Quain's Pills the Remedy for Soldiers' Aches and Pains.

WEST LEBANON, ME., June 1, 1875.

MR. THOMAS W. LANE—Dear Sir:—I am now able to walk out every day, and am gaining in strength very fast, all of which is due to you as agent for the best Pills in the world. I have taken no other medicine, and my improvement has been steady since first taking DR. QUAIN'S CONDITION PILLS. They have done everything for me, and I will say to you, advertise them direct to the soldiers, for they will certainly cure them of their Rheumatism from exposure and hardship on the field. Please send me by return mail another package.

JOHN W. LORD.

Rheumatism for Twenty Years Cured by One Package of Dr. Quain's Condition Pills—"The Best Medicine in the World."

EAST ANDOVER, N. H., Dec. 10, 1875.

MR. LANE—Dear Sir:—As I know the value of DR. QUAIN'S CONDITION PILLS as well as they have done me, I take pleasure in giving them praise; so I send you another testimonial. My Rheumatism has been troubled me for twenty years or more, and has tried everything that could be thought of, but to no good. At times it would be so bad that he could not lift his hand to his head or do any work at all, especially in cold weather. A short time ago I advised him to get some of these Pills. He believed nothing in them, but I gave him the last package I had of you, as I did not need them, and he has not been free from the Rheumatic Complaint for years. No Rheumatism, no pain. What helped him? It was DR. QUAIN'S CONDITION PILLS, the best medicine in the world. There is nothing like them. I know it, for I have tried them, and they are all, you, and many of my acquaintance can be. Give them a fair trial and you will say so. I write this because I know our neighbors of them and wish others to know the same. Some may think I am telling a big story. I am. But remember I am not giving them half the praise they ought to have.

Yours with respect, ED. F. PEVARE.

DAINGERFIELD, MORRIS CO., TEXAS, Nov. 15, '75.

MR. THOMAS W. LANE—Dear Sir:—I have been afflicted for near twelve years with Neuralgia in the face and head. I tried I do not know how many physicians, and could only get partly relieved. I also tried many patent medicines with the same result. I have been confined to my room most all the time for eight or ten winters, and have been traveling and visiting medical springs, and I still suffered most intensely. The physicians pronounced my case the worst and most stubborn that they had had anything to do with. One told me I could never get well; they all advised me to go South and spend the winter, as it was thought that was the only chance for me, and I was trying to get ready to go to Florida, when through the kindness of Rev. H. M. Mathis, my attention was called to the advertisement of Dr. Quain's Magic Condition Pills. I immediately sent to you for a package. I have taken four doses and I am almost free from pain. The impression here seems to be that if your pills will cure me, they will cure anybody. I have been applications to send for the pills. Enclosed please find three dollars; send five packages to me and one to Mrs. Laura Sherrell, Sulphur Springs, Hopkins county, Texas.

Yours truly, J. S. PATTON.

Liver Complaint, Nervousness, Dropsy and Headache.

LACONIA, N. H., Jan. 29, 1875.

THOS. W. LANE—Sir:—I have been troubled with Bad Blood, Liver Complaint, Nervousness, Dropsy and Headache. I have taken one package of DR. QUAIN'S CONDITION PILLS. They have done me more good than all the medicine I ever took; I have taken considerable medicine within the last five years. For the nerves I think there is nothing so good as those pills. I can recommend them to all who are similarly afflicted, they have done me so much good. I think they will recommend themselves wherever they go. I shall recommend those Pills to all who need them. Please send me two packages more, one for myself and one for a lady friend of mine. Many thanks to the inventor, agent and advertiser of those Pills. MRS. F. L. ELLIOTT.

DR. QUAIN'S MAGIC CONDITION PILLS are put up only by the AMERICAN MEDICINE CO., Manchester, N. H., THOMAS W. LANE, Agent.

PULMOCINE.

BUCHMAN'S PULMOCINE CORDIAL

Is the ultima thule of Medical Discovery.

Among its many ingredients are Wild Cherry Bark, Squill Root, Liquorice Root, Blood root, &c. It is a Blood Purifier, gently stimulating. It increases expectoration and is diuretic. It is sudorific and alterative. It is a necessary family medicine. It is a Tonic and a powerful aid to the digestive organs. It is a gentle sedative, and relieves nervousness. It is aromatic and agreeable to the taste.

CLEAR YOUR THROAT!

Relieve Your Lungs.

For the terrible diseases engendered by the lung-trying climate of New England

PULMOCINE CORDIAL

Is a speedy and reliable Preventive and Remedy. Every Family should have a bottle at hand to check the sudden growth of all Pulmonary Diseases. For the Asthma, Coughs, Croups, Laryngitis, or inflammation of the larynx, Diphtheria, and all kindred Throat Diseases at all times prevalent, it is the ounce of Prevention. Children attacked with Whooping Cough or Croup should be immediately cared for. These painful attacks come with scarcely a moment's warning, when a physician may be out of immediate reach. A dose of PULMOCINE CORDIAL gives speedy relief, and the little ones are spared hours of pain and agony. As "a stitch in time saves nine," so does the possession of this Family Medicine prevent the spread of disease. Parents seeing their children gasping with pain, friends and relatives beholding each other in peril from suffocation by the choking pain in the throat, paralyzed with fear and not knowing the best course to pursue, are liable to apply the wrong remedial agent. There is no safety in delay, no time to waste in such cases. CONSUMPTION, that fearful scourge of the human race, lies at the door of all this afflicted. BUCHMAN'S PULMOCINE CORDIAL arrests it (unless in its advanced stage at which time there is no local cure) relieves the pressing, suffocating feeling at the lungs, and the patient's danger is past.

For Coughs,

Croup,

Diphtheria,

Asthma, etc.,

—USE—

Buchman's Pulmocine Cordial.

The Pulmocine Cordial is not a quack medicine, is not an experiment, is not composed of any ingredients "discovered" by "walking in pastures" in South America or anywhere else, nor by one who discovered a weed and thereby cured himself. Most of the ingredients are such as our best educated physicians daily use for the complaints specified in some form or other. The recipe is that perfected by one of New England's most learned and famous physicians, who used it entirely in his daily practice until his death. It is offered to the profession and to the public, absolutely pure and unadulterated.

A Brave Colored Man.

Hon. Robert Smalls, of South Carolina, who bravely defended his race against the mean attack of Sunset Cox, a few days since, in the house, is one of the best representatives of the colored race in official position, and has an interesting history. Mr. Smalls was born at Beaufort, S. C., April 5, 1839. He now lives on the very place where he was born. He lived in Beaufort, leading the monotonous life of his race, until 1851, when he went to Charleston and worked at the rigger's trade, and also led a seafaring life in sailing along and about the coast of his native State and Florida. It was here that he acquired that knowledge of the bars and harbors of the sea-coast which he afterward used to such signal advantage to the Union cause.

For two years he was a stevedore in Charleston, and in July, 1861, he went on board the steamer Planter, then a confederate transport, plying between that city and Fort Sumter and other points in Charleston harbor. This craft was also the special dispatch boat of Gen. Ripley. After being on this vessel about two months he was made wheelman. (At that time it was not in accordance with coast-wise nautical etiquette to call a colored man a pilot.) In this situation he continued until the 13th of May, 1862. The captain, chief engineer and mate of the Planter, all white men, had gone ashore up into the city the previous night, where they slept, leaving on board a crew of eight men, all colored, among whom was Smalls. A consultation was held, and it was resolved by these eight men, Smalls at their head, to seize the boat and carry it out to the United States fleet outside the harbor.

The design was hazardous in the extreme. The little boat would have to pass beneath the guns of the batteries in the harbor. Failure and detection would have been certain death. Fearful was the venture, but it was made. The daring resolution had been formed, and under command of Robert Smalls, the wheelsman, steam was put on, and with her valuable cargo of guns and ammunition, intended for Fort Ripley, a new fortification just constructed in the harbor, about 2 o'clock in the morning the Planter silently moved off from her dock, steamed up to North Atlantic wharf, where the wife and two children of Robert Smalls and the wife and two children of another of the crew, were awaiting to embark. Noiselessly the vessel approached the wharf, and in silence and haste received the waiting women and children on board, and then started down the river out to sea. The regular signal was given as Fort Johnson was passed, and was answered, and so at Sumter.

As soon then as the boat was out of range of the guns of these grim guardians of the city, the white flag of truce was raised, and out for the ocean she steamed. In the misty morning a frigate was descried off the bar. The Planter approached her. In the mist the white flag was not seen, and, to the terror and surprise of the Planter's crew, the strange ship have round and presented her broadside and opened her ports. The command had already been given, "ready," and the captain was about to speak the "fire," when one of the officers on the quarter-deck discerned the flag of truce.

The vessels were now within hailing distance, and the captain of the Union ship asked what boat that was and what she wanted. The reply was given and the Planter's errand explained. The captain ordered her to come alongside, but his order was not heard by Smalls and his men, who proceeded to go around the stern of the ship, when they were brought to a standstill by the captain's thundering tones as he called out, "Stop, or I will blow you out of water!" The Planter then came alongside, and an officer named Watson and four men were put on board.

The strange ship proved to be the sailing frigate Onward, and the officer Capt. Nichols. Smalls was transferred to the gunboat Augusta, the flag-ship off the bar, under command of Capt. Parrott, whence he afterward proceeded to Port Royal to Commodore Dupont, then in command of the southern squadron, where the Planter was received and Robert Smalls was entered upon the navy list as a pilot. The Planter was put under the command of an officer from the ship Wabash, named Phoenix. It was found that although the services of Smalls would be invaluable as a pilot, yet that he could not receive pay as such, there being some regulations in the service requiring these officers to have been graduates of some naval school. This difficulty was easily obviated, however, by Smalls being commissioned. He received a commission as second lieutenant of company B, 33d regiment United States colored troops, and was then detailed to act as pilot.

Lieutenant Smalls was soon afterward ordered to Edisto to join the gunboat Crusader, Ryan. He then proceeded in the Planter, in company with the Crusader, up to Simmons' bluff on Wadmalaw sound, where a sharp battle was fought between these boats and a confederate light battery and some infantry. The confederates were driven out of their works, and scampered away from the shells that fell thick and fast around and after them. The troops on the Planter landed and captured all the tents and provisions of the enemy. This occurred some time in June, 1862. Lieut. Smalls continued to act as pilot on board the Planter and the Crusader, and as blockading pilot between Charleston and Beaufort. He made repeated trips up and along the rivers near the coast, pointing out and removing the torpedoes which he himself had assisted in sinking and putting in position. Afterward he was ordered back to Port Royal, whence he piloted the ship up Broad river to Pocotaligo, where a very severe battle ensued.

Smalls was the pilot on the Monitor Keokuk, Capt. Ryan, on the memorable attack on Fort Sumter on the morning of the 7th of April, 1863. In that attack the Keokuk was struck ninety-six times, nineteen shots passing through her. She retired from the engagement only to sink on the next morning near Light-house Inlet. Smalls left her just before she went down, and was taken on board the Ironsides.

Upon one occasion, while the Planter, then under command of Capt. Nickerson, was sailing through Folly Island Creek, the confederate batteries opened a very hot fire upon her. Capt. Nickerson became demoralized and left the pilot house and secured himself down in the coal-bunker. Smalls was on deck, and, finding that the captain had deserted his post, entered the pilot house, took command of the boat, and carried her safely out of reach of the guns. For this conduct he was promoted by order of Gen. Gilmore, commanding the department of the south, to the rank of captain, and was ordered to act as captain of the Planter. His promotion was afterward confirmed by orders from the secretary of war. Nickerson was dishonorably discharged. Capt. Smalls continued in command of the Planter, which was used as a supply boat along the coast until the end of the war.

FOR PRESIDENT,

Rutherford B. Hayes,

OF OHIO.

FOR VICE PRESIDENT,

William A. Wheeler,

OF NEW YORK.

Hayes' Platform in War.

In 1864, when Hayes was in the army, being nominated for Congress he was requested to come home and stump his district. His reply was, "I have other business just now. Any man who would leave the army at this time to electioneer for Congress ought to be scalped!"

Hayes' Platform in Peace.

"Honest money for all, and free schools for all. There should be no inflation which will depreciate the one, nor sectarian interference which will destroy the other."

News and Notes.

Geo. W. Brown of Plainfield, Conn, a former member of the legislature, was overcome by the foul air in his stable drain cistern, which he was cleaning out, and his son and Charles Spaulding, the hired man, who went down to assist him, also fell unconscious. Neighbors who were called were paralyzed with fright, and Mrs. Brown was let down and succeeded in bringing up the bodies, though Mr. Brown was found to be dead, and the son is still in a very critical condition.

The Holyoke, Mass., people who were instrumental in procuring the pardon of Williams, the notorious bond robber, from the State prison, say that he is a son of Rev. Mr. Van Meter, formerly of the Five Points Mission, New York, and that he is to leave immediately with his father for Italy.

The negotiations for placing the new 4 1-2 per cent. loan of $300,000,000 have been concluded by Secretary Morrill, and the bonds are to be taken by a syndicate composed of the leading foreign and American banking houses which have made propositions. They will take the whole amount and place them on the market, and there is every indication that they will be promptly absorbed both at home and abroad.

Cadinal Antonelli, prime minister to the Pope, is in a dying condition.

The Live Oak base ball club, of Lynn, has disbanded. The club was the leading amateur organization in New England, and has broken up on account of its pitcher, Bradley, having joined the Bostons in the same capacity.

The heaviest loser by the enforcement of the license law in Boston, since the seizures began, is John McDonald, 188 Charles street, whose place was visited by the police on Thursday afternoon and 414 gallons of various liquors confiscated.

The liabilities of a suspended iron-working firm in the Cleveland district, in England, amount to $5,000,000. Another large iron firm in the same district is embarrassed.

"Wild Bill," who was lately killed in a Western saloon, is said to have caused the violent death of at least two hundred human beings. Few will regret his fate at the hands of a brother of one of his victims.

On Monday night, the 21st, Dr. E. A. Dimmick and Mr. C. M. Crofoot, with their wives, started from Newburyport in the sloop yacht "Lizzie" for a fishing excursion. During the night they ran up to the Isles of Shoals, the wind blowing a gale from the northwest and every sail being reefed. Finding it too rough to land they anchored. The anchor dragged, and morning found them about ten miles to leeward of the Shoals, with their tiller broken, the jib torn to tatters and the boat leaking rapidly. It required the united exertions of the whole party to bale out water, so they could get no time to eat. Half a ton of ballast was thrown over, which eased the craft some. A shawl was hoisted as a signal of distress, and a steamer passed by without noticing them, but on Tuesday afternoon at 4 o'clock, the schooner Arequipa, Capt. Patrick Connell, bore down and rescued the party eight miles from Halibut Point. Capt. Connell says the party were so exhausted that they must have sunk in a few hours. The captain and crew gave up their berths and did everything in their power to relieve the castaways, taking the boat and party into Newburyport on Thursday night.

Serious repulses for the Turks, in attacks upon the Servians, have occurred at Alexinatz. The fighting extended over three days, the Turks being unable to get near the Servian entrenchments at all. The Servians have retaken several important points from which they were driven some time ago. The British investigator (Schuyler) into the Bulgarian outrages reports that the Turks burned 170 villages and murdered 60,000 Christians; he will suggest to his government the following measures: the hanging of the four leaders in these atrocities, the disarming of the Mussulmans and the rebuilding of the burnt villages at the government expense. As these measures cannot be left to the authorities, Mr. Schuyler will propose a foreign Commission to see that they be executed.

A boat containing seven persons was swamped near Guysboro', N. S., on the 22d, and three young ladies and a young man were drowned.

Edward H. Harper, of Lewiston, Me., was garroted and robbed of $60 in Boston on the evening of the 23d, by some men whom he met in a drinking saloon. He could not tell the police where the saloon was, nor who the robbers were; but officer Look was detailed to work up the case, and the next evening arrested a notorious thief named Wheelwright, in the saloon where Harper first met him; and the scamp will probably go to State prison for highway robbery.

Tramps have become a terrible nuisance to the farmers of Maryland. They travel in gangs, and when refused food and quarters to their liking take revenge by burning the offender's house and barns and destroying his crops. In some cases the outlaws can be driven off only by shooting them in the legs.

The fighting at Alexinatz, between the Turks and Servians, is still going on. Both sides have been heavily re-enforced, and a genuine victory for either party will be well-nigh decisive.

Political.

The democrats look for large accessions this fall. Remnants of prehistoric men are turning up here and there.—Chicago Times (dem.)

The Texas Legislature is not held in high esteem even by the democratic press. The San Antonio Herald says: "A dead body of an unknown man has been found near Austin. Austin is a famous place for finding the dead bodies of unknown men. The Legislature there is another dead body of unknown men, that is somewhat decomposed, however, if we judge by the stench it is in the nostrils of all honest men."

Next to the choice of Mr. Evarts himself, we count that of Gov. Morgan the best that could have been made. He is a man long trained in public service, of unimpeachable record, and unquestioned fidelity to the best elements and tendencies of the republican party. He will command the support of all dissatisfied elements, and will make a stirring canvass. We believe he can get enough doubtful votes to be elected, and to carry the State for Hayes and Wheeler.—N. Y. Tribune.

Mr. Morgan is a strong candidate aside from the fact that nomination restores harmony in the distracted party. He is an able and experienced party tactician. He is well known to the business men of this city and enjoys their confidence to as great a degree as Governor Tilden himself. He has the prestige of being a great "war Governor." He is among the hardest of hard money men, and nobody doubts his straight-forward sincerity on this great question. The nomination of Mr. Rogers for the second place is one of the best that could have been made, and the ticket, as a whole, will be a very hard one to beat.—N. Y. Herald.

The Chicago Times (dem.) is quite candid in admitting as a fact that there are "no other democrats than those of the 'damphool' species in this country."

During the attack of the democratic roughs upon the republican procession in Burlington, Vt., on the evening of the 22d, Hon. George Nichols, secretary of the State central committee of Vermont, was struck with a large stone; several other persons were hit with stones, and one man, from Milton, received severe cuts on the cheek and back of the head. When such a spirit of aggressive intolerance is manifested by the democracy of enlightened Vermont, what wonder that the ignorant "poor white trash" of South Carolina and Georgia introduce Mississippi tactics into those States.

The leading democratic paper of Brooklyn, the Argus, one of the ablest papers in the State of New York, opposed Tilden's nomination on the ground that he was a rank fraud, and has opposed him ever since on the same grounds. It issued on the 23d a "campaign sheet," several columns being devoted to setting forth the facts in Tilden's public career. The New Haven Union (dem.) says: "If a 'barrel of money' would buy up the Argus and prevent it from ventilating the truth, the sham 'reformer' would find it a judicious investment to so expend his ill-gotten gains. The Argus, however, is not of that stamp. It is convinced that Tilden is a first-class political imposter and fraud, and, like the Union, believes it is doing a patriotic duty in holding him up to public scorn."

—Mr. Finger of New York has patented a new thimble.

The committee appointed at the State Reform Club Convention held in Concord last February, to arrange for a camp-meeting the coming autumn, have decided to hold such a meeting at the Winnepisaukee camp-meeting grounds at Weir's Landing, beginning Monday evening, September 4, and closing September 15. It is expected that Wendell Phillips, John B. Gough, Rev. A. A. Miner, Rev. L. D. Barrows, Mrs. Mary A. Livermore and other distinguished speakers will be present. Transportation will be furnished at reduced rates, and board at reasonable prices.

The coroner's jury continues to take evidence in the case of the murder of the Turney boy at Manchester, but the affair is a mystery as yet.

Two brutal murders have been committed in Cheshire county within a short time, and so far no clue to the murderers has been discovered. Mr. Foster was found dead in a schoolhouse yard at Keene, and Mr. Perry in a dying condition in his cellar at Swanzey.

Saturday excursions from Dover, to the Centennial, going through from Boston without change of cars, will begin Sept. 2.

Charles Riddle, for entering the house of Adeline Huse at Weare, on the night of the 21st, was bound over in $1000 in the Police Court. A confederate escaped arrest by taking to Piscataquog river.

Mr. Franklin Wiggin of Thornton, with another man, recently ran down a bear after a chase of two days, and killed him with their rifles. His weight was estimated to be about 500 pounds, and he had a large trap on one of his feet when captured.

Thornton has a silver mine which is said to yield $90 per ton.

Early Monday morning deputy post-master Leavitt was standing at the delivery window when two little ragged four-year-olds came in unnoticed. One of them gave the glass a smart rap, and said, "Mister, got any postage cards?" Upon receiving an affirmative answer, he asked, "How do you sell 'em?" He was told one cent apiece, and said, "I will take ten." The good natured deputy counted and reached out the ten cards, and the little shaver grabbed them and darted like lightning from the office, in his hurry forgetting to pay for them. The deputy went to the door in season to see him running up the square past the Town Hall, and then walked back into the office, feeling too full for utterance.—Exeter News-Letter.

Sly Samuel.

Of Tilden's political manœuvres George Alfred Townsend thus writes from Saratoga:

The character of Samuel Tilden is the matter in hand. Enter State Senator James Gerard.

"You had a respectable legislature last year, Senator Gerard?"

"Yes, as good a legislature as human society can expect. The knife was put to every scheme of corruption."

"Was Tilden's influence efficient to supervise that unusual reformation?"

"It was not directly apparent, but yet the impetus he had given affairs, the consciousness that he was there, ready to veto any evil deed, had its effect, I have no doubt."

"Did he make himself known to the legislature directly?"

"Oh, no; Mr. Tilden is a reticent, not a social, magnetic person. He works upon the public by his own processes. He uses mails and the press. His missives and letters and lithograph circulars go through the post by the bushel, and you never know when he is not in the press. I live three doors from him on Gramercy Park. He is not known to anybody in the neighborhood much, but he has an arsenal there, a sort of political factory."

"How is that used?"

"He has a large library, which he well understands, and a number of clerks; one to attend to business, another to the press, another to politics, etc. These are increased as necessity or opportunity suggests. He carries on a campaign in politics like a merchant manufacturer. No such system has ever been known in this country with a political leader. He reaches every school district with his organization. Each appointment is made with a full appraisement of its utility for larger purposes. Being rich and a bachelor, he has a great advantage, and I think he is as clever a writer of political papers as we have ever had."

"What persons does he trust around him?"

"Young Pelton, his nephew, passes upon his appointments to office. His active finger is little Apgar of Ithaca, who has plenty of aplomb and quickness of resources. He confers with Andrew H. Green on some kinds of subjects. Dorsheimer has done some good work for him."

Dorsheimer, I may add, set the Sun on the World to allege that Colonel Thomas A. Scott had purchased the latter. He recently remarked that Scott was not now against Tilden, but had been, because he had not had an understanding with Uncle Sammy.

"Why doesn't Tilden set up Green for Governor?"

"That was the game, I think. Bills were presented to us which would have made Andrew H. Green the dictator of New York and master of its delegation in the convention. We wiped them out."

"Has Dorsheimer Tilden's support for Governor?"

"I don't know. He is a man such as we require in politics, educated and respectable. I think very well of Dorsheimer. He did very good work for Tilden at St. Louis. Were you there?"

"No, sir."

"It was the most extraordinary convention ever held. Tilden's forces were marshalled by the strongest set of people ever seen in politics, real negotiants. Corruption was charged. Tilden had his fighting men as well as Tammany. The history of that convention ought to be written."

A Lesson Taught by Experience.

Among the many valuable lessons taught by experience, there is not one of greater moment to the invalid portion of the community than the following, viz: That alterative treatment is only permanently successful when aided by invigoration. When the functions of the body are disordered, the use of a genial tonic with which corrective properties are combined is the speediest means of regulating them. Such a tonic is Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, the most popular, as it is the best article of its class. For more than twenty-five years it has been used with signal success as a remedy for, and preventive of malarial fevers, as a means of imparting strength to the debilitated, and as a curative of dyspepsia, biliousness, constipation, kidney troubles and uterine weakness. Not only have multitudes of those whom it has cured borne testimony in its behalf, but it has been repeatedly commended by the medical profession and the press.

The No. 8 "Delmonico" Range, with reservoir and closet, weighs 525 lbs. Other ranges, made principally to look at, weigh from 100 to 150 lbs. less, and, strange to relate, cost nearly as much. It is wise economy to buy a "Delmonico" Range.

AN HOUR SAVED.—The cars of the "Norwich Line" leave the New York and New England Railroad depot, foot of Summer street, Boston, an hour later than any other Sound line. The rates by this line are the lowest, the cars are of the best, the boats are first-class, and the patronage is in consequence immense.

Safely and Certainly that great external remedy, GLENN'S SULPHUR SOAP, removes cutaneous eruptions by opening the pores whose obstruction was the cause of the difficulty. Test and you will indorse it. Depot, Crittenton's No. 7 Sixth Avenue.

No medicine chest is complete without Adamson's Botanic Cough Balsam.

Teeth like orient pearls set in cushions of rose,
A breath like the perfume the toilet bestows;
These are charms to win hearts when all other charms fade,
But they can't be preserved without SOZODONT'S aid.

TO THE CENTENNIAL.—Ever since the opening of the New York and New England Railroad from Boston to Philadelphia without change of cars, this route has grown in favor with the travelling public as the best, cheapest and most expeditious method of transit to our great national exhibition. A card elsewhere informs the public where to apply for full particulars.

LYON'S KATHAIRON prevents the Hair from falling out or turning gray, renews its growth, and gives strength and vigor. It is delightfully perfumed, and makes a splendid dressing. It is the cheapest and most desirable Hair Tonic ever produced. Used by the elite. Price only 50 cents.

Important to persons visiting New York or the Centennial. The Grand Union Hotel, New York, opposite the Grand Central Depot, has over 350 elegantly furnished rooms. Elevator, steam and all improvements. European plan. Carriage hire is saved, as baggage is taken to and from the depot free. Guests can live better for less money at the Grand Union than at any other first-class hotel. Stages and cars pass the Hotel constantly to all parts of the city, and to the Philadelphia depot.

JOTTINGS.

Dr. Sawyer will preach in the Universalist Church to-morrow.

The ward room building near the Eastern Railroad station looks all the better for a fresh coat of paint.

Mr. Wm. E. Hadley has considerably improved the March estate at the corner of Elm street, recently purchased by him.

Westward the work of the Street Commissioner takes its way—or in other words, a new cross-walk has been laid on Middle street across the head of Madison street. Now let us see the walk across Chestnut street on the west side of State street, near Dr. Parsons' residence, relaid.

The can buoy recently carried away from its moorings in the river by a passing vessel is being repaired at the navy yard.

The new telegraph line is extending its poles Doverward over the North road.

The U. S. S. Huron leaves for Boston this (Saturday) morning, to go into dock. She is an iron steamer and needs only to be cleaned from grass, etc., adhering below her water line.

The concert by the "Artistes' Quartette" of ladies, at the Appledore House on Thursday evening, attracted some fifty or more attendants from this city, steamer Appledore making a special return trip after the entertainment. The members of the quartette have voices of remarkable sweetness and beauty, and the finish of their style in concerted pieces is almost absolutely perfect. Appledore Hall was crowded with guests of the two Shoals hotels and the visitors from the shore, and the audience expressed enthusiastic delight over the concert.

A. P. Rockwell has been chosen President of the Eastern Railroad and will enter upon his duties at once.

We understand the insurance companies positively refuse to pay their respective risks on the Bowdoin House at York beach, recently burned.

Edward P. Kimball, Esq., having given bonds of $50,000, as assignee of the Rockingham Ten Cents Savings Bank, acceptable to the Court, the Bank Commissioners on Thursday placed the institution in his control, subject only to the orders of the Court. It is an appointment in which the unfortunate depositors and the public will have the fullest confidence.

Portsmouth Grange will have the annual Grange picnic at Dow's Grove, on Wednesday, August 30th; and the annual grand mass-meeting and picnic of all the Granges in the county will be held at Boar's Head early in September.

The Heavy Artillery, Capt. Williams, have received an invitation from Messrs. Campbell & Jewett, of Hotel Wentworth, Newcastle, to a complimentary company supper at that resort, and have accepted it, for Thursday evening of next week.

There are now on Hedding camp meeting grounds a large and constantly increasing number of people. The private cottages begin to look quite lively, a large majority of them being occupied. The society tents are mostly open and those of cloth are all, or mostly all, spread. Portsmouth corner looks particularly well. The church has just completed one of the best wooden tents on the ground; Mrs. S. W. Clarke has had a neat little cottage built, and Mr. Silas Philbrick has a commodious and roomy one in process of erection. The family of John E. Giddings, Esq., are occupying their beautiful little cottage, and the family of Mr. Wm. H. Noyes are stopping at the camp ground. The camp meeting commences on Monday.

The largest and most attractive signs (two of them) in the city were put up on Friday on the front of the building where Morse & Ilsley carry on their insurance business. Mr. Edward D. Coffin did the work.

In tearing down the partitions in the old dwelling house at the jail, the workmen find concealed behind the plastering a large and choice assortment of rubbish, old bones, rags, egg-shells, etc., the accumulated results of many years' industry on the part of innumerable rats. Skeletons and dried-up mummies of the long-tailed workers are often met with, and on Friday morning a specimen seventeen inches in length was shown us.

Mr. William P. Israel, the newly appointed surveyor of highways for District No. Three, has greatly improved Lafayette road since his advent to office by causing the removal of the loose stones which had been accumulating for a long time.

The Boston Post says "The notorious schooner Jefferson Borden is now in Portsmouth, N. H., being unladen of coal. The crew have all left her and gone to Boston. They complained sadly of their treatment while on board."

Parties desiring medicines and necessary articles (other than wines and liquors) at any hour of the day or night, Sundays included, can procure the same of Mr. Edmund P. Philbrook, Apothecary, at Dr. Potter's office, No. 2 Market street, over Hill's drug store; up one flight. Every care paid to the compounding of physicians' prescriptions, from chemically pure drugs.

While several boys were playing with a pistol, Friday afternoon, it was accidentally discharged and a lad named Charles Glines, about fourteen years old, was shot in the bowels, it is feared fatally.

Dickey Lingard in Trouble.

Probably the idea never popped into the head of a single individual of the large audiences that nightly crowded the California Theatre during the Lingard engagement to sympathize with the trials and tribulations of the "Two Orphans"—Alice and Dickey Lingard—that these two affectionate darlings, with the head of the one pressed so lovingly and confidingly on the bosom of the other, would ever be separated or torn asunder. Yet such is the case. From far off Australia the story comes freighted with Dickey's woe. It appears that a short time after her safe arrival in Sidney, Miss Dickey became dazzled with a very prepossessing Mr. D. Dalziel, the editor, publisher, and struggler with a little evening paper called the Sydney Echo. Now Dalziel was an adept in the art of fascination. He fathomed at once the extent of Dickey's blindness and then the Pierre he played would have doubtly discounted the original article. He not only told the orphan that he loved her, but represented that he was a man of immense landed property, with a villa at Kingston-on-Thames and a snug little interest in as many London theatres as petite Dickey could count on her jewelled fingers. On top of this he trotted out his pedigree and showed the already bewildered orphan how, when, and where the ancient Dalziels came over with William the Conqueror. Then he kept a magnificent team of flyers, handled the ribbons well, and was in every respect just what he advertised himself to be. Why not take him? Dickey put the question to herself one quiet evening, and the result was that she married him ere the curtain was rung down on the first act of the sentimental drama. The marriage consummated, Sir Dalziel at once sold out his Sydney paper, and accompanied by his bride, went to Melbourne, where William Horace was under engagement, and there commenced the publication of the Melbourne Echo, in connection with Edward Ellis. William Horace, with his accustomed liberality, advanced the needful capital, on the express understanding that the paper should be run in his interest and for his glory. This mutual admiration society prospered wonderfully, till one day a rival dramatic manager, falling to get the notice he thought he deserved, wrote out a communication which he caused to be published in the Echo as an advertisement. When William Horace Thomas, alias Lingard, read it, he immediately flew into a passion, refused to advance any more money, and the first thing that Sir Daziel knew, the click of the Sheriff's padlock was heard on the door of the Echo establishment. Then there was music in the air. Alice Dunning, as a matter of course, took sides with William Horace, and Dickey took Sir Daiziel out under a blue gum tree and demanded an explanation. She got it. Her lord frankly admitted that he wasn't worth a cent, that the villa on the Thames was all a snare and a delusion, and capped the climax by informing the misguided girl that he was heavily in debt—that his team and even his wardrobe was in the hands of the officer, and that the outlook for the future was decidedly blue. Dickey dropped a silent tear or two over this most dismal state of affairs, went into the house and scrambled her hair, and then took Sir Dalziel and left for parts unknown. The creditors of the Echo got together, put Ellis in charge, and William Horace and Alice Dunning, bereft of favorable mention, took to the provinces to replenish the somewhat depleted exchequer. It is the general impression that Dickey, after having put Sir Dalziel to work on some sheep ranch in the bush, will again return to the boards and the other orphan, but there are those who stoutly maintain that the breach is too wide to be soon closed, and that the Dalziel and the Lingard families are henceforth and forever strangers.—San Francisco Chronicle.

The "China-boy."

A "China-boy" has no end of "cousins" (sounding that i as it sounds in pin,) in this respect out-Biddying Biddle a hundred fold. From one to half a dozen Chinamen will loiter round a kitchen if they dare, and one may feel certain that every Chinese of them is hungry. To be hungry seems, indeed, their normal condition, for they live by scores in their wash-houses and other haunts, subsisting on the smallest modicum of food in order to save money. When they drop into our kitchens to call on a comrade therefore, one may be certain that those bright little sloping eyes are on the alert for forage. We have happened suddenly down stairs and found such a visitor in the closet, his hand in the sugar-bowl. A neighbor met another emerging from the pantry, eating pie. When thus confronted, they laugh and leave immediately. Not a word is said in self-defense, and the housekeeper's consolation is, that they do not dare to take any but small quantities.

But it makes housekeeping with them not a state of entire confidence. It is quite a question whether or not to put things under lock and key. If trusted, they seem to put themselves upon honor, not to allow, at all events, any large amounts to be abstracted. This, and the fact that no drudgery of locking can really prevent theft, determines most housekeepers, we think, in favor of open closets. Whether this ingrained habit of pilfering is at once eradicated in those who accept Christianity, we do not know; but we have been told by returned missionaries that they have to settle the same question, with about the same solution.—Scribner for Sept.

—A fascinating young widow having married again, annoyed her second husband by frequent references to the first, whereat he finally remonstrated. "I dare say," replied the fond creature, pouting her pretty lips, "that you'll be glad to have me remember you when you are dead and gone and I'm married again."

—A frontiersman suggests the following benevolent plan for clearing out the "Injuns." He says: "If I wuz the gover'ment I'd buy lots of barrels of whiskey and lots o' big knives, and I'd put 'em somewhar in the West an' invite every redskin in the hull land to what they call a conference. After they'd got thar I'd knock in the head o' the barrels and scatter the knives all round loose so they'd be handy. Then I'd go away and leave the Injuns to themselves. Of course they'd take the whiskey and the knives, and before sundown thar wouldn't be more than one redskin left, and then I'd go and knock his brains out afore he could do any more damage. That, sir, 's the only reel way to settle the Injun question. I've been among 'em, an' I know. Plenty of whiskey an' long knives'll fix 'em out, an' nothing else will."

DIED.

LAIGHTON. In Charlestown, Mass., Aug. 16, Julia A. Laighton, wife of William F. Laighton, U. S. N., and only daughter of the late Capt. Daniel Freeman, of Steuben, Maine, aged 35 years.

NOTICE.

Owing to the enforcement of a City Ordinance against the sale on the Sabbath day of intoxicating liquors, cigars, confectionery and other unnecessary articles, the apothecaries of this city have seen fit to close their stores on that day, thereby rendering it difficult to obtain articles necessary for the sick, with the apparent intention of coercing the public. Therefore, notice is hereby given that on the Sabbath day

PILOT BREAD.
This kind of bread having come into extensive family use, it has been my purpose to furnish, from choice materials, an article which should meet the approval of the most fastidious as to neatness, looks and taste. Whether I have succeeded in giving to the public a PILOT BREAD

SUPERIOR IN EXCELLENCE,

the consumer may be the judge; that the quality will not be suffered to depreciate, the past with the present is my best pledge. That I can compete with all the various qualities of Pilot Bread in the market, as to price, I make no pretensions,—but in price, all things being equal, I fear no competition.
JOHN PEARSON, Jr.,

In justice to myself, and that those who prefer
PEARSON'S FAMILY PILOT BREAD

COOKED
CORNED BEEF.
Articles are being published calculated to prejudice the public against using Cooked Corned Beef, and we would say in answer to them that in no instance has positive proof been established to show that such is the case.
Our goods are packed in a manner very similar to that of Corn, Tomatoes, Fruit and canned goods generally, (which have long been tested) and we use nothing whatever of a poisonous nature in their preparation.
In addition to our own statement we have the strong endorsement of Prof. Hosford of Cambridge, one of the most eminent Chemists in the country, who has fully tested and is familiar with the entire details of the preparation of our goods.
We would also state that we use none but the choicest of Beef that our Chicago market affords, and trust that with these statements the rapidly growing popularity of our Corned Beef may be increased.
For the information of those not knowing the fact we would state that in the process of canning there is a liability of imperfect sealing, which causes the can to expand. Meat contained in such cans is unfit for use and will be cheerfully paid for when returned to any grocer selling it.

How to Trap Owls.

A farmer writes to the Ohio Farmer that he has succeeded in taking about twenty hen-hawk in a steel trap, by setting the trap on the upper end of a square pole some twenty feet high, with the butt end firmly planted in the ground. E. Gaylord writes in relation to capturing owls: "When I suspect the owls are about to commence their mischief, I get a stick suitable for the place, and fasten a small steel trap on the top, and set it up some three or four feet above. If an owl comes anywhere near he will be very sure to settle down in the trap with as calm and as graceful an air as an owl is capable of putting on. This is a trait in the owl quite peculiar to himself. He seldom pounces on his victim the first thing, like other birds of prey, but first comes slowly along, and settles down on some conspicuous site near the victims, and takes a very calm and cool survey of all the surroundings. As soon as all things appear to him to be favorable, he quietly lets himself down among the fowls, hoping to induce some of their number to fly off or drop down from the roost, when he, quick as thought, embraces the opportunity to swoop down and carry off the fowl. I used to fasten the trap with a staple, on top of the stick, but I find this gives them a much better chance to tear themselves out of the trap. Now, I fasten it slightly on top, and firmly to the stick some two feet below the trap, with a chain or cord."

Didn't Affect His Lease.

A medical student rents a room from a lodging-house keeper, who makes it a special condition in the lease that no skeletons, skulls, bones, or anatomical preparations whatever shall be brought into the house. Some time afterward the student meets him and says: "Will you step over to the house? I have something to show you." The landlord, thinking that perhaps some repairs or alterations were needed, follows him without suspicion. The tenant draws a curtain.

"What, a complete skeleton?" cries the surprised landlord, whose hair stands on end.

"Yes; it is well put together, is it not? I did it all myself. It is a she skeleton."

"Wretched man! You remember the terms of your lease?"

"Perfectly. Don't be afraid. I brought her here alive!"—Paris Figaro.

SURE CURES AND LOW PRICES.

Dr. YOUNG,

SUCCESSOR TO

Dr. TELLER,

DECEASED.

The above named private Hospital was established in Albany in 1853 by Dr. Lispenard and for a number of years its affairs were presided over by that gentleman, but for the past 20 years, Dr. Teller, who is now deceased, transacted the business of the Institution.

Owing to the great demand for more spacious apartments on account of the large increase of business, the Hospital has been removed to No. 9 Beaver Street, two doors above its old location, where patients will find magnificently furnished rooms for their reception, and are so arranged that patients do not come in contact with one another, access only the doctor, thereby avoiding the unpleasantness of meeting others, which always occurred at the old office.

LADIES will find rooms provided for their especial accommodation and entirely private.

YOUNG MEN, addicted to secret habits, who have impaired their health and destroyed the vigor of their minds, thus depriving themselves of the pleasures of married life and also those afflicted with private diseases of any nature, are advised that in consulting Dr. Young they will find a physician fully qualified to cure and restore them to full health and manly vigor.

Dr. Teller's great work for the married, or those contemplating marriage—100 pages—full of plates,—price 25 cents. Sent to all parts, under seal, by mail post paid.

TO THE LADIES—DR. YOUNG still retains the only agency in America for the sale of Dr. Vichot's Italian Female Monthly Pills. Sent by mail on receipt of $1.00, price per box.

DR. YOUNG is the only agent for Dr. La Mott's celebrated Galvanic Belts.

Invalids out of the city can be cured by consulting the Doctor by letter, and enclosing remittance. Medicines sent by mail or express, securely packed from observation. All letters must be addressed to DR. S. V. R. YOUNG, 9 Beaver St., Albany, N. Y.

MAGIC

CONDITION PILLS!

The Wonderful Remedy for Liver Complaint, Biliousness, Dyspepsia, Constipation, Neuralgia, Rheumatism, Headache, Kidney Complaints, Nervousness, Scrofula, Piles, and all diseases arising from a bad state of the Blood!

No medicine ever offered to the public has given such universal satisfaction as Dr. Quain's Magic Condition Pills. Their praises are on every tongue where their merits are known. They strike at once at the seat of disease and show their healing power almost immediately. Thousands of voluntary testimonials of their merits have been received by the agent, from those who have been cured by them, of which the following are samples:

Dyspepsia Four Years, Constipation and Inflammation of the Bowels Three Years, Confined to my Room Two Years, Pain so I Could Not Sleep Without Morphine. One Package of Dr. Quain's Condition Pills Made Me Eat Well, Sleep Well and Free from Pain, after being given up by Physicians.

WEST LEBANON, ME., Feb. 22, 1

MR. THOMAS W. LANE:—I have been sick for four years with Dyspepsia, and for the past three years Constipation and Inflammation of the Bowels. I have suffered all the pain I could endure and live. I have been confined to my room for two years, and could not sleep nights without the use of morphine. I have been given up by physicians as past cure. I have taken one package of DR. QUAIN'S CONDITION PILLS, and they have done me more good than all the doctors I have had. I sleep well, I eat well and have no pain. They are all they are recommended to be. Please send me three packages, as two of my neighbors wish to try them. I enclose $1.50.

Your truly, JOHN W. LORD.

Another Letter from Maj. John W. Lord, one month later. Wonderful Cures by Dr. Quain's Pills Effected on Him in Thirteen Days. First time Free from Pain for Three Years.

WEST LEBANON, ME., March 22, 1875

MR. THOMAS W. LANE:—I commenced taking DR. QUAIN'S CONDITION PILLS February 9th, and wrote you February 22d of their wonderful effect. I have continued to improve ever since. My appetite is good, and I sleep as well as I ever did in my life. I am free from pain for the first time in three years. When I was taken sick four years ago, I weighed one hundred and eighty-six pounds; I now weigh one hundred and three, and am gaining in strength, I have faith I shall regain my flesh this summer, by the use of the Pills. I shall continue taking them for some time to come.

Yours truly, JOHN W. LORD.

Dr. Quain's Pills the Remedy for Soldiers' Aches and Pains.

WEST LEBANON, ME., June 1, 1875.

MR. THOMAS W. LANE—Dear Sir:—I am now able to walk any distance, and am doing as strength very fast, all of which is due to you as agent for the best Pills in the world. I have taken no other medicine, and my improvement has been steady since first taking DR. QUAIN'S CONDITION PILLS. They have done everything for me, and I will say to you advertise them, direct to the soldiers, for they will certainly cure them of aches and pains caused from exposure and hardship on the field. Please send me by return mail another package.

JOHN W. LORD.

Rheumatism for Twenty Years Cured by One Package of Dr. Quain's Condition Pills—"The Best Medicine in the World."

EAST ANDOVER, N. H., Dec. 10, 1875.

MR. LANE—Dear Sir:—As I know the value of DR. QUAIN'S CONDITION PILLS and the good they have done me, I take pleasure in giving them praise; so I send you another testimonial. My father has been troubled with Rheumatism for twenty years, and he has tried everything that could be thought of, but to no good. At times it would be so bad that he could not lift his hand to his head or do any work at all, especially in cold weather. A short time ago I advised him to get some of these Pills. He believed nothing in them, but I gave him the last package I had of you, as I did not need them, and he has not been a sufferer from the Rheumatic Complaint for years. No Rheumatism, no pain. What helped him? It was DR. QUAIN'S CONDITION PILLS, the best medicine in the world. There is nothing like them. I know it, for I have tried them, and they are all, yes, more than they are recommended to be. Give them a fair trial and you will say so. I write this because I know the goodness of them and wish others to know the same. Some may think I am telling a big story. I am. But remember I am not giving them half the praise they ought to have.

Yours with respect, ED. F. PEVARE.

DAINGERFIELD, MORRIS CO., TEXAS, Nov. 15, '75.

MR. THOMAS W. LANE—Dear Sir:—I have been afflicted for near twelve years with Neuralgia in the face and head. I tried I do not know how many physicians, and could only get partly relieved. I also tried many patent medicines with the same result. I have been confined to my room most all the time for eight or ten winters, and have been traveling and visiting medical physicians, and I suffered most intensely. The physicians pronounced my case the worst and most stubborn that they had had anything to do with. One told me I could never get well; they all advised me to go South and spend the winter, and thought that was the only chance for me, and I was trying to get ready to go to Florida, when through the kindness of Rev. H. M. Mathis, my attention was called to the advertisement of Dr. Quain's Magic Condition Pills. I immediately sent to you for a package. I have taken four doses and I am almost free from pain. The improvement I feel seems to be that if your pills will cure me, they will cure anybody. I have five applications to send for the pills. Enclosed please find three dollars; send five packages to me and one to Mrs. Laura Sherrell, Sulphur Springs, Hopkins county, Texas.

Yours truly, J. S. PATTON.

Liver Complaint, Nervousness, Dropsy and Headache.

LAGONIA, N. H., Jan. 29, 1875.

THOS. W. LANE—Sir:—I have been troubled with Bad Blood, Liver Complaint, Nervousness, Dropsy and Headache. I took one package of DR. QUAIN'S CONDITION PILLS. They have done me more good than all the medical laver took; I have taken considerable medicine within the last five years. For the nerves I think there is nothing so good as those pills. I can recommend them to all who are similarly afflicted, they have done me so much good. I think they will recommend themselves wherever they go. I shall recommend those Pills to all who need them. Please send me two packages more, one for myself and one for a lady friend of mine. Many thanks to the inventor, agent and advertiser of those Pills.

MAGIC

is a new discovery. Twenty-three years ago it was used by one of New England's most famous physicians as the best Pulmonary Curative he could prescribe, after a dozen years spent in experimenting with it before he was satisfied that the Materia Medica could add nothing in its favor.

Is the ultima thule of Medical Discovery.

Among its many ingredients are Wild Cherry Bark, Squill Root, Liquorice Root, Blood root, &c. It is a Blood Purifier, gently stimulating. It increases expectoration and is diuretic. It is sudorific and alterative. It is a necessary family medicine. It is a Tonic and a powerful aid to the digestive organs. It is a gentle sedative, and relieves nervousness. It is aromatic and agreeable to the taste.

CLEAR YOUR THROAT!

Relieve Your Lungs.

For the terrible diseases engendered by the lungs trying climate of New England,

PULMOCINE CORDIAL

Is a speedy and reliable Preventive and Remedy. Every Family should have a bottle at hand to check the sudden growth of all Pulmonary Diseases. For the Asthma, Coughs, Croups, Laryngitis, or inflammation of the larynx, Diphtheria, and all kindred Throat Diseases at all times prevalent, it is the ounce of Prevention. Children attacked with Whooping Cough or Croup should be immediately cared for. These painful attacks come with scarcely a moment's warning, when a physician may be out of immediate reach. A dose of PULMOCINE CORDIAL gives speedy relief, and the little ones are spared hours of pain and agony. As "a stitch in time saves nine," so does the possession of this Family Medicine prevent the spread of disease. Parents seeing their children gasping with pain, friends and relatives beholding each other in peril from suffocation by the choking pain in the throat, paralyzed with fear and not knowing the best course to pursue, are liable to apply the wrong remedial agent. There is no safety in delay, no time to waste in such cases. CONSUMPTION, that fearful scourge of the human race, lies at the door of all thus afflicted. BUCHMAN'S PULMOCINE CORDIAL arrests it (unless in its advanced stage at which time there is no local cure) relieves the pressing, suffocating feeling at the lungs, and the patient's danger is past.

For Coughs,

Croup,

Diphtheria,

Asthma, etc.,

—USE—

Buchman's Pulmocine Cordial.

The Pulmocine Cordial is not a quack medicine, is not an experiment, is not composed of any ingredients "discovered" by "walking in pastures" in South America or anywhere else, nor by one who discovered a weed and thereby cured himself. Most of the ingredients are such as our best educated physicians daily use for the complaints specified in some form or other. The recipe is that perfected by one of New England's most learned and famous physicians, who used it entirely in his daily practice until his death. It is offered to the profession and to the public, absolutely pure and unadulterated.

BUTTER IN 20 MINUTES.

Lincoln Butter Powder is an entirely harmless article imported from a celebrated English recipe, and now in daily use by many of the most noted farmers in the butter counties around Philadelphia.

In hot weather this Powder makes butter much firmer and sweeter than it usually is, and keeps it from turning rancid. It also removes the strong flavor of turnips, weeds, corn stalks, cotton seeds, etc.; and the increased yield of butter much more than pays the trifling expense of using it.

The New Hampshire State Fair.

The Executive officers of the State Agricultural Society have just issued the premium list for the Twenty-Second Annual Fair of the Society, to be held in the city of Manchester, Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday, Oct. 3, 4 and 5.

A fair depends wholly for existence and prosperity upon popular approval and support, and it lives and prospers only as the managers deal honorably and liberally with the public. In other words, it lives as it deserves to, and not otherwise. Our own State Fair has lived and prospered until it has become one of the permanent and popular institutions of the State. Under its present management, at least, it has kept faith with all patrons, both exhibitors and visitors, meeting all its obligations and answering all reasonable expectations. This has given the public faith in its promises and led it to accept them without discount, as sure to be fully redeemed. The Fair has lived many years, and has scattered among the stock raisers and farmers of the State a very large amount in premiums, encouraging inquiry, experiment and progress, and has done very much to stimulate the improvement which has marked the agricultural and mechanical labor of the State. Besides this, it has provided each year an exhibition at which have been gathered from all parts of the State, thousands of men, women and children, whose healthy acquaintance has been extended, and whose minds and bodies have been greatly refreshed and strengthened by this autumnal festival.

The Fair is strong in years, in the ability and experience of its officers, in public confidence, and well-to-do in funds. It is justified in making liberal promises, and the public which has patronized it so liberally is justified in expecting these promises to be met regardless of all contingencies. This much may be said in explanation of the fact, that in the Centennial presidential year, when times are hard and public attention is drawn to other subjects, the officers have answered the demands of their old patrons by issuing a premium list which is full of generous promises to all who are interested in our Fair. Six thousand dollars are promised as premiums for horses, cattle, sheep and other farm products. And this, with the interest which the officers and prominent farmers take in the matter, will ensure an exhibition of the choicest stock and crops, which skillful breeding, generous feeding and intelligent culture have been able to produce.

The inducements offered and the arrangements now being made for a large and attractive display of manufactured articles, both useful and ornamental, are upon the same liberal plan which has secured the success of previous years. The art department, which has been one of the most popular in past years, is to be a feature of the coming fair. In keeping with the spirit of the times there is to be added a Centennial department, in which will be collected a large display of costumes, machines, implements and heir-looms in use when the century was young, and designed to fully illustrate the customs and manner of life in the days when "we lived under the King." Such articles will be carefully guarded and reserved, and persons able to contribute to this department, will confer a favor by notifying the officers. Premiums to the amount of $200, are offered in this department.

The trotting premiums are such as to insure interesting races, and there is offered a special gold medal premium for the best cow of any breed, that produces the largest number of pounds of butter, of the best quality, in any ten consecutive days between the first day of June and the first day of October, 1876. A silver medal will be given to the second best cow in this class.

These, and the $50 purse for pulling oxen, will bring the best oxen and cows into competition, and doubtless secure a most interesting contest.

The usual arrangements for transporting articles for exhibitors free, and passengers at reduced rates, will be made with the railroads.

Of the location of the fair, little need be said; the grounds are the best in the State, convenient of access, roomy, well watered, filled with commodious and substantial exhibition buildings, comfortable barns and stock pens, good stands and an excellent track.

Old Bachelors.

Dio Lewis writes as follows: If there is any class of beings I do pity from the bottom of my heart, it is the class denominated old bachelors. When a woman remains single she generally makes herself a home, after a certain fashion, though it must necessarily be lacking in the chief elements of what constitutes a home. But the bachelor is but little better than an outcast. He is a wanderer in the world. He has made shipwreck of his happiness on the rocks of single life. If there can be anything more desolate than the old age of such a man I don't know what it is. Many years of observation have proved it to be a fact that nine out of every ten who have never married have been those who "knocked about" during the years in which they ought to have been laying the foundation of a happy home for their old age. Young men, don't be bachelors! When you conclude to live single until you get to be thirty or thirty-five, and "knock about" during that time you are doing the very worst thing you ever did. You are putting off "the day of salvation" and "sinning away the day of grace." Seeing the world as the man does who has to earn his living as he goes along amounts to very little. What he does see is nothing that helps him fight the battle of life more successfully. It only keeps him from habits which are in direct antagonism to a correct and happy and successful life, and when he gets through "knocking about" he has nothing to show for the misspent years save the habits which he must overcome if he would make anything of himself. Do you call that gain or loss? So, young man, take the advice of a man who has kept his eyes open for more years than you have lived, probably, and don't "knock around." If you think I have overdrawn the picture, look around you, and out of the men you know select those who have "knocked around" and see if they do not bear witness to the truth of every assertion I have made concerning the class they represent. Are they men you envy? I tell you, boys, "knocking around" makes a man good for nothing else, and I take it you have a desire for something higher in life.

Daily Chronicle.

MONDAY, AUGUST 28, 1876.

FOR PRESIDENT,

Rutherford B. Hayes,

OF OHIO.

FOR VICE PRESIDENT,

William A. Wheeler,

OF NEW YORK.

Hayes' Platform in War.

In 1864, when Hayes was in the army, being nominated for Congress he was requested to come home and stump his district. His reply was, "I have other business just now. Any man who would leave the army at this time to electioneer for Congress ought to be scalped!"

Hayes' Platform in Peace.

"Honest money for all, and free schools for all. There should be no inflation which will depreciate the one, nor sectarian interference which will destroy the other."

A Model "Reformer."

Samuel J. Tilden's reformatory soul is vexed whenever he thinks of the manner in which the wicked republicans have defrauded the government, and he is anxious to have the people elect as their chief magistrate a man of honor and probity, to wit, Samuel J. Tilden. He thinks they will do this; he knows that it was "the people" that nominated him, and that his wholesale subsidising of the press, the "barrel of money" and the efforts of Hon. John Morrissey and his bruisers at St. Louis, had nothing to do with it. "The people," said he, "did this; they want reform; and they know they can get it here" (pointing to himself.)

Now, it seems, Mr. Tilden was at one time not so anxious for the government to get its own as to be unwilling to turn an honest penny himself at its expense, which he managed to do by not making an income-tax return. He made one return, for the year 1862; but thereafter he allowed the assessor to guess at his income and add the one-half penalty, which brought the amount on which he paid the tax up to $15,000 per year—during the years when he was accumulating his present fortune of five or six millions by "wrecking railroads."

There is another queer circumstance in the great reformer's career, just brought out by the New York Times. On December 26, 1863, Mr. Tilden swore to a return, in which he said:

"I hereby certify that the following is a true and faithful statement of the gains, profits or income of Samuel J. Tilden of the city of New York and county of New York, State of New York, whether derived from any kind of property, rents, interests, dividends, salary, or from any profession, trade, employment, or vocation, or from any other source whatever, from the first day of January to the 31st day of December of 1862, both days inclusive, and subject to an income tax under the excise laws of the United States; income from all sources, seven thousand one hundred and eighteen dollars."

But in his answer to the complaint in the Circuit Court of the United States in the suit of the St. Louis, Alton and Terre Haute Railroad Company against himself and others, which answer was filed a few days ago, Mr. Tilden swore as follows:

"That for such services the defendant Tilden made a charge of $10,000 against said second mortgage bondholders, and the said charge was paid by or on behalf of said second mortgage bondholders on the 17th day of October, 1862. That the defendent Tilden, for a part of his services aforesaid, also made a charge of the like sum of $10,000 on account of professional services rendered to the first mortgage bondholders and the receivers, which was paid to him by the said Azariah C. Flagg, which payment appears under date of Nov. 7, 1862, in a statement annexed to the first report aforesaid as having been receipted for by the said Tilden 'on account of professional services.'"

That is, in 1863 Mr. Tilden was ready to swear and did swear that his income in 1862 from all sources was $7118; in 1876 the same Mr. Tilden, as a defence in a suit against him for swindling a railroad, swears that from that railroad alone in 1861 he received $20,000!

This is a serious charge to bring against any man; but more particularly so when brought against a man running for the highest office in the gift of the people, on the strength of his reputation as an honest man and a "reformer." But the paper making the charge is not obscure; it is a leading journal, and represents a large amount of property; and its conductors are well aware of what would be the result of making slanderous statements concerning a man of Mr. Tilden's legal ability and immense wealth. Yet it makes the charges noticed above, as boldly as it charged theft from cupon Tilden's old friends the Tweed ring years ago, when it had for months to fight the whole ring single-handed. And if Mr. Tilden cannot clear himself from this charge he will be in a very bad way for a "reformer."

News and Notes.

By the explosion of a cylinder of the Pacific Mail steamer "Colon," which left New York August 17 for Aspinwall, two men were killed and the steamer disabled. She was towed back to New York, arriving on the 26th.

The reduction of clerks in the various government departments promises to work great hardship to applicants for pensions in 1875. The force in the pension division of the Surgeon General's office was reduced twenty-seven in 1875, and during the year 5765 cases accumulated which could not be attended to, out of a total of 20,832 referred from the Pension Bureau. In all applications for pensions the case is referred to the Surgeon General for a medical history of the soldier, and the case cannot be decided until this history is returned. In the reduction to be made under recent legislation, the force is further reduced thirty-four, and the consequent accumulation of cases unacted upon will be more than double within the year. This will create a delay of nearly two years in settling pension applications. The cases referred last year were two thousand more than in the year before, and the number will be greater this year.

Steamer Idaho left Liverpool for New York recently with 600 Mormon emigrants on board.

Steamer "C. F. Funch", 1500 tons burden and valued at $200,000, has been burned on the voyage from New York to England.

Mrs. Paulina Wright Davis, the well known advocate of Woman's Rights, died in Providence on the 24th.

Mrs. George Prentice, who fell over a precipice sixty feet high in "Purgatory," at Sutton, Mass., on the 7th of July, and was terribly injured by the rocks below, died August 23d.

At Dayton, Ohio, on the 25th, James Murphy was hanged. The rope broke at the first attempt, and the miserable man fell to the ground. The second time the rope was doubled.

Many residents of Ward Six in Newburyport think it would be for their interest to become a town by themselves, and will apply for a charter at the next session of the Massachusetts Legislature.

The Cretans are becoming restive under the Turkish rule, and there has been a street fight at Retimo in which eight Turks were killed and a number of Greeks wounds. A Turkish squadron has been ordered to Crete.

New Hampshire Schools.

The official report of the show of school work by the several States, at the Centennial exposition, as published in the American Bookseller, refers to New Hampshire as follows:

"The school work shown by this State is all of a high order of excellence, especially that from the High Schools. The great number of these schools in so small a State with so few large towns is a matter of surprise. There seems to be no part of the State where a high school is not accessible. Portsmouth, Concord, Manchester, Nashua, Great Falls, and other towns send work of this higher grade, all creditable, and much of it especially good. The grammar schools of Manchester and Dover make a very favorable impression, and of the primary work, the music writing of children from eight to ten years of age deserves especial praise. All of the primary slate work is good."

The Pennsylvania School Journal says:

"The best styles of buildings in use are shown by photographs of interiors and exteriors of the New Hampton Institution, the Tilden Ladies' Seminary, the Conference Seminary and Female College, and the schools of Nashua, Concord, Dover, and other towns."

Tilden's Patriotism.

On the 1st of February, 1861, Samuel J. Tilden made a speech before the Tweddle Hall (Albany, N. Y.,) convention, which the official democratic paper of New York, the Albany Atlas and Argus, said "was loudly applauded." In that speech, according to the same authority, "He declared that he for one would resist under any and all circumstances the use of force to coerce the South into the Union."

Among the resolutions of the Tweddle Hall convention was the following:

Resolved, That we will, by all legitimate means, oppose, discountenance and prevent any attempt on the part of the republicans in power to make an armed oppression under the plea of "enforcing the laws," or "preserving the Union," upon the Southern States.

New Hampshire Items.

At Bristol, Friday, a young man giving his name as Harry H. Hollis was arrested for stealing a horse and buggy from a party living at or near Manchester. He arrived at Bristol Wednesday with a horse and gig, having traded the buggy away at some point on the road. He says that he is from New York State, but has no home or friends.

A meeting of the Irish citizens of Manchester was held Friday evening, and books were opened for subscription in aid of the late Fenian prisoners.

John Barnard, of Goffstown, a man about fifty years old, died suddenly in a fit Friday morning. He had been well until Thursday, but during the night he had had fifteen fits. Daniel Barnard of the same town cut his throat in his barn Friday morning. No cause is known for the act. He was about forty-five years old.

The Grangers of Goffstown and the adjoining towns, accompanied by the Goffstown Band, had a picnic at Lake Massabesic on Friday.

George B. Dyer, of Newport, fell from a load of bark on Friday and was killed. He was about 60 years old, and was highly respected.

Frank Boothby, of North Conway, was severely burned Thursday while extinguishing the flames of his wife's dress, which had caught from a fire.

Joseph T. Goss of Hookset, and Lowell Seavey of Loudon, died suddenly on the 25th of heart disease. Both were prominent citizens of their respective towns.

Political.

Mr. Bayard, now President of the Alton, Terre Haute and St. Louis Railroad, was a member (with Tilden) of the purchasing committee of that road; and he now acknowledges that he, Bayard, after disposing of the amount of bonds necessary to fulfill the conditions of his trust, had a surplus remaining in his hands of $131,000. That eventually he divided these bonds, in pursuance of the advice of Mr. Tilden, between the members of the purchasing committee.

The Westliche Post says that, immediately after Tilden's nomination at St. Louis, his friends called on Mr. Praetorius, Mr. Schurz's associate editor, and assured him that Mr. Tilden's first official act as President of the United States would be—if Schurz supported him—to nominate him for Secretary of State, or, if he preferred it, for Ambassador to Prussia.

Oswald Ottendorfer, of the New York Staats Zeitung, who has been heartily supporting Tilden, says to a Times reporter: "If Mr. Tilden cannot give a satisfactory explanation in this matter, (the income tax business) he is certainly not a fit candidate for the presidency."

"Tilden's surroundings are bad. If elected, he would take to the White House the worst set of political jobbers and thieves ever seen in Washington, and that is saying a good deal. It could not but be that a man educated in cunning, in hypocrisy, in iniquity, nominated in corruption and shameless effrontery, even though his millions could elect him, would give us the most corrupt administration the country has ever known."—Cincinnati Enquirer (dem.)

The most "telling" arguments in favor of Mr. Hayes' candidacy for the presidency are furnished by Southern journals that profess to favor the election of Mr. Tilden. When, for instance, the Mercury, of Meridian, in Mississippi, declares that "there is quite a margin for 'intimidation' between us and the boundaries of the law, and we can govern ourselves accordingly," it strikes a blow for Hayes which there is no parrying. "Reform is necessary" in the tone and character of Southern journalism, and it cannot be effected too soon.—Chicago Times (dem.)

The Dayton Journal says that ex-Governor Paris C. Dunning, of Indiana, a prominent democrat, has announced his intention to support Hayes and Wheeler.

Mr. Proctor Knott's friends spend hours every day at the gentleman's bedside trying to coax him to put his head out from under the quilt. "You'll smother," they say; "and besides, what if he is getting well enough to go around making speeches? He's away up in Maine and won't be back here for a month." But the only response is a quivering, tremulous motion of the bed-clothes and a nervous tucking of the quilts more closely around the imprisoned head, as though unseen fingers were gathering in a fresh grip on them.—Burlington Hawk-Eye.

Ten years ago James Parton wrote a pamphlet exposing the railroad rings of this country. In reference to the great railway ring of the Northwest, Parton said: "This plan (the railroad ring) was first adopted, as far as is known, in the United States, by an eminent lawyer of Wall street, S. J. Tilden. * * * Tilden (in 1866) controls through one ring over eleven hundred miles of railway, while he has great influence in eight hundred miles of which he is trustee."

What Dreams Are Made Of.

A newspaper correspondent tells the following:

How swiftly—with what lightning-like action, the soul passes through experiences in dreams, and how instantaneously we pass through seemingly long dreams, is thus illustrated by another fact in the experience of the writer. It was in the days of the camphene and burning-fluid era, you remember, that the wicks passed through long tubes that were about two inches above the lamp. Attached by a chain to each lamp were two metal extinguishers. At that time I was occupied in a business that occupied the latter part of the night, sleeping the first half. On the night in question my wife had failed to arouse me by calling me; so, taking the lamp in her hand, she came to the bedside to awaken me. From the time that the light of the lamp shone in my face until I was awake, I had gone to the engine house, helped to get out the machine, ran about three miles, and helped to put out the biggest kind of a fire, and awoke tired and sore, and fully impressed with the idea that I had labored at least three hours at the brakes, besides doing other "fire laddie" duty. And yet the fire was only the reflection of the lamp in my face and the horrid clatter of the fire bells was only the jingle of the extinguisher against the lamp. My all-night work, that made my arms and back ache so in reality, occupied not more than a few seconds, and thus the majority of dreams are made.

A Lesson Taught by Experience.

Among the many valuable lessons taught by experience, there is not one of greater moment to the invalid portion of the community than the following, viz: That alterative treatment is only permanently successful when aided by invigoration. When the functions of the body are disordered, the use of a genial tonic with which corrective properties are combined is the speediest means of regulating them. Such a tonic is Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, the most popular, as it is the best article of its class. For more than twenty-five years it has been used with signal success as a remedy for, and preventive of malarial fevers, as a means of imparting strength to the debilitated, and as a curative of dyspepsia, biliousness, constipation, kidney troubles and uterine weakness. Not only have multitudes of those whom it has cured borne testimony in its behalf, but it has been repeatedly commended by the medical profession and the press.

The No. 8 "Delmonico" Range, with reservoir and closet, weighs 525 lbs. Other ranges, made principally to look at, weigh from 100 to 150 lbs. less, and, strange to relate, cost nearly as much. It is wise economy to buy a "Delmonico" Range.

The rates by this line are the lowest, the cars are of the best, the boats are first-class, and the patronage is in consequence immense.

TILDEN AND REFORM.

The democrats had a meeting at the Court House, Thursday evening, and organized a club to advance the interests of "Tilden and reform." They call it a Tilden and Hendrieks club. It was evident from the start that the "progressive democracy" were ruled out, and that the ultra-Bourbon element of the party had captured the whole concern. We quote from the Times' report, as follows:

"Hon. Albert R. Hatch was chosen chairman, and Calvin Page, Esq., secretary. A committee of five consisting of Charles A. Sinclair, Jerome C. Butler, George E. Hodgdon, Samuel Rowe and William F. Russell, were chosen to report a list of officers of the club, and the organization was effected amidst great enthusiasm with the following: President, Col. Henry F. Wendell; Vice Presidents, Hon. Daniel Marcy, Hon. Albert R. Hatch, Col. Jerome C. Butler; Secretaries, James F. Jenness, Daniel E. Leavitt; Corresponding Secretary, Calvin Page; Treasurer, Justin V. Hanscom."

The progressives found that the whole business was cut and dried, and that the faction which proposed to continue the reign of Messrs. Wendell, Marcy and Hatch, had fixed things just about right. The "young democracy" indeed attempted a show of opposition, but it amounted to nothing; Messrs. Sinclair, Butler and Russell were too many for Mr. Hodgdon, "and the organization was effected amidst great enthusiasm"—enthusiasm that showed itself liberally on the street after the adjournment of the meeting, in the shape of furious denunciations of the Bourbon wire-pullers, and threats that another club would immediately be formed by the democrats who think they have been ruled by a clique of chronic office-seekers about as long as they like, and longer than has been for the good of the party.

It's of no use, gentlemen of the progressive democracy; "growl you may, but come under the yoke you must;" you have always been ruled by the fossils of your party, and if you undertake to rebel against a continuance of that rule you'll just catch it. Independence in the democratic party! Why, what in the world are you thinking of? Your duty is to obey,—to meekly partake of whatever dish of crow is set before you by your "natural rulers,"—and you know it; so don't—pray don't have over any more cheap talk about rebelling against the leadership of the men who have led you by the nose for the last century or thereabouts.

POLICE COURT.

Judge Bufford held a Court for the first time since his return, on Friday afternoon, when he endeavored to reconcile the conflicting evidence produced in a case of simple drunk,—and giving the prisoner the benefit of a doubt, ordered his discharge.

On Saturday the case against Mr. Whidden, of Lafayette road, for alleged cruelty in working a lame horse, or allowing him to be worked, was heard by Judge Bufford, having been continued from Monday. Ex-Judge Page appeared as counsel for the respondent; City Solicitor Hodgdon for the prosecution. The evidence presented showed that the horse was incurably lame from an accident, was driven into town and was very lame on arrival, but showed only slight lameness when starting from Mr. Whidden's place. The Court ruled that the evidence did not sustain the complaint, and the defendant was discharged.

MEAN BUSINESS.

By advertisements in another part of this paper, it will be seen that two dogs, one each belonging to Messrs. John J. Pickering and John S. Sides, were poisoned on Saturday night, Mr. Sides offering $100 and Mr. Pickering $50 for the conviction of the poisoner. Mr. Pickering's dog, though a well bred setter, was valued only (but very highly) as a companion and pet by the owner and his lady; but Mr. Sides' dog was undoubtedly the most valuable sporting dog in the State. He was a thoroughbred English pointer, imported, and trained to almost absolute perfection, and will be remembered by many who attended the State Fair at Manchester in 1875, as the dog "Grouse" that took the first prize at the dog-show. Mr. Sides had several times been offered $200 for the animal, but would not even consider the offer. The dog, though perfectly gentle, was nearly always kept chained; and since the poison distributor commenced his work, a week ago, he was kept chained the whole time, until shortly after eleven o'clock Saturday night, when he was loosed to accompany his master home from his place of business. He was found dead near Haymarket square. Sunday morning, having probably picked up the poisoned bait on the sidewalk while trotting along beside his master. Mr. Pickering's dog must have gotten hold of a smaller dose, as he lived a number of hours after he was found to be sick.

We do not know how others may look at it, but to us this dog-poisoning seems mighty mean business for any man to be engaged in. We don't own any dog, so we are not afraid of his getting poisoned; but if we did own one, even though he were the most worthless of curs, if he minded his own business and neither bit nor threatened to bite people who minded theirs we should feel very bitterly toward any one who should wantonly destroy him. Poisoning an animal in the dark on account of a spite against its owner is a sneaking, cowardly, contemptible method of taking revenge, and a man who would do it would burn his enemy's house or poison the enemy himself if he dared,—fear only, not honor, would prevent him. If the dog-poisoner is actuated simply by a grudge against dogs in general, he is engaged in a risky business, dangerous to human life should a child happen to pick up a bit of the poisoned food, and possibly dangerous to the poisoner's welfare should he be detected in the sport he follows because he thinks it so safe.

JOTTINGS.

All the public schools of this city, except the High School, commence this morning.

Col. J. C. Butler announces that his last excursion for this season to the Shoals, will take place to-morrow, Tuesday. Steamer "Appledore" will leave here at 11 A. M. and 5 P. M., returning at 3 and 10 P. M. Only 75 cents for the round trip.

The boy, Charles Glines, who was wounded by the accidental discharge of a pistol in the hands of a playmate, on Friday, died on Saturday afternoon. The boy who was handling the pistol when it was discharged was on a visit to this city, from Manchester.

In the City Government, last week, Wood declined and Cole went up.

We are informed that a dramatic entertainment, in which Miss Sara Jewett, late of the 5th Avenue Theatre, New York, will appear, is to be given at Franklin Hall on Wednesday evening next, by the Eclectic Club of this city. Tickets at 50 cents each may be secured at Mr. Foster's bookstore on Tuesday, the 29th inst., at 11 A. M.

On Friday afternoon a small boy some five or six years of age, fell overboard on the North side of steamboat wharf, and was carried under the wharf by the tide. Several men at once jumped in after the boy, among them Mr. James McCarty, who went over from the South side of the wharf, swam a short distance under and pulled the lad out in a very moist condition, but unharmed save from fright.

On Thursday night, an hour or so after the adjournment of the democratic meeting at the Court House, three prominent members of the party—two merchants and one legal gentleman—were engaged in an animated and indignant discussion, on the sidewalk in front of the Athenæum, over the manner in which the party had been captured by the Bourbons, one or two prominent republicans being in the company with them. The growl was becoming quite interesting to the latter when it was interrupted by a policeman with the remark, "Gentlemen, please not obstruct the sidewalk—stand on the curbstone, so people can get by if they want to." The astonishment of the party (which was entirely composed of the best class of citizens) at finding themselves thus suddenly transformed into sidewalk loafers, was so great that the confab was instantly broken up, one of the gentlemen muttering to himself as he walked off, "Well, by gracious, the officer was right."

Boatswain Charles E. Hawkins has been ordered to duty in charge of the Pawnee, at Port Royal, S. C., on the 1st of September. Gunner Thomas R. Wilson is detached from this naval station on the 31st of August, and placed on waiting orders. Medical Inspector Samuel F. Coues has been commissioned a Medical Director in the navy from August 13, 1876.

The survivors of Co. A of the First Regiment of Heavy Artillery are to hold a reunion at Fort Constitution on the 11th of September.

He was a soap peddler. His place of business was on the Parade. It was evening. He had a tripod formed of slight iron rods. This tripod supported a tray containing his wares, and a torch. He was very polite to his audience, albeit it was composed mainly of boys. And he thus harangued them—"This soap, gentlemen, is the best in the world. You will observe [moistening a large sponge, and soaping it,] that the lather, gentlemen, is self-sustaining. This soap, gentlemen, [placing the lather upon a tin plate] is just what you need when shaving. Now, [with extreme suavity] gentlemen, I will show you [at this point a lad's foot swept the entire establishment to the ground.] Oh, you damn' fools!" Tableau.

Rather Severe.

Under date of August 15, the Washington correspondent of the Cincinnati Enquirer writes:

At about five o'clock this morning a call of the House was demanded, and the Sergeant-at-arms despatched his deputies for absentees. Among the delinquents was the sweet child of nature, the Hon. Henry Watterson, of Louisville. He had just become a full-fledged Congressman. He had taken the oath of office and his seat in the morning, and had gone to bed a Congressman. He was asleep on his downy couch. While Ebbitt House bedbugs were cultivating his acquaintance, he was dreaming, sweetly dreaming, of the glory and honor of the station he had just attained, when he was disturbed by an officer throwing his boot against his chamber door. Time after time did the official boot drop gently but firmly on Henry's chamber door like a descending pile driver, when the editorial statesman was aroused by the noise.

"Hello!" he cried. "What's the racket?"

"There is a call of the House," replied the deputy.

"Well, tell 'em I pass."

"But you can't pass; it ain't that kind of a game."

"Well," said Watterson, yawning and crawling out, "I have played a good deal of draw, but this is the worst I ever played. Why, a man isn't allowed to pass when he wants to. They don't play this way in Kentucky, where I have an honored constituency."

"Well, cheese it," was the response that came back over the transom. "You are not in Kentucky now, and you are wanted at the House of Representatives."

Watterson put on his clothes, and, cursing like a Texan Ranger, he accompanied the deputy to his carriage, and at five o'clock in the morning he rode in state to the Capitol. The Sergeant-at-Arms met him as he reported, and said he was "sorry to have to arrest him on his first day in office." Watterson laughed, and doesn't care if the joke doesn't get into the newspapers.

—Two Buffalo gentlemen at a restaurant on the Centennial grounds, Philadelphia, a few days since, called for boiled tongue and cold roast beef. The darkey brought only the latter. On being reminded of the order, as given, he replied with extreme gravity, even pomposity: "Yes sah; I remembah sah; de loss am due to de defalcation of de cook!"

This kind of bread having come into extensive family use, it has been my purpose to furnish, from choice materials, an article which should meet the approval of the most fastidious as to neatness, looks and taste. Whether I have succeeded in giving to the public a PILOT BREAD, the consumer may be the judge; that the quality will not be suffered to depreciate, the past with the present is my best pledge. COOKED CORNED BEEF.

Articles are being published calculated to prejudice the public against using Cooked Corned Beef, and we would say in answer to them that in no instance has positive proof been established to show that such is the case.

Our goods are packed in a manner very similar to that of Corn, Tomatoes, Fruit and canned goods generally, (which have long been tested) and we use nothing whatever of a poisonous nature in their preparation.

In addition to our own statement we have the strong endorsement of Prof. Hosford of Cambridge, one of the most eminent Chemists in the country, who has fully tested and is familiar with the entire details of the preparation of our goods.

We would also state that we use none but the choicest of Beef that our Chicago market affords, and trust that with these statements the rapidly growing popularity of our Corned Beef may be increased.

For the information of those not knowing the fact we would state that in the process of canning there is a healthy imperfect scaling, which causes the can to expand. Meat contained in such cans is unfit for use and will be cheerfully paid for when returned to any grocer selling it.

— An exchange says that while two Ohio tramps were working to pay for their dinners, the other day, they were both struck by lightning and killed. It was the first time the lightning ever got a lick at a tramp at work, and it struck as if it was going to be the last.

—At the St. Patrick's ball, at Dublin, a few years ago, a gentleman ventured to appear in the regulation court coat and vest, but with trowsers. A functionary beckoned him into a corner, and communicated to him the awful fact that he had been guilty of a breach of breeches, which must never happen again. When the culprit faltered out that he had been informed that trowsers were now permissible, the functionary replied, severely, "at a levee, sir; but breeches, always breeches at a ball." A rule which the other longed to but dursn't say would, he thought, "be more honored in the breach than the observance."

— During one of the expeditions into the Caucasus, Ignatieff ordered a battery of artillery under a captain named Sergueieff to shell a column of the enemy that threatened to outflank his forces. The order was obeyed, but the shells did not explode, and produced no more effect than round shot. Ignatieff galloped to the battery and addressed the captain in language rather more vigorous than complimentary. Sergueieff calmly lifted a shell in one hand and applied a portfire to the fuse with the other; then remarked to the General: "As you see, General, the powder is bad." The General sprang from his horse and embraced the captain, crying: "Sergueieff, my son, you are braver than I."

—It is often contended that it is impossible to enforce the law against the sale of intoxicating liquors except perhaps in small villages and country towns. In opposition to this theory, temperance men may well point to the town of Vineland, N. J. The liquor-traffic has been effectually shut out, first by a clause in original deeds of town lots; secondly, by the united action of the people in voting "no licence." So here is a town of twelve thousand inhabitants, with property valued at $5,000,000, and without a grog-shop, jail, almshouse or police department. The deputy sheriff, a grocer, is the guardian of the public peace—the only policeman. Cost of pauper support in 1874, only $224. Vineland has been contrasted with New Britain, Ct., which has one hundred grog-shops, and pays $7,500 for police and $8,500 for pauperism.

DR. QUAIN'S MAGIC CONDITION PILLS!

The Wonderful Remedy for Liver Complaint, Biliousness, Dyspepsia, Constipation, Neuralgia, Rheumatism, Headache, Kidney Complaint, Nervousness, Scrofula, Piles, and all diseases arising from a bad state of the Blood!

No medicine ever offered to the public has given such universal satisfaction as Dr. Quain's Magic Condition Pills. Their praises are on every tongue where their merits are known. They strike at once at the seat of disease and show their healing power almost immediately. Thousands of voluntary testimonials of their merits have been received by the agent, from those who have been cured by them, of which the following are samples:

Dyspepsia Four Years, Constipation and Inflammation of the Bowels Three Years, Confined to my Room Two Years, Pain so I Could Not Sleep Without Morphine. One Package of Dr. Quain's Condition Pills Made Me Eat Well, Sleep Well and Free from Pain, after being given up by Physicians.

WEST LEBANON, ME., Feb. 22, 1

MR. THOMAS W. LANE:—I have been sick for 7ur years with Dyspepsia, and for the past three years Constipation and Inflammation of the Bowels. I have suffered all the pain I could endure and live. I have been confined to my room for two years, and could not sleep nights without the use of morphine. I have been given up by physicians as past cure. I have taken one package of DR. QUAIN'S CONDITION PILLS, and they have done me more good than all the doctors I have had. I sleep well, I eat well and have no pain. They are all they are recommended to be. Please send me three packages, as two of my neighbors wish to try them. I enclose $1.

Your truly, JOHN W. LORD.

Another Letter from Maj. John W. Lord, one month later. Wonderful Cures by Dr. Quain's Pills Effected in Him in Thirteen Days. First time Free from Pain for Three Years.

WEST LEBANON, ME., March 22, 1875

MR. THOMAS W. LANE:—I commenced taking DR. QUAIN'S CONDITION PILLS February 9th, and wrote you February 23d of their wonderful effect. I have continued to improve ever since. My appetite is good, and I sleep as well as I ever did in my life. I am free from pain for the first time in three years. When I was taken sick four years ago I weighed one hundred and eighty-six pounds; I now weigh one hundred and thirty, but, as I am gaining in strength, I have faith I shall regain my flesh this summer, by the use of the Pills. I shall continue taking them for some time to come.

Yours truly, JOHN W. LORD.

Dr. Quain's Pills the Remedy for Soldiers' Aches and Pains.

WEST LEBANON, ME., June 1, 1875.

MR. THOMAS W. LANE—Dear Sir:—I am now able to walk out every day, and am gaining in strength very fast, all of which is due to you as agent for the best Pills in the world. I have taken no other medicine, and my improvement has been steady since first taking DR. QUAIN'S CONDITION PILLS. They have done everything for me, and I will say to you, advertise them direct to the soldiers, for they will certainly cure them of aches and pains caused from exposure and hardship on the field. Please send me by return mail another package.

JOHN W. LORD.

Rheumatism for Twenty Years Cured by One Package of Dr. Quain's Condition Pills—"The Best Medicine in the World."

EAST ANDOVER, N. H., Dec. 10, 1875.

MR. LANE—Dear Sir:—As I know the value of DR. QUAIN'S CONDITION PILLS and the good they have done me, I take pleasure in giving them praise; so I send you another testimonial. My father has been troubled with Rheumatism for twenty years or more, and has tried everything that could be thought of, but to no good. At times it would be so bad that he could not lift his hand to his head or do any work at all, especially in cold weather. A short time ago I advised him to get some of these Pills. He believed nothing in them, but I gave him the last package I had of you, as I did not need them, and he has not been as free from the Rheumatic Complaint for years. No Rheumatism, no pain. What helped him? It was DR. QUAIN'S CONDITION PILLS, the best medicine in the world. There is nothing like them. I know it, for I have tried them, and they are all, yes, more than they are recommended to be. Give them a fair trial and you will say so. I write this because I know the goodness of them and wish others to know the same. Some may think I am telling a big story. But remember I am not giving them half the praise they ought to have.

Yours with respect, ED. F. PEVARE.

Wonderful Effect of Four Doses of Dr. Quain's Condition Pills upon Neuralgia of Twelve Years' Duration—Testimony of Rev. J. S. Patton.

DAINGERFIELD, MORRIS CO., TEXAS, Nov. 15, '75.

MR. THOMAS W. LANE—Dear Sir:—I have been afflicted for near twelve years with Neuralgia in the face and head. I tried I do not know how many physicians, and could only get partially relieved. I also tried many patent medicines with the same result. I have been confined to my room most all the time for eight or ten winters, and have been traveling and visiting medical springs, and I still suffered most intensely. The physicians pronounced my case the worst and most stubborn that they had had anything to do with. One told me I could never get well; they all advised me to go home and spend the winter, and thought that was the only chance for me, and I was trying to get ready to go to Florida, when through the kindness of Rev. H. M. Mathis, my attention was called to the advertisement of Dr. Quain's Magic Condition Pills. I immediately sent to you for a package. I have taken four doses and I am almost free from pain. The impression here seems to be that if your pills cure me, they will cure anybody. I have five applications to send for the pills. Enclosed please find three dollars; send five packages to me and one to Mrs. Lucy Sherrell, Sulphur Springs, Hopkins county, Texas.

Yours truly, J. S. PATTON.

Liver Complaint, Nervousness, Dropsy and Headache.

LACONIA, N. H., Jan. 29, 1875.

THOS. W. LANE—Sir:—I have been troubled with Bad Blood, Liver Complaint, Nervousness, Dropsy and Headache. I have taken one package of DR. QUAIN'S CONDITION PILLS. They have done me more good than all the medicine I ever took; I have taken considerable medicine within the last five years. For the nerves I think there is nothing so good as those pills. I can recommend them to all who are similarly afflicted, they have done me so much good. I think they will recommend themselves wherever they go. I shall recommend them to all who need them. Please send me two packages more, one for myself and one for a lady friend of mine. Many thanks to the inventor, agent and advertiser of those Pills. MRS. P. L. ELLIOTT.

DR. QUAIN'S MAGIC CONDITION PILLS are put up only by the AMERICAN MEDICINE CO., Manchester, N. H., THOMAS W. LANE, Agent.

MAGIC

BUCHMAN'S PULMOCINE CORDIAL.

Is the ultima thule of Medical Discovery.

Among its many ingredients are Wild Cherry Bark, Squill Root, Liquorice Root, Blood root, &c. It is a Blood Purifier, gently stimulating. It increases expectoration and is diuretic. It is sudorific and alterative. It is a necessary family medicine. It is a Tonic and a powerful aid to the digestive organs. It is a gentle sedative, and relieves nervousness. It is aromatic and agreeable to the taste.

CLEAR YOUR THROAT!

Relieve Your Lungs.

For the terrible diseases engendered by the lung-trying climate of New England!

PULMOCINE CORDIAL

Is a speedy and reliable Preventive and Remedy. Every Family should have a bottle at hand to check the sudden growth of all Pulmonary Diseases. For the Asthma, Coughs, Croups, Laryngitis, or inflammation of the larynx, Diphtheria, and all kindred Throat Diseases at all times prevalent, it is the ounce of Prevention. Children attacked with Whooping Cough or Croup should be immediately cared for. These painful attacks come with scarcely a moment's warning, when a physician may be out of immediate reach. A dose of PULMOCINE CORDIAL gives speedy relief, and the little ones are spared hours of pain and agony. As "a stitch in time saves nine," so does the possession of this Family Medicine prevent the spread of disease. Parents seeing their children gasping with pain, friends and relatives beholding each other in peril from suffocation by the choking pain in the throat, paralyzed with fear and not know ing the best course to pursue, are liable to apply the wrong remedial agents. There is no safety in delay, no time to waste in such cases. CONSUMPTION, that fearful scourge of the human race, lies at the door of all thus afflicted. BUCHMAN'S PULMOCINE CORDIAL arrests it (unless in its advanced stage at which time there is no local cure) relieves the pressing, suffocating feeling at the lungs, and the patient's danger is past.

For Coughs,

Croup,

Diphtheria,

Asthma, etc.,

Buchman's Pulmocine Cordial.

The Pulmocine Cordial is not a quack medicine, is not an experiment, is not composed of any ingredients "discovered" by "walking in pastures" in South America or anywhere else, nor by one who discovered a weed and thereby cured himself. Most of the ingredients are such as our best educated physicians daily use for the complaints specified in some form or other. The recipe is that perfected by one of New England's most learned and famous physicians, who used it entirely in his daily practice until his death. It is offered to the profession and to the public, absolutely pure and unadulterated.

We speak in this matter "WHAT WE DO KNOW," after years of experience, AND PLEDGE OUR REPUTATION FOR THE FULFILMENT OF WHAT WE HERE DECLARE. BUTTER IN 20 MINUTES.

Lincoln Butter Powder is an entirely harmless article made from a celebrated English recipe, and now in daily use by many of the most noted farmers in the leading counties around Philadelphia.

In hot weather the Powder makes butter much firmer and sweeter than it usually is, and keeps it from turning rancid. It also removes the strong flavor of turnips, weeds, corn stalks, cotton seed, etc., and the increased yield of butter much more than pays the trifling expense of using it.

A Virginia City Marriage.

Judge Knox, of Virginia, was awakened from sound sleep by a furious ringing at his door bell. His honor, in no very good humor, thrust his head out of the window. Standing on the sidewalk were three men and a young woman.

"What d'ye want?" asked the judge.

"Want to get married," answered a tremulous male voice.

"Well, I'm so sad so if this aint a pretty time o' night to roust a man out o' bed for a job o' that kind."

Something dropped upon the sidewalk and his honor cried out, "What's that?"

"Ten dollars," answered one of the men.

"Here's the cuss of bein' a public man," sighed the judge. "I s'pose you'll have to come up whether or no. The door aint locked. Slide up. First door to the right."

The party went up. His Honor was sitting up in bed and said he hoped the lady would excuse his costume and the lady said "cer'nly."

"All right, then. You two fellers that ain't goin' to be slaughtered stand back, and you two come forrud. Yes, license all correct. Lady twenty-five; name, Spiking ton. Gent twenty-one and named Muffly. Arthur Muffly, do you take this woman to be your wedded wife?"

"Oh, yes, sir!" gasped the young man, his face crimson and his knees trembling. The two friends behind exchanged grins.

"Well, that's all right. Belinda Spiksington, do you take this man to be your wedded husband?"

"Cer'nly," answered the lady.

"Well, that's all right; but before I go any further I'd be obliged to you, Mr. Muffly, for a chaw of tobacco."

Mr. Muffly not being addicted to the filthy habit one of his friends supplied his honor with a mouthful of the weed.

"Eureka ain't my brand," the judge remarked affably, as he fixed the pillow more comfortably behind his back and began working his jaws. "Solace is much better. However, Mr. Muffly and Miss Spikington, do me the favor to jine your hands. So. Now, I declare you man and wife by virtue of the authority vested in me by the laws of the State of Nevada. That job is done."

"What's the fee?" asked one of the friends, a tall man with a grave face, stepping forward.

"That," remarked his honor, with becoming humility, "is usually left to the generosity of the groom."

"How's that for style?" inquired the tall man, handing the judge three trade dollars.

"Thank'ee," said the judge. "Good night, gents; a long life and a happy one to you, madam. I hope you fellers will find that ten when you go down stairs again. I think it would break your hearts to lose it."

A Generation on the March.

A generation on the march from the cradle to the grave is an instructive spectacle, and we have it carefully represented to us in the report by Dr. Farr, an English physician. Let us trace the physical fortune which any million of us may reasonably expect. The number, to begin with, is made up of 511,745 boys and 488,255 girls, a disproportion which by and by will be reversed, before the close of the strange, eventful history. More than a quarter of these children will die before they are five years old—in exact numbers, 141,387 boys and 121,795 girls. The two sexes are now nearly on a level. The next five years will be much less fatal. In the succeeding five years—from ten to fifteen—the mortality will be still further reduced. Indeed for both sexes, this is the most healthy period of life; the death-rate, however, is lower for boys than for girls. There will be some advance in deaths in the next five years, and still more in the five which follow, but 634,045 will certainly enter on their twenty-sixth year. Before the next ten years are at an end, two-thirds of the women will have married. The deaths during that period will be 62,052, and of those no fewer than 27,134 will be caused by consumption. Between thirty-five and forty-five a still larger "death-toll" will be paid, and little more than half the original band—in exact number, 502,915—will enter on their forty-sixth year. Each succeeding decade, up to seventy-five, will now become more fatal, and the numbers will shrink terribly. At seventy-five only 161,124 will remain to be struck down, and of these 122,559 will have perished by the eighty-fifth year of the march. The 38,565 that remain will soon lay down their burdens; but 2,153 of them will struggle on to be ninety-five, and 223 to be 100 years old. Finally, in the 108th year of the course, the last solitary life will flicker out. Such, then, is the average lot of a million men and women.

—Roger M. Sherman was arguing a case, and made a point which the judge did not at once see. "Mr. Sherman," said he, "I would thank you to state the point so that I can understand you." Bowing politely, Sherman replied, in his blandest manner, "Your honor is not probably aware of the task you are imposing on me."

—All Alive—On the base-ball grounds yesterday, says the Burlington Hawkeye, a red-hot ball struck the batter just where his mother used to feel for him with her slipper, and the umpire shouted "dead ball." "Dead ball!" retorted the striker, "if there's a live ball on the grounds, that's it."

—Thousands of base deceivers are hung every night—on the back of chairs.

Daily Chronicle.

TUESDAY, AUGUST 29, 1876.

FOR PRESIDENT,

Rutherford B. Hayes,

OF OHIO.

FOR VICE PRESIDENT,

William A. Wheeler,

OF NEW YORK.

Hayes' Platform in War.

In 1864, when Hayes was in the army, being nominated for Congress he was requested to come home and stump his district. His reply was, "I have other business just now. Any man who would leave the army at this time to electioneer for Congress ought to be scalped!"

Hayes' Platform in Peace.

"Honest money for all, and free schools for all. There should be no inflation which will depreciate the one, nor sectarian interference which will destroy the other."

Democratic Testimony.

Tilden was as much of a conscript in the reform ranks of New York as is the man taken from his home, given a musket and forced into the army. Dean Richmond died in 1866. Samuel J. Tilden succeeded Mr. Richmond to the chairmanship of the democratic State committee, which position he held until he became Governor, in 1875. The debt of New York City in 1866 was $45,187,000. The vouchers were destroyed and the ring burst up July, 1871. But their debts were not paid for some years afterward. When Mr. Tilden vacated the chairmanship of the committee, December 31, 1874, the debt was $141,803,000! This was an increase in the debt of a single city during the seven years of his administration, of $96,616,000! Besides a cash expenditure of over $25,000,000 per annum collected in taxes, there was a yearly addition to the debt of $13,800,000, of a total yearly expenditure of $88,000,000. Mr. Tilden is fond of boasting of his reforming the State expenditures, which reform was brought about by the adoption of amendments to the Constitution. We refer those who have been deceived by his buncombe to the above "reformation" in New York City, which, during the years named, was absolutely under the control of Tilden, Tweed and Connolly. * * *

Rebellion against the robbers was well organized in 1870. Tweed and Tilden were in a minority in the Tammany committee. Three hundred and twenty-nine members sent delegates, headed by Henry L. Clinton, to the Rochester convention. Ten members of the Tweed and Tilden clique sent their delegates. Tilden called the convention to order and had the say. The anti-Ring delegates, representing two hundred and twenty-nine members, were excluded from the convention; the Ring—Tweed-Tilden delegates—representing ten members, were admitted! Mr. Tilden made a speech commending the action, and was responsible for admitting Tweed's minions to make nominations for the people of a State to support. Of course, a State Ring ticket was nominated. The same Hoffman headed the list who, two years before, accepted the office, obtained by 37,000 fraudulent ballots, counted for him in New York City, through the instrumentality of Tilden and Tweed. What a delightful "Reformer" Sham Tilden is!

One year later, in July, 1871, the Ring, but not the Ring backers, had gone to smash. An indignation meeting was called, September 4. Tilden was not yet certain what it was best for Tilden to do, and he did nothing. He did not attend the meeting. He waited another month. The tide was then at its flood, and finally he waded in. This is Samuel Tilden's record in connection with "breaking up" the New York Ring. What he did to perpetuate that Ring, and what his influence cost the city of New York, the city of Brooklyn and the State at large, is yet to be disclosed. Enough is here exhibited to show that the kind of "Reform" which Tilden would give to the nation—were he in power—would be the kind of reform meted out to Sodom—total destruction.—Brooklyn Argus.

They Accept the Situation.

The northern democratic papers and orators years ago insisted and still insist that the ex-rebels of the South—the southern democrats—"accept the situation" and acquiesce in the results of the war, including the constitutional amendments which guarantee to the freedmen the rights of citizenship; and the republican papers are rebuked for aiming to keep alive the animosities of the war, whenever they intimate that the men who engineered the attempt to destroy the Union now (as then) engineer the democratic party, and that they intend to overthrow or nullify the amendments if ever they can get the power. Those voters in the North who think the colored man should be again virtually enslaved need not trouble their heads about the matter; a vote for Tilden and Hendricks will be a vote for the black man's re-enslavement; but those who think differently will do well to study the tone and temper of the southern democracy as indicated by the declarations of their orators and party organs, and the class of candidates they have selected, before voting in November.

The New Orleans Picayune in a recent issue insists that the colored men must be made to vote for the democratic candidate for governor, the ex-Confederate General Nicholls. It says: "The test of negro fidelity in November, will be: 'If you vote for Packard, you are the enemies of your employers and of Louisiana; if you vote for Nicholls you are the friends of your employer and of the State.' Let our people assume an aggressive attitude. The experiment of reasoning with colored men has been often tried, and as often failed."

The Meridian (Miss.) Mercury of August 3d says: "We have got the State; we know how we got it; we know how to keep it; and we are going to keep it without regard to race or numerical majority."

The leading democratic paper of Alabama, the Mobile Register, talks thus plainly: "The grave question to be settled is What is to be done to get rid of the negro as a voter? Sooner or later, with more or less dispatch, he will be disfranchised and thrust out of politics. White men of all parties and of every grade of religious or moral conviction may as well come quickly to the consideration how to get the negro out of politics with the least confusion and cost. He must go, and there is no profit in standing long upon the order of his going. The question of suffrage belongs to the States respectively. When the reorganized democracy of 1876 go into office each State will be allowed to settle this and all other social and domestic issues for itself and in its own way, without any interference from the General Government. Then, and not till then, can we begin the work of resetting our shattered political and our demoralized social institutions upon correct foundations."

Zebulon D. Vance, the democratic candidate for governor of North Carolina says: "I am sorry that I laid down my arms in 1875. I am in favor of re-enslaving the negro, and if that cannot be done at once my idea is to adopt a plan which will bring about such a condition of things."

Wade Hampton, the democratic candidate for governor of South Carolina, says he "never shall admit that the [lost] cause itself failed;" and he further says: "We regard the reconstruction acts as unconstitutional, but we look for their overthrow."

The Columbia (S. C.) Register, in giving an account of the recent republican meeting in Edgfield, which was insulted and interrupted by Butler and Gray's banditti, armed and mounted, seven hundred strong, alludes to it editorially and approvingly, under the head of "Meet Them Everywhere" This interruption it calls "amusing," "enough to make a horse laugh," and a "huge joke;" "but mark you, it blazes the way to a line of political tactics that can be practiced in this State with the happiest effect." It calls upon the democratic banditti to take action everywhere in the State where republicans attempt to hold political meetings—that is, assemble in armed mobs, and terrorize over and take charge of the meetings.

It is of little force for the democracy to assert that such utterances as the above come only from the unreconstructed fire-eaters; for such men as Vance and Hampton are the democratic leaders, and because of their anti-negro principles. Even the Charlestown (S. C.) News and Courier, the democratic paper which so strongly reprobated the Hamburg butchery, acknowledges that the Southern democrats "mean to rule" after their own sweet will, and that the nomination of the bitter rebel (not ex-rebel) Wade Hampton indicates that the South Carolina democrats are now ready to carry their State on the Mississippi plan. It says: "The whites, for their own safety and well-being, and for the well-being and safety of the negroes, mean to rule the Southern States. It is the plain meaning of the Mississippi election and the Alabama election, and of the 'straight out' movement in South Carolina." What it all means is worthy the attention of all thinking men.

News and Notes.

There was a $300,000 fire in New York, Sunday.

Sitting Bull has ordered 25,000 lbs. of powder of a Winnepeg trader.

Vera Cruz must be a nice port for vessels to lay in when a hurricane is blowing. At the end of last month a storm of that description broke over the town and harbor, and made sad havoc of buildings and ships. Several hours before the wind began to blow, a heavy swell set in, which tore a number of vessels from their anchorage and drove them ashore. Then the gale came and continued the work of destruction, sinking every lighter in the port and drowning the crews. A large cattle steamer was dashed bodily against the walls of the castle of San Jacinto and crushed to pieces. Another steamer, with only the captain and a couple of hands on board, was driven out to sea, and the whole beach was strewn with wrecks. On land the devastation was as great, all the trees in the plaza being uprooted, most of the houses unroofed, several houses blown down, and numerous lives lost.

Judge Mather of the Court of Common Pleas at New London, Ct., has decided that farmers who are induced by fraud to give notes to agents, or for articles which have been misrepresented, are not obliged to pay them. This decision will be good news to the numerous farmers in that State who have been swindled.

Political.

An exchange suggests that Tilden ought to know how to reduce taxes by this time—he commenced by reducing his own, fourteen years ago.

A Georgia democratic paper says: "The truth is that the South acted for herself, in the matter of the war. Instead of being urged to it by the Northern democracy, she happened just then to be running the Northern democracy herself." Correct! and the Confederates are now "running the Northern democracy."

"Gov. Underwood of this city, in his speech at the great meeting here on Tuesday, in addition to a clear exposition of the disastrous consequences logically and morally sure to follow a restoration of democratic supremacy, brought out a fact of considerable moment. It is a fact which we have been hoping and waiting to hear him state, as we were very sure he would state it, if he made any public speeches in the campaign. It is that Gov. Tilden holds and has avowed the distinct doctrine that the war for the Union was an unconstitutional war; that the marching of United States soldiers across Southern soil was a trespass on the part of every soldier—and that every soldier of the Union who served in the South made himself individually liable to a civil suit, in an action for trespass! These avowals were made with the utmost explicitness by Samuel J. Tilden in a conversation with Governor Underwood, on the piazza of a Saratoga hotel, not far from the close of the war. We well remember hearing of them and of Governor Underwood's indignant rejoinder, at the time, from Mr. Underwood and from other persons who heard the discussion. Mr. Underwood is a witness whose truthfulness will not be questioned; and if the accuracy of his testimony is called in question, it can be corroborated by eye and ear witnesses."—Burlington Free Press.

The republican canvass in North Carolina is attended with unanticipated success. Judge Settle is rallying to his standard all the old Union men of the western portion of the State, and there are fair prospects that he will be triumphantly elected Governor.

The San Francisco Post says that the activity displayed by the republicans of California is somewhat surprising. The enthusiasm is universal, and campaign clubs are cropping up everywhere. The State promises to give a very heavy republican majority in November.

Of the eight gentlemen running on the democratic State ticket in South Carolina, three are generals, two colonels, two majors, and one a captain.

The Republican Congressional Committee have in press, and within a few days will issue, sixteen pages, constituting the first series of songs written by various competent authors expressly for this campaign. Much of the music is new, and the remainder consists of selections from the best airs of all nations; and it is arranged mostly for men's voices with chorus, thus supplying a great desideratum with popular assemblies, singing clubs, and soloists. State, county, district, or other republican committees or clubs supplied. Retail dealers also supplied on most liberal terms. Other series will issue as soon as the best material can be collected. This is a rare opportunity. Apply to Republican Congressional Committee, 1006 F. Street, Washington, D. C.

It should never be forgotten—it is not forgotten by tax-payers—that the entire national debt is the direct result of the democratic rebellion.

County Attorney W. F. Lunt, of York County, Me., has not bolted the nomination of Mr. Reed, as stated in the Boston Globe. On the contrary, he supports Mr. Reed, and spoke in behalf of the ticket in East Deering last week.

It is a hopeful and significant fact that in Clinton county, Kentucky, the republicans in the recent county election made a clean sweep, electing their candidate for sheriff by 843 majority in a total poll of 4,300 votes. There are two strong democratic papers published in the county, and not one republican.

Tilden's Retrenchment.

The democrats are constantly adducing the fact that the taxes of New York under Tilden have been some millions per year less than they were under Dix, they claiming for Tilden—and he claiming for himself—all the credit of such reduction. It is notorious that one—and a principal—reason for the high taxes under Gov. Dix was that the previous democratic administration of Hoffman (who was counted in as governor by Tweed and Tilden) allowed the canal sinking fund of $6,000,000 to be stolen, and that the fund was restored under Gov. Dix. The platform of the New York republican State convention refers to Tilden's "reduction of taxation" as follows:

"The repeated claim that the large reduction of taxation in this State is due to the present executive is totally unfounded, and we confidently appeal to the record for proof. In 1867 the county debt was over $25,000,000. In five years a democratic administration paid off $5,500,000. In the four years succeeding a republican administration paid off $19,000,000, and left less than $1,000,000 remaining to be paid. So much less debt to pay made so much less to raise. In 1875 the tax to pay off debt was $6,337,567. In 1876, under the republican legislature, it was $789,260. The reduction of taxes thus comes not from a reduction of the expenses, but from a reduction of the debt effected under a republican administration."

—The largest nickel deposit yet discovered in the world, and the only one of that ore in America, is near the Gap, Lancaster county, Penn., on the high dividing line between Chester and Pequea valleys. It was found there in 1856, though copper has been mined in that locality. The ore has a gray color, is very heavy, and so hard that it is mined entirely by blasting. After the ore has been broken into small fragments it is put into kilns holding eighty to ninety tons each, and subjected to heat produced at first by the burning of a small quantity of wood and continued by the conversion of the expelled gas. It is then put into a smelting furnace and undergoes a treatment similar to that of iron ore.

—A little five-year-old fellow came up to his mother and with great earnestness said, "Mother, I saw something run across the floor this morning, and it hadn't any legs, either; what do you suppose it was?" The mother's curiosity was excited at the apparent strangeness of the supposed animal, and not knowing what else to say, said she guessed it was a snake or a worm, or something of that sort, she didn't know what. Having enjoyed his mother's inability to solve the problem for some time, he said, "It was some water."

—A peculiar place is Pontiac, Ill., where the public bath house has closed for want of patronage.

A Lesson Taught by Experience.

Among the many valuable lessons taught by experience, there is not one of greater moment to the invalid portion of the community than the following, viz: That alterative treatment is only permanently successful when aided by invigoration. When the functions of the body are disordered, the use of a genial tonic with which corrective properties are combined is the speediest means of regulating them. Such a tonic is Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, the most popular, as it is the best article of its class. For more than twenty-five years it has been used with signal success as a remedy for, and preventive of malarial fevers, as a means of imparting strength to the debilitated, and as a curative of dyspepsia, biliousness, constipation, kidney troubles and uterine weakness. Not only have multitudes of those whom it has cured borne testimony in its behalf, but it has been repeatedly commended by the medical profession and the press.

The No. 8 "Delmonico" Range, with reservoir and closet, weighs 525 lbs. Other ranges, made principally to look at, weigh from 100 to 150 lbs. less, and, strange to relate, cost nearly as much. It is wise economy to buy a "Delmonico" Range.

POLICE AND POLITICS.

Ed. Chronicle: Will you explain how the wrongdoing of one person or party justifies the wrongdoing of another person or party?

Admitting that the democrats did select their police and other city officials on account of their partisan services, were the republicans compelled to follow their example?

Does not a true regard for the interests of the city (not a party) demand that officials should be selected solely with reference to their fitness for office, regardless of their partisan services? INQUIRER.

[Our correspondent, whose communication has evident reference to an article recently published in this paper, asks us three conundrums, which we will answer to the best of our ability. The first of the three is the only really hard one, and in answer to that we will explain that we cannot "explain how the wrongdoing of one person or party justifies the wrongdoing of another." Further, we do not know to whom "Inquirer" refers as upholding that creed, for he certainly cannot mean the CHRONICLE, which has never advanced any such idea.

As to query number two, we answer that the republicans were not "compelled to follow the example" of the democrats, and "select their police and other city officials on account of their partisan services;" neither did we intimate that they had done so. What we did say was that we had "no intention of casting a slur upon the old [democratic] force on account of the reason [previous political services] for their appointment, for the republicans had previously acted in the matter very much as the democrats did." We neither approved nor denounced the reasons for the action of either party, but simply said the democratic city government's action was about the same as that of previous republican ones,—the action of the present government not being mentioned at all.

To "Inquirer's" last question we answer, that so long as "politics is politics" it will be impossible (however desirable) to keep politics out of municipal affairs. Perhaps it should be done, but it cannot be. "Do as you would be done by," is the guiding motto of the loftiest morality; but "do as you are done by," is quite up to the standard of average humanity, and political workers are but human beings after all.

We should be glad to see less of partisan proscription in city affairs; we never attacked the democratic officials for political effect, and were ever ready to accord them praise whenever they merited it. As to the police force, to which "Inquirer" especially alludes, we told them when they were first chosen that so long as they did their duty as officers they would have our hearty support. This promise we more than carried out; for several members of the late force on different occasions furnished by their errors excellent political capital, which we steadily refused to make use of though earnestly and even indignantly entreated to do so by the most prominent republicans in the city, on one occasion at least in the presence of a prominent democrat. But we knew that the force as a whole was a good one; that it was not only not supported but was positively opposed in the efficient execution of the laws by a considerably influential element of its own party; and that any attacks by the CHRONICLE upon individual members of the force would be an encouragement to the law-defyers of the city, whom we did not choose to encourage. For these reasons we would not attempt to make political capital by even just criticisms on the late police; but should the present force, or any member of it, merit our censure, our leniency need not be counted on, as the republican police have far less to contend with than their predecessors had, and can depend on the hearty support of their entire party in the full execution of their duty. We should not have been displeased had several of the democratic police been retained; but we did not look for anything of the kind, as we are aware that the millenium is not here yet,—and it would be hardly reasonable to expect a republican city government to keep democrats in office simply because they had done their duty, when it was an open secret that the democrats themselves intended to turn out a most efficient officer (the Street Commissioner) of their own party faith, because he would not use his position for the benefit of his party rather than of the city.—Ed. Chronicle.]

JOTTINGS.

The U. S. S. "Franklin" is expected to arrive at the Navy Yard about October 1st.

Col. J. C. Butler announces that his last excursion for this season to the Shoals, will take place this day, Tuesday. Steamer "Appledore" will leave here at 11 A. M. and 6 P. M., returning at 3 and 10 P. M. Only 75 cents for the round trip.

We are informed that a dramatic entertainment, in which Miss Sara Jewett, late of the 5th Avenue Theatre, New York, will appear, is to be given at Franklin Hall on Wednesday evening next, by the Eclectic Club of this city. Tickets at 50 cents each may be secured at Mr. Foster's bookstore on Tuesday, the 29th inst., at 11 A. M.

The U. S. buoy-steamer "Iris" visited this port on Monday, and replaced the can-buoy dragged from its position last week."

A benefit excursion, complimentary to Capt. William Robinson of the Steamer Appledore, will be given on Friday evening, Sept. 1st, by his numerous friends in this city, in recognition of his many attentions during the past and present seasons to the residents of Portsmouth and vicinity. A grand hop in Appledore hall, will be a feature of the occasion. The Portsmouth Cornet Band will furnish the music for the steamer, and the Appledore orchestra for the dancing. Tickets for the round trip, including the hop, $1,00; to be had at Rider & Cunningham's, Preston's and Rockingham House. Steamer leaves here at 6 P. M.; returning, leaves the Shoals at 11 P. M.

A woman calling herself Nellie or Hattie Perkins, about forty years old, died at a house in Water street on Friday last. Being without friends she was buried by the city. She formerly lived at Great Falls.

Hon. Mark Dennett, of Kittery, completed his ninetieth year on Saturday, August 26th.

The guests at Rye Beach and a large number of spectators were on Saturday afternoon entertained by sack, wheelbarrow and foot races, participated in by the waiters of the Farragut House. The course was around the square, nearly a mile, the prizes being $30 all told, $6 each to winners of the foot and sack races, and the balance to the wheelbarrow men. John Bailey won the two former, and William Allcock the latter. Governor Bagley of Michigan gave the prizes.

The Woman's Temperance League will have their last excursion to the Shoals, on steamer "Appledore," on Tuesday, Sept. 5; tickets for the round trip, 75 cents each. The patronage of the public is respectfully solicited.

The horse attached to the grocery wagon belonging to Frank P. Locke, of Newcastle, took fright while standing in front of S. W. Moses's store Monday afternoon, ran against a stone post near the North church, breaking a shaft of the wagon, but fortunately doing no other damage. Mr. Locke clung to the animal's head, but escaped injury.

We were mistaken in giving the name of the democratic club as the "Tilden and Hendricks Club;" it is the "Tilden Reform Club." We think the latter a very appropriate name, for the exposures of Tilden's career by the democratic Brooklyn Argus show that he needs a good deal of reforming before he can be trusted to reform anything else.

A correspondent enquires how it is that at the "Rollins-Pickering reunions" at Newington no observable Pickerings ever attend. We cheerfully give him all the information we possess on the subject; we don't know.

"The inhabitants of Montenegro say that when God was distributing stones over the earth, the bag that held them burst, and they all fell there. In this country it has always been supposed that this accident happened in New Hampshire." The foregoing is a Portland paper's slander on our fertile State.

A delegation from the State Young Men's Christian Association are to labor in Newington the first three days in September, holding three meetings daily.

NAVY YARD FERRY.

On and after September 1st, the Navy Yard ferry boat "Emerald" will run as follows:

Leave Yard at 8:45, 10, and 11:45 A. M., 1:45, 3, 4, and 5:30 P. M. Returning, leave Portsmouth at 9:15 and 11 A. M., 12:15, 2, 3:30, 4:30 and 6 P. M. Evening trips will be made on Wednesdays and Saturdays, leaving Yard at 7:30 P. M., and returning at 10 P. M.

On Sundays the boat will leave the Yard at 9:40, 10:15 and 11:45 A. M., and 12:30 P. M. Returning, leave Portsmouth at 10 and 11:30 A. M., 12 M., and 12:45 P. M.

—Sir Joseph Whitworth recently exhibited three hexagonal steel plates at the Kensington (Eng.) Museum, which were so accurately planed that when one was placed on the other, it glided about as if floating, and when one was dropped on another a "cushion" of air deadened the metallic sound, while, when the air was squeezed out, the contact was so close that the lower plate adhered to the upper when raised. He next made a measurement of 1-200,000th of an inch with a machine which, at a certain temperature, will measure the millionth of an inch, and lastly showed the tensile strength of steel, a specimen of which bore a strain of 75 tons to the square inch, without breaking. For bridges, etc., only five tons strain to the square inch are required for safety; for guns, 40 tons; for shell, 55 tons.

—The march of civilization is well illustrated in Fiji. Eleven years ago the last cannibal feast was held in the islands, and six men carefully baked in stone ovens constituted the bill of fare. The native gentleman who officiated as chairman on the occasion, and doubtless did justice to the viands, has been converted from his dietetic heresy and taught to appreciate other food. In addition to this and to having become a subject of Her Majesty, he has been honored with official position, and now actually holds the office of British Consul, which is very cheering and comforting to people who have not wholly given up faith in human nature. After this none can doubt the possibility of reclaiming municipal corporations.

—A debtor, severely questioned as to the reason of his not paying a just debt, replied, "Solomon was a very wise man, and Samson a very strong one, but neither of them could pay his debts without money."

ESTABLISHED IN 1835.

THE OLDEST ESTABLISHED HOSPITAL — IN THE — UNITED STATES.

No. 9 Beaver Street, - - - Albany, N. Y.

SURE CURES AND LOW PRICES.

Dr. YOUNG, SUCCESSOR TO Dr. TELLER, DECEASED.

The above named private Hospital was established in Albany in 1835 by Dr. Lapenton, and for a number of years its affairs were presided over by that gentleman, but for the past 20 years, Dr. Teller, who is now deceased, transacted the business of the Institution.

Owing to the great demand for more spacious apartments on account of the large increase of business, the Hospital has been removed to No. 9 Beaver Street, two doors above its old location, where patients will find magnificently furnished rooms for their reception, and are so arranged that patients do not come in contact with one another, seeing only the doctor, thereby avoiding the unpleasantness of meeting others, which always occurred at the old office.

LADIES will find rooms provided for their especial accommodation and entirely private.

YOUNG MEN, addicted to secret habits, who have impaired their health and destroyed the vigor of their minds, thus depriving themselves of the pleasures of married life and also those afflicted with private diseases of any nature, are advised that in consulting Dr. Young they will find a physician fully qualified to cure and restore them to full health and manly vigor.

Dr. Teller's great work for the married, or those contemplating marriage—100 pages—full of plates,—price 25 cents. Sent to all parts, under seal, by mail post paid.

TO THE LADIES—DR. YOUNG still retains the only agency in America for the sale of Dr. Vichol's Italian Female Monthly Pills. Sent by mail on receipt of $1.00, price per box.

DR. YOUNG is the only agent for Dr. La Mott's celebrated Galvanic Belts.

Invalids out of the city can be cured by consulting the Doctor by letter, and enclosing remittance. Medicines sent by mail or express, securely packed from observation. All letters must be addressed to

PILOT BREAD.

This kind of bread having come into extensive family use, it has been my purpose to furnish, from choice materials, an article which should meet the approval of the most fastidious as to neatness, looks and taste. Whether I have succeeded in giving to the public a PILOT BREAD,

SUPERIOR IN EXCELLENCE,

the consumer may be the judge; that the quality will not be suffered to depreciate, the past with the present is my best pledge. That I can compete with all the various qualities of Pilot Bread in the market, as to price, I make no pretensions,—but in price, all things being equal, I fear no competition.

JOHN PEARSON, Jr., Newburyport, Mass.

COOKED CORNED BEEF.

Articles are being published calculated to prejudice the public against using Cooked Corned Beef, and we would say in answer to them that in no instance has positive proof been established to show that such is the case.

Our goods are packed in a manner very similar to that of Corn, Tomatoes, Fruit and canned goods generally, (which have long been tested) and we use nothing whatever of a poisonous nature in their preparation.

In addition to our own statement we have the strong endorsement of Prof. Hosford of Cambridge, one of the most eminent Chemists in the country, who has fully tested and is familiar with the entire details of the preparation of our goods.

We would also state that we use none but the choicest of Beef that our Chicago market affords, and trust that with these statements the rapidly growing popularity of our Corned Beef may be increased.

For the information of those not knowing the fact we would state that in the process of canning there is a liability of imperfect sealing, which causes the can to expand. Meat contained in such cans is unfit for use and will be cheerfully paid for when returned to any grocer selling it.

Daily Chronicle.

In Search of a Retail.

A green appearing genius, on his visit to Boston, observed a sign over a store thus: "Wholesale and Retail Store." Working his way through a crowd of ladies until he faced one of the clerks who was exhibiting some article to a young lady, he broke out:

"Say, Mister, who's boss here?"

"The proprietor has just stepped out, sir," responded the clerk.

"Well, is this a retail store?"

"Yes, sir; a wholesale and retail store."

"Guess you understand your trade?"

"Oh, yes," replied the clerk, wrapping up a bundle for his lady customer; "What can I do for you?"

"Well, as the cold weather is coming on, I thought I might as well come and give you a job."

"I don't understand you, sir," said the clerk, who began to think the fellow had got into the wrong box.

"Zackly so; well, I'll tell you."

"Explain what you mean, my friend," said the clerk, as he saw him produce a bundle from under his coat.

"Well, as I said before, the cold weather is coming on and I thought I might as well be fixin' for it. Come mighty near freezin' t'other winter, tell you I did; but—"

"I hope you will tell me what you want, so I may serve you."

"Certainly, Squire, certainly; I always do my business in a hurry, and just as quick as the old master will let you, I want you to retail these old shirts—let 'em come down about to the knees, 'case I don't wear drawers."

The loud burst of laughter that followed seemed to convince the poor fellow that he had committed himself, and his long legs were soon put in motion for the door.

—"See that poor little baby!" said one lady to another standing in front of a store window the other day. "Its cruel Hindoo mother is setting it afloat on the Ganges in accordance with a Pagan custom." "Oh! how can she be so heartless?" They were discussing a picture of the finding of the infant Moses by Pharaoh's daughter.

—One morning not long ago a Vicksburg wife woke up and informed her husband that she dreamed she found a $5 greenback on the street. He didn't say anything until he had looked into his wallet, and found his funds $5 short, and then he remarked: "Mary, I dreamed you handed me that $5 bill as soon as you found it." She passed it over.

DR. QUAIN'S MAGIC CONDITION PILLS!

The Wonderful Remedy for Liver Complaint, Biliousness, Dyspepsia, Constipation, Neuralgia, Rheumatism, Headache, Kidney Complaint, Nervousness, Scrofula, Piles, and all diseases arising from a bad state of the Blood!

No medicine ever offered to the public has given such universal satisfaction as Dr. Quain's Magic Condition Pills. Their praises are on every tongue where their merits are known. They strike at once at the seat of disease and show their healing power almost immediately. Thousands of voluntary testimonials of their merits have been received by the agent, from those who have been cured by them, of which the following are samples:

Dyspepsia Four Years, Constipation and Inflammation of the Bowels Three Years, Confined to my Room Two Years, Pain so I Could Not Sleep Without Morphine. One Package of Dr. Quain's Condition Pills Made Me Eat Well, Sleep Well and Free from Pain, after being given up by Physicians.

WEST LEBANON, ME., Feb. 22, 1

MR. THOMAS W. LANE:—I have been sick for four years with Dyspepsia, and for the past three years, Constipation and Inflammation of the Bowels. I have suffered all the pain I could endure and live. I have been confined to my room for two years, and could not sleep nights without the use of morphine. I have been given up by physicians as past cure. I have taken one package of DR. QUAIN'S CONDITION PILLS, and they have done me more good than all the doctors I have had. I sleep well, I eat well and have no pain. They are all they are recommended to be. Please send me three packages, as two of my neighbors wish to try them. I enclose $1.50.

Your truly, JOHN W. LORD.

Another Letter from Maj. John W. Lord, one month later. Wonderful Cures by Dr. Quain's Pills Effected on Him in Thirteen Days. First time Free from Pain for Three Years.

WEST LEBANON, ME., March 22, 1875

MR. THOMAS W. LANE:—I commenced taking DR. QUAIN'S CONDITION PILLS February 9th, and wrote you February 23d of their wonderful effect. I have continued to improve ever since. My appetite is good, and I sleep as well as I ever did in my life. I am free from pain for the first time in three years. When I was taken sick four years ago, I weighed one hundred and eighty-six pounds; I now weigh one hundred and thirty; but as I am gaining in strength, I have faith I shall regain my flesh this summer, by the use of the Pills. I shall continue taking them for some time to come.

Yours truly, JOHN W. LORD.

Dr. Quain's Pills the Remedy for Soldiers' Aches and Pains.

WEST LEBANON, ME., June 1, 1875.

MR. THOMAS W. LANE—Dear Sir:—I am now able to walk out every day, and am gaining in strength very fast, all of which is due to you as agent for the best Pills in the world. I have taken no other medicine, and my improvement has been steady since first taking DR. QUAIN'S CONDITION PILLS. They have done everything for me, and I will say to you, advertise them direct to the soldiers, for they will certainly cure them of aches and pains caused from exposure and hardship on the field. Please send me by return mail another package.

JOHN W. LORD.

Rheumatism for Twenty Years Cured by One Package of Dr. Quain's Condition Pills—"The Best Medicine in the World."

EAST ANDOVER, N. H., Dec. 10, 1875.

MR. LANE—Dear Sir:—As I know the value of DR. QUAIN'S CONDITION PILLS and the good they have done me, I take pleasure in giving them praise; so I send you another testimonial. My father has been troubled with Rheumatism for twenty years or more, and has tried everything that could be thought of, but to no good. At times it would be so bad that he could not lift his head or lie down, or do any work at all, especially in cold weather. A short time ago I advised him to get some of these Pills. He believed nothing in them, but I gave him the last package I had of you, as I did not need them, and he has not been as free from the Rheumatic Complaint for years. No Rheumatism, no pain. What helped him? It was DR. QUAIN'S CONDITION PILLS, the best medicine in the world. There is nothing like them. I know if, for I have tried them, and they are all, yes, more than they are recommended to be. Give them a fair trial and you will say so. I write this because I know the goodness of them and wish others to know the same. Some may think I am telling a big story. I am. But remember I am not giving them half the praise they ought to have.

Yours with respect, ED. F. PEVARE.

Wonderful Effect of Four Doses of Dr. Quain's Condition Pills upon Neuralgia of Twelve Years' Duration—Testimony of Rev. J. S. Patton.

DAINGERFIELD, MORRIS CO., TEXAS, Nov. 15, '75.

MR. THOMAS W. LANE—Dear Sir:—I have been afflicted for near twelve years with Neuralgia in the face and head. I tried I do not know how many physicians, and could only get partly relieved. I also tried many patent medicines with the same result. I have been confined to my room most all the time for eight or ten winters, and have been traveling and visiting medical springs, and I still suffered most intensely. The physicians pronounced my case the worst and most stubborn that they had anything to do with. One told me I could never get well; they all advised me to go South and spend the winter, and thought that was the only chance for me, and I was trying to get ready to go to Florida, when through the kindness of Rev. H. M. Mathis, my attention was called to the advertisement of Dr. Quain's Magic Condition Pills. I immediately sent to you for a package. I have taken four doses and I am almost free from pain. The impression here seems to be that if your pills will cure me, they will cure anybody. I have five applications to send for the pills. Enclosed please find three dollars; send five packages to me and one to Mrs. Laura Sherrell, Sulphur Springs, Hopkins county, Texas.

Yours truly, J. S. PATTON.

Liver Complaint, Nervousness, Dropsy and Headache.

LACONIA, N. H., Jan. 29, 1875.

THOS. W. LANE—Sir:—I have been troubled with Bad Blood, Liver Complaint, Nervousness, Dropsy and Headache. I have taken one package of DR. QUAIN'S CONDITION PILLS. They have done me more good than all the medicine I ever took; I have taken considerable medicine within the last five years. For the nerves I think there is nothing so good as those pills. I can recommend them to all who are similarly afflicted, they have done me so much good. I think they will recommend themselves wherever they go. I shall recommend those Pills to all who need them. Please send me two more packages, one for myself and one for a lady friend of mine. Many thanks to the inventor, agent and advertiser of those Pills. MRS. P. L. ELLIOTT.

DR. QUAIN'S MAGIC CONDITION PILLS are put up only by the AMERICAN MEDICINE CO., Manchester, N. H., THOMAS W. LANE, Agent.

PULMOCINE.

BUCHMAN'S PULMOCINE CORDIAL

is a second new discovery. Twenty-three years ago it was used by one of New England's most famous physicians as the best Pulmonary Curative he could prescribe, after a dozen years spent in experimenting with it before he was satisfied that the Materia Medica could add nothing in its favor.

Is the ultima thule of Medical Discovery.

Among its many ingredients are Wild Cherry Bark, Squill Root, Liquorice Root, Blood root, &c. It is a Blood Purifier, gently stimulating. It increases expectoration and is diuretic. It is sudorific and alterative. It is a necessary family medicine. It is a Tonic and a powerful aid to the digestive organs. It is a gentle sedative, and relieves nervousness. It is aromatic and agreeable to the taste.

CLEAR YOUR THROAT!

Relieve Your Lungs.

For the terrible diseases engendered by the lungs trying climate of New England;

PULMOCINE CORDIAL

is a speedy and reliable Preventive and Remedy. Every Family should have a bottle at hand to check the sudden growth of all Pulmonary Diseases. For the Asthma, Coughs, Croups, Laryngitis, or inflammation of the larynx, Diphtheria, and all kindred Throat Diseases at all times prevalent, it is the ounce of Prevention. Children attacked with Whooping Cough or Croup should be immediately cared for. These painful attacks come with scarcely a moment's warning, when a physician may be out of immediate reach. A dose of PULMOCINE CORDIAL gives speedy relief, and the little ones are spared hours of pain and agony. As "a stitch in time saves nine," so does the possession of this Family Medicine prevent the spread of disease. Parents seeing their children gasping with pain, friends and relatives beholding each other in peril from suffocation by the choking pain in the throat, paralyzed with fear and not knowing the best course to pursue, are liable to apply the wrong remedial agents. There is no safety in delay, no time to waste in such cases. CONSUMPTION, that fearful scourge of the human race, lies at the door of all thus afflicted. BUCHMAN'S PULMOCINE CORDIAL arrests it (unless in its advanced stage at which time there is no local cure) relieves the pressing, suffocating feeling at the lungs, and the patient's danger is past.

For Coughs,

Croup,

Diphtheria,

Asthma, etc.,

—USE—

Buchman's Pulmocine Cordial.

The Pulmocine Cordial is not a quack medicine, is not an experiment, is not composed of any ingredients "discovered" by "walking in pastures" in South America or anywhere else, nor by one who discovered a weed and thereby cured himself. Most of the ingredients are such as our best educated physicians daily use for the complaints specified in some form or other. The recipe is that perfected by one of New England's most learned and famous physicians, who used it entirely in his daily practice until his death. It is offered to the profession and to the public, absolutely pure and unadulterated.
